UNITED STATES COAST GUARD.

UNITED STATES COAST GUARD (CAPTAIN OF THE PORT) IDENTIFICATION CARDS

CANCELLATION

Coast Guard (Captain of the Port) Identification Cards were issued, pursuant to the authority of section 1, Title II of the Espionage Act (40 Stat. 220; 50 U. S. C. 191), as amended by the Act of November 15, 1941 (55 Stat. 763; 50 U. S. C. 191C), Executive Order No. 9074 (3 CFR Cum. Supp.), and the regulations in 33 CFR 6.14, to supplement the security requirements necessitated by the exigencies of the War.

Under this authority, United Coast Guard (Captain of the Port) Identification Cards were issued to the following classes of persons:

(a) Men employed on United States ships such as seamen, bargemen, and fishermen;

(b) Employees working on ships or at waterfront facilities in connection therewith, such as longshoremen, checkers, watchmen, and public servants;

(c) Men having incidental business on ship such as reporters, craftsmen, laborers, tradesmen, and supervisors;

(d) Employees of waterfront industries such as shipyards, power plants, and railways;

(e) Men making occasional or incidental use of vessels or waterfront facilities such as recreationists, sport fishermen, and visitors;

(f) Persons desiring entry to vessels or waterfront areas whose identity is not established to the satisfaction of the issuing officer, or whose photographs or fingerprints are not available;

(g) Seamen on foreign ships, citizens of enemy countries, or countries cooperating with enemy countries.

During the war the Coast Guard stressed the fact that the cards were for "Identification only" and that they were not a pass or permit, however, the public in general accepted the cards as passes notwithstanding the Coast Guard's insistence to the contrary.

With the cessation of hostilities, the identification card requirements were gradually relaxed, and now the identification cards are no longer required by the Coast Guard for any purpose, accordingly, all Coast Guard (Captain of the Port) Identification Cards are hereby declared invalid, and all persons are cautioned not to accept them for identification, or for any other purpose.

(a) The Interdepartmental Committee on Scientific and Cultural Cooperation (SCC) was established in 1938 by request of the President. The operations have been implemented by several acts of Congress since that time. The Committee has its own funds by direct appropriation from Congress to the Department of State.

(1) The functions of the Committee are to undertake a permanent, cooperative program for the development of economic, cultural, and scientific relations with other countries; and to correlate projects of the departments and agencies of this Government in the economic, scientific, and cultural fields designed to increase international understanding and further mutually beneficial cooperative undertakings between nations.

(2) The Committee is chaired by the Assistant Secretary of State (for Public Affairs).

Any violation of the List subjected the offender to economic sanctions and criminal prosecution. (2) The Committee is chaired by the Chief of the Division of Economic Security Controls, Office of Economic Security Policy.

(d) The United States Lend-Lease and Surplus Settlement Committee was established on November 16, 1945 by the Assistant Secretary of State (for Economic Affairs).

lease settlements and agreements with foreign governments; and to report on the progress of lend-lease settlement and agreement negotiations and to recommend specific settlements and agreements for approval by the United States Government.

NOTE: At its first meeting "It was agreed that while the Committee was created to deal with lend-lease settlements, surplus settlements with various countries might also be covered, as in the case of the United Kingdom, but this would vary from country to country."

(The term "petroleum facilities" is construed to include installations and equipment designed for production, distribution, refining, storage, and transportation, including barges of all types and tankers, regardless of size, which are declared surplus by the Maritime Commission to the Foreign Liquidation Commissioner for disposal.)

(2) The Committee is chaired by the Chief of the General Policy Branch, Petroleum Division, Office of International Trade Policy.

(1) The functions of the Committee are to consider the problems arising with respect to the reopening of communications with liberated and occupied countries.

(2) The Committee is chaired by the Chief of the Telecommunications Division, Office of Transport and Communications.

(i) The International Technical Committee of Aerial Legal Experts (CITEJA) was established by a resolution of the First International Conference on Private Air Law held in Paris in 1925. For some years the United States merely sent an observer to the meetings of the CITEJA. In 1932 the American Section of the CITEJA was organized, and thereafter the American members participated in the work of the Committee to some extent through correspondence which was referred to the CITEJA by the observer referred to. (l) The State-War-Navy Coordinating Committee (SWNCC) was established in December 1944 by an exchange of letters between the Secretary of State, the Secretary of War, and the Secretary of Navy.

(1) The functions of the Committee are to consider matters of a nature which would command the high-level attention of the three departments and matters which should be referred by the Department of State to the Joint Chiefs of Staff; and to improve the methods by which the State Department obtains advice on politico-military matters and to coordinate the views of the three departments on matters of common interest.

(2) The Committee is chaired by the Assistant Secretary of State (for European, Near Eastern, and African Affairs).

(m) The Cabinet Committee on Palestine and Related Problems, composed of the Secretary of State, the Secretary of War, and the Secretary of the Treasury, was established by Executive order on June 11, 1946.

SUBPART A—ORGANIZATION

CENTRAL ORGANIZATION

§ 1.1 Secretary of the Treasury. (a) The Secretary of the Treasury, appointed by the President by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, is the head of the Department of the Treasury, which carries out the responsibilities imposed upon him. The Department was established by the act of September 2, 1789, 1 Stat. 65 (5 U. S. C. 241), which concluded a description of the duties of the Secretary by providing that he should "perform all such services relative to the finances, as he shall be directed to perform." (5 U. S. C. 242.) The present expanded and varied duties of the Secretary and of the Department are reflected in the departmental bureaus, divisions and offices referred to in Parts 1 and 2 of this title. Among such added responsibilities are the coinage and printing of money and the procurement of federal supplies; the Coast Guard, the Bureau of Narcotics and the Secret Service are now within the Department; more recent acquisitions of duties lie in the field of international monetary operations.

(b) The more important and familiar duties of the Secretary are, as indicated, described in connection with the respective bureaus, divisions and offices of the Department. However, it should be noted in connection with the discussion of the functions of the Bureau of the Public Debt in Part 323 of this title, that sections 1, 18, and 22 of the Second Liberty Bond Act, as amended (31 U. S. C. and Sup. V., 752, 753, 757c) require the approval of the President to be given to the issuance by the Secretary of bonds, notes or savings bonds. As to less familiar and important authorities and duties of the Secretary: he is authorized to sell lands acquired by the United States by devise (40 U. S. C. 304); to lease unoccupied and unproductive property of the United States (40 U. S. C., 303a); to provide for the preservation, collection, or sale of abandoned or derelict property (40 U. S. C. 310); and to dispose of bonds, notes, or other securities acquired by the United States by judicial process or otherwise (31 U. S. C., Sup. V, 741a). In addition, under statute the Secretary invests the money accruing to numerous trust and other funds of a public character; assists in the financing of various governmental corporations and other agencies; has custody of certain official bonds; and is charged with duties relative to the approval of sureties on official bonds. The Secretary has certain emergency powers pursuant to 15 U. S. C. 605e, under which, with the approval of the President, he may request the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to subscribe for the preferred stock of an insurance company which is in need of funds or may otherwise assist such company.

(c) Under long-standing provision of statute the Secretary is required to publish an annual report to Congress, and to make public on the first day of each month the last preceding weekly statement of the Treasurer of the United States (5 U. S. C. 271). The abovementioned report, entitled "Annual Report of the Secretary of the Treasury on the State of the Finances" is available through the Government Printing Office.

(d) Pursuant to 5 U. S. C. 4 and 6 the President has provided in Executive Order No. 8714, March 18, 1941 (6 F. R. 1517) that in case of absence or sickness the duties of the Secretary shall be performed by officials of the Treasury in the following order: the Under Secretary, the Fiscal Assistant Secretary, two Assistant Secretaries in order of seniority, and the General Counsel. See also Treasury Department Circular No. 244, July 15, 1943.

(e) The immediate staff of the Secretary includes, in addition to the officials in the preceding paragraph, the following: a varying number of Assistants to the Secretary, and Special Assistants to the Secretary, and an Administrative Assistant to the Secretary. The members of this immediate staff and their offices are discussed below.

(f) The Secretary of the Treasury is chairman or managing trustee of three organizations in the nature of interdepartmental boards or committees. These offices are:

(1) Chairman of the National Advisory Council on International Monetary and Financial Problems. The Secretary has been designated by the act of July 31, 1945, 59 Stat. 512 (22 U. S. C., Sup. V, 286b) Chairman of the National Advisory Council on International Monetary and Financial Problems, which includes as its other members the Secretary of State, the Secretary of Commerce, the Chairman of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, and the Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Export-Import Bank of Washington. The object of the Council is to coordinate the policies and operations of the representatives of the United States on the International Monetary Fund and the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development and of all agencies of the Government which make or participate in making foreign loans or engage in foreign financial exchange or monetary transactions.

A report to the President and to the Congress on the participation of the United States in the Fund and the Bank is required of the Council not less than every six months. The first of these reports, entitled "Report to the President on Activities of the National Advisory Council on International Monetary and Financial Problems", was transmitted to the President on March 4, 1946, by the Chairman of the Council and forwarded to the Congress by the President on March 8, 1946. Special reports on the operations and policies of the Fund and the Bank are to be submitted at two-year intervals by the Council, the first to be made not later than two years after the establishment of the Fund and the Bank.

(2) Managing Trustee of the Board of Trustees of the Federal Old-Age and Survivors Insurance Trust Fund. Pursuant to the provisions of 42 U. S. C. 401 the Secretary is the Managing Trustee of the Board of Trustees of the Federal Old-Age and Survivors Insurance Trust Fund, composed of the Secretaries of Treasury and of Labor and the Chairman of the Social Security Board. This fund results from the extensive contributions and collections from which Social Security benefits are paid. The duties of the Managing Trustee include the investment in interest-bearing obligations of the United States or in obligations guaranteed as to both principal and interest by the United States of those trust funds which in his opinion are not required to meet current withdrawals; the sale at the market prices of any obligations acquired by the fund, except special obligations issued exclusively to the fund (which may be redeemed at par plus accrued interest); and the payment into the Treasury from the trust fund of amounts estimated by him and the Chairman of the Social Security Board to be adequate to reimburse for a 3-month period the expenditures incurred in connection with the administration of certain provisions of the Social Security Act.

The Annual Report of the Board of Trustees of the Federal Old-Age and Survivors Insurance Trust Fund, reporting the status of the fund, is submitted to the Congress on the first day of each regular session.

(3) Chairman of the Library of Congress Trust Fund Board. The Secretary serves as Chairman of this board, established pursuant to 2 U. S. C. 154, which is composed of the Secretary of the Treasury, the Chairman of the Joint Committee on the Library, the Librarian of Congress, and two persons appointed by the President for a term of five years each. Reimbursement from the trust fund, not to include compensation to the members of the Board, is allowed for those expenses covered by the voucher of the chairman. The Board is authorized to accept, hold and administer gifts, bequests or devises of property for the Library. The trust funds are receipted for by the Secretary of the Treasury and invested by him as the board determines (2 U. S. C. 157). Authority is given in 2 U. S. C. 158 for the deposit of the principal of the trust—however, not to exceed $5,000,000—with the Treasurer of the United States as a permanent loan with interest at the rate of 4 per centum per annum.

Records of the Board are in the custody of the Librarian of Congress, as secretary. The annual report of the Board to Congress, required by 2 U. S. C. 163, is submitted as a part of the Annual Report of the Librarian of Congress.

(g) In addition to holding the foregoing offices, the Secretary of the Treasury is United States Governor and Chairman of the Board of Governors of the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development and of the International Monetary Fund; he is a member of the Economic Stabilization Board, Contract Settlement Advisory Board, National Munitions Control Board, Advisory Board of the Export-Import Bank of Washington, Foreign-Trade Zones Board, Cabinet Committee on Palestine and Related Problems, Joint Comimttee on Reduction of Non-essential Federal Expenditures, Executive Committee of the Federal-State Committee on Fiscal Policies of the Council of State Governments, Board of Directors of the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation, Board of Trustees of the Postal Savings System, Smithsonian Institution, National Archives Council, Board of Trustees of the National Gallery of Art, National Park Trust Fund Board, and the Foreign Service Buildings Commission. He is Trustee of the Franklin D. Roosevelt Library. He designates a representative to cooperate with the Army and Navy Munitions Board in the purchase of strategic and critical materials. The Secretary is usually elected Treasurer, and Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Endowment Fund, of the American National Red Cross and he is usually appointed by the President of the United States to its Central Committee.

§ 1.2 Under Secretary. Except for the Secretary, the Under Secretary is the chief officer of the Treasury, and is the first officer of the Department to act as Secretary in case of the absence or sickness of the Secretary himself (5 U. S. C. 245; Executive Order No. 8714, March 18, 1941, 6 F. R. 1517; Treasury Department Circular No. 244, July 15, 1943). He is appointed pursuant to 5 U. S. C. 244 by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. By statute he is directed to perform such duties in the Office of the Secretary as may be prescribed by the Secretary or by law. There have been assigned to his supervision the Bureau of Internal Revenue and the Bureau of Customs (Treasury Department Order No. 63, April 19, 1946) as well as the Division of Research and Statistics (Treasury Department Circular No. 244, July 15, 1943).

§ 1.3 Assistant Secretaries. (a) There are provided for the Department by 5 U. S. C. 248 two Assistant Secretaries, to be appointed by the President by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. Under 5 U. S. C. 247 they are required to perform such duties in the Office of the Secretary as may be prescribed by the Secretary or by law. Pursuant to 5 U. S. C. 4, 6, Executive Order No. 8714, March 18, 1941, 6 F. R. 1517, and Treasury Department Circular No. 244, July 15, 1943, the Assistant Secretaries in certain instances of absence or sickness of other officials are authorized, in the order of their seniority, to act as Secretary.

(b) By Treasury Department Order No. 64, April 19, 1946 there was assigned to an Assistant Secretary the supervision of the Coast Guard, the Bureau of the Mint, the Bureau of Narcotics, the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, the Chief Coordinator of Treasury Enforcement Agencies, and the Secret Service. By Treasury Department Order No. 65, April 23, 1946, there was assigned to the supervision of the same Assistant Secretary the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency; and by Treasury Department Order No. 66, May 10, 1946, the Procurement Division was placed under his supervision.

(c) The office of the second Assistant Secretary is at the present vacant. Prior to this vacancy there was assigned to the Assistant Secretary occupying it the supervision of the Division of Monetary Research and the Division of Foreign Funds Control. By Treasury Department Order No. 70, August 20, 1946, supervision of the Division of Monetary Research and Foreign Funds Control was assigned to a Special Assistant to the Secretary.

§ 1.4 General Counsel (a) The Office of the General Counsel, who is appointed by the President by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, was created by section 512 of the Revenue Act of 1934, Act of May 10, 1934, 48 Stat. 758 (5 U. S. C. 248a; see also section 3930 of the Internal Revenue Code, 53 Stat. 479, 26 U. S. C. 3930). By order dated June 20, 1934, the Secretary of the Treasury established the Legal Division, Department of the Treasury, and directed the General Counsel to perform all duties and functions incident to the administration of the legal activities of the Department and such other duties as might be prescribed by the Secretary. Subordinate to the General Counsel are six Assistants General Counsel, among whom is divided the supervision of the work of all the legal staffs of the various bureaus, divisions, and offices of the Department. One of these, the Assistant General Counsel for the Bureau of Internal Revenue (who has the operative title of "Chief Counsel" of that bureau), is appointed by the President by and with the advice and consent of the Senate (26 U. S. C. 3931). His office is treated separately in § 600.11 of Title 26. The remaining five Assistants are appointed by the Secretary. Any one of the Assistants General Counsel may be designated by the Secretary of the Treasury to act as General Counsel during the absence of the General Counsel. The Office of the Tax Legislative Counsel and the Committee on Practice, which are under the supervision of the General Counsel, are discussed in section 1.20 of this Part and Part 12 of this title, respectively.

(b) Although the chief function of the General Counsel is to give legal advice and assistance to the administrative officers of the Department, numerous duties and powers, some of them seldom exercised, are vested in him by statute, Executive order, or otherwise. In certain instances of absence or sickness of other officials, he is authorized to act as Secretary of the Treasury pursuant to 5 U. S. C. 4, 6, Executive Order No. 8714, March 18, 1941, 6 F. R. 1517, and Department Circular No. 224, July 15, 1943. The recommendation of the General Counsel is necessary to enable the Secretary of the Treasury to compromise claims in favor of the United States (31 U. S. C., Sup. V, 194; 19 U. S. C. 1617). Sureties on certain official bonds must be approved by him (5 U. S. C. 44, 520; 26 U. S. C. 3943; 31 U. S. C. 475). It is the duty of the General Counsel to exercise a general supervision over measures for the prevention and detection of frauds upon the revenue (5 U. S. C. 326); to issue warrants of distress against delinquent disbursing officers and receivers of public money (31 U. S. C. 506, 514); and to perform specified duties relative to the collection of revenues and debts due the United States (5 U. S. C. 323–325, 327, 328). The General Counsel is authorized to appoint agents to purchase lands sold on execution by the United States (31 U. S. C. 195); to control, rent, or sell lands or other property acquired in payment of certain debts (40 U. S. C. 301, 302); and to release real estate to a debtor upon payment of the debt to the United States (40 U. S. C. 306).

§ 1.5 Fiscal Assistant Secretary. (a) The Fiscal Service, at the head of which is the Fiscal Assistant Secretary, was established in the Treasury by Reorganization Plan No. III, 54 Stat. 1231 (5 U. S. C. 133t, note), which became effective on June 30, 1940 (5 U. S. C. 133u). The Fiscal Assistant Secretary is appointed by the Secretary of the Treasury in accordance with the civil-service laws. The Fiscal Service includes the Office of the Fiscal Assistant Secretary, the Office of the Treasurer of the United States, the Bureau of Accounts and the Bureau of the Public Debt. In the absence or disability of the Fiscal Assistant, the Secretary may designate any other officer of the Treasury Department to act as Fiscal Assistant Secretary.

(b) Reorganization Plan No. III gave to the Secretary a discretion to establish within the Fiscal Service agencies other than the Office of the Fiscal Assistant, the Office of the Treasurer, the Bureau of Accounts and the Bureau of the Public Debt. And it gave to the Fiscal Assistant Secretary, with the approval of the Secretary, discretion as to the allocation of certain functions within the Fiscal Service.

(c) The Fiscal Assistant Secretary is designated to act as Secretary in case of the absence or sickness of the Secretary and of the Under Secretary (Executive Order No. 8714, March 18, 1941, 6 F. R. 1517; Department Circular No. 244, July 15, 1943).

(d) The Fiscal Assistant Secretary, under the direction of the Secretary, supervises the administration of Treasury financing operations, coordinates the operations of the units in the Fiscal Service, and through the Commissioner of Accounts supervises the accounting operations in the Treasury Department and all its bureaus, divisions and offices. He is required under Reorganization Plan No. III to perform such other duties as the Secretary may direct.

(e) Various specified duties of the Fiscal Assistant Secretary include liaison between the Secretary and other agencies of the Government (such as departments, boards and corporations) to ascertain their financial operations and to coordinate such operations with those of the Treasury. The Fiscal Assistant Secretary directs the performance of the fiscal agency functions of the Federal Reserve banks; prepares periodical estimates of the future cash position of the Treasury for the use of the Department in connection with its financing; prepares calls for the withdrawal of funds from special depositories; and directs the transfer of Government funds between Federal Reserve banks.

§ 1.6 Assistants to the Secretary. There are also in the Office of the Secretary a varying number of Assistants to the Secretary. Treasury Department Order No. 1, November 20, 1933, assigned to one such Assistant the duty of approving all statements to the press or to the public through interviews or speeches by any officer or employee of the Department. The office of such Assistant to the Secretary is at present vacant. Pursuant to Treasury Department Order No. 54, November 29, 1944, and a letter of the Secretary of the same date, the Director of Tax Research was appointed an Assistant to the Secretary and directed to report directly to the Secretary in connection with the affairs of that Division.

He also exercises control over the Department's budgetary program (Treasury Department Order No. 68, July 30, 1946). In addition, proposed transactions of the following types are subject to the review and approval of the Administrative Assistant: (1) leasing, assignment and management of all space, both federal and commercial, occupied by Treasury offices in Washington and the field, (2) bureau and office organizational changes, including the designation of acting heads of offices, (3) correspondence, reports and other administrative transactions with the Congress and with heads of departments and independent agencies of the government.

(c) In the exercise of his authority as the chief administrative officer of the Department, the Administrative Assistant directs such surveys and examinations as he deems necessary, and is authorized to use technical employees from any Treasury office in the making of such studies.

(b) The Division of Monetary Research provides economic analyses, other information, and recommendations for the use of the Secretary and other Treasury officials in formulating and executing departmental policies concerning the exchange stabilization fund, gold, and silver; concerning the flow of capital funds into and out of the United States; concerning the monetary, banking and fiscal policies of foreign countries, and international cooperation; concerning exchange and trade restrictions abroad. It provides economic analyses in connection with the Treasury's Foreign Funds

Control, and in connection with monetary and financial problems in liberated and occupied areas. Analyses are prepared relating to the customs activities of the Department and to other matters arising from international trade, including the trade agreement program.

(c) The Division of Monetary Research also participates in the negotiation of exchange stabilization agreements made by the United States with foreign governments and with central banks. The Treasury's operations under these agreements are performed through the use of the stabilization fund, which is administered by the Division.

§ 1.13 Division of Personnel. (a) The Division of Personnel was established by Treasury Department Order No. 32, June 25, 1940, effective July 1, 1940. This order was issued pursuant to Executive Order No. 7916, June 24, 1938 (3 F. R. 1526) and the Treasury Department Appropriation Act, 1941. The Division is headed by a Director of Personnel, appointed by the Secretary and is responsible to the Secretary through the Administrative Assistant to the Secretary.

(b) The Division of Personnel plans and administers the personnel management program of the Treasury Department. The program includes recruitment, appointment, training, transfers, promotions, separations, efficiency ratings, safety, health, discipline, grievances, working conditions, wage administration and position classification. The Division represents the Department in its relations with employee organizations, the Civil Service Commission, the Council of Personnel Administration, and with other agencies dealing with personnel matters.

§ 1.14 Division of Research and Statistics (a). The Division of Research and Statistics was established by Treasury Department Order No. 8, September 17, 1934, superseding the Section of Financial and Economic Research. It operates under a Director, appointed by the Secretary; the Division and its Director are under the supervision of the Under Secretary.

(b) The Division serves as a technical staff for the Secretary, the Under Secretary, and other Treasury officials on matters relating to the economic aspects of fiscal operations and policies, particularly as they concern Federal borrowing. Estimates or revenue receipts are prepared for use in the planning of borrowing operations, in budget messages and summaries, and in connection with proposed revenue legislation.

(c) The Director of Research and Statistics has direct authority over and responsibility for the production, analysis, and publication of statistics, and the conduct of economic research in all branches of the Treasury Department, except as these responsibilities are specifically delegated to the Divisions of Monetary Research and Tax Research.

(d) The Government Actuary, who is an Assistant Director of Research and Statistics, serves as a consultant on actuarial problems for the Treasury in connection with pension and trust funds and other matters relating to the Department's operations, and for other Government departments and organizations. He advises on existing and proposed retirement legislation, and is a member of the Federal Board of Actuaries and of the Actuarial Advisory Committee of the Railroad Retirement Board.

§ 1.15 Division of Tax Research. (a) The Division of Tax Research was established as of June 1, 1938, by Treasury Department Order No. 18, March 25, 1938. The Division operates under a Director, appointed by the Secretary. (b) The Division of Tax Research prepares economic, statistical and technical analyses for the assistance of the Secretary and other Treasury officials in the formulation of Treasury tax policy, and for the assistance of congressional committees in their consideration of tax proposals and legislation; the Division also assists such committees through conferences. Upon request it provides information on various tax matters to the President, to members of Congress, to various Government officials, and to the public.

(c) In the light of revenue needs the Division makes surveys of the Federal tax system as a whole and of particular taxes. Among other questions, it studies methods of adjusting the tax system to changing economic conditions; the economic effect of specified taxes upon particular groups of taxpayers; the fairness of the application of such taxes among the taxpayers of a given group; and tax administration and compliance.

(d) The relationship between federal, state and local taxes is studied for purposes of possible improvement. State, local and foreign taxes and tax systems are studied to secure for the United States the benefit of the experience of other governments.

(e) The Division of Tax Research is also charged with general responsibility respecting the assembly and publication of statistics pertaining to Federal taxation. In connection with this matter, it exercises general supervision over the statistical work of the Income Tax Unit of the Bureau of Internal Revenue. The Division deals with the public through conferences in special cases upon tax questions and in the handling of correspondence in tax matters involving economic questions.

§ 1.16 United States Savings Bonds Division. (a) The United States Savings Bonds Division is located in the Washington Building, 15th Street and New York Avenue, N. W., Washington 25, D. C. The Division was established on January 1, 1946, by Treasury Department Order No. 62, dated December 26, 1945, as successor to the vastly larger War Finance Division. It operates through six main branches: Payroll Savings, Labor, Banks and other Financial Institutions, Special Field Operations (which includes activities relating to education, agriculture, negro organizations, women's civic, trade and fraternal groups), Information (which includes press and radio publicity and sponsored advertising in all media) and Administration. The Division is under the supervision of the National Director of United States Savings Bonds, who is an Assistant to the Secretary.

(b) The United States Savings Bonds Division promotes the sale of Series E, F and G Savings Bonds and of Savings Stamps, and the continued holding of Savings Bonds; encourages the regular purchase of Savings Bonds on the payroll savings plan in places of employment and of Savings Stamps in the schools; seeks to maintain good public relations with thousands of banks and other sales agencies which issue bonds without compensation; and affords an opportunity, through its State and local field organization, for persons who wish to volunteer for public service.

§ 1.17 Division of Public Relations. The Division of Public Relations is the central informational organization of the Department and is responsible for the editing, reviewing, and releasing to representatives of the press, radio, and motion pictures all material of public interest originating in the various bureaus of the Department.

§ 1.18 Chief Clerk. (a) The Office of The Chief Clerk was created by the Act of April 20, 1818, 3 Stat. 445. The Chief Clerk is appointed by the Secretary, to whom he is responsible through the Administrative Assistant to the Secretary. He serves as consultant and adviser to the Administrative Assistant on questions of administrative management having department-wide application.

(b) The Chief Clerk has custody of the Treasury seal, and certifies copies of official documents. He is responsible for the maintenance of central records and the preparation of pay rolls for numerous units of the Department, and, with the exception of a few instances, has custody of the non-current files of the departmental service. He is accountable for all ordnance issued pursuant to 50 U. S. C. 61 to the Treasury (including its field services) by the Secretary of War for the protection of the public money and property.

(c) The Chief Clerk is responsible, in connection with the appropriation "Miscellaneous Expenses, Treasury Department", for the proper allocation of expenditures chargeable to such appropriation and keeping related records; for the allocation, within the Department, of property declared by the respective bureaus, divisions and offices to be surplus to their needs; and for the disposal of property which is surplus to the needs of the Department.

(d) The Chief Clerk is charged with the enforcement of departmental regulations. He is in charge of the central administrative services, such as telephone, telegraph, storekeeper, mail, special messengers, duplicating, and translating. The information and receptionist unit in the Main Treasury Building and the issuance of passes and permits to Treasury officials and employees are also under his supervision.

§ 1.19 Superintendent of Treasury Buildings. The Office of Superintendent of Treasury Buildings was established by Treasury Department Order No. 16, May 20, 1934. The Superintendent is charged with the responsibility of maintaining and operating certain Treasury buildings in the District of Columbia.

§ 1.20 Tax Legislative Counsel. (a) The Office of "Legislative Counsel" was established as of October 1, 1938 by direction of the Secretary. See memorandum of the Administrative Assistant to the Secretary, dated October 6, 1938. The name was changed to "Tax Legislative Counsel" on December 3, 1941 by a similar memorandum. The office is headed by a Tax Legislative Counsel, appointed by the Secretary. By virtue of Treasury Department Order No. 54, November 29, 1944, he is responsible to the General Counsel.

(b) The Office of Tax Legislative Counsel assists in the formulation of the Secretary's tax recommendation to the Congress. It takes part in representing the Department before congressional committees considering internal revenue legislation; assists in drafting such legislation and preparing the technical portions of the reports of such committees; and prepares or reviews departmental reports on tax legislation. The Office of Tax Legislative Counsel reviews proposed internal revenue regulations prepared by the Bureau of Internal Revenue and prospective closing agreements with taxpayers; represents the Department in the negotiation of treaties for the prevention of international double taxation; renders advice on the legal aspects of Federal-State tax relations; receives from members of Congress, from other departments and from the public suggestions for the amendment of the Federal tax laws; and prepares or reviews for the Treasury Department technical correspondence on tax legislation.

§ 1.21 Chief Coordinator, Treasury Enforcement Agencies. Since 1934 the law enforcement operations of the various Treasury organizations have been subjected to the supervision of a Coordinator. The respective enforcement services include the Secret Service and the Intelligence Unit of the Bureau of Internal Revenue and the investigative organizations of the Bureau of Customs, the Coast Guard, the Bureau of Narcotics, and the Alcohol Tax Unit of the Bureau of Internal Revenue. The Coordinator, the District Coordinators in the field, and all persons engaged in the work of coordinated enforcement, are in the employ of one or another of the above-mentioned enforcement services. However, by direction of the Secretary, when and as needed for general or enlarged duties, such personnel are detailed to the Coordinator by the respective services.

§ 1.22 Committee on Practice. See Parts 12 and 13 of this title.

§ 1.23 Libraries. The General Library of the Treasury Department is maintained primarily for the official use of Treasury personnel, but it may be used by the public so long as there is no interference with the work of the Department. A law library is independently maintained in the Office of the General Counsel.

FIELD ORGANIZATION

§ 1.24 Field organization. (a) The units of the Department of the Treasury discussed in sections 1.1 to 1.23, inclusive, of this Part are, with the exception of the Office of the Secretary, units which perform chiefly staff and service functions. Accordingly there is usually no field organization connected with such units.

(b) There are two exceptions to this generality. The Department maintains abroad a varying small number of Treasury Representatives with their staffs in cities of strategic importance in the world's monetary and financial operations. Examples of such posts are London, Paris and Nanking. These Representatives collect, analyze and transmit to the Department needful information, and in other ways assist in the performance of departmental responsibilities.

(c) The second exception relates to Savings Bonds Representatives. In each of the states, the District of Columbia, Alaska and Hawaii there is a Director of the United States Savings Bonds program. In most States the Director is assisted by one or more Deputy State Directors responsible for major activities or geographical areas within the State. These representatives are responsible for promoting the sale of United States Savings Bonds and Stamps (see § 1.16).

DELEGATIONS OF AUTHORITY

§ 1.25 Delegations of authority. (a) The following assignments have been made within the Treasury Department: To the Under Secretary, by Treasury Department Circular No. 244, July 15, 1943, the supervision of the Division of Research and Statistics; and by Treasury Department Order No. 63, April 19, 1946, the supervision of the Bureau of Customs and the Bureau of Internal Revenue. To an Assistant Secretary, by Treasury Department Order No. 65, April 23, 1946, the supervision of the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency; by Treasury Department Order No. 64, April 19, 1946, the supervision of the Coast Guard, the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, the Bureau of the Mint, the Bureau of Narcotics, the Chief Coordinator, Treasury Enforcement Agencies, and the Secret Service; and by Treasury Department Order No. 66, May 10, 1946, the supervision of the Procurement Division. To the General Counsel, by Treasury Department Circular No. 244, July 15, 1943, the supervision of the Legal Division (see also Treasury Department Order No. 6, November 20, 1933); and by Treasury Department Order No. 69, August 7, 1946, the supervision of the Committee on Practice. To an Assistant to the Secretary, by Treasury Department Order No. 62, December 26, 1945, the supervision of the United States Savings Bonds Division. To a Special Assistant to the Secretary, by Treasury Department Order No. 70, August 20, 1946, the supervision of the Division of Monetary Research (including the management of the exchange stabilization fund), Foreign Funds Control, and the foreign relations affairs of the Treasury Department.

(b) The Director of the Division of Tax Research, by Treasury Department Order No. 54, November 29, 1944, reports directly to the Secretary of the Treasury. The Tax Legislative Counsel, by Treasury Department Order No. 54, November 29, 1944, is responsible to the General Counsel. Pursuant to the authority contained in section 512 of the Revenue Act of 1934, 53 Stat. 479 (26 U. S. C. 3931 (b)), by order of September 21, 1937, the General Counsel has delegated to the Assistant General Counsel for the Bureau of Internal Revenue generally the authority, duties, and functions formerly exercised by the General Counsel for the Bureau of Internal Revenue. This order has been amended from time to time to include specific functions not previously delegated. Matters involving press relations are, by Treasury Department Order No. 1, November 20, 1933, required to be submitted for approval to an Assistant to the Secretary (the office of this Assistant to the Secretary is now vacant). By Treasury Department Order No. 59, March 3, 1945, the Administrative Assistant to the Secretary has immediate supervision over the Division of Personnel, the Office of the Chief Clerk, and the Superintendent of Treasury Buildings (see also memorandum of March 5, 1945, from the Administrative Assistant to the Secretary to the Director of Personnel); by Treasury Department Order No. 59 he is responsible for general supervision over organization changes, correspondence with the members of Congress and heads of Government Departments and agencies, and space in Treasury buildings; by Treasury Department Order No. 68, July 30, 1946, he is responsible for the budgetary program of the Department.

(c) As stated in § 1.1 it is provided that in case of absence or sickness the duties of the Secretary shall be performed by officials of the Treasury in the following order: the Under Secretary, the Fiscal Assistant Secretary, two Assistant Secretaries in order of seniority, and the General Counsel.

(d) By Treasury Department Circular No. 244, July 15, 1943, it is provided that in the absence or sickness of the Fiscal Assistant Secretary the Under Secretary will act, and in the absence of both these officers the Senior Assistant Secretary will act as Fiscal Assistant Secretary.

PUBLIC INFORMATION; SUBMITTALS; REQUESTS

§ 1.26 Rules governing access to final opinions or orders, to rules and to official records—(a) Availability of final opinions or orders and rules. Except as hereinafter stated, all final opinions or orders in the adjudication of cases and all rules (other than those relating solely to the internal management of the Treasury Department) issued by the Office of the Secretary of the Treasury (including the Offices of the Under Secretary, the Assistant Secretaries, the Fiscal Assistant Secretary, the Assistants and Special Assistants to the Secretary, and the Administrative Assistant to the Secretary) are made available to public inspection at the Treasury Department, Washington 25, D. C. This provision shall not apply, however, to final opinions or orders which are not cited as precedents and which contain information held confidential for one or more of the good causes set forth in paragraph (e) of this section. In view of the nature of their functions, the Office of the General Counsel, the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, the Division of Monetary Research, the Division of Personnel, the Division of Research and Statistics, the Division of Tax Research, the Office of the Chief Clerk, the United States Savings Bonds Division, the Office of Superintendent of Treasury Buildings, the Office of the Tax Legislative Counsel, and the Office of the Chief Coordinator, Treasury Enforcement Agencies, do not issue any final opinions or orders in the adjudication of cases; nor do they issue any rules (other than those relating solely to the internal management of the Treasury Department).

(b) Requests for final opinions or orders and rules. Requests to examine the final opinions or orders and rules hereby made available for public inspection shall be addressed to the Administrative Assistant to the Secretary, Treasury Department, Washington 25, D. C.

(c) Availability of official records. Except as to official records relating solely to the internal management of the Treasury Department and except as to official records held confidential for one or more of the good causes set forth in paragraph (e) of this section, all matters of official record in the files of the Office of the Secretary of the Treasury (including the Offices of the Under Secretary, the Assistant Secretaries, the Fiscal Assistant Secretary, the Assistants and Special Assistants to the Secretary, and the Administrative Assistant to the Secretary), the Office of the General Counsel, the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, the Division of Monetary Research, the Division of Personnel, the Division of Research and Statistics, the Division of Tax Research, the Office of the Chief Clerk, the United States Savings Bonds Division, the Office of Superintendent of Treasury Buildings, the Office of the Tax Legislative Counsel, and the Office of the Chief Coordinator, Treasury Enforcement Agencies, are made available to persons properly and directly concerned.

(d) Classification of official records. The official records made available by paragraph (c) of this section to persons properly and directly concerned may be classified as pertaining to the collection of taxes and the administration of the internal revenue laws, the collection of customs duties and the enforcement of the customs laws, national banks, public debt, the coinag- and printing of money, the procurement of Government supplies, finance, the Coast Guard, the disbursement of Government funds, savings bonds, gold, silver, banking, and other monetary matters, both domestic and international, and all other functions of the Treasury Department. In view of the many functions of the bureaus, divisions and offices in question and in view of the numerous types of official records which are kept in connection with the performance of these functions, it is not practicable to list herein all types of official records in the files of these offices.

(e) Confidential official records. For one or more of the following good causes, certain information in the official records of the above named bureaus, divisions, and offices is held confidential, and is not available to the public: (1) the information has been submitted in confidence to the Treasury Department; (2) the information relates to a financial matter or some other type of transaction between the Government and an individual or corporation, the disclosure of which would be prejudicial to the individual or corporation involved (such as by aiding a competitor) without furthering the public interest; (3) for security reasons, such as protection against counterfeiting; (4) the information pertains to negotiations with foreign countries, which information, because of its nature or because of an agreement between this Government and the foreign countries concerned, is required to be held confidential; (5) the material is made confidential by law, such as tax returns; or (6) the disclosure of the information would clearly be inimical to the public interest.

(f) Application for information. All requests for information contained in the official records of the bureaus, divisions, and offices enumerated in paragraph (c) of this section shall be addressed to the Administrative Assistant to the Secretary, Treasury Department, Washington 25, D. C. The request shall clearly state the information desired and must set forth the interest of the applicant in the subject matter and the purpose for which the information is desired. If the applicant is an agent or attorney acting for another, he will attach to the application evidence of his authority to act for his principal. If such evidence is satisfactory, such agent or attorney will be given access to any record to which his principal would be given access.

(g) Determination of application for information. The determination as to whether the information requested is available for disclosure in any particular case will be made by the Administrative Assistant to the Secretary (or the Secretary of the Treasury, the Under Secretary, an Assistant Secretary, the Fiscal Assistant Secretary, or the General Counsel). As a general rule, the request for information will be determined on the basis of the nature of the interest of the person making the request and the character of the information desired. If in a particular case the Administrative Assistant to the Secretary (or the Secretary of the Treasury, the Under Secretary, an Assistant Secretary, the Fiscal Assistant Secretary, or the General Counsel) determines that a request for information must be refused, prompt notice of the refusal will be given to the applicant, together with a simple statement of the grounds for such refusal.

(h) Manner in which information is available. Whenever the Administrative Assistant to the Secretary (or the Secretary of the Treasury, the Under Secretary, an Assistant Secretary, the Fiscal Assistant Secretary, or the General Counsel) determines that a matter of official record is available for disclosure in a particular case, a copy of said official record will be furnished the party requesting the same, or the officer passing upon the request may, in his discretion, allow a personal inspection of the official record in question at the place where the document is normally kept. A reasonable fee may, in the discretion of the Administrative Assistant to the Secretary (or the Secretary of the Treasury, the Under Secretary, an Assistant to the Secretary, the Fiscal Assistant Secretary, or the General Counsel), be charged for furnishing copies of official records.

§ 1.27 Submittals or requests. Submittals or requests (other than those under § 1.26 may be made in person to the units described in §§ 1.1 to 1.23, inclusive, or by correspondence addressed to the respective heads of such units. In cases where the public is not informed as to which unit is primarily concerned in the matter in question, it should address its correspondence to the Secretary of the Treasury, Washington 25, D. C.

Subpart B—Procedures

§ 1.28 In general. The units of the Treasury Department described in this part are, with the exception of the Office of the Secretary itself, units which perform chiefly staff and service functions. As they are largely engaged in the direction and review of departmental action initiated in the bureaus, divisions and offices described in Part 2 of this title, their contact with the public arises mainly in the course of that review. Accordingly, the procedures of the units described in this part which are available to the public are in almost all cases described in connection with the various bureaus, divisions and offices included in Part 2 of this title. Certain exceptions are set out in §§ 1.29 to 1.34, inclusive.

§ 1.29 Certain tort claims arising from negligent or wrongful act or omission by Treasury Department employees. Pursuant to the Federal Tort Claims Act (Title IV of Public Law 601, 79th Congress) claims of $1000 or less against the United States on account of property loss or damage or on account of personal injury or death are determined initially by the bureau, division or office of the Treasury Department whose employees are charged with the negligent or wrongful act or omission. Determinations in favor of the claimant, after review by the Office of the General Counsel, are submitted to the Budget Division of the Department. Pursuant to call by the Bureau of the Budget, the Budget Division transmits the claim to that Bureau for inclusion in a deficiency appropriation bill. After enactment of the bill by the Congress, the Budget Division requests the initiating bureau, division, or office of the Department to advise the claimant to submit to the Budget Division a formal claim for payment. This claim is then endorsed to the General Accounting Office, and the claimant is advised of this action. After receipt of a certificate of settlement issued by the General Accounting Office, the office of the Treasurer of the United States draws a check and mails it to the claimant.

§ 1.30 Judgments against the United States. Persons securing money judgments against the United States in the Court of Claims are required, in order to secure payment, to file transcripts of such judgments with the Secretary of the Treasury for certification to the Congress for appropriation (see 31 U. S. C. 226). Following receipt of an application on the part of the claimant for payment of the amount appropriated by the Congress, the General Accounting Office transmits to the Treasury Department a certificate of settlement. Payment is then made to the claimant by check drawn in the office of the Treasurer of the United States. A similar procedure applies with respect to judgments obtained in the federal district courts, except that papers pertaining to such judgments are filed with the Secretary of the Treasury by the Department of Justice instead of by the claimant.

§ 1.31 Payment of sums appropriated in private relief acts. Prior to receipt of a certificate of settlement from the General Accounting Office, the Treasury Department takes no action with respect to payment of appropriations provided by the Congress in private relief bills. After receipt of the certificate of settlement, a check is drawn in the office of the Treasurer of the United States and mailed to the beneficiary.

§ 1.32 Compensation for requisitioned property. Under two statutes, enacted as war measures, the President was authorized to requisition military equipment, materials and supplies. Act of October 10, 1940, as amended (50 U. S. C. App. Supp., 711); act of October 16, 1941, as amended (50 U. S. C. App. Supp. 721). Through delegation and redelegation this authority was vested in the War Production Board and in the Secretary of the Treasury. Executive Order No. 8942, dated November 19, 1941, 6 F. R. 5909; Executive Order No. 9138, dated April 17, 1942, 7 F. R. 2919; 32 CFR Cum. Supp. 902.1–902.4. Under the abovementioned statutes the owners of the requisitioned property are entitled to receive fair and just compensation for the property requisitioned. Although the authority to requisition has lapsed, the authority to make the determination of such compensation remains in the Secretary of the Treasury, and in appropriate cases is exercised in accordance with procedures which have been prescribed by the Chairman of the War Production Board. 32 CFR, Cum. Supp., 902.1 (c).

§ 1.33 Offers of compromise. Offers received by the Secretary of the Treasury to compromise claims in favor of the United States under 31 U. S. C. Supp. 194, which may be accepted by the Secretary upon recommendation by the General Counsel, are the subject of regulations issued in Treasury Department Circular No. 39 dated May 25, 1936 (31 CFR, Part 240).

§ 1.34 Disposition of lands and other properly under the control of the General Counsel. Lands and other property under the control of the General Counsel (see § 1.4) are normally declared surplus to the needs of his office and disposed of pursuant to statute (Surplus Property Act of 1944, as amended (50 U. S. C. App., Sup., 1611 et seq.); 40 U. S. C. 304a).

BUREAU OF THE COMPTROLLER OF THE CURRENCY

[12 CFR, Ch. 1]

Part 4—Organization of Bureau

Sec.
4.1 Central and field organization.
4.2 Delegations of final authority.
4.3 Public information.

§ 4.1 Central and field organization. The Bureau of the Comptroller of the Currency was created in the Treasury Department under the act of June 3, 1864, 13 Stat. 99 (U. S. C. title 12, sec. 1). The functions of the Bureau can be stated generally as follows:

C. If in the opinion of the Comptroller the revelation of the contents of a particular final opinion or order might adversely affect the financial institutions involved or would encroach upon the right to privacy of such institutions, their customers or other individuals or concerns dealing with them or this Bureau, or would be inimical to the public interest, they will be classified as confidential.

§ 5.1 Chartering national banks. (a) Copies of Form 1955, entitled "Application to Organize a National Bank", are furnished upon request. In substance, this form is a letter addressed to the Comptroller of the Currency by a minimum of five prospective shareholders, being natural persons and of lawful age, who intend with others to organize a national bank. The application states the proposed name of the bank, its location, and the intended capital, surplus and undivided profits, and furnishes certain other information regarding the banking connections of the applicants.

(b) Upon receipt of an application properly executed, the applicants are informed that their application is being considered, and the appropriate District Chief National Bank Examiner is instructed to make an investigation. Among other matters to be considered are the adequacy of the proposed capital structure of the new bank, its future earnings prospects, the general character of its management, the convenience and needs of the community to be served by the bank, and whether or not the proposed corporate powers would be consistent with the applicable statutory provisions. Generally, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, and the Federal Reserve bank for the district in which the proposed bank would be located, are consulted, and their recommendations obtained.

(c) Upon receipt of the report of investigation and other data, the Organization Division analyzes and briefs the information, and appends its recommendation to the brief, which (with its accompanying data) is routed through the Assistant Chief National Bank Examiner who handles the district in which the proposed bank would be located, the Chief National Bank Examiner, and the three Deputies, all of whom append their recommendations and comments. It is then submitted to the Comptroller of the Currency for final decision.

(d) If the decision is unfavorable the applicants are so informed. If the decision is favorable the applicants are furnished with: (1) The standard Articles of Association (Form 1904), which recites the title of the association, the place of doing business, the number of shareholders to be elected on the board of directors, the names of the first board of directors, the date for the regular annual meeting, the amount of stock of the association, the powers of the board, the perpetual succession of the association until dissolved by act of its shareholders, etc., and the method by which special meetings of shareholders shall be called; (2) the Organization Certificate (Form 1903), wherein the organizers certify that they have organized an association for carrying on the business of banking under the laws of the United States, the title of the proposed association, its location, the capital stock and the par value thereof and the name and financial worth and residence of each original shareholder of the association; (3) the oaths of directors (Form 1900), which certify the place of their residences, that the signatories are directors of the designated bank, that they each swear or affirm to administer the affairs of the association in conformity with law, and that each signatory owns in his own right and unhypothecated the number of shares of the association which directors are required to own as a condition of offices; (4) the form (Form 1902) on which appear the official signatures of the officers of the bank and the dates of their appointment; (5) the certificate (Form 1918) to be signed and sworn to by at least a majority of the directors and the president or cashier of the bank, stating that the authorized capital stock has been paid in, and listing names of all directors with their places of residence and the number of shares owned by each; (6) Standard By-Laws (Form 2054), which provide for the annual meeting of shareholders, the manner in which shares shall be voted, the officers and their duties, adoption of a seal, the means of conveyance of real estate, the increase in capital stock, the banking hours, directors' meetings, the establishment of a discount committee, the manner of transferring stock, and the manner of changing the by-laws, etc.; (7) an outline of the general procedure to be followed in executing and submitting the above-mentioned papers. If the new bank at its inception contemplates purchasing the assets of an existing bank, one additional form (Form 2006) is required to be signed by the majority of the board of directors of the new bank, certifying that the assets purchased will not include real estate, stocks, or real-estate loans in conflict with statutory limitations.

(e) When the papers have been properly executed and received by this office and the Bureau has been advised by the appropriate Federal Reserve bank that the new bank has purchased Federal Reserve stock in compliance with statutory requirements, the Comptroller issues to the new bank what is commonly called a Charter (Form 1998). This is a formal declaration by the Comptroller that the bank has complied with the requirements of the statutes of the United States and is authorized to commence the business of banking as a national banking association. The charter is forwarded to the new bank together with an Affidavit of Publication of Charter (Form 1951), which must be signed by the publisher of the newspaper in which the advertisement of the charter has appeared for the requisite statutory period. Also the bank is requested to execute a formal notification to the Comptroller of the Currency that the bank commenced business on a specified date (Form 2008).

(f) Additional procedural steps are necessary where the new bank contemplates exercising fiduciary powers. In such case it is necessary for the bank to obtain a permit from the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System and this office must be notified that such permit has been granted, as a condition precedent to the issuance of a charter.

(g) Upon issuance of a charter, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation is informed that the requirements of law have been complied with and that the designated bank has been authorized to commence business as of a specified date.

§ 5.2 Supervision of financial institution. (a) By statute, each national bank must be examined not less than twice a year, except that the trust departments of banks having fiduciary powers need not be examined more than once a year. The examinations are made by national bank examiners operating under a District Chief Examiner, of whom there are twelve, one for each Federal Reserve district. The report of examination is submitted to the District Chief Examiner, and by him to the Washington office, where it is analyzed in the Examination Division. Supervisory action is taken by the Comptroller or one of his Deputy Comptrollers on the basis of the information thus obtained.

(b) In the Fifth Federal Reserve District, the Comptroller's supervisory powers extend to District of Columbia credit unions, building associations organized under the District of Columbia Code, and building and loan associations and state banks located and doing business in the District of Columbia.

§ 5.3 Conversions of state banks into national banks. (a) A state bank desiring to convert into a national bank is requested to execute an application to convert a state bank into a national banking association (Form 1988). It is similar in substance to the application for organization of a new national bank but must be executed by the directors of the state bank. When this form, properly executed, is received, the District Chief Examiner is directed to make an examination of the applicant bank, taking into consideration the factors which would be considered on the application for the creation of a new national bank, and in addition the factor of the financial history and condition of the state bank. Generally, the appropriate Federal Reserve bank is consulted and, in addition, if the state bank is not a member of the Federal Reserve System, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation is consulted.

(b) When the report and other data are received, they are analyzed, briefed, and routed in the same manner as in the case of an application for a national bank charter.

(c) If the decision is unfavorable the state bank is so notified. If the decision is favorable the bank is furnished with: (1) A suggested resolution to be passed by the shareholders of the state bank authorizing the conversion (Form 1945, No. 2; (2) Standard Articles of Association for a national bank formed by the conversion of a state bank (Form 1945), which are substantially the same as the article of association in the case of a new national bank; (3) the organization certificate for a converting bank (Form 1947), which is substantially the same as the organization certificate in the case of a new national bank; (4) the required oaths of directors (Form 1900), the same form as in the case of a new national bank; (5) the form (Form 1902) on which appear the official signatures of the officers of the bank and the dates of their appointment; (6) the certificate (Form 1919), which certifies that the converting bank has a paid-in and unimpaired capital of a certain specified amount; (7) Standard By-laws (Form 2054) identical with those forwarded to new national banks; (8) an outline of the general procedure to be followed in executing and submitting the above-mentioned papers, and a letter reciting any conditions which must be complied with before authorization to begin business as a national bank. There are many variations to these conditions, dependent upon circumstances in each case; hence no standard form is possible.

(d) Upon receipt of the forms, properly executed, and approval thereof, the Comptroller issues to the applicant bank a Charter (Form 1998), which is substantially the same as in the case of a new bank and authorizes the bank to commence the business of banking as a national banking association on a specified date. This charter is forwarded to the bank, accompanied by an Affidavit of Publication of Charter (Form 1951) and a form letter to be returned to the Comptroller advising him that the bank did commence the business of banking as a national bank on the date specified.

(e) There may be additional procedural steps in certain cases of conversions where, for instance, the converted bank will have branches, in which case a formal approval of the operation of the specific branches is forwarded to the bank, or where there is an increase in capital or change of location coincidental with the conversion, necessitating specific approval of this office. If the state bank was not insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, that Corporation is notified that the bank has been authorized to commence the business of banking as a national bank and that consideration was given to the applicable statutory requirements.

(f) If the state bank was exercising fiduciary powers and contemplates continuing such activity as a national bank, it must obtain a permit so to do from the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, and the Comptroller must be notified that such permit has been issued, as one of the conditions for authorizing the bank to commence the business of banking as a national bank.

§ 5.4 Consolidation of national banks and state and national banks. (a) Of necessity, consolidations are handled on a case-by-case basis. The Bureau assists the banks concerned in formulating a plan of consolidation and drafting a consolidation agreement. Where one of the consolidating banks is a state bank, it is examined by a national bank examiner. When the consolidation agreement has been agreed to by the board of directors of each bank, it is submitted to the Comptroller. The plan is analyzed and briefed by the Organization Division and routed in the same manner as an application for a charter.

(b) If the decision of the Comptroller is unfavorable, the banks are so notified. If the decision of the Comptroller is favorable, the consolidating banks are advised of any conditions precedent to final approval, as, for instance, the concurrence of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation if any of the consolidating banks are uninsured.

(c) When the consolidation agreement has been executed by the boards of directors of the consolidating banks, one executed copy thereof is submitted to the Comptroller. The banks are furnished with instructions as to the procedure to be followed in obtaining the consent of their shareholders, together with suggested forms of notice to shareholders. When the plan has been approved by the shareholders of the consolidating banks, certified copies of their resolutions are submitted to the Comptroller, together with, among other things, a copy of the form of proxy used by each bank, a copy of the notice of meeting given to the shareholders of each bank by registered mail, with advice of the date when same was mailed, and a copy of any other letter which may have been sent to the shareholders of each bank relating to the proposed consolidation. Proof of publication of notices of meetings of the shareholders is required. Also, each bank must certify the amount of its contribution to the capital structure of the consolidated bank.

(d) When the above documents, properly executed, are submitted to the Comptroller along with proof of compliance with any conditions imposed by him, he issues a certificate certifying that the named banks have been consolidated under the charter of one of said national banks and under the title specified. The certificate recites the amount of capital stock and the date when the consolidation is to be effective.

(e) There are additional procedural steps in some cases, as where the consolidated bank will operate branches formerly operated by one of the consolidating banks or will establish new branches, in which cases formal approval by the Comptroller is necessary. In addition, the rights of dissenting shareholders are protected in accordance with specific statutory procedure.

§ 5.5 Authorizing branches and seasonal agencies—(a) Branch banks. (1) Under the provisions of U. S. C. title 12, sec. 36, national banks may, subject to the approval of the Comptroller of the Currency, establish and operate branches and seasonal agencies. Upon receipt of an application from a national bank or any bank operating in the District of Columbia, for a branch or seasonal agency, the appropriate District Chief Examiner is instructed to make an investigation, taking into consideration the financial history and condition of the bank, the adequacy of its capital structure, its future earnings prospects, the general character of its management, the number of branches now in operation and their location, the proposed location of the new branch and the distance from the head office, the nearest banking facilities, the convenience and needs of the community to be served by the new branch, the nature of the potential clientele and possible business available, including an estimate of contemplated volume within a reasonable period of time and the prospects of successful operation of the branch, together with any other pertinent factors.

(2) The examiner's report is submitted to the District Chief Examiner who forwards it to this office with his own comments and recommendation. The information and data is analyzed, briefed and routed in the same way as an application for a charter.

(3) If the decision is unfavorable the applicant bank is so notified. If the decision is favorable the Comptroller issues a formal certificate evidencing his approval and consent to the establishment and operation of a branch bank at the designated location.

(b) Removal of branch banks or branch offices. A branch of a national banking association may not be moved from one location to another without first obtaining the consent and approval of the Comptroller. The procedure for obtaining consent to such a moving of the location of a branch follows the same general course as that of the application for a branch, although the information required on any investigation made will vary with the circumstances and reasons given for the proposed move. If the approval is granted the Comptroller executes a formal statement to that effect, which is forwarded to the bank applying therefor.

§ 5.6 Changes in capital structure. Under the provisions of U. S. C. title 12, secs 57, 58 and 59, increases and decreases in the capital stock of banks under the Comptroller's jurisdiction are subject to his approval.

(a) Increases and decreases in capital. Upon receipt of an application to increase or decrease capital stock, the Organization Division prepares an analysis of the condition of the bank, which is routed through the staff as in the case of an application for a charter. If the proposed capital change is disapproved, the bank is so notified. If the plan is approved, the bank is furnished with the necessary forms and instructions, including the notice to shareholders, proxies, resolution, and, in the case of issuance of new stock, the form of certificate. If new stock is to be sold for cash, the bank is also furnished with a form of certificate of payment, which is in substance a letter addressed to the Comptroller, signed by the president or cashier of the bank, certifying that the specified amount of the increase in capital stock has been paid in at the specified purchase price and reciting the aggregate par value of the common capital stock outstanding, including the increase. If the increase is to be achieved by the declaration of a stock dividend, the certification form to be signed by the president or cashier varies accordingly. In the case of reductions of capital stock, the disposition to be made of the capital released by the reduction is subject to the approval of the Comptroller, under the provisions of U. S. C. title 12, sec. 59.

(b) Preferred stock. (1) U. S. C. title 12, sec. 51a authorizes national banks to issue preferred stock, with the approval of the Comptroller. The procedure is similar to that in the case of an increase of capital stock by the sale of common stock, with variations appropriate to the status of the preferred stock, and the rights of the prospective purchasers thereof.

(2) The retirement of preferred stock held by national banks is achieved under the general supervision of this office, and in cooperation with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, where that Corporation is the owner of the stock or is otherwise interested financially in the particular bank.

§ 5.7 Changes of name or location. Under U. S. C. title 12, sec. 30, a change in name or location of a national bank requires the approval of the Comptroller. Upon receipt of an application for such a change, an investigation is made to ascertain whether there would be any objections thereto, such as undue similarity of the proposed new name to the name of any other bank in the vicinity. These findings are briefed in the Organization Division and routed in the same manner as applications for changes in capital. If the application is approved, the bank is furnished with necessary instructions for calling a meeting of shareholders and having the appropriate resolution adopted. When informed that the shareholders have adopted the resolution, the Comptroller issues a certificate of change of name or location, as the case may be.

§ 5.8 Reports of condition—(a) Commercial department reports. Under the provisions of U. S. C. title 12, sec. 161, every national bank is required to submit to the Comptroller not less than three reports during each year according to the form prescribed by him. Each report must exhibit in detail the resources and liabilities of the bank at the close of business on any past day specified by the Comptroller and must be submitted within five days after receipt of the Comptroller's request therefor. These forms (Form 2130–A and Form 2130–A (short form)) call for statements of assets, liabilities, pledged assets and capital accounts; schedules of loans and discounts, United States Government obligations held, cash balances with other banks, demand deposits, time deposits, contingent liabilities, other liabilities, and other assets; and a statement of the affiliates and holding company affiliates of the bank. When these report forms are sent out to the banks they are accompanied by instructions (Form 2130–C) which cover the forms item by item and schedule by schedule. The bank is also furnished with the form of publisher's certificate (Form 2139) of publication of the report of condition of the bank, which must be published in accordance with the provisions of U. S. C. title 12, sec. 161.

(b) Trust department reports. Each national bank which exercises fiduciary powers is required annually to submit Form 2130–D, reflecting the balance sheet of its trust department as of the date specified.

(c) Affiliate reports. Each national bank which has affiliates (including holding company affiliates), as defined by statutes, must accompany each report of condition of the bank on Form 2130–A with a report (Form 2131) of its loans and advances to affiliates and loans secured by obligations of affiliates. At the same time, each affiliate must file Form 2130–E, which shows the nature of the affiliation, its financial relations with the bank, and the degree of control of the affiliate by the bank or of the bank by the affiliate. However, such reports may be waived by the Comptroller. Where reports by affiliates on Form 2130–E are required, there must be the same publication of those reports on Form 2130–E–1 as is required in the case of the bank's reports of condition. The instructions for the preparation of reports of affiliates on Forms 2130–E and 2130–E–1 are contained in Form 2130–E–2.

§ 5.9 Reports of earnings and dividends. Under the general power conferred upon the Comptroller under U. S. C. title 12, sec. 161, to call for special reports, the Comptroller requires that reports of earnings and dividends for the six months ending June 30 be submitted on Form 2129, and for the six months and twelve months ending December 31 on Form 2129–1. These reports recite the dividends declared in the current period, the capital structure of the bank, the earnings from current operations, current operating expenses, recoveries and profits, losses and charge-offs and taxes on net income as well as undivided profits at the beginning of the period, net profits for current period, credits to undivided profits and deductions from undivided profits. The above two forms are accompanied by instructions contained in Form 2129–A. There is also required of banks a formal notification to the Comptroller of dividends declared, pursuant to U. S. C. title 12, sec. 163, on Form 2133 (or Form 2133–A, where retirement of preferred stock is involved).

§ 5.10 Reports from financial institutions in the District of Columbia subject to the supervision of the Comptroller—(a) Nonmember banks. Under the provisions of section 26–102 of the District of Columbia Code (1940) each bank and trust company doing business in the District of Columbia and not a member of th Federal Reserve System, must maintain reserves on the same basis and subject to the same conditions as prescribed for national banks located in the District of Columbia, except that such reserves must be established and maintained at such agency as may have the approval of the Comptroller. Form F–2150–1 covers a report by such institutions of net deposits and reserves required. These reports are submitted weekly. The institutions where the reserve funds are held also furnish this office with weekly reports of the reserves held, on Form F–2150–2.

(b) Pledge of assets. Financial institutions in the District of Columbia doing a fiduciary business must pledge assets with the Comptroller for the faithful performance of their duties.

(c) Reports of building and loan associations. In accordance with the authority conferred upon the Comptroller under section 26–404 of the District of Columbia Code (1940), all building associations organized under the Code and all building and loan associations doing business in the District of Columbia are required to make to the Comptroller at least one report during each year, according to the form prescribed by him. The form used is identified as 2252 and comprises a balance sheet showing assets and liabilities and receipts and disbursements and furnishing additional miscellaneous information.

(d) Reports of condition of credit unions. In accordance with the authority conferred upon the Comptroller under section 26–506 of the District of Columbia Code (1940), credit unions organized under the District of Columbia Code are required to submit reports of condition annually on Form 2252–1, which recites their assets and liabilities and receipts and disbursements for the previous year, their earnings and expenses and certain other information. Credit unions having assets of $100,000 or more are also required to publish their reports of condition in a local newspaper and the proof of this publication must be submitted to the Comptroller on Form 2252–2. District of Columbia credit unions are also required to furnish the Comptroller with a special notification of dividends declared, on Form 2133–1.

§ 5.11 Miscellaneous procedures. (a) In connection with the annual meetings which national banks are required by statute to hold, this office forwards general instructions furnishing information regarding the manner in which such meetings should be called, the use of proxies, the voting rights of owners of stock and limitations thereon, the procedure for the meeting, the record of proceedings, the subsequent organization meeting of directors elected, and the annual meeting reports to be submitted to the Comptroller.

(b) Under U. S. C. title 12, sec. 481, the Comptroller has the power to make such examinations of affiliates of national banks as shall be necessary to disclose the relations between such banks and affiliates.

§ 5.12 Voluntary liquidations (a) A national bank wishing to go into voluntary liquidations under U. S. C. title 12, sec. 181, is furnished with a set of instructions as to the procedure to follow, a form of notice of meeting of shareholders, a proxy to be used for voting at the shareholders' meeting, and a standard form of resolution for voluntary liquidation to be adopted by the shareholders, which recites the date on which the bank will commence voluntary liquidation and provides for the designation of a liquidating agent or committee. Form 1985 provides for listing the name of each shareholder voting for or against the resolution personally or by proxy and the names of shareholders not represented at the meeting. Form 1989, the form of affidavit of publication of notice of liquidation, must be signed and sworn to by the publisher of the newspaper in which such notice appears. If the national bank contemplates selling its assets to a non-insured state bank which will assume the liabilities of the national bank, the consent of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation is required by U. S. C. title 12, sec. 264 (v) (4).

(b) Upon receipt of a certified copy of the resolution of the shareholders (Form 1985), the Comptroller informs interested governmental agencies that the bank is in voluntary liquidation.

(c) The bank is also instructed covering the preparation of Form 2056–A, which is a report of the condition of the bank as of the date of actual discontinuance of business or the date its business was taken over by another banking association, and of Form 2056–P. F., covering the condition of the trust department, if the bank had fiduciary powers.

(d) Thereafter the liquidating agent or committee is requqired by law to furnish the Comptroller with an annual report of the progress of the liquidation. Instructions for the preparation of such report are forwarded to the liquidating agent or committee. Form 2056 is furnished for the commercial department report, and Form 2056–F for the trust department, if any. These reports must be continued annually until the liquidation is completed.

(e) There may be variations in the above procedure where the bank going into voluntary liquidation has preferred stock which is owned by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation or in which the Reconstruction Finance Corporation has a financial interest.

§ 5.13 Supervision of liquidation of insolvent financial institutions—(a) Procedure for closing banks. When the Comptroller is satisfied that a bank under his supervision is unable to meet the demands of its depositors, the bank is closed either by action of its own board of directors or by order of the Comptroller, acting through his examining staff in the field. The Comptroller appoints the receiver by a formal instrument which can be recorded.

(b) Banks for which Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation acts as receiver. (1) Since by statute the Comptroller is now required to appoint the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation as receiver for any insured national bank, or any insured state bank in the District of Columbia, which is closed on account of inability to meet the demands of its depositors, the details of liquidation of such institutions are left to that Corporation as receiver, and the forms used by the creditors of the bank in filing their claims and the certificates given by the receiver to such creditors to evidence the established claims are determined by the corporate receiver. The Comptroller publishes notice to all creditors calling upon them to present their claims to the receiver, but he accepts the determination of the Corporation as to the validity of claims and their classification. Certain matters are submitted by the corporate receiver to the Comptroller for approval, such as sales of assets and compromise settlements, attorneys' fees, and certain administration expenses. When the corporate receiver has funds, representing the proceeds of liquidation, which it deems sufficient for the payment of a dividend, it recommends payment of a dividend of a certain percentage. If the Comptroller approves, dividend checks are drawn by the corporate receiver upon its own receiver's account but are submitted to the Comptroller for audit and initiating prior to delivery by the Corporation to the creditors who have established their claims. In the event that the shareholders of the bank are subject to an assessment and such an assessment is deemed necessary in order to pay the liabilities of the bank, the Comptroller makes a formal assessment upon the shareholders (Form 2428), as prescribed by U. S. C. title 12, sections 63, 64, and 192, in a specified dollar amount not in excess of the aggregate par value of the stock outstanding.

(2) If and when all of the creditors of the bank who have established their claims have been paid in full with interest, there remain some assets in the hands of the receiver, the Comptroller calls a meeting of the shareholders for the purpose of electing an agent to whom the assets of the bank will be transferred and delivered in accordance with statutory requirements or for the purpose of deciding to continue the receivership as permitted by said statute. If an agent is elected by the shareholders the assets are transferred and delivered to him by the Comptroller by a "Release of Assets to Agent of Shareholders" (Form 2402). The shareholders' agent is required to execute a bond as principal with satisfactory surety, which bond is directed to the Comptroller of the Currency (Form 2438).

(c) Insolvent banks for which Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation is not receiver. In receiverships where the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation is not receiver, a standard form of proof of claim is prescribed by the Comptroller, which requires the claimant to execute in affidavit form a statement of the amount claimed to be due and the nature thereof. A standard form of receiver's certificate of proof of claim is issued to all claimants who prove their claims to the satisfaction of the Comptroller or establish their claims by litigation.

§ 5.14 Conservatorships. Under the Bank Conservation Act of 1933 (U. S. C. title 12, secs. 201 ff.), the Comptroller has authority to appoint a conservator for any bank under his supervision when he deems this action necessary to conserve the assets of such bank. This power was broadly exercised following the passage of the above-mentioned Act, but since all conservatorships have been terminated for more than nine years and no immediate application of the conservatorship authority is in contemplation, a recital of the procedures followed and forms used is omitted.

§ 5.15 Remedial actions.—(a) Forfeiture of charter. U. S. C. title 12, secs. 93 and 501a, authorize the Comptroller to sue for the forfeiture of the charter of any national bank for violation of certain of the laws applicable to national banks.

(b) Removal of director or officer. Under U. S. C. title 12, sec. 77, in the event any director or officer of a national bank or a bank or trust company doing business in the District of Columbia shall have continued to violate any law relating to such bank or trust company or shall have continued unsafe or unsound practices in conducting the business of such bank or trust company after having been warned by the Comptroller, he may certify the facts to the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System and the offending director or officer may be removed by the Board after a hearing.

(c) Impairment of capital. U. S. C. title 12, sec. 55 provides that in the event of an impairment of the capital stock of a national bank the Comptroller may give notice to the bank of the amount of the impairment and require that the bank levy an assessment upon its shareholders for the amount of impairment specified, on a pro rata basis. Unless the impairment is restored or the bank goes into voluntary liquidation within three months after receiving such notice, the Comptroller may appoint a receiver for the bank. At the time the formal notice of the impairment is sent to the bank, it is instructed to call a meeting of the shareholders to pass a resolution (Form 1444) levying the assessment upon the shareholder necessary to make up the impairment. If and when the impairment is restored the cashier of the bank is required to execute a formal certificate to that effect which is sent to the Comptroller.

(d) Publication of reports of examination. U. S. C. title 12, sec. 481, authorizes the Comptroller to publish the report of examination of any national bank or affiliate thereof which shall not, within 120 days after notification of the recommendations or suggestions of the Comptroller, based on such examination, have complied with the same to his satisfaction.

(e) Appointment of receiver upon termination of insurance. Under U. S. C. title 12, sec. 264 (i) (2), the Comptroller is required to appoint a receiver for a national bank whenever its insured status is terminated.

§ 5.16 Issue and redemption of Federal Reserve notes.—(a) Issue. The twelve Federal Reserve banks make their estimates of the number and denominations of notes which they anticipate will be needed for the coming year, and these estimates are transmitted to the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, which notifies the Comptroller, who in turn advises the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. When the notes are printed they are held in vault subject to the order of the Comptroller. Requests for notes are sent to the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System for approval and are then forwarded to the Comptroller. The Federal Reserve Agents at the respective Federal Reserve banks arrange for the deposit with them of the required collateral to support the notes ordered. The Comptroller then requisitions the notes from the Custodian of the Vault, for shipment to the designated Federal Reserve Agents. The Comptroller's Issue and Redemption Division maintains records of orders received, money shipped, stock on hand, and money outstanding.

(b) Redemption. Federal Reserve notes unfit for circulation are returned by the Federal Reserve banks to Washington for verification and credit. The lower halves of such notes are shipped to the Currency Redemption Division of the Treasurer of the United States, and the upper halves go to the Comptroller's Issue and Redemption Division. After counting and reconciliation of differences, both halves are delivered to the Treasury Department Destruction Committee, which destroys them.

(2) There is hereby conferred and imposed upon the Commissioner of Customs, subject to the general supervision and direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, the authority vested in the Secretary of the Treasury by section 32 of the act of Congress entitled "An act to amend and consolidate the Acts respecting copyright," approved March 4, 1909 (United States Code, title 17, section 32), to permit the exportation of books imported in violation of the provisions of that act and subject to forfeiture under its terms.

(3) There is hereby conferred and imposed upon the Commissioner of Customs, subject to the general supervision and direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, the authority vested in the Secretary by section 36 of the Act of June 22, 1936 (49 Stat. 1816, 48 U. II. Acting Commissioner, Acting Assistant Commissioner, and Acting Deputy Commissioners. The Secretary of the Treasury will from time to time designate officers of the Bureau of Customs in Washington to act as Commissioner, Assistant Commissioner, or Deputy Commissioner of that Bureau during the absence or disability of any such officer or when there is a vacancy in the office of any such officer.

(b) A collector of customs may delegate to his subordinates purely administrative functions, but may delegate only to the assistant collector or a deputy collector any function the performance of which requires the use of discretion imposed upon him by law or delegated to him by the Secretary of the Treasury. Such delegations do not relieve the collector of responsibility for the performance of the delegated functions.

(c) The duties of the appraiser, assistant appraiser, and acting appraiser, are set forth in section 500 (a), (d), and (f), Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U. S. C. 1500 (a), (d), (f)). Such of those duties as are purely ministerial and do not involve the use of discretion may be delegated to subordinates, but all determinations of value are subject to the approval of the appraiser or acting appraiser at the port at which the merchandise is entered or is under seizure.

However, to assure prompt action upon a request, there should be furnished all pertinent facts relevant to the subject matter of the inquiry or showing that the correspondent has a special interest entitling him to receive information which could not be disclosed to the general public.

§ 100.5 Procedures. (a) No formal procedures other than those relating solely to internal agency management are required in connection with any function of the Customs Service except those described by, or referred to or cited in, the regulations published in 19 CFR, Chapter I, or regulations issued jointly by the Secretary of the Treasury, or the Commissioner of Customs with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, and the heads of other agencies, departments, or bureaus as referred to or cited in the regulations of the Bureau of Customs, published as heretofore stated.

The above provisions necessitates severe limitations by the Bureau of Internal Revenue upon publication and public inspection of its official records, including final opinions or orders in particular cases. The extent to which public disclosure may be made of matters of official record to persons properly and directly concerned is set forth herein:

§ 600.8 Employment Tax Unit—(a) General. The Employment Tax Unit is headed by a Deputy Commisisoner of Internal Revenue. The Unit is located in Temporary Building "S", 7th Street and Jefferson Drive, S. W., Washington, D. C., and is divided into the divisions shown in paragraph (b).

The Employment Tax Unit administers the employment taxes imposed under Chapter 9 of the Internal Revenue Code. Subchapter A (Federal Insurance Contributions Act) imposes a tax on all employers and employees with respect to "employment", as defined therein. Subchapter B imposes a tax on employers, employees, and employee representatives with respect to "service" rendered as defined therein. Subchapter C (Federal Unemployment Tax Act) imposes a tax on employers of eight or more individuals with respect to "employment", as defined therein. The audit and adjustment of all returns filed annually under the Federal Unemployment Tax Act, together with the disposition of all claims for refund, credit, and abatement filed with respect to the taxes imposed by Subchapters A, B, and C of Chapter 9 of the Internal Revenue Code, are performed in the Employment Tax Unit in Washington. The audit and adjustment of the quarterly returns filed under the Federal Insurance Contributions Act and Subchapter B of Chapter 9 of the Code, and the field work in connection with the tax imposed by the Federal Unemployment Tax Act, are performed by the offices of the collectors of internal revenue for the 64 collection districts in which returns are filed.

(b) Unit Divisions. The divisions of the Unit and their functions are as follows:

(1) Audit Division. This division audits and adjusts all Forms 940 filed by employers of eight or more individuals under Federal Unemployment Tax Act; verifies credit claimed by taxpayers for contributions paid into State unemployment compensation funds with proofs of credit furnished by State offices; adjusts all claims for refund, credit and abatement of employment taxes; considers offers in compromise, and makes rulings to taxpayers, in those cases where precedents exist.

(2) Control Division. This division receives assessment lists pertaining to employment tax liabilities from collectors' offices and causes assessment certificates to be issued; passes on taxpayers' reasons for delinquency on all Forms 940 and in controversial cases on Forms 35–1a, CT–1 and CT–2; considers offers in compromise pertaining to delinquency penalties and penalties for willful failure to pay tax or file returns, reviews all claims filed to determine whether properly executed; adjusts refund and abatement claims involving penalty and interest; and conducts correspondence in regard to above matters.

(3) Rules and Regulations Division. This division prepares original interpretative rulings on all phases of the law and regulations; prepares regulations and forms; prepares mimeographed instructions on field procedures; initiates publication of rulings in Internal Revenue Bulletin; and conducts conferences with taxpayers and their representatives involving rulings.

(4) Service Division. This division is engaged in functions of internal management.

(c) Public relations. Returns and other forms relating to employment taxes, and information regarding such taxes and forms may be obtained by addressing a letter or applying personally, if the applicant is an individual, to the collector of internal revenue for the district in which the applicant resides, or, in case the applicant is a corporation, to the collector of the district in which its principal place of business is located. Collectors are authorized to grant extensions of time for filing the annual returns required under the Federal Unemployment Tax Act, and requests for such extension should be made to collectors. Offers in compromise of tax liability should be submitted to collectors. Collectors are authorized to issue advisory rulings on employment tax liability but such rulings are subject to review and modification by the Bureau. Requests for rulings should be submitted by letter either to the collector or to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Washington 25, D. C.

§ 600.9 Salary Stabilization Unit. The central organization of the Salary Stabilization Unit is located in Temporary Building "S", 6th Street and Jefferson Drive, S. W., Washington, D. C. The Head of this Unit exercises authority in salary stabilization matters delegated by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

The Unit administers the provisions of the Act of October 2, 1942 (56 Stat. 765, as amended, 50 U. S. C. App., Sup., 961-971), which relate to the salaries of certain classes of employees, particularly described in the Treasury decisions referred to in § 601.12.

§ 600.10 Intelligence Unit—(a) General. The Intelligence Unit is principally concerned with the investigation, in cooperation with revenue agents and deputy collectors, of cases involving alleged evasion of taxes; investigation of charges of a serious nature against employees of the central and field organization; and investigation of applications of attorneys and agents to practice before the Treasury Department.

(b) Divisions. The divisions of the Unit are as follows:

(1) Fraud Division. The activities of the division are directed to the investigation of tax frauds.

(2) Special Assignment & Administration Division. This division is concerned with all types of investigations within the scope of the Unit's work (other than those conducted by the Fraud Division) as well as administrative, budgetary, and personal problems.

§ 600.11 Office of Chief Counsel—(a) Unit of Treasury Department Legal Division. The Office of the Chief Counsel is a unit of the Legal Division of the Treasury Department which does the legal work connected with the Bureau of Internal Revenue. Section 512 of the Revenue Act of 1934 (now sections 3930, 3931, and 3932 of the Internal Revenue Code) created the offices of General Counsel for the Department of the Treasury and Assistant General Counsel for the Bureau of Internal Revenue. The General Counsel was made chief law officer of the entire Treasury Department, and among the powers, duties and functions given to him were those formerly vested in the General Counsel for the Bureau. Section 512 authorized the General Counsel, with the approval of the Secretary, to delegate any authority, duty or function vested in him to the Assistant General Counsel for the Bureau. Since June 20, 1934, by virtue of orders of delegation issued by the General Counsel pursuant to such authority, the Assistant General Counsel for the Bureau has, subject to the general supervision of the General Counsel for the Treasury, exercised the duties, powers and functions formerly vested in the General Counsel for the Bureau. For reasons of expediency, the Assistant General Counsel now in charge operates under the title "Chief Counsel". Hence, the unit is commonly known as the "Office of the Chief Counsel".

(b) Central organization of the Office of the Chief Counsel. The central organization of the Office of the Chief Counsel is located in the Internal Revenue Building, Washington, D. C. This organization is composed of three groups: the executive group, the operating group, and the service group.

(1) Executive group. The executive group is composed of the Chief Counsel and his immediate staff. The staff is made up of four assistant chief counsels and four special assistants to the Chief Counsel. Any one of the Assistant Chief Counsels may be designated to act for the Chief Counsel in the latter's absence.

(2) Operating group. The operating group is composed of the designated divisions discussed below.

(i) Chief Counsel's Committee. This committee, which is composed of a chairman and two other members, acts in a capacity advisory to the executive group on matters referred to it by the members of that group, and also reviews proposed compromises, closing agreements, and informers' claims for reward. See § 601.1.

(ii) Alcohol Tax Division. This division handles the legal work arising from the administration and enforcement of the internal revenue liquor laws and the Federal Alcohol Administration Act, and from the enforcement of certain acts relating to liquor and firearms.

(iii) Appeals Division. This division represents the Commissioner in consideration, disposition and trial of appeals filed with The Tax Court of the United States other than appeals involving processing taxes. Substantially all the legal personnel of this division have been decentralized, only the Head and Assistant Heads of the Division, and the Appellate Court and Brief Review Section remaining in Washington. The Head of the Appeals Division exercises general supervisory authority on behalf of the Chief Counsel over the Division Counsels and their legal assistants in the field offices. (For details of the latter's authority and extent of review, see section 600.57.)

(iv) Civil Division. This division cooperates with the Department of Justice in assembling civil tax cases (but see subdivisions (ii), (iii), and (v)) and advising the Department of the Bureau's position in the prosecution, defense, appeal, and settlement of such litigation, and also advises the Bureau as to the institution of civil suits for taxes and the handling of liens for taxes.

(v) Claims Division. This division is composed of the Processing Tax Section, the Reorganization Section, the Bankruptcy and Receivership Section, and the Compromise Section. The division represents the Commissioner in cases appealed to The Tax Court involving refunds of amounts paid as processing taxes and does appellate court work in connection therewith, and assists and cooperates with the Department of Justice in the handling of civil litigation in all courts, except The Tax Court, involving amounts paid as floor stock tax, compensating tax or custom processing tax under the provisions of the Agricultural Adjustment Act, as amended. The division also handles the legal work incident to the collection of Federal taxes in proceedings instituted under the provisions of sections 75, 77, and 77B, Chapters X, XI, XII, XIII, and XV of the Bankruptcy Act, as amended, as well as protecting the interest or claims of the United States involving in railroad and corporate reorganization cases and in real property arrangement proceedings, and bankruptcy and receivership liquidation proceedings, and prosecutes claims filed by collectors against the estates of deceased taxpayers, against insolvent banks, and in liquidation proceedings, including assignments for the benefit of creditors.

(vi) Interpretative Division. This division prepares formal opinions on questions involving the tax laws, reviews rulings and closing agreements on Form 906 (see § 601.1 (d) (2)), prepared in the administrative units of the Bureau, and edits material to be published in the Internal Revenue Bulletin.

(vii) Legislation and Regulations Division. This division reviews or drafts regulations and Treasury decisions, considers and makes recommendations to the General Counsel (through the Chief Counsel and Commissioner) with respect to legislative proposals, and prepares and reviews reports on legislation pending in Congress.

(viii) Penal Division. This division considers cases involving recommendations for criminal prosecution for violations of the tax laws, prepares such cases for reference to the Department of Justice and, when requested by that Department, assists at the trial of such cases. Much of the work of this division has been decentralized in the offices of Regional Counsels (as to which, see § 600.57). The Head of this division exercises general supervisory authority on behalf of the Chief Counsel over the attorneys in the Regional Counsels' offices.

(ix) Review Division. This division reviews claims for refund, credit or abatement where the amount proposed for allowance in any case exceeds $75,000, and prepares the written "Public Decision" required by Treasury Decision 4583 (Cumulative Bulletin XIV–2, p. 318). This division also prepares the reports to the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation of Congress required by section 3777 (a) of the Internal Revenue Code in cases where refunds or credits of income, war profits, excess profits, estate, and gift taxes in excess of $75,000 are approved.

(3) Service group. The service group is composed of various units providing services in connection with the internal functioning of the Chief Counsel's Office, such as the library, digest system, mail and records section, etc.

§ 600.12 Excess Profits Tax Council: Central Organization. The Excess Profits Tax Council administers the excess profits tax relief provisions of section 722 of the Internal Revenue Code relating to determination of the excess profits tax credit in certain prescribed circumstances. The Council comprises fifteen members appointed by the Commissioner, one of whom is designated to act as chairman. The central office of the Council is in the Internal Revenue Building, 12th Street and Constitution Avenue NW., Washington 25, D. C.

The jurisdiction and authority of the Excess Profits Tax Council are set forth in Commissioner's Mimeograph No. 6044, approved by the Secretary of the Treasury on July 30, 1946 (copies of which may be obtained from the Council) which reads in part as follows:

1. Excess Profits Tax Council. Com. Mim. Coll. No. 6035, T. S. No. 448, Dated July 10, 1946, established as a field group in the Bureau of Internal Revenue the Excess Profits Tax Council.

2. Section 722 Field Committee. There is hereby established in each field division of the Income Tax Unit [see section 600.52] a committee to be known as the "Section 722 Field Committee".

3. Jurisdiction of the Excess Profits Tax Council. Subject to the authority of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, final jurisdiction within the Bureau of Internal Revenue of all issues arising under the provisions of section 722 of the Internal Revenue Code is hereby vested in the Excess Profits Tax Council. The Excess Profits Tax Council (hereinafter referred to as the "Council") will have no jurisdiction over any issues arising under any other provision of the internal revenue laws (hereinafter referred to as "standard issues"). In view of the distinctive character of the issues under section 722, the procedures herein set forth provide for consideration of those issues separate and apart from the consideration of issues arising under other provisions of law.

4. Functions of the Section 722 Field Committee. With respect to each claim it will be the responsibility of the Section 722 Field Committee [see section 600.56] • • • to recommend to the Council the amount of the constructive average base period net income allowable under section 722. Such recommendation will be subject to approval by the Council. The recommendation of the Committee will be set forth in a report devoted exclusively to the section 722 issues.

• • • • • •

5. Review by Excess Profits Tax Council of Committee Recommendations. The recommendation of the Committee for final disposition of section 722 issues will be subject to review by the Council whether or not the taxpayer agrees with such recommendation. In any case in which the taxpayer does not agree with the Committee recommendation, or in any case in which a Committee recommendation agreed to by the taxpayer is not accepted after review by the Council, the taxpayer will be afforded an opportunity for a hearing before the Council.

• • • • • •

12. Chief Counsel's Review of Section 722 Issues. In any case subject to review by the Chief Counsel [see section 600.11] he will accept as final, for the purposes of his review and any report to the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation, the decision as to section 722 issues contained in reports approved by the Council.

SUBPART B—FIELD ORGANIZATION

§ 600.50 General. As stated in § 600.1, the Bureau of Internal Revenue is decentralized. Most of its personnel is located and most of its work performed in the field. The field organization is described in §§ 600.51 to 600.60, inclusive.

§ 600.51 Collectors of internal revenue—(a) General. Collectors of internal revenue are appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. Certain duties of collectors are prescribed by statute. Other duties are prescribed by the Commissioner in pursuance of law. Under section 3942 of the Internal Revenue Code, collectors may be suspended by the Commissioner for fraud, or gross neglect of duty, or abuse of power. As of July 1, 1946, there were sixty-four collectors' offices and one thousand three hundred and thirty-one branch offices. The addresses (locations) of the various branch offices of a particular collection district may be obtained from the Collector of Internal Revenue of that district or from the Accounts and Collections Unit, Bureau of Internal Revenue, Washington 25, D. C. The branch offices are located, as a rule, in the principal cities in the various collection districts. The sixty-four collection districts, and the headquarters of and territory embraced by each district, are shown in paragraph (d).

(b) Functions of collectors' offices. Collectors of internal revenue, personally and through their staffs, prepare assessment lists, receive internal revenue tax returns, collect internal revenue taxes, sell internal revenue stamps, distribute internal revenue forms, assist the public in the execution of tax returns and otherwise complying with the internal revenue laws and regulations, canvass for delinquent and additional tax liability, and in general enforce the internal revenue laws. Collectors have authority, when it becomes necessary, to make tax collection forcibly by distraint on taxpayers' property, and to file tax liens. Collectors determine the tax due on income tax returns filed by employees on their tax statements, Form W–2, and examine and audit certain other income tax and other Federal tax returns under procedure outlined by the Commissioner. Where the amount involved, exclusive of interest, penalties, additions to the tax, and additional amounts, does not exceed $1,000, collectors make refunds of income tax overpayments, and abate erroneous assessments. Section 3770 (a) (4), I. R. C. Collectors have authority under statute (section 3634, I. R. C.) and by delegation of authority from the Commissioner, in appropriate cases to grant extensions of time for filing returns, and they make settlements, subject to approval of the Commissioner and a designated officer of the Treasury Department (section 3761, I. R. C.), of liability for ad valorem penalties incurred through delinquency in filing returns or payment of tax and interest due.

(c) Public relations. The public may secure from the principal and branch offices of collectors of internal revenue, pursuant to oral or written application, information as to the application of the internal revenue laws. Requests for extensions of time for filing returns and for information as to cases in their charge, and offers in compromise, and claims for abatement, credit or refund of taxes may be submitted to collectors.

§ 600.51a Processing Division. The Processing Division is a service agency for the offices of collectors of internal revenue and the Bureau. The Processing Division is located in New York City at 260 East 161st Street. It sorts and assembles all income tax information documents for the purpose of associating them with income tax returns. It receives from the taxpaying public information returns such as Form 1096, together with Forms 1099 and 1099L.

§ 600.52 Field divisions of the Income Tax Unit—(a) Organization. Each field division of the Income Tax Unit is headed by the internal revenue agent in charge, who has final responsibility for any action taken or recommendation made by his office in any matter. There is in each smaller field office one assistant agent in charge, and in the larger divisions two such assistants. They perform such duties as may be assigned to them by the internal revenue agent in charge. Other than management and control groups, each field office is composed of three major groups, namely, the investigating staff, the reviewing staff, and the conference staff. The investigating staff is composed of internal revenue agents who examine income and profits tax returns and others who examine estate and gift tax returns. The reviewing staff considers the reports submitted by the examining agents. The conference staff hears and considers protests of taxpayers to adjustments and actions proposed as a result of examination procedure. While the field division of the Income Tax Unit exercises general control over internal revenue agents working under the direction of the revenue agent in charge who are engaged in the investigations of estate and gift tax returns, the Miscellaneous Tax Unit (see §§ 600.7 and 601.7) supervises post-review action and other technical features involved in the verification of such returns.

§ 600.53 Technical Staff field organization—(a) General. The Technical Staff comprises a Washington headquarters office under the principal officer of the Technical Staff known as the "Head, Technical Staff" and ten field divisions, each under an officer known as "Head, Staff Division".

(b) Jurisdiction and authority—(1) General. The Technical Staff acts as an independent appellate agency within the Bureau of Internal Revenue in the determination of income, profits, estate, and gift tax liability. Its work relates, in general, to the classes of taxation which fall within the jurisdiction of The Tax Court of the United States. The principal duties of the field divisions are (i) to determine for the Commissioner the liability of taxpayers who have protested the findings of the internal revenue agent in charge before any petition has been filed with The Tax Court of the United States, and (ii) to consider proposals submitted by taxpayers to settle cases docketed by The Tax Court. In performing these functions the heads of the Staff field divisions act as the exclusive representatives of the Commissioner in cases within their territorial jurisdiction, except that all stipulated agreements in docketed cases must be concurred in by division counsels as representatives of the Chief Counsel for the Bureau. (See, as to division counsel, quotation from Commissioner's Mimeograph 4960, paragraph (b) (2) and § 601.57.)

Determinations by the Head of a Staff Field Division of overassessments in excess of $75,000 are subject to review by the office of the Chief Counsel. In the case of claims under section 722 of the Internal Revenue Code for excess profits tax relief the Staff field divisions acquire jurisdiction only of these cases docketed with The Tax Court or in which a statutory notice of disallowance has been issued under section 732 of the Code. (See, as to Excess Profits Tax Council, §§ 600.12 and 600.56.)

The Staff field divisions also handle offers in compromise of liability for income and profits taxes, except where criminal prosecution, court proceedings, or delinquency penalties only are involved. The head of each Staff division has authority to reject any such offer or to recommend that it be accepted by the Commissioner.

(2) Appellate functions. The authority of the Technical Staff in appellate determination of income, profits, estate and gift tax liability is set out in Commissioner's Mimeograph No. 4960, approved by the Secretary, effective September 14, 1939 (Report of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, 1940, page 39), which reads in part as follows:

2. (a) The Head of each Staff Division will exclusively represent the Commissioner in the determination of federal income-, profits-, estate-, and gift-tax liability (whether before or after the issuance of a statutory notice of deficiency) in all cases originating in the office of any Internal Revenue Agent in Charge situated within the territorial jurisdiction of the Division, in which the taxpayers have finally protested the preliminary determination of liability made by that officer, excepting cases in the pre-90-day status in which the Special Agent in Charge has recommended criminal prosecution: Provided, That the Staff Division shall not eliminate the ad valorem fraud or negligence penalty in any case in the so-called 90-day status, or the pre-90-day status, except with the concurrence of the Special Agent in Charge.

(b) The Head of each Staff Division will also have exclusive authority to settle by stipulation (1) all cases docketed by the United States Board of Tax Appeals [now the Tax Court of the United States] and placed upon a calendar for hearing at any place, other than Washington, D. C., within the territory comprising the jurisdiction of the Division, and (2) all cases originating in the office of any Internal Revenue Agent in Charge situated within the territorial jurisdiction of the Division, which are placed on the Washington calendar of said Board of Tax Appeals [Tax Court]: Provided, That he shall not make or approve a stipulation for settlement in any docketed case except with the concurrence of the Division Counsel; and Provided further, That in the absence of the Head and the Assistant Head of the Staff Division, the Technical Advisor in Charge of any local office shall have authority to settle by stipulation any such docketed case, but only with the concurrence of the Division Counsel or of the Assistant Counsel in Charge, in which the deficiency determined in the statutory notice does not exceed $500 and the basis of settlement does not involve an overassessment in excess of $500.

3. (a) The Division Counsel will perform his duties under the general supervision of the Chief Counsel. He will advise the Head of the Staff Division, upon request, upon legal questions arising in the determination of income-, profits-, estate-, and gift-tax liability. He will advise the Head of the Staff Division also with respect to any proposed settlement of a docketed case. He will prepare answers to petitions filed with the Board of Tax Appeals, copies of which will be furnished him by the Chief Counsel, in cases originating in the offices of Internal Revenue Agents in Charge situated within the territorial jurisdiction of the Division; and he will have exclusive authority to represent the Commissioner in the defense before the Board [now The Tax Court of the U. S.] of (1) cases placed upon a calendar for hearing at any place, other than Washington, D. C., within the territorial jurisdiction of the Division, and (2) cases originating in the office of any Internal Revenue Agent in Charge situated within the territorial jurisdiction of the Division which are placed on the Washington calendar of said Board of Tax Appeals [The Tax Court], but he shall not stipulate before the Board [The Tax Court] for the settlement of any case except with the approval of the Head of the Staff Division. The Division counsel will consider all memoranda prepared in the Staff Division directing the issuance of statutory notices of deficiency prior to their approval by the Head of the Division.

(b) In the absence of the Division Counsel and the Assistant Division Counsel, the Assistant Counsel in Charge at any local office will have authority to concur with the Head of the Staff Division or with the Technical Advisor in Charge of that office, in a settlement by stipulation of any docketed case in which the deficiency determined in the statutory notice does not exceed $500 and the basis of settlement does not involve an overassessment in excess of $500.

* * * * *

11. (a) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraphs 2 and 3 hereof, the Head of each Staff Division will have exclusive authority to settle by stipulation, subject to the concurrence of the Division Counsel, all cases docketed by The Tax Court of the United States which originated in the office of any Internal Revenue Agent in Charge situated within the territorial jurisdiction of such Division, which may be placed upon a calendar of said Court for hearing at a place within the territorial jurisdiction of any Staff Division adjoining such Division; and the Division Counsel for such Division will have exclusive authority to represent the Commissioner in the defense of such cases before the said Court, subject to the conditions contained in paragraph 3 hereof with respect to the approval of stipulations for settlement by the Head of the Division.

(b) Notwithstanding any of the foregoing provisions, should the Commissioner determine that it would better serve the interests of the Government, he may, as to any case docketed before The Tax Court of the United States, confer all or any part of the jurisdiction, authority and duties specified in paragraph 2 hereof upon the Head of the Staff Division within which the place of hearing is located; Provided, That such jurisdiction, authority and duties shall not be conferred upon the Head, Atlantic Division, in a docketed case set for hearing at Washington, D. C., or at any point within a radius of fifty miles of Washington, D. C., which did not originate within the Atlantic Division, unless the taxpayer's domicile is then situated within that Division.

(c) Notwithstanding any of the foregoing provisions, the Chief Counsel, in his discretion, as to any case docketed before The Tax Court of the United States, may confer all or any part of the jurisdiction, authority and duties specified in paragraph 3 hereof upon the Division Counsel of the Staff Division within which the case has been set for hearing.

12. Notwithstanding any of the foregoing provisions, should the Commissioner determine that it would better serve the interests of the Government, he may, by order in writing, withdraw any case not docketed before the United States Board of Tax Appeals [now The Tax Court of the United States] from the jurisdiction of any Staff Division, and provide for its disposition under his personal direction. Similarly, should the Commissioner and the Chief Counsel jointly determine that it would better serve the interests of the Government, they may, by order in writing, withdraw any case docketed before the Board of Tax Appeals [The Tax Court] from the jurisdiction of any Staff Division, and provide for its disposition under their joint direction. A copy of each order issued under the provisions of this paragraph will be promptly furnished to the Secretary, with a statement of the reasons for the action taken.

(c) Offers in compromise: The authority of the heads of field divisions of the Technical Staff to pass upon taxpayers' offers in compromise of tax liability is set out in Commissioner's Mimeograph No. 4955, approved September 6, 1939, which reads in part as follows:

1. Except as provided in paragraphs 2 and 3 [cases involving criminal prosecution, court proceedings, or delinquency penalties only] the heads of the field divisions of the Technical Staff will represent the Commissioner in the consideration of offers in compromise of liability in income- and profits-tax cases, in unjust-enrichment-tax cases, and in cases arising under the Vinson Act and the Vinson Act as amended, including offers applying partly to taxes of these classes and partly to taxes of other classes which are based entirely upon inability to pay.

* * * * *

14. (a) The head of each field division of the Technical Staff is hereby authorized and empowered finally to reject in the name of the Commissioner any offer in compromise referred for his consideration. He may not, however, reject an offer in any case in which rejection has not been recommended by the collector without calling upon that officer for a statement of his views and affording him an opportunity to be heard with respect to the proposed rejection. In any instance in which he concludes a pending offer to be unacceptable, the head of the field division will place in the files of the case a memorandum prepared by the technical adviser to whom the case was assigned and approved by himself, setting forth fully the reasons for rejection.

* * * * *

The Head of a field division does not have authority to act for the Commissioner and the Secretary in the final acceptance of an offer in compromise. In such case the Division Head forwards the case to Technical Staff headquarters in Washington with his recommendation.

(b) Appeals Division. Substantially all the legal personnel of the Appeals Division is decentralized, the Head and Assistant Heads of the Division and the Appellate Court and Brief Review Section remaining in Washington. There is assigned to each of the ten field divisions of the Technical Staff a Division Counsel (and his legal assistants) comprising the decentralized Appeals Division in the field. (See § 600.53.)

The Counsel for each Staff Division is legal advisor for the Staff Division and has exclusive authority to represent the Commissioner in the defense before the Tax Court of cases scheduled for hearing within the territorial jurisdiction, or there arising and placed on the Washington Calendar of the Court. Stipulations, answers, motions, or other pleadings are forwarded to the Chief Counsel's Office for filing with The Tax Court of the United States. In general, no review of such pleadings is made in Washington.

Jurisdictional and other motions, which under the Court's Rules of Practice are argued before the Court in Washington, are prepared by the attorneys in the field offices and are transmitted to Washington. These motions are generally argued by the attorney in Washington in charge of the Calendar.

All briefs prepared by the attorneys in the field offices are reviewed in Washington. In each case in which a petition for review of a Tax Court decision is filed by the taxpayer, the particular decentralized division is notified and the case is transferred to the Appellate Court Group in Washington. In each case in which the decision of the Tax Court is adverse to the Commissioner, in whole or in part, the particular decentralized division prepares a recommendation with reference to appeal, which recommendation is forwarded to the Washington office for review and approval. If approved for appeal, the case is assigned to the Appellate Court Group to take such steps, working with the Department of Justice, as the case may require. If no appeal is taken by either party, the case is closed in the Chief Counsel's Office.

(c) Penal Division. The Penal Division has been partially decentralized, with plans made to extend the field organization. There are now three regional offices, each in charge of a Regional Counsel. Region 1 covers the first, second, and third Judicial Circuits, with the regional office located in New York City. District offices for this region are located in Boston and Philadelphia. Region 2 covers the sixth and seventh Judicial Circuits, with the regional office located in Chicago. Region 3 covers the ninth Judicial Circuit, with the regional office located in San Francisco.

The Regional Counsel acts for the Chief Counsel in the field. He considers and prepares cases referred to him by the Special Agent in Charge of the Intelligence Unit in that area which involve criminal prosecutions for tax violations in accordance with the functions of the Penal Division (see § 600.11 (b) (2) (viii)).

(d) Chief Counsel's representatives. The Chief Counsel has representatives in the field generally designated as "Special Assistants to the Chief Counsel." At the present time there is one such representative in each of the cities of Chicago, Seattle, and St. Paul, two in Los Angeles, and three in New York. These attorneys render legal assistance, upon request, primarily to the collectors, and to a lesser extent to the internal revenue agents in charge, in the cities mentioned above in which they are located. They represent the Chief Counsel in negotiations for the settlement of cases within the jurisdiction of the Civil Division (§ 600.11 (b) (2) (iv)) and Claims Division (§ 600.11 (b) (2) (v)). These attorneys, except those in New York, pursuant to agreement between the Department of Justice and the Chief Counsel's Office, also render special service to the United States district attorneys.

§ 600.58 Field organization of the Miscellaneous Tax Unit—(a) General. The field organization of the Miscellaneous Tax Unit consists of offices of Internal Revenue Agents in Charge, the locations and territorial jurisdiction of which are as follows:

§ 601.1 General procedure—(a) Introductory. The general function of the Bureau of Internal Revenue is collection of internal revenue taxes. Certain other miscellaneous functions are described below in §§ 601.8 and 601.13. Generally, the taxes collected currently are imposed by, and the procedures of the Internal Revenue Bureau are based on the Internal Revenue Code, hereinafter sometimes referred to as the Code. As to rules and rule making see § 601.13.

(b) Classification of taxes collected by the Bureau. Internal revenue taxes fall generally into the following principal divisions:

(1) Taxes collected by assessment;

(2) Taxes collected by means of revenue stamps.

Taxes in division (2) may in special circumstances be collected by assessment, but references hereinafter to the assessment process do not contemplate taxes ordinarily collectible by means of stamps, except as specially stated. Taxes collectible by assessment may be collected by suit without assessment, but this is practically never done.

Taxes collected principally by assessment fall into the following two main classes:

(i) Taxes within the jurisdiction of The Tax Court of the United States. These include—

(a) Income and excess profits taxes,

(b) Estate taxes,

(c) The gift tax;

(ii) Taxes not within the jurisdiction of The Tax Court of the United States. These include—

(a) Employment taxes,

(b) Various sales taxes collected by assessment, and

(c) Miscellaneous excise taxes collected by assessment.

The difference between these two main classes is that only taxes in class (i), i. e., those within the jurisdiction of The Tax Court may be contested before an independent tribunal prior to payment. Taxes of both classes may be contested by first making payment and then bringing suit to recover. As to other means of contesting disputed tax liability, see paragraph (d) of this section.

(c) Collection procedure—(1) Returns. In regular course an internal revenue tax assessment is based upon a return required by law to be filed by the taxpayer upon which he himself computes the tax in the manner indicated by the return. Forms for the making of returns are prescribed and supplied by the Bureau. Forms are obtainable at the principal and branch offices of collectors of internal revenue. Collectors commonly mail forms to persons whom the collectors have reason to believe may be subject to tax, but failure to receive a form from the collector does not serve to excuse failure to comply with the legal duty to make a required return. Supplemental returns or statements and the time for filing them may sometimes be prescribed by regulations issued under authority of law by the Commissioner with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury. They may, in some circumstances, be required by the Commissioner of his own volition. See sections 54, 3603, 3604, and 3611 of the Code.

The time for filing returns is generally fixed by law. The time varies in the case of particular taxes. See sections hereinafter dealing specially with particular taxes. While the time for filing the returns is generally prescribed by law, statutory authority to extend the time for a limited period is commonly granted to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue or to the collector. The Commissioner's authority in such regard is commonly delegated to the collectors. Generally, a return is required to be filed with the collector of internal revenue in which the taxpayer's principal office, or if he has none, his residence, is located.

(2) Enforcement procedure. If a taxpayer fails to make a return it may be made by the Commissioner or by the collector or deputy collector. Section 3612 of the Code. The return is either audited by the collector by whom it is received, or forwarded by him to another branch of the internal revenue service for audit. Authority to examine books and papers is conferred by law. Sections 3614 and 3615 of the Code. Revenue officers visit taxpayers at their places of business to make examinations to determine the accuracy of returns or whether all required returns have been made. Section 3792 of the Code authorizes the Commissioner, with the approval of the Secretary, to make payments for detecting and bringing to trial and punishment persons guilty of violating the internal revenue laws. Under this section rewards to informers are made. See Treasury Decision 5379, Internal Revenue Cumulative Bulletin, 1944, page 479, 26 CFR, 1944 Supp., Part 455. Claims for rewards should be made on Form 211. Relevant facts should be stated on the form, which after execution should be forwarded to the Chief Counsel for the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

If any person neglects or refuses to pay a tax for which he is liable, it is lawful for the collector or his deputy to make collection by distraint on his property. Section 3690 of the Code. Except where liability is before The Tax Court, no suit for the purpose of restraining collection of internal revenue tax may be made. Section 3653 of the Code. Property taken under authority of any revenue law of the United States is irrepleviable. United States Revised Statutes, section 934; United States Code, Title 25, 747. The United States' claim for taxes is a lien on the taxpayer's property. Such lien is not valid as against any mortgagee, pledgee, purchaser, or judgment creditor until notice has been filed by the collector. Despite such filing, the lien is not valid with respect to certain securities as against any mortgagee, pledgee or purchaser, of such security, for an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth, who is without notice or knowledge of the existence of such lien. A valid lien, generally, continues until the liability is satisfied or becomes unenforceable by reason of lapse of time. A certificate of release of lien may be issued upon the taxpayer furnishing proper bond in lieu of the lien, or when the liability is satisfied or becomes unenforceable by reason of lapse of time. See, generally, Chapter 36, Subchapter B, of the Code.

(3) Penalties—(i) Imposition. In case of failure to file a return within the prescribed time, a certain percentage of the amount of the tax is, pursuant to statute, added to the tax unless the return is later filed and failure to file the return within the prescribed time is shown to the satisfaction of the Commissioner to be due reasonable cause and not to willful neglect. The amount to be added to the tax is 5 percent if the failure is for not more than 30 days, with an additional 5 percent for each additional 30 days or fraction thereof during which failure continues, not to exceed 25 percent in the aggregate. If a false or fraudulent return is willfully made, the penalty is 50 percent of the total tax due for the entire period involved, including any tax previously paid. Section 3612 (d) of the Code. Other severe ad valorem (not percentage) penalties are imposed for willful failure to pay, collect, or truthfully account for and pay over tax, attempting to evade or defeat tax or the payment thereof, or make returns, keep records, supply information, etc. See sections 3601, 3604, and 3116 of the Code.

(ii) Mitigation of penalties. The severity of the ad valorem penalties may be mitigated through exercise of the compromise authority (see paragraph (d) (3)). Only in very exceptional cases is there any compromise of the percentage penalties.

(d) Disputed liability—(1) General. Except as to taxes within the jurisdiction of The Tax Court the taxpayer may, after an assessment has been made, file a claim in abatement. Section 3770 of the Code. Form 843 is used in executing the claim and may be obtained from the collector. The claim is filed with the collector. Filing of an abatement claim does not stop the application of the 5 percent penalty nor interest which, by section 3655 (b) of the Code, is imposed for delinquent payment, if the claim is rejected. The collector may demand a bond to insure against possible failure of collection due to postponement of collection while the claim is under consideration.

After payment of the tax a taxpayer may contest the assessment by filing a claim for refund of all or any part of the amount paid. A claim for refund is made on Form 843, which is obtainable from the collector. A claim once filed may not be amended after the period allowed for filing the claim unless the Commissioner fails to consider it within that period. If the claim is allowed, an appropriate notice of allowance with a check for the amount of the refund and allowable interest is forwarded to the collector of internal revenue. The collector forwards the check to the taxpayer, unless he finds that there are other unpaid taxes outstanding against the taxpayer, in which event, delivery of the refund check to the taxpayer is held in abeyance pending payment of the unpaid taxes. If the claim is rejected, the taxpayer is notified of the rejection by registered mail, and he may then bring suit in the United States District Court or the Court of Claims for recovery of the tax. Such suits must be filed within two years from the date of the rejection notice. Suit without limitation as to amount may be brought in the District Court against the collector of internal revenue or in the Court of Claims against the United States. Suit may be brought in the District Court sitting as a Court of Claims against the United States for not more than $10,000, except that there is no limitation as to the amount where the collector to whom the tax was paid is dead or out of office as collector. The suit may not be begun before the expiration of six months from the date of filing of the claim unless the Commissioner renders a decision thereon within that time, nor after the expiration of two years from the date of mailing by registered mail by the Commissioner to the taxpayer of a notice of the disallowance of the part of the claim to which the suit refers. Section 3772 of the Code.

(2) Closing agreements. The Commissioner is authorized to enter into a written agreement with a taxpayer in order to make conclusive the determination of tax liability for a preceding taxable period (Form 866), or the determination of one or more separate items affecting the tax liability of the taxpayer for any taxable period (Form 906). Such an agreement, called a "closing agreement", is provided for in section 3760 of the Code. Form 866 is used primarily for income and profits taxes, although it is sometimes also availed of with respect to estate and gift taxes. The use of Form 906 is confined almost entirely to income and profits taxes. The Commissioner has not authorized any field or other officers to enter into such agreements, although officers receiving taxpayers' requests for such agreements are authorized to make recommendations as to acceptance thereof.

When Form 866 is used for a closing agreement, the agreement clears through the Special Deputy Commissioner. (See § 600.2 (a).) After approval by the Special Deputy Commissioner, the proposed agreement is forwarded to the Commissioner and the Chief Counsel (see § 600.11 (b) (2) (i) for approval and then to the Secretary's Office for final approval.

Closing agreements on Form 906 are prepared (after request by the taxpayer) in the Income Tax Unit and considered by the Closing Agreement Committee, composed of representatives of the Chief Counsel's Office and of the Income Tax Unit. The proposed agreement is then referred to the Chief Counsel who recommends to the Commissioner whether it should be executed. The Commissioner informs the taxpayer by letter whether he will approve the proposed agreement, and, if he will approve, encloses the agreement for the taxpayer's signature. Upon return of the agreement signed by the taxpayer, it is routed for approval of the Commissioner and Chief Counsel (see § 600.11 (b) (2) (vi)) and then transmitted to the Secretary's Office for final approval.

Except as otherwise expressly provided by statute, as, for example, in sections 3801, 3806, and 3807 of the Code, where a closing agreement is approved by the Secretary, Under Secretary, or an Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, it is final and conclusive and the case may not be reopened or modified or set aside except upon a showing of fraud of malfeasance, or misrepresentation of a material fact.

Another type of agreement as to the extent of liability for internal revenue tax may be made by the taxpayer and the internal revenue agent. This is concluded by the taxpayer's consent to assessment and collection of the deficiency in tax agreed upon. For this purpose Form 870 is used for the income tax (see § 601.2) and Forms 890 and 890A are used for the estate and gift taxes, respectively (see § 601.4 (c)). While this procedure is not common in the case of miscellaneous excise and sales taxes, where so used Form 870 may be altered for the purpose. The agreement referred to in this paragraph may be submitted by the taxpayer conditioned upon the approval of a final closing agreement.

(3) Compromises. Under section 3761 of the Internal Revenue Code the Commissioner, with the approval of the Secretary, the Under Secretary, or an Assistant Secretary, may compromise any civil or criminal case arising under the internal revenue laws prior to reference to the Department of Justice for prosecution or defense. Instructions as to the preparation and filing of an offer in compromise may be secured from the appropriate collector of internal revenue. Offers in compromise are submitted on Form 656 (Form 6560 in case of installment offers) to the offices of collectors of internal revenue. In addition, the taxpayer must submit a financial statement on Form 433 with the offer. Such offers are channeled to the Bureau office, etc., handling the case (such as, the Technical Staff, the Income or Miscellaneous Tax Unit, or one of the divisions of the Chief Counsel's Office, as the case may be). When a case is covered by the report of a revenue agent or has been referred to the United States attorney, or where both such situations exist, the collector will procure from either such agent or such United States attorney, or both, as the case may be, statements in regard to the advisability of accepting the offer and will forward the originals of such statements with the offer.

After an offer of compromise has been approved by the head of the unit, office, etc., it is considered in the Office of the Special Deputy Commissioner (see § 600.2 (a)). Taxpayers may request conferences in the Office of the Special Deputy Commissioner for the purpose of exploring the possibilities of compromising unpaid Federal tax liability before filing a formal offer in compromise or they may request conferences after all investigations have been made for the purpose of determining the amount which may be acceptable as a compromise, if it is determined that there is a compromisable case. If a compromise is approved by the Special Deputy Commissioner, the Commissioner, and the Chief Counsel, it is forwarded to the Secretary's Office for final approval. When the offer is acted upon, the collector is notified, and the collector in turn notifies the proponent. If the offer is rejected, the sum submitted to the collector is returned to the proponent and forfeiture, prosecution, or collection proceedings are resumed. If the offer is accepted the case is closed. Acceptance of an offer in compromise of civil liabilities does not remit criminal liabilities, nor does acceptance of an offer in compromise of criminal liabilities remit civil liabilities.

(4) Conferences. The Bureau has a liberal policy relative to discussion of disputed tax liability. Opportunity for conference is generally accorded either in the office of the collector or one of the other Bureau offices. Application for such a hearing should be made in person, or preferably by letter. The rules governing conferences are set forth in "Conference and Practice Requirements, Bureau of Internal Revenue, Revised February, 1942.", published in the Internal Revenue Bulletin, 1942-1, page 384. As to conference practice relative to taxes within the jurisdiction of The Tax Court, see sections dealing specially with such taxes.

(5) Rulings. Rulings are made on prospective transactions only where the law or regulations provide for a determination by the Commissioner of the effect of a proposed transaction for tax purposes, as in the case of a transfer under the provisions of sections 1250 to 1253 of the Internal Revenue Code, or an exchange under the provisions of section 112 (i) of the Internal Revenue Code, or in connection with the execution of a closing agreement under the provisions of section 3760 of the Internal Revenue Code with respect to a taxable period ending subsequent to the date of the agreement. The established policy of the Bureau is not to comply with requests for rulings on prospective transactions, except in the instances hereinabove provided.

A request received from a taxpayer or his representative for a ruling on a question involving an issue in a return or returns filed for a year or years with respect to which the period of limitation on assessment or refund of income or excess-profits taxes has not expired is referred to the internal revenue agent in charge having jurisdiction of the return or returns, for appropriate action on the request and consideration in connection with the examination of such return or returns. It is not intended, however, in such cases to prevent the internal revenue agent in charge from seeking advice or information from Washington before taking action.

The established policy is to give advice upon request of taxpayers or their representatives on questions relating to the character and extent of tax liabilities resulting from consummated transactions affecting a return to be filed, under the following circumstances:

(i) The complete facts relative to the transaction, together with a copy of each contract, or other document, necessary to present the question are given.

(ii) The names of all the real parties interested are stated regardless of who presents the question, whether an interested party, attorney, accountant, or other representative.

(iii) The request is signed by the taxpayer, or in case he is represented by an attorney or agent, the request is accompanied by properly executed power of attorney.

A copy of a letter addressed to a taxpayer is not furnished to his attorney or agent unless the Bureau is specifically authorized to do so by the taxpayer.

As to rules issued for the guidance of the general public, see § 601.13.

(e) Legal review. Many matters are referred to the Office of the Chief Counsel for legal review or advice before final action. It is the function of the Office of the Chief Counsel to furnish legal advice to the administrative units of the Bureau and to handle the legal aspects of all matters pertaining to the assessment and collection of Federal taxes. The Office of the Chief Counsel reviews cases involving, and makes recommendations relative to, the imposition of penalties and institution of criminal procedures for fraud and violations of tax laws. The Chief Counsel's Office also reviews claims for refund, credit, or abatement of taxes proposed for allowance in all cases in which the amount involved exceeds $75,000; reviews and makes recommendations relative to the acceptance of offers in compromise and the entering into of closing agreements; and supervises the collection of taxes from individuals and corporations involved in reorganization, bankruptcy, receivership, and other insolvency or liquidation proceedings, and from decedents' estates.

(f) Description of forms. The forms of special application in connection with particular taxes are covered in the sections specially devoted to those taxes. A few of the forms used in procedures of the Bureau which are of general application are as follows:

Form 211. Claim for reward for information on leading to the detection and punishment of persons guilty of violating the internal revenue laws. See paragraph (c) (2).

Form 433. Statement of financial condition and other information. Required to be submitted by proponents when tendering offers in compromise in lieu of liabilities in certain cases.

Form 656. Offer in compromise and collector's recommendation. This form is to be used by taxpayers in all cases except offers submitted on installment basis in submitting offers in compromise of liability incurred because of violation of law. The reverse side of the form is to be filled in by the collector, giving a brief history of the case and his recommendation as to the acceptance or rejection of the offer.

Form 656-C. Offer in compromise (deferred installment payments). This form is used where amount tendered as offer in compromise is to be paid by deferred payment or payments.

Form 843. Claim for abatement, or refund. Claim for the abatement of taxes erroneously or illegally assessed; claim for refund of taxes erroneously or illegally collected; and claim for the refund of amounts paid for stamps used in error or excess, will be made upon this form.

Form 866. Agreement to final determination and assessment of tax. This form provides for an agreement between the taxpayer and the Commissioner that determination and assessment of tax shall be final and conclusive.

Form 900. Tax collection waiver. This form is used to extend the statutory period within which to collect outstanding assessments by agreement between the taxpayer and the Commissioner.

Form 906. Closing agreement as to final determination covering specific matters. This form is used by a taxpayer for a closing agreement as to final determination covering specific matters in pursuance of section 3760, Internal Revenue Code.

Form 907. Agreement to suspend running of statute of limitations. This form is used by a taxpayer to enter into an agreement with the Commissioner to suspend running of statute of limitations for filing suit for recovery of taxes overpaid until a final decision of similar cases before the courts is rendered.

Form 927. Proof of worthlessness of mineral rights. Questionnaire to be filed by all persons asserting a value or absence of value of oil and gas rights in land at any specific date, whether for income tax, estate tax, or gift tax purposes. The schedules call for descriptive data, development statistics, and a map. A separate form must be filed for each property.

Form 1131. Bond for release of Federal tax lien. To be used where a taxpayer desires to have a tax lien removed under the provisions of section 3673 (b), Internal Revenue Code, and where the tax liability has not been satisfied.

Form 1171. Statement relative to fees to be filed with power of attorney.

§ 601.2 Income and excess profits taxes—(a) General. Individual and corporation income taxes are imposed by chapter 1 of the Internal Revenue Code. Additional income taxes are imposed under chapter 2 of the Code as follows: subchapter A—personal holding companies; subchapter C—excess profits on Navy contracts; subchapter D—unjust enrichment. Subchapter B of chapter 2, imposing the declared value excess profits tax, was repealed by section 202 of the Revenue Act of 1945, effective with respect to income tax taxable years ending after June 30, 1946. Subchapter E of chapter 2, imposing the wartime excess profits tax, was made inapplicable by section 122 of the Revenue Act of 1945 to any taxable year beginning after December 31, 1945, except for the purpose of computing certain "carry-backs" applicable to the determination of taxes imposed by such subchapter for taxable years beginning before January 1, 1946.

Current rules bearing upon the functioning of the Bureau, the forms used, etc., in connection with the above taxes are contained in the following regulations promulgated by the Commissioner, with the approval of the Secretary:

Regulations 111 (26 CFR, Cum. Supp., Part 29), as amended (26 CFR, 1943 Supp., 1944 Supp., 1945 Supp., Part 29; T. D. 5488, 11 F. R. 65; T. D. 5497, 11 F. R. 2160; T. D. 5498, 11 F. R. 2161; T. (b) Tax collection—(1) General. Income and profits taxes are collected by means of returns, in the case of corporations, estates and trusts, and by means of returns, declarations of estimated tax, and withholding at the source, in the case of individuals. Returns and other forms especially applicable to income and profits taxes are described in paragraph (g) of this section.

(2) Withholding at the source on wages. In the case of wage earners, the tax is collected in large part through the withholding by employers of taxes on wages paid to their employees. If income is solely from wages, the withholding tax rates are such that approximately the entire tax liability is withheld on wages up to $5,000 annually. The tax withheld by the employer is required to be paid quarterly to the collector of internal revenue or may be deposited monthly in a depositary bank authorized by the Secretary of the Treasury to receive such deposits. The tax withheld at the source on wages is applied in payment of the individual's income tax liability for the taxable year.

(3) Declarations of estimated tax. Declarations of estimated tax are required of every individual whose gross income for the taxable year from all sources or from wages only is expected to exceed a specified amount. Under existing law, a declaration is required if the expected gross income from wages exceeds $5,000 plus $500 for each surtax exemption except his own, or expected gross income from sources other than wages exceeds $160 and expected total gross income exceeds $500. The time for filing declarations is determined by reference to the time during the taxable year when the facts and circumstances first become such as to indicate that the expected gross income for the taxable year will meet the requirements of the statute. In the case of a calendar year taxpayer, the filing dates prescribed are March 15, June 15, September 15 of the calendar year and January 15 of the succeeding year. If a declaration of estimated tax has been filed, an amended declaration may be filed on any of the specified dates. In the case of a taxpayer who makes his return on a fiscal year basis, the filing dates for declarations of estimated tax will be the 15th day of the last month of the first, second, and third quarters of his fiscal year and the 15th day of the first month of his next fiscal year. The estimated tax may be paid in full with the declaration or in as many equal installments as there are quarters remaining in the taxable year beginning with the quarter in which the declaration is filed. The installment dates are the same as the dates prescribed for the filing of declarations or amended declarations and the first installment must accompany the declaration. If an amended declaration is filed, the remaining installments of estimated tax are adjusted accordingly. Payments of estimated tax are applied in payment of the tax for the taxable year. A husband and wife may make a single declaration jointly and the amount of the estimated tax paid may be applied in payment of the income tax liability of either spouse in any proportion they may specify.

(4) Individual returns. Every individual having for the taxable year a gross income in excess of $500 is required to make a return setting forth the information necessary to determine the tax liability and, except in the case of certain wage earners, the amount of such tax liability. The balance of the tax, if any, after deducting any estimated tax payments and tax withheld at the source is payable on or before the 15th day of the third month following the close of the taxable year. In the case of wage earners whose gross income is less than $5,000 and consists entirely of wages subject to withholding plus dividends and interest of not more than $100, the withholding tax receipt may be used as a return, in which event the collector computes the tax and mails to the taxpayer a notice and demand for payment. A husband and wife may make a single return jointly.

(5) Corporation returns. A corporation income tax return is required to be filed with the collector by every corporation taxable under chapter 1 of the Code. Certain corporations may file consolidated returns under section 141 of the Code and the applicable regulations (see paragraph (a) of this section). Corporation returns should be filed on or before the 15th day of the third month following the close of the taxable year and the tax is required to be paid on or before the 15th day of such third month unless the taxpayer elects to pay the tax in four equal installments, in which event the first installment shall be paid on the 15th day of such third month and the remaining installments on the 15th day of the sixth, ninth, and twelfth months following the close of the taxable year.

(6) Returns for estates and trusts. A return is required for every estate having a gross income for the taxable year of $500 or more and for every trust having a gross income of $500 or more or a net income of $100 or more. The return in such case must be filed by the fiduciary acting for the estate or trust on or before the 15th day of the third month following the close of the taxable year and the tax is required to be paid on such date. The fiduciary may, however, elect to pay the tax in four equal installments in which event the first installment shall be paid on the 15th day of such third month and the remaining installments on the 15th day of the sixth, ninth, and twelfth months following the close of the taxable year.

(7) Extensions of time. Under certain circumstances, the Commissioner is authorized to grant a reasonable extension of time for filing an income tax return or a declaration of estimated tax. This authority has been delegated to the several collectors. The total period for extensions with respect to a return or declaration in the case of a taxpayer cannot be in excess of six months, except in the case of taxpayers who are abroad. Written application for extension must be received by the collector on or before the date prescribed by law for filing the return or declaration, as the case may be. Generally, in the case of corporations, one-fourth of an estimated tax on a tentative return must be paid on or before the date prescribed by law for filing the return as a condition precedent to the granting of an extension of time for filing the return. An extension of time for filing the declaration of estimated tax automatically extends the time for paying the estimated tax (without interest) for the same period.

(c) Examination of returns and determination of correct liability—(1) General. Section 57 of the Code provides that as soon as practicable after the tax return is filed the Commissioner shall examine it and shall determine the correct amount of tax. Authorization is contained in section 3614 of the Internal Revenue Code for the Commissioner, by any officer or employee of the Bureau, including the field service, designated by him, to examine any books, papers, records, or memoranda bearing upon the matters required to be included in Federal tax returns and to take testimony relative thereto and to administer oaths.

A preliminary examination is first made of income tax returns in the collectors' offices for mathematical errors. A correction notice of any such mathematical error is sent to the taxpayer. Demand is made for any deficiency so resulting, or credit or refund is made of any overpayment of $1,000 or less. If the overpayment exceeds $1,000, the return is referred to the Washington office.

Individual returns on Form W–2 (the withholding tax receipt) are retained for audit in the collector's office. Collectors also retain for audit individual returns on Form 1040 reporting adjusted gross income under $7,000 and total receipts from business under $25,000. All other individual returns and all corporation returns are sent to Washington where they are examined and classified and referred to the appropriate field divisions for consideration.

Field audits and investigations are made by internal revenue agents, under the supervision of the internal revenue agent in charge (see § 600.52), in the case of income tax returns of individuals (except those audited by collectors) and corporate income and profits tax returns.

When any adjustment in a return filed by a taxpayer is proposed as a result of an investigation (or a claim for refund or credit filed by a taxpayer is to be disallowed in whole or in part as a result of an investigation), the internal revenue agent in charge issues to the taxpayer a preliminary (30-day) letter, and (except in fraud cases) furnishes the taxpayer a copy of the report of the examining officer showing the adjustments proposed. Where the circumstances permit, the taxpayer is usually accorded 30 days in which to protest in writing any action proposed in the case with which he is in disagreement, and is afforded an opportunity to file a brief and supporting evidence to sustain the protest, and an opportunity for an oral hearing before a representative of the Conference Division of the field office if he desires. No particular form of protest has been prescribed but it is required to be made under oath and must set forth all issues raised by the taxpayer. If an agreement is reached in the case, the necessary forms are executed consenting to the immediate assessment and collection of any deficiency in taxes involved as well as consenting to any overassessment (refund) that may be agreed upon. These conferences are held in accordance with provisions of the published Conference and Practice Requirements, Revised February 1942 (C. B. 1942–1, 184). The case record then moves to the appropriate Audit Review Division of the Income Tax Unit in Washington for post-review. (See § 600.4.)

(2) Deficiencies. If a deficiency in tax is involved in a case in which a preliminary notice was sent and no agreement in respect thereof is reached, before the Commissioner is authorized to assess the deficiency he must, under the provisions of section 272 (a) (1) of the Internal Revenue Code, issue to the taxpayer by registered mail a notice of the deficiency. Thereafter, the taxpayer has ninety days after such mailing (or one hundred and fifty days, if the letter was addressed to a person outside the States of the Union and the District of Columbia) not counting Saturday, Sunday, or a legal holiday in the District of Columbia as the last day, to file his petition with the United States Tax Court for a redetermination of the deficiency. Assessment of the deficiency or steps to enforce its collection (except in jeopardy cases falling within the provisions of section 273 of the Internal Revenue Code) are prohibited until the notice of deficiency is mailed and until the expiration of the ninety-day period (or one-hundred-and-fifty-day period, as the case may be) if no petition is filed, or, if such a petition is filed, until the decision of The Tax Court has become final. Statutory notices of deficiency under authority delegated by the Commissioner are issued by internal revenue agents in charge.

If the taxpayer indicates his agreement to a deficiency by submitting a waiver notice consenting to the assessment and collection of the amount due, together with interest, or by making payment direct to the collector, either before or after the mailing of the statutory notice, the internal revenue agent in charge will transmit the case to the appropriate collector who will list the tax and interest, if any, for assessment.

Under established procedure, before the issuance of a statutory notice of deficiency by the internal revenue agent in charge, the taxpayer may request transfer of the case to a field division of the Technical Staff for its consideration. A request may be submitted for such a transfer while the case is in the ninety-day status if the request is not made prior to issuance of the statutory notice. When such a case is referred to the Staff division, the internal revenue agent in charge thereafter takes such action thereon as the Staff may direct. As to the Staff division procedure, see § 601.3.

(d) Claims for credit or refund. In the event of overpayment of income or profits taxes, the taxpayer may file a claim for credit or refund with the collector. Generally, claim for refund or credit should be filed on Form 543 (see § 601.1 (f)), within three years from the time the return was filed or within two years from the time the tax was paid, whichever period expires the later. Special procedure is provided with respect to overpayment occasioned by deductions for bad debts and worthless securities (section 332 (b) (5) of the Code), by net operating loss and unused excess profits credit carry-backs (section 322 (b) (6) and (g)), and by amortization deductions (section 124). In the case of individuals, a properly executed return may, if the taxpayer so elects, operate as a claim for credit or refund of the amount of the overpayment disclosed by such return. If the taxpayer elects to use the withholding receipt as a return, such return operates automatically as a claim for refund for the amount of the overpayment shown by the collector's computation of the tax on the basis of the return.

The procedure in connection with claims for credit or refund is similar to the procedure in the determination of a deficiency (see paragraph (c) (2) of this section). Such claims are investigated and considered under the supervision of the internal revenue agents in charge. The taxpayer may have a hearing with a representative of the agent in charge, and, if agreement is not reached, may request review by a Staff division of the action proposed by the agent in charge. As to Staff division procedure, see § 601.3. If a credit or refund is allowed, a certificate of overassessment is issued by the Commissioner. In the event of the disallowance in whole or in part of a claim for refund, the Commissioner notifies the taxpayer of his decision by registered mail (section 3772 (a) (2) of the Code). Such notices are issued in the central office of the Income Tax Unit of the Bureau.

As to suits for credit or refund and compromises and closing agreements with respect to disputed liability, see § 601.1 (d) of this section.

A special procedure is applicable to claims for excess profits tax relief (including credit or refund) under section 722 of the Code. See section 732 of the Code for provisions respecting the issuance of registered notices of disallowances of claims for relief filed under section 722. These notices are under authority delegated by the Commissioner issued by internal revenue agents in charge. Action proposed by an internal revenue agent in charge on the claim of a taxpayer for relief under section 722 of the Internal Revenue Code is reviewable by the Excess Profits Tax Council, Bureau of Internal Revenue, Washington, D. C.

There is also a special procedure applicable to applications for tentative adjustment with respect to amortization deductions under section 124 of the Code (see Forms 1046 and 1140 under paragraph (g)) and applications for tentative carry-back adjustments under section 3780 of the Code (see Forms 1045 and 1159 under paragraph (g)).

(e) Rulings. A taxpayer may request rulings from the Bureau as to the application of the income and profits tax laws to the facts of his situation. A request for a ruling upon an issue involved in a return filed for a year with respect to which the period of limitations on assessment or refund has not expired should be addressed to the internal revenue agent in charge having jurisdiction of such return. In other cases, the inquiry may be directed to the Deputy Commissioner, Income Tax Unit, Washington 25, D. C. (I. T. Misc. Coll. No. 4963, C. B. 1939–2, 459). As to authorization of attorneys seeking rulings and the policy of the Bureau generally in making rulings, see § 601.1 (d) (5).

(f) Administrative procedures for collection—(1) Periods of limitation on deficiencies. In general, the statutory period of limitation for assessment of income and profits taxes is three years after the return is filed. Exceptions in certain unusual cases are provided in sections 275 and 276 of the Code. In case of a false or fraudulent return with intent to evade tax or of a failure to file a return no time limitation on assessment or on a proceeding in court for collection applies. As indicated in paragraph (c) of this section, the statutory period is suspended (except in jeopardy cases) for the period during which the Commissioner is prohibited from making the assessment or beginning a proceeding in court (and if a proceeding is placed upon the docket of The Tax Court, until the decision of the Court becomes final), and for sixty days thereafter. An additional period of assessment is provided for transferees and fiduciaries under section 311 of the Code.

The period for assessment of a deficiency may be extended by an agreement (called a waiver, Form 872) entered into by the taxpayer (or transferee or fiduciary) and the Commissioner prior to the expiration of the time otherwise provided for assessment. (See sections 275 (b) and 311 (b) (4), I. R. C.) Such a waiver extends, with respect to the taxpayer, the period for claiming credit or refund for the agreed time of extension of the assessment period plus six months. (Section 322 (b) (3), I. R. C.)

Special rules for mitigation of the effect of statutes of limitations are provided where a determination is made inconsistent with an earlier treatment of an item in the case of the taxpayer, or certain related taxpayers (section 3801 of the Code), or where an adjustment is made in a tax imposed under chapters 1 and 2 of the Code which effects a related tax under such chapters (section 3807 of the Code).

(2) General procedure for enforcement. For general procedure applicable to income and profits taxes with respect to distraint, liens, and penalties, see § 601.1 (c) (2) and (3).

(h) Additional forms applicable generally. For a list and description of additional forms prescribed by the Bureau for use in connection with internal revenue taxes generally, see § 601.1 (f).

§ 601.3 Technical Staff—(a) Appellate functions and procedures in the determination of income, profits, estate or gift tax liability—(1) General. Under existing procedure the Internal Revenue Agent in Charge, or other members of his office advise the taxpayer of his opportunity of appeal from positions taken by that office in a tax matter to the field division of the Technical Staff, and upon the taxpayer's oral or written request to the internal revenue agent in charge the case and its administrative record is thereupon referred to the staff field division. Also a taxpayer, if he so desires may make written request to a Staff field division for consideration of a case remaining unsettled after proceedings had in the office of an internal revenue agent in charge. There are no prescribed forms or procedures to be used or followed in requesting the Staff division to take jurisdiction of such a case. As to organization of the Technical Staff see § 600.5.

(2) No taxpayer is required to submit his case to a Staff division for consideration. Appeal is at the option of the taxpayer. In order, however, to encourage the proper settlement of tax disputes in the offices of the internal revenue agents in charge and to insure the fullest development of the issues in unsettled cases, the submission of disputed liabilities to a Staff division without first filing a petition to The Tax Court of the United States is restricted to taxpayers who have tried in good faith to reach agreements with the internal revenue agents in charge. However, if a taxpayer asks for immediate consideration by a Staff division without prior conference or other proceedings in the office of the internal revenue agent in charge, that official may, in the exercise of his reasonable discretion, grant that request.

(3) Proceedings before the Technical Staff are informal. Testimony under oath is not taken, although matters alleged as fact may be required to be submitted in the form of affidavits. Taxpayers may appear in person or by or with a representative duly enrolled for practice before the Treasury Department and whose appearance must be under a proper power of attorney authorizing him to act for the taxpayer. See paragraph (b). The taxpayer is free to present whatever he desires by way of asserted fact or argument, orally or by brief, in support of his contentions. However, any material matter of fact originally presented to the Staff will be subject, at the option of the Division

Head, to reference to the local internal revenue agent in charge for investigation and report.

(4) The determinations of the Staff are governed by the law applicable to the particular case with which the Staff is dealing. The administrative settlement of disputed tax liabilities comprehends the mutual concession of debatable issues on the part of both the taxpayer and the Government and with each part weighing for itself the litigating possibilities of the case. The Technical Staff endeavors to avoid discrimination between taxpayers in the practical handling of cases. However, its action in disposing of a specific case is not intended to constitute a precedent to be cited or regarded as a stare decisis.

(5) Where the case settled is not one pending before The Tax Court, disposal is by administrative procedure under which the taxpayer consents to the assessment of such, if any, deficiency as has been agreed upon or agrees to accept such, if any, overassessment as may result under the agreed settlement: As an incident to such settlements the taxpayer is ordinarily required to execute an agreement to make prompt payment of the agreed deficiency and statutory interest thereon; not to file any offer in compromise in respect to the agreed tax liability; and, upon request by the Commissioner, to execute at any time a final closing agreement (see § 601.1 (d) (2)) under the provisions of section 3760 of the Internal Revenue Code in respect to the tax liabilities determined under the agreed basis of settlement.

(6) Where the proceedings involve the agreed settlement of a case pending before The Tax Court, disposition is effected by a stipulation of agreed deficiency or overassessment to be filed with The Tax Court and in conformity with which the Court will enter its final order.

(7) Cases not filed with The Tax Court and which remain unsettled after proceedings before the Technical Staff are returned to the internal revenue agent in charge under an Action Memorandum directing, as the tax liabilities determined by the Division Head may disclose as proper, either the issuance of a statutory notice of deficiency, a statutory notice of disallowance of a claim in whole or in part, the preparation of a certificate of overassessment, or other appropriate action.

(8) Cases pending before The Tax Court and unsettled after proceedings had before the Technical Staff are returned to the Division Counsel, see § 600.57 for preparation of defense of such tax liability as the Division Head may have determined as a result of his consideration of the case.

(b) Practice and procedure requirements. Commissioner's Mimeograph 4960, approved by the Secretary, effective October 1, 1939 (Report of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, 1940, page 39), provides in part as follows:

* * * * *

Procedure in Pre-90-Day Cases

(In which statutory notice of deficiency has not issued)

4. Each Staff Division will accord hearings upon protested cases referred to it in accordance with prescribed procedure by the Internal Revenue Agent in Charge situated within the territorial jurisdiction of the Division. It will not, however, consider before the issuance of the statutory notice of deficiency any case in which no protest has been filed with the Internal Revenue Agent in Charge. In any case in which protest has been filed with the Internal Revenue Agent in Charge, it will not be required to consider prior to the issuance of the statutory notice new contentions or new evidence that may be decisive with respect to any major issue, but upon the presentation of much contentions or evidence, may refer the issues involved to the Internal Revenue Agent in Charge for further consideration and for conference with the taxpayer if advisable.

5. When the Head of a Staff Division has reached a final conclusion with respect to any case, he will prepare a memorandum thereof setting forth the exact grounds upon which his conclusion rests. This memorandum will be transmitted with all the papers in the case to the proper internal revenue agent in charge, who will—

(a) Certify a deficiency to the Collector in accordance with Mimeograph 3552 (procurable from collectors);

(b) Issue a statutory notice of deficiency; or

(c) Transmit the case to the Bureau for the preparation of a certificate of overassessment, or other appropriate action.

Jurisdiction After Statutory Notice

6. The Staff Divisions will have complete jurisdiction of all cases after the issuance of the statutory notice. Upon the taxpayer's request, the Head of a Staff Division may take up for settlement any case in which a statutory notice has been issued, and may grant the taxpayer a hearing thereon. Except in unusual circumstances, however, he will not grant a hearing in such a case prior to the filing of the petition if a hearing has been had in the office of the Internal Revenue Agent in Charge, or if the taxpayer has refused an opportunity to be heard there.

7. After the filing of the petition in any case, the Head of the proper Staff Division will continue to have sole authority, subject to the provisions of paragraph 2 above [quoted in § 600.53 (b) (2)], for the settlement of the case, and will have the custody of all files, papers, and documents relating to the case, which will, however, at all times be available to the Division Counsel for the preparation of the answer to the petition and for the defense before the Board [Tax Court] of the Commissioner's determination.

Hearings

8. At any hearing granted by a Staff Division, whether at a local or branch office or on circuit, the Internal Revenue Agent in Charge will be represented if he so desires, or if the Head of the Staff Division, or the Technical Adviser in Charge of a local office, as the case may be, deems it advisable; and at any such hearing on a case involving the ad valorem fraud or negligence penalty, the Special Agent in Charge will be represented if he so desires. Except as may be otherwise directed by the Commissioner, through the head of the Technical Staff, the conduct of hearings and other proceedings by the Staff Division will be in accordance with the procedure customarily followed by the Technical Staff.

* * * * *

In general the practice and conference procedure before the Technical Staff is governed by Treasury Department Circular 230, Federal Register, Vol. 1, page 1413, and the Bureau of Internal Revenue Conference and Practice Requirements (Internal Revenue Bulletin, 1942–1, page 384). In addition to such rules, but not in modification of them, the following rules applicable to practice before the Technical Staff were promulgated February 17, 1942:

Rule I. The Staff conferee shall bear in mind that an exaction by the United States Government, which is not based upon law, statutory or otherwise, is a taking of property without due process of law, in violation of the Fifth Amendment to the United States Constitution. The conferee, in his conclusions of fact or application of the law, shall hew to the law and the recognized standards of legal construction. It shall be the duty of the conferee to determine the correct amount of the tax, with strict impartiality as between the taxpayer and the Government, and without favoritism or discrimination as between taxpayers.

Rule II. Settlement Policy. In recognition of the difference between abstract theory and practical administration, where substantial uncertainties exist either in law or in fact, or both, as to the correct application of the law to the whole record of a controversy, the Staff will give serious consideration to an offer of settlement of the dispute on a basis which fairly reflects the strength or weakness of the opposing views. However, no settlement will be countenanced based upon nuisance value of the case to either party.

Rule III. Conference Policy. Where the Staff conferee, or a majority of the conferees who conducted the hearing in a case, recommended acceptance of the taxpayer's proposal of settlement, or, in the absence of a proposal, recommend action favorable to the taxpayer, and said recommendation is disapproved in whole or in part by a reviewing officer in the Staff Division, the taxpayer shall be so advised by such reviewing officer and upon written request shall be accorded a rehearing before such reviewing officer. The Staff disregards this rule where the interests of the Government would be injured by delay, as for example, a case involving the imminent expiration of the statute of limitations, dissipation of assets, etc.

Rule IV. Where the Head of a Staff field division deems it advisable to secure advice from the Headquarters office of the Staff in Washington, D. C., respecting determination of tax liability in a case, the taxpayer shall be so advised and given an opportunity to transmit his own statement respecting the case along with the request made by the Division Head. The Division Head shall clearly state his own position or recommendation on the question submitted. No conference will be held on the case in Washington. Where the Head, Technical Staff, Washington, D. C., disagrees with the recommendation of the Division Head, and the recommendation of the Division Head was favorable to the taxpayer, then before making reply to the request for advice, the Head or a Coordinator, with full authority to represent the Headquarters office in rendering advice, will proceed to the local office where the case originated and conduct a conference on the case with the taxpayer. Where the recommendation of the Division Head was adverse to the taxpayer, then a conference in the field will be held only in case the Head, Technical Staff, considers it desirable under the circumstances.

Rule V. Any taxpayer who considers that a case pending before the Technical Staff should be handled before the Bureau in Washington, D. C., may so request in a communication addressed to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Washington, D. C., Attention Head, Technical Staff, setting forth in detail the reasons therefor. The request so made will receive prompt consideration, and may be discussed with the Head. The Staff policy in acting upon such requests is that no case will be withdrawn from the jurisdiction of a Staff field division, where adequate technical facilities are available or can be made available, for the determination of the case in such field division. In a case docketed with the Board of Tax Appeals, the joint action of the Chief Counsel for the Bureau of Internal Revenue and the Commissioner is required to withdraw a case from the jurisdiction of a Staff field division.

Rule VI. Where the Division Head or the Technical Adviser in Charge of a local Staff office, as the case may be, deems it advisable, whether or not upon request of the taxpayer, the Internal Revenue Agent in Charge will be requested to be represented at any Staff conference on the case, in which event such representative (or representatives) will be invited and expected to enter into the discussion and oral argument at the conference on an equal footing with the taxpayer.

Rule VII. In order to bring a case before the Technical Staff in pre-statutory notice status, the taxpayer must first file with the Internal Revenue Agent in Charge a written protest setting forth specifically the reasons for his refusal to accept the Agent's preliminary findings. The Agent in Charge may also, in the reasonable exercise of his discretion, require a conference on the case in his office before complying with the taxpayer's request that the case be referred to the Technical Staff.

Rule VIII. A taxpayer cannot withhold evidence from the Internal Revenue Agent in Charge and expect to introduce it for the first time before the Technical Staff, at a conference in pre-statutory notice status, without being subject to having the case returned for reconsideration to the Agent in Charge. Where newly discovered evidence is submitted for the first time to the Staff, in a case pending in pre-statutory notice status, that office, in the reasonable exercise of its discretion, may transmit same to the Internal Revenue Agent in Charge for his consideration and comment.

Rule IX. Where the taxpayer has had the benefit of a conference either before the office of the Internal Revenue Agent in Charge or before the Technical Staff, as the case may be, in the pre-statutory notice status, or where the opportunity for such a conference was accorded but not availed of, there will be no conference granted before the Technical Staff in the 90-day status after the mailing of the statutory notice of deficiency, in the absence of unusual circumstances.

Rule X. In any case docketed before the United States Board of Tax Appeals [now The Tax Court of the United States] on which a conference is being conducted before a Staff conferee, the Division Counsel is privileged to be represented and to participate in the discussion. In cases not docketed before the United States Board of Tax Appeals [Tax Court] on which the conference is being conducted before a Staff conferee, the Division Counsel or his representative may be requested to attend and to give legal advice in the more difficult cases, or on matters of legal or litigating policy.

Rule XI. A taxpayer may request the reopening or resumption of settlement conferences in a docketed case, before the Division Head or the Technical Advisor in Charge of a local Staff office, and whenever such request is granted, the Staff conferee who originally heard the case shall ordinarily be present and participate in any conference thereon.

Rule XII. In cases of exceptional difficulty and complexity, or where serious matters of policy are involved, there may be a conference arranged before a Group of Three to be presided over by the Division Head or the Technical Advisor in Charge; a second member of the Group shall be the Staff conferee to whom the case is assigned; and the third member of the Group may be an attorney of the Chief Counsel's office or any employee of the Bureau of Internal Revenue at large, who is qualified as regards the question presented.

Commissioner's Mimeograph, R.A. 940, T.S. No. 5, approved by the Secretary on October 8, 1938, provides in part as follows:

(1) It will be the policy of the Department not to reopen cases closed as the result of action by a field division of the Technical Staff, unless the disposition involves fraud, malfeasance, concealment or misrepresentation of material fact, or an important mistake in mathematical calculations, and then only by appropriate action through the Head of the Technical Staff. • • •

(c) Offers in compromise. The classes of offers in compromise over which the Technical Staff has jurisdiction (see § 600.53 (c)) are required to be submitted upon a properly executed Treasury Department Form 656 or 656C, attached to which there must be a properly executed Treasury Department Form 433. These forms are available and can be had at the offices of collectors of internal revenue. When executed, the documents are customarily filed with the collector charged with the duty of collecting the tax sought to be compromised. The documents may, however, be submitted to a field division office of the Technical Staff for transmittal to and filing with the appropriate collector.

Offers in compromise are first considered by the collector with whom filed. After examination that officer makes a written recommendation for acceptance or rejection. Under regular administrative procedure the case record is transmitted to the appropriate field division of the Technical Staff. There a conference may be had at the instance of either the taxpayer or the Staff Division.

Within the class of compromise cases under Technical Staff jurisdiction, the Head of each field division is authorized to reject, in the name of the Commissioner, any offer in compromise referred for his consideration. He may not, however, reject any offer in which rejection has not been recommended by the collector without first calling upon that officer for a statement of his views and affording him an opportunity to be heard with respect to the proposed rejection.

If the Head of a Staff division considers an offer to be acceptable, a memorandum recommending acceptance is prepared, submitted to the Division Counsel for approval or adverse comment, and the case is then transmitted to the Technical Staff headquarters office in Washington. At Staff headquarters the recommendation for approval is reviewed, and if considered acceptable it is submitted to the Special Deputy Commissioner (see § 601.2) for his review and submission to the Commissioner.

If the Head of a Staff division decides that an offer in compromise is unacceptable, he promptly notifies the taxpayer of his decision. If, however, the Division Head recommends acceptance, the taxpayer is not notified of such action until the recommendation is accepted by the Commissioner and the Secretary.

§ 601.4 Estate and gift taxes—(a) General. The estate tax is imposed by chapter 3 of the Internal Revenue Code on the transfers of net estates of decedents. The gift tax is imposed by chapter 4 of the Code with respect to transfers of property by gift during the calendar year.

Rules bearing upon the functioning of the Bureau, the forms used, etc., in connection with the estate tax are contained in Regulations 105 (26 CFR, Cum. Supp., Part 81), as amended (26 CFR, 1943 Supp., 1944 Supp., 1945 Supp., Part 81) T. D. 5503, 11 F. R. 3081, T. D. 5512, 11 F. R. 4856, T. D. 5523, 11 F. R. 7505, and in the regulations promulgated pursuant to the Death Duty Convention between the United States and Canada set forth in T. D. 5455 (26 CFR, 1945 Supp., Part 82).

Rules bearing upon the functioning of the Bureau, the forms used, etc., in connection with the gift tax are contained in Regulations 108 (26 CFR, Cum. Supp., Part 86), as amended (26 CFR, 1943 Supp., 1944 Supp., 1945 Supp., Part 86), T. D. 5503, 11 F. R. 3081, T. D. 5524, 11 F R. 7505.

(b) Tax collection—(1) Estate Tax. Estate taxes are collected by means of returns. The estate tax return on Form 706 of every decedent whose gross estate exceeds the applicable specific exemption provided by the Code must be filed in duplicate within 15 months after date of death with the collector of internal revenue. The tax is payable to the collector at the time the return is required to be filed. Upon receipt of the return, the collector will conduct a preliminary examination thereof for mathematical accuracy and proper execution. The tax shown on the return as computed by the executor or administrator, or as corrected and agreed to by him will be listed for assessment. Thereafter the collector will refer one copy of the return to the appropriate field division of the Bureau for examination and determination of the correct tax liability, under the procedure described in paragraph (c).

Under certain circumstances the collector is authorized to grant an extension of time for filing the estate tax return for a period not in excess of 30 days from the due date. Written application therefor must be received by the collector prior to the expiration of the period for which the extension is requested and authorized. For extensions granted by the Commissioner see paragraph (g) of this section. Application for an extension of time for payment of the tax shown on the return must be filed with the collector. Such application will be transmitted to the Bureau at Washington, for the attention of the Deputy Commissioner, Miscellaneous Tax Unit, for disposition.

If it is determined upon the decedent's death that his estate will be subject to the estate tax, the Code requires that written notice be filed for the estate with the collector within 2 months after death or within 2 months after the executor has qualified. Form 704 should be used in the case of a citizen or resident of the United States, and Form 705 in the case of a nonresident not a citizen.

Detailed information as to the return, and all other forms, prescribed for use in connection with the estate tax are contained in the regulations referred to in paragraph (a) of this section. Copies of the regulations, together with copies of all necessary forms and instructions as to their preparation and filing, may be obtained from the collector.

(2) Gift tax. Gift taxes are collected by means of returns. The tax is payable to the collector at the time the return is required to be filed. The gift tax return on Form 709 of any individual who makes a transfer or transfers by gift to any one donee within the calendar year 1940, or any calendar year thereafter, of a total value in excess of the applicable exclusion must be filed with the collector of internal revenue for the district in which the donor has his legal residence. The return must be filed in duplicate on or before the 15th day of March following the close of the calendar year in which gifts were made. Upon receipt of the return, the collector will conduct a preliminary examination thereof for mathematical accuracy and proper execution. The tax shown on the return as computed by the donor, or as corrected and agreed to be the donor, will be listed for assessment.

Upon receipt of the donor's gift tax return in Washington it will be examined and the correct tax determined under the procedure described in paragraph (c) of this section.

Under certain circumstances the collector is authorized to grant an extension of time for filing the gift tax return for a period not in excess of 30 days from the due date. Written application therefor must be received by the collector prior to the expiration of the period for which the extension is requested and authorized.

Every donee or trustee (except exempt charitable, etc., organizations) receiving property by gift from a donor must file an information return or notice, if the value of such gift is in excess of $3,000 (or regardless of value in the case of a gift of a future interest in property).

Detailed information as to the return form, and all other forms, prescribed for use in connection with gift taxes are contained in the regulations referred to in paragraph (a) of this section. Copies of these regulations, together with all necessary forms and instructions as to their preparation and filing, may be obtained from the collector.

(c) Examination of estate and gift tax returns and determination of correct tax liability. The internal revenue agents in charge (see § 600.52) have jurisdiction in the initial determination of estate tax liabilities of decedents' estates.

The examination of gift tax returns is generally made in Washington in the Miscellaneous Tax Unit of the Bureau. If the examination in any such case discloses a deficiency in tax, the Miscellaneous Tax Unit will advise the donor of the proposed deficiency in a preliminary (30-day) letter in which he will be accorded an opportunity to file protest and request a conference in the appropriate field division. If the Miscellaneous Tax Unit determines that an examination should be made by an internal revenue agent in a field division, the return will be referred to the appropriate field office. Accordingly, under the foregoing procedure the donor is privileged to submit a protest against a proposed deficiency and request a hearing in the appropriate field division, whether the examination is conducted in Washington or in the field office.

As soon as practicable after an estate or gift tax return is received by the internal revenue agent in charge of a field division, it will be examined and the amount of the tax determined. If the examination results in the acceptance of the return as filed without change in tax liability, the case will be transmitted to Washington for post audit review in the Miscellaneous Tax Unit, and for issuance of the closing letter to the taxpayer. If, on the other hand, the examination results in a proposed deficiency in tax, and the internal revenue agent making the examination is unable to secure the taxpayer's agreement to the proposed adjustment, a preliminary (30-day) letter advising of the proposed adjustment in tax liability, together with a copy of the nonconfidential report, will be sent to the taxpayer. The taxpayer is accorded the opportunity in such letter to submit a protest and to request a conference in regard to the proposed deficiency.

If the case involves a deficiency and no protest is submitted within the 30-day period, or during an additional period allowed upon the taxpayer's request, the internal revenue agent in charge will close the case and send the taxpayer a statutory (90-day) letter by registered mail as provided by law.

If a protest is filed but the taxpayer declines a conference, the internal revenue agent in charge will reconsider the case in conjunction with the protest and advise the taxpayer of his conclusions. If an agreement is not reached with the taxpayer, the internal revenue agent in charge will ordinarily thereafter issue the statuory (90-day) letter, but he may advise the taxpayer that on request the case will be referred to the appropriate Division of the Technical Staff for hearing. See § 601.3 for Technical Staff procedure.

If a protest is filed and a conference is held, but without agreement, the internal revenue agent in charge will notify the taxpayer of his conclusions, advising him that upon request the case will be referred to the appropriate Staff Division for hearing, but in the absence of such request the statutory (90-day) letter will be mailed at the expiration of a specified period.

In any estate or gift tax case involving an overassessment the taxpayer may, after receiving the preliminary (30-day) letter, file a protest (against determinations reducing the overassessment), in which case the procedure to be followed will be substantially the same as that described above with respect to deficiency cases. The taxpayer will be advised of the conclusions reached after consideration of the protest, and, in the absence of a request to have the case referred to a Staff Division, the internal revenue agent in charge will recommend to the Commissioner the issuance of a certificate of overassessment. If the taxpayer requests that his protest be referred to a Staff Division, the internal revenue agent in charge will transmit the case to the appropriate Technical Staff Division.

In all cases in which a deficiency in respect of a tax is determined, and a statutory (90-day) letter is sent to the taxpayer by registered mail covering such deficiency, the taxpayer may file a petition with the Tax Court for a redetermination of the deficiency, other than a deficiency resulting from the correction of a mathematical error appearing upon the return. The petition must be filed within 90 days after the mailing of the statutory letter (or within 150 days after such mailing where such letter is addressed to a person outside the States of the Union and the District of Columbia) not counting Saturday, Sunday, or a legal holiday in the District of Columbia as the last day.

If the taxpayer indicates his agreement to a deficiency by submitting a waiver notice consenting to the assessment and collection of the amount due together with interest, or by making payment direct to the collector, either before or after the mailing of the statutory notice, the internal revenue agent in charge will transmit the case to the appropriate collector who will list the tax and interest, if any, for assessment. The report of examination will be submitted to Washington for post audit review in the Miscellaneous Tax Unit of the Bureau.

With respect to cases referred to Technical Staff Divisions for consideration, at the request of the taxpayers, see section 601.3. As to closing agreements, compromises, and court proceedings, see § 601.1 (d).

(d) Claims for credit or refund. In the case of collection of estate tax, interest, or penalties believed by the executor of the estate to be erroneous or illegal, such executor is privileged to file a claim for refund. A claim for refund of estate tax imposed by the Code must be filed within three years after the payment of the amount sought to be refunded.

A donor is likewise privileged to file a claim for credit or refund of gift tax, interest, and penalties which he considers to have been erroneously or illegally collected. Such claim must be filed within three years after the payment of the tax sought to be credited or refunded. A separate claim should be made for each taxable year.

Claims for credit or refund with respect to estate and gift taxes should be executed on Form 843, copies of which may be obtained from collectors' offices. The claim should be filed with the collector to whom the tax, credit, or refund of which is claimed, was paid. After listing of tax payments by the collector on the back of the claim form, it is transmitted to the Bureau in Washington for consideration and action.

If the claim is acted upon in Washington, the taxpayer will be advised as to the conclusions reached. If the claim is referred to a field division for examination, the internal revenue agent in charge will handle the claim in the same manner as in the case of an initial examination of an estate or gift tax return. See procedure described under paragraph (c) of this section. For court proceedings, see § 601.1 (d); for Technical Staff procedure, see § 601.3.

(e) Post audit review of determinations of estate and gift tax liabilities made in field divisions by internal revenue agents in charge. The determinations of estate and gift tax liabilities by internal revenue agents in charge of field divisions, as set forth in revenue agents' reports of examination, under the procedure described in paragraph (c) of this section are subject to technical review by the Bureau, in the Miscellaneous Tax Unit.

If upon review of a case in which no change in tax liability has been recommended, the Bureau agrees with the conclusions of the internal revenue agent in charge, it will close the case, and in estate tax cases will issue a closing letter addressed to the executor. In gift tax cases a closing letter will be issued only when such a letter is requested by the donor. If, however, the Bureau disagrees with conclusions of the internal revenue agent in charge in any such case, it will refer the case to that officer for reconsideration upon the basis of the exceptions noted. Any adjustment in tax liability made thereafter by the internal revenue agent in charge will be brought to the attention of the taxpayer, and he will be accorded the same privilege of filing a protest and requesting a hearing with respect to such adjustment as in the case of an initial examination under the procedure described in paragraph (c) of this section.

In the review of cases in which the internal revenue agent in charge has obtained the taxpayer's agreement to an adjustment in tax, it is the policy of the Bureau not to revise the determination made by the internal revenue agent in charge unless a material error has been made or a substantial difference in tax is involved, and then only after the internal revenue agent in charge has been given an opportunity to consider the Bureau's exceptions. If the Bureau agrees with the conclusion of the internal revenue agent in charge in any such case, it will take appropriate action to close the case. In any estate or gift tax case involving a deficiency in tax, the closing letter will be issued to the taxpayer. If an overassessment is involved, a certificate of overassessment will be issued to the taxpayer. If, however, the Bureau disagrees with the conclusions of the internal revenue agent in charge in any such case, and an adjustment in tax liability is thereafter proposed by the internal revenue agent in charge, the taxpayer will be afforded the same privilege of filing a protest and requesting a hearing with respect to such adjustment as was extended to him during the initial examination of the return, under the procedure described in paragraph (c) of this section.

While a review is also conducted by the Bureau of every case closed by statutory (90-day) letter, it is the policy of the Bureau not to revise such determinations made by the internal revenue agent in charge except in cases where a material error has been made or other special circumstances require a revision.

(f) Rulings. Any executor of an estate, or donor, who is in doubt as to the application of the tax to the particular facts in his case, may address a letter to the Deputy Commissioner, Miscellaneous Tax Unit, Washington 25, D. C., requesting advice. Where information is sought regarding an estate or gift tax return which is being considered by a field division of the Bureau, under the procedure described in paragraph (c) of this section, the request for information should be addressed to the internal revenue agent in charge in whose office the case is under consideration.

If an attorney or other person asks a ruling on a question of law arising in a specific case, the Commissioner will require satisfactory evidence of the right to obtain such ruling. Hypothetical questions relating to the application of the estate and gift taxes cannot be answered.

Powers of attorney authorizing an attorney or agent to represent the executor of an estate, or the donor in a gift tax case, should accompany the request for information or ruling.

As to the policy of the Bureau generally relative to rulings, see § 601.1 (d) (5).

(g) Administrative provisions relating to extensions of time to file returns and pay taxes; issuance of releases of liens and transfer certificates, etc. Under certain circumstances an extension of time for filing an estate tax return for a decedent's estate, not to exceed three months from the due date, may be granted by the Commissioner. Written application for such extension should be filed with the Commissioner on or prior to the due date of the return.

In any estate or gift tax case in which an extension of time is desired for the payment of tax shown on the return or for a deficiency in tax, a written application for such extension under oath and accompanied or supported by the required evidence must be timely filed with the collector, who will transmit it to the Commissioner with his recommendation as to the extension. When it is received by the Commissioner, it will be examined, and, if possible, within 30 days will be denied, granted, or tentatively granted subject to certain conditions of which the executor, or donor, as the case may be, will be notified.

In addition to the general provisions for liens for taxes (see § 601.1 (c) (2)), section 827 (a) of the Code specially provides in connection with the estate tax for a lien upon the gross estate and section 1009 provides a similar lien in connection with the gift tax upon all gifts. Under certain circumstances releases of the estate and gift tax liens imposed by the Code with respect to property included in the returns will be granted by the Commissioner. Applications for such releases should be addressed to the Deputy Commissioner, Miscellaneous Tax Unit, Washington 25, D. C. If granted, certificates releasing the property involved will be furnished.

In any estate tax case in which the executor desires that a prompt determination be made of the amount of the estate tax due from the decedent's estate and that he be discharged from personal liability therefor, such request should be made by written application to the Commissioner.

Certificates permitting the transfer of property of nonresident decedents, regardless of citizenship, without liability will be issued by the Commissioner when he is satisfied that the tax imposed upon the estate, if any, has been fully discharged or provided for. Requests for such certificates should be addressed to the Deputy Commissioner, Miscellaneous Tax Unit, Washington 25, D. C.

Under certain circumstances estate and gift tax returns may be inspected pursuant to the Code and regulations. See § 600.1 (b) (2) (i).

(2) Additional forms applicable generally. For a list and description of additional forms prescribed by the Bureau for use in connection with internal revenue taxes generally, see § 601.1 (f).

§ 601.5 Employment taxes—(a) General. The internal revenue employment taxes are imposed by Chapter 9, subchapter A, of the Internal Revenue Code (Federal Insurance Contributions Act); Chapter 9, subchapter C, of the Code (Federal Unemployment Tax Act); and Chapter 9, subchapter B, of the Code.

Rules bearing upon the functioning of the Bureau, the forms used, and other information relative to the employment taxes, are as follows:

(1) Federal Insurance Contributions Act. Regulations 106 (26 CFR Com. Supp., Part 402), as amended (26 CFR, 1943 Supp., 1944 Supp., 1945 Supp., Part 402), T. D. 5502, 11 F. R. 2920; and T. D. 5519, 11 F. R. 6757.

(2) Federal Unemployment Tax Act. Regulations 107 (26 CFR Com. Supp., Part 403), as amended (26 CFR, 1943 Supp., 1944 Supp., Part 403), T. D. 5502, 11 F. R. 2920; and T. D. 5519, 11 F. R. 6757.

(3) Chapter 9, Subchapter B, Internal Revenue Code. Regulations 100 (26 CFR, Com. Supp., Part 410), as amended (26 CFR, 1943 Supp., Part 410).

A general statement of the functioning of the Bureau relative to employment taxes follows:

(b) General procedure—(1) Tax collection. The taxes are collected by means of returns, required to be filed by persons liable for tax (except employees) with collectors of internal revenue. The tax is payable at the time the return is required to be filed. However, the Federal unemployment tax may be paid in four equal installments. Upon receipt by collectors a preliminary examination is made of the returns, the payments of tax deposited in due course, and the tax, penalty, and interest liabilities, if any, listed for assessment. The returns under the Federal Insurance Contributions Act and Subchapter B, Chapter 9, of the Code are retained in the collectors' offices where they are audited. Returns under the Federal Unemployment Tax Act are forwarded to Washington 25, D. C., for audit and disposition.

The Federal Insurance Contributions Act imposes a tax on employers of one or more individuals engaged in "employment" as defined in the act. Employees covered by the act are also required to pay a tax which is deducted by the employer from their "wages" as defined in the act. A return must be filed by each employer for each quarter of the year on Form 36–la in accordance with the instructions on the form, reporting thereon the employer's tax and the employees' tax with respect to wages paid during the quarter covered by the return.

The Federal Unemployment Tax Act imposes a tax on employers of eight or more individuals engaged in "employment" as defined in the act. The returns are required to be filed annually on Form 940 in accordance with the instructions on the form with respect to "wages" paid during the calendar year.

Subchapter B, Chapter 9, of the Internal Revenue Code imposes a tax on employers and their employees with respect to "service" rendered as defined in the Code. It also imposes a tax on employee representatives with respect to "service" rendered as defined in the Code. The returns must be filed each quarter on Form CT–1 in accordance with the instructions on the form and the employee representatives must file a return each quarter on Form CT–2 in accordance with the instructions on such form.

Tax return forms and all instructions necessary in connection with the preparation and filing thereof may be obtained from the collector of internal revenue for the district in which the taxpayer is located.

(2) Rulings. Any taxpayer who is in doubt as to his liability under any of the several employment tax laws, to a particular item of coverage, wage item, or other related matter, may address a letter to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Washington 25, D. C., requesting advice. Such letter should disclose the complete facts involved and, if a contract or agreement is involved, include an executed copy thereof. Any oral agreement involved should be accurately stated in the letter. Upon receipt of such letter disclosing the complete facts the taxpayer is advised by letter as to the Bureau's views.

(3) Conference. A taxpayer who desires a conference in the Bureau of Internal Revenue regarding a situation involving any of the employment taxes may secure such conference by addressing a letter to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Washington 25, D. C. If a conference is desired in a collector's office, the letter should be addressed to the collector. There are no formal requirements if the conference is to be held with the taxpayer. If a representative of the taxpayer desires to appear, the representative must be enrolled to practice before the Treasury Department and be authorized by appropriate power of attorney to represent the particular taxpayer concerned. See § 601.1 (d) (4).

(4) Claims for refund, credit and abatement. In the case of an assessment or collection of any kind of employment tax referred to herein, believed by the taxpayer to be erroneous, he is privileged to file a claim for refund, credit, or abatement. See § 601.1 (d) (1). Such claim should be executed on Form 843, and filed with the collector to whom the tax was paid or from whom notice of assessment was received. Instructions for preparing a claim are contained on Form 843 and any necessary additional instructions may be obtained from the collector. In the case of a claim for abatement, the collector may require the taxpayer to furnish bond in double the amount of the tax involved to secure postponement of collection while the claim is pending. A claim for refund or credit must be filed within four years from the date the tax was paid, except in the case of special refunds under section 14.01 (d) of the Federal Insurance Contributions Act, discussed in subparagraph (6) (ii) of this paragraph. Where a claim for refund is rejected, an official notice of rejection is mailed to the taxpayer by registered mail. The taxpayer may bring suit for recovery in the appropriate court within two years from the date of the rejection notice. See § 601.1 (d) (1). An appeal to The Tax Court may not be filed in connection with employment taxes. See § 601.1 (b).

(5) Offers in compromise. A taxpayer may, in certain circumstances, submit an offer to compromise the taxes, penalties, or interest imposed by any of the several employment tax laws. Form 656 must be used in submitting a cash offer and Form 656–C in case of an installment offer. The taxpayer must submit a financial statement on Form 4338 with the offer. Any necessary instructions with regard to the preparation and filing of such offer is obtainable from the appropriate collector of internal revenue.

(6) Provisions special to the Federal Insurance Contributions Act—(i) Identification and account numbers. Under the Federal Insurance Contributions Act each employer must have an identification number. Any employer who does not have an identification number must secure a Form SS–4 from the collector of internal revenue and, after executing the form in accordance with the instructions contained thereon, file it with the collector. At a subsequent date the collector will furnish the employer with a number which must appear in the appropriate space on each tax return, Form SS–1a, filed thereafter.

Each employee must have an account number which is secured by the employee, or his employer, by filing application on Form SS–5, procurable from the collector of internal revenue for the district. The form, after execution in accordance with the instructions thereon, must be filed with the field office of the Social Security Administration or the collector, and at a later date the employee will be furnished an account number. Such number must be given to each employer for whom an employee works in order that such number may be entered on each tax return filed thereafter by the employer.

Form SS–1a requires as a part of the return that the wages of each employee paid during the quarter be reported thereon. It is necessary at times that employers correct wage information previously reported. A special form, Form SS–1c, has been adopted for use in correcting erroneous wage information or omissions of such wage information in Schedules A of Form SS–1a. Instructions on Form SS–1a and on Form SS–1c explain the manner of preparing and filing the forms. Any furthef instructions should be obtained from the collector for the district in which the returns are filed.

(ii) Recovery by employees of excess deductions. Under section 1401 (d) of the Federal Insurance Contributions Act an employee, who has received wages in excess of $3,000 from two or more employers for services performed during a calendar year, may file a claim for refund of the amount by which the employees' tax deducted and paid to a collector with respect to such wages exceeds the employees' tax with respect to the first $3,000 of such wages. The necessary forms and instructions may be obtained from the collector's office. With respect to such special refund claims, the following applies:

(a) A separate claim shall be made with respect to wages for services performed within each calendar year.

(b) The employee shall submit with the claim a statement from each employer (on Form SS–9) for whom he performed services during the calendar year. If the statement of any employer cannot be submitted with the claim, the employee shall include in the claim an explanation of his inability to submit such statement.

(c) The employee's claim shall be made on Form 843 and shall be filed with the collector for the district in which the employee resides.

(d) No refund will be made under § 1401 (d) of the Federal Insurance Contributions Act unless (1) the employee files a claim, establishing his right thereto, after the calendar year in which the employment was performed with respect to which refund of tax is claimed, and (2) such claim is filed within two years after the calendar year in which the wages are paid with respect to which refund of tax is claimed.

(8) Additional forms applicable generally. For a list and description of additional forms prescribed by the Bureau for use in connection with internal revenue taxes generally, see § 601.1 (f).

§ 601.6 Sales taxes collected by assessment—(a) General. Chapter 29, Subchapter A, of the Internal Revenue Code imposes certain taxes on sales by manufacturers, producers, and importers of the following articles and commodities: [1]

Automobiles, trucks, tractors, buses, trailers, motorcycles, etc., and parts and accessories therefor.
Business and store machines.
Electric, gas, and oil appliances.
Electric light bulbs and tubes.
Electrical energy for domestic and commercial consumption.[2]
Firearms, shells, and cartridges.
Photographic apparatus, cameras, lenses, film, and sensitized paper.
Radio receiving sets and components, phonographs, phonograph records, and musical instruments.
Refrigerators, air conditioning units, and components.
Sporting goods.
Tires and inner tubes.

Rules bearing upon the functioning of the Bureau, the forms used, etc., in connection with these taxes are contained in Regulations 46 and Order May 31, 1944, and Order June 27, 1944 (26 CFR, Cum. Supp., Part 316), as amended (26 CFR, 1944 Supp., Part 316).

Chapter 29, Subchapter A, of the Code also imposes certain taxes on sales by manufacturers, producers, and importers of gasoline and matches, and on sales by manufacturers and producers of lubricating oils. Rules bearing upon the functioning of the Bureau, the forms used, etc., in connection with these taxes are contained in Regulations 44 (26 CFR, 1944 Supp., Part 314).

Section 2700 of Chapter 25 of the Code imposes certain taxes on sales by manufacturers, producers, and importers of pistols and revolvers. Rules bearing upon the functioning of the Bureau, the forms used, etc., in connection with these taxes are contained in Regulations 47 (26 CFR, Cum. Supp., Part 302), as amended (26 CFR, 1944 Supp., Part 302).

Chapters 9A and 19 of the Code impose certain taxes on sales by retailers of the following articles:

Fur articles.
Jewelry, watches and clocks, etc.
Luggage, handbags, wallets, and certain other related articles.
Toilet preparations.

[1] The descriptive terms used to designate the various articles and commodities subject to tax are intended only to indicate their general classes. For specific information as to the scope of each tax, reference should be had to the applicable regulations.

[2] The tax on electrical energy applies to sales by "vendors".

Rules bearing upon the functioning of the Bureau, the forms used, etc., in connection with these taxes are contained in Regulations 51 and Order June 27, 1944 (26 CFR, Cum. Supp., Part 320), as amended (26 CFR, 1944 Supp., 1945 Supp., Part 320).

(b) Procedure—(1) Tax collection. The sales taxes are collected by means of returns required to be filed monthly by persons liable for tax with collectors of internal revenue for the district in which their principal place of business is located. The return is due not later than the last day of the month following the month for which it is made and the tax is payable, without notice from the collector, at that time.

Upon receipt by collectors, the returns are given a preliminary examination, all remittances accompanying them are deposited, and the tax, together with any applicable interest, is entered on an assessment list. A copy of the assessment list, together with the original copies of the returns, is then forwarded to the Bureau in Washington where the list and returns are compared and all necessary corrections and appropriate additions to the list, including any applicable penalties or interest, are made, after which the copy of the list is formally approved by the Commissioner and a certificate of such approval returned to the collector. This approval of the list by the Commissioner constitutes the "assessment" of the taxes, penalties, and interest listed thereon. Under the law, this assessment is prima facie correct for all legal purposes, the burden to disprove its correctness being upon the taxpayer. The receipt by the collector of the assessment list also makes it possible for him to take any forcible action (such as the issuance of warrants for distraint or notices of levy) necessary to effect collection of any liabilities shown on the list which remain due and unpaid after notice and demand for their payment has been served upon the taxpayer.

Detailed information as to the return forms, and all other forms, prescribed for use in connection with the sales taxes, are contained in the regulations referred to in paragraph (a) of this section. Copies of these regulations, together with copies of all necessary forms and instructions as to their preparation and filing, may be obtained from the office of the collector of internal revenue for the district in which the taxpayer is located. (See list of locations of collectors' offices in § 600.51 (d).)

(2) Rulings. Any person who is in doubt as to his liability for any of the manufacturers' or retailers' sales taxes, or as to the taxability of any particular article or commodity, may address a letter to the Deputy Commissioner, Miscellaneous Tax Unit, Bureau of Internal Revenue, Washington 25, D. C., requesting advice. Such letter should completely disclose all of the pertinent facts involved and, if advice as to the taxability of a particular article or commodity is requested, should describe the article or commodity in sufficient detail to permit of a proper determination as to its taxable status. Where the article or commodity is of such nature as not to lend itself readily to a written description, and it is feasible to submit a sample, this should be done. Upon receipt of such an inquiry disclosing the complete facts involved, the taxpayer is advised by letter of the Bureau's views as to his liability for the tax. This letter will be signed either by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue or the Deputy Commissioner in charge of the Miscellaneous Tax Unit, or, in some cases, by the Secretary of the Treasury or an Assistant Secretary. A copy of this letter is also forwarded to the local collector of internal revenue.

Where a sales tax ruling has been issued with which the taxpayer is not in agreement, the taxpayer is privileged to request reconsideration of the ruling by addressing a letter to the official who signed the ruling setting forth in full detail the basis for his request. If desired, a conference in the matter may also be requested. In such event, a conference will be accorded the taxpayer either in the Miscellaneous Tax Unit in Washington or, if the taxpayer so desires, with a representative of the local collector or, in the case of taxpayers located in or near New York, Chicago, or Los Angeles, with an internal revenue agent attached to one of the three field offices of the Miscellaneous Tax Unit located in those cities.

Where a ruling or a conference is requested by the taxpayer himself, no formal requirements are prescribed. Where, however, the taxpayer desires to be represented by an attorney or agent, the attorney or agent must be enrolled to practice before the Treasury Department and be authorized by appropriate power of attorney, either already on file with the Bureau or submitted with the request for the ruling or at the conference, to represent the taxpayer concerned. See § 601.1 (d) (4).

(c) Proposed assessments of additional or delinquent taxes. Assessments of additional tax proposed to be made by the Bureau may arise in one of two ways, i. e., either as the result of the audit of the taxpayer's return in Washington, or as the result of an examination of the taxpayer's books and records by an internal revenue agent attached to the Miscellaneous Tax Field Force (see § 600 58), or by a deputy collector attached to one of the collectors' offices. Assessments of delinquent taxes (i. e., taxes asserted against taxpayers who have filed no returns) ordinarily arise as the result of investigations conducted by internal revenue agents or deputy collectors as the result of information obtained in the field.

When the occasion for an additional assessment arises as the result of an audit of the taxpayer's return (and except in cases where delay may jeopardize collection of the tax, or where the amount involved is nominal or the result of an evident mathematical error), a preliminary letter is addressed to the taxpayer advising him briefly of the basis and amount of the proposed assessment and according him a period of at least fifteen days from the date of the letter to submit a protest with supporting facts, or to request a conference. If no reply is received from the taxpayer within the stated period, the assessment is made.

If, however, the taxpayer submits a protest or requests a conference within the stated period, assessment of the additional tax is deferred until such facts and arguments as are submitted by the taxpayer in his protest or at the conference have been considered, unless it appears that the taxpayer is merely endeavoring to delay assessment without good cause or that further delay may jeopardize collection of the tax. The foregoing procedure is followed in all cases involving proposed assessments of additional tax arising as the result of an audit of the taxpayer's return except in cases where, as the result of conferences in or correspondence with the Bureau, the taxpayer has already agreed to the proposed assessment.

When the occasion for the proposed assessment of additional or delinquent tax arises as the result of an examination of the taxpayer's books and records conducted by an internal revenue agent assigned to the Miscellaneous Tax Field Force or by a deputy collector of internal revenue, the taxpayer is furnished with a copy of the investigator's report (except in situations where the report contains information of a confidential nature, such as a case involving fraud) and is given an opportunity to confer with the investigator and, if desired, with the Internal Revenue Agent in Charge of the Miscellaneous Tax Field Force for that area, in the case of an investigation conducted by an agent attached to that force, or with the Chief Field Deputy attached to the office of the collector of internal revenue for the taxpayer's district, in a case where the investigation was conducted by a deputy collector. If, as the result of such a conference, the taxpayer agrees to the investigating officer's findings, he is advised to make remittance of the additional tax due to the collector's office, to whom appropriate notice of the additional liability, together with a copy of the report of the investigation, is forwarded. (Agreements as to additional or delinquent tax in these cases are not evidenced by any special form of written instrument, the amount of the additional or delinquent tax being reported by way of an amended or original return.) The original of the investigating officer's report is forwarded to the Washington office of the Miscellaneous Tax Unit for review. Should this review disclose any errors in the assertion or computation of the tax, the matter is taken up with the field office involved for any adjustment which appears to be in order.

In cases where no agreement can be reached in the field as to the amount and payment of any additional or delinquent tax disclosed by the investigation, the original of the investigating officer's report, as approved by the internal revenue agent in charge or the collector of internal revenue, as the case may be, together with any protest or submission the taxpayer may have made while the case was in the field, is forwarded to the Washington office of the Miscellaneous Tax Unit (see § 600.7). A copy of such report is also given to the taxpayer. If, after review of the report in Washington, it is considered that no additional or delinquent tax is due, the investigating officer is so notified and no further action on the part of the taxpayer is necessary. If, however, it is concluded that assessment of the tax is in order, the taxpayer is advised that he is privileged to submit a protest or request a conference in regard to the proposed assessment within a period of fifteen days or such other longer period as may be appropriate under the circumstances. If, after consideration has been given to the taxpayer's contentions as to why the tax should not be assessed, it is concluded that no assessment should be made, the investigating officer is so notified and the case is then closed without further action. If, however, no protest or request for a conference is received from the taxpayer within the stated period or, if after consideration has been given to any protest submitted, it is concluded that assessment of the additional or delinquent tax is in order, the amount of tax (together with any applicable penalties and interest) is entered on an assessment list for collection in the usual manner. See S. T. 915, Internal Revenue Bulletin, 1941-1, page 455.

Conferences regarding proposed assessments of additional or delinquent taxes are subject to the same general rules as are conferences on rulings, as described in paragraph (b) of this section.

(d) Administrative Remedies Available to Taxpayers After Assessment and/or Payment of Sales Taxes Alleged to Have Been Erroneously or Illegally Assessed or Collected—(1) Before payment has been made. After a sales tax, which the taxpayer considers is not due, has been assessed but not yet paid, he is privileged to file a claim for the abatement of such tax. See § 601.1 (d). The form prescribed for use in filing an abatement claim is Form 843, copies of which may be obtained from collectors of internal revenue. The claim should be prepared in duplicate in accordance with the instructions contained on the form and filed with the collector from whom notice of assessment of the tax was received. After appropriate certification of the claim by the collector, the claim in forwarded to the Bureau in Washington for consideration and action. Notice as to the allowance or disallowance of the claim is then forwarded both to the taxpayer and to the collector concerned. If the claim is allowed, no further action on the part of the taxpayer is necessary. If, however, the claim is rejected, the collector is instructed to proceed with the collection of the rejected amount.

In the case of a claim for abatement, the collector may require the taxpayer to furnish bond in double the amount of the tax involved so that the interests of the Government will be protected while the claim is pending.

(2) After payment has been made. After a sales tax, which the taxpayer considers is not due, has been assessed and paid, he is privileged either to file a claim for the refund of such tax or to take a credit for the amount paid on a sales tax return, covering the same kind of tax, filed by him after the alleged erroneous payment has been made. Under the law, however, the claim for refund must be filed, or the credit taken, within four years from the date the tax was paid. The form prescribed for filing a claim for refund is Form 843, copies of which may be obtained from collectors' offices. The claim should be prepared in duplicate in accordance with the instructions shown thereon and should be filed with the collector of internal revenue to whom the tax, refund of which is claimed, was paid. After appropriate certification of the claim by the collector, the claim follows the same general course as does a claim for abatement referred to in subparagraph (1), above.

If the claim for refund is rejected, the taxpayer is notified of the rejection by registered mail and, in such a case, the taxpayer may bring suit for recovery of the tax in the appropriate court within two years from the date of the rejection notice. See § 601.1 (d). The Tax Court has no jurisdiction over sales tax cases and, consequently, this forum is not available for the adjudication of disputes as to sales tax liability. See § 601.1 (d).

When a claim for refund is allowed, an appropriate notice of allowance, together with a check in the amount of the refund and any allowable interest, is forwarded by the Bureau in Washington to the collector of internal revenue to whom the tax was originally paid. If the collector finds that there is no other due and unpaid tax indebtedness outstanding against the claimant, the check, accompanied by the notice of allowance, is mailed by the collector to the claimant. If any due and unpaid indebtedness is found to be outstanding, however, the refund check is not released until such indebtedness is discharged.

In the case of a credit claimed for an amount of tax alleged to have been erroneously paid, no particular forms for the claiming of such a credit are prescribed. The procedure to be followed in such a case is for the taxpayer to enter on the line provided for credits on the return form the amount claimed to have been erroneously paid and to accompany the return, when filed, with a supporting statement, executed under oath, which should set out clearly and fully the basis on which the credit is claimed. These statements accompany the returns when they are forwarded by the collectors to the Bureau in Washington where they are examined in the course of the regular audit of the returns. Notice as to the disallowance of any credit is forwarded to the taxpayer and the amount of the credit is then entered on an assessment list for collection in the usual manner.

Detailed instructions as to the manner in which claims for refund or credit should be prepared are contained in the various regulations listed in paragraph (a) of this section.

(e) Offers in compromise. Under certain special circumstances, a taxpayer against whom sales tax liability (including any applicable penalties and interest) has been assessed, may submit an offer in compromise of such liability. See section 3761 of the Code and § 601.1 (d) (3). The circumstances under which the compromise authority may be exercised are very restricted. The forms prescribed for use in the submission of an offer in compromise are Form 656, which is used in the case of a cash offer, and Form 656 (c) which is required in the case of an installment offer. In addition, the taxpayer must submit a financial statement on Form 433 with the offer. Instructions as to the preparation and filing of an offer in compromise may be secured from the appropriate collector of internal revenue.

(f) Registration and bonding requirements special to certain of the taxes on sales by manufacturers, producers, and importers. Every producer or importer of gasoline, every producer of lubricating oils, and every person desiring to purchase taxable article tax free for use in further manufacture of other taxable articles, who qualifies as a manufacturer of articles taxable under Chapter 29, Subchapter A, of the Internal Revenue Code (except manufacturers of tires or inner tubes), or as a vendee with an established place of business reselling direct to manufacturers of taxable articles, must make application for registry to the collector of internal revenue for the district in which his principal place of business is located (or, if he has no principal place of business in the United States to the Collector at Baltimore, Maryland). The form provided for this purpose is Form 637-A, Application for Registry, copies of which may be obtained from the collector. The form should be prepared in accordance with the instructions shown thereon and the provisions of the applicable regulations referred to in paragraph (a). In the case of producers and importers of gasoline and producers of lubricating oil, the application must also be accompanied by a bond on Form 928 in a sum equivalent to the approximate amount of tax which might be incurred by the taxpayer during an average three-month period at the rates of the tax then in effect, but in no case shall the bond be for less than $2,000.

Upon receipt by the collector of the application for registry and, in the case of gasoline and lubricating oil, upon acceptance of the bond required, the collector will furnish to the applicant Form 637, Certificate of Registry, which will bear the applicant's registration number. Detailed instructions as to the use of this number and as to the requirements necessary to be complied with in connection with the filing of applications for registry and the submission of bonds are set forth in the applicable regulations referred to in paragraph (a) of this section.

(4) Miscellaneous—(i) Coconut and other vegetable oils. Chapter 21 of the Internal Revenue Code imposes a tax upon the first domestic processing of coconut oil, palm oil, palm-kernel oil, fatty acids derived from any of the foregoing oils, salts from any of the foregoing or any combination or mixture containing a substantial quantity of any one or more of such oils, fatty acids or salts. Rules bearing upon the functioning of the Bureau, the forms used, etc. in connection with these taxes are contained in 26 CFR, Part 135.

Other rules of particular application to certain of these taxes are the authorization of the Secretary of the Treasury with respect to the non-applicability of the taxes on the transportation of persons and property in the case of passenger transportation furnished to the United States upon a United States Government transportation request and property shipped to or from the Government of the United States on a United States Government bill of lading, 9 F. R., 4615; and Executive Orders Nos. 9698 and 9751 issued by the President designating certain international organizations as being entitled to enjoy the privilege, exemptions, and immunities conferred by the International Organizations Immunities Act, 11 F. (b) General procedure—(1) Tax collection. The tax on charges made by cabarets, roof gardens, etc., the taxes on admission charges in excess of the established price, the tax on the transportation of oil by pipe line, the tax on the first domestic processing of certain vegetable oils, and the tax on the manufacture of sugar, are all collected in the same manner as are the manufacturers' and retailers' sales taxes, as set forth in § 601.6 (b). The tax on hydraulic mining and the tax on circuluation other than of national banks are collected in the same manner also, except that the return of the former tax is filed annually and the latter on the first day of June and the first day of December of each calendar year.

The other miscellaneous excise taxes described in paragraph (a) of this section are imposed on the person making the payment for the admission, telephone service, transportation, etc., involved and are required to be collected by the theatre, telephone company, railroad, etc., receiving the payment. All taxes so collected are held by the collecting agent in trust for the United States until paid over to the collector of internal revenue. The collecting agencies are required to file monthly returns which are due not later than the last day of the month following the month for which the return is made and the tax is payable, without notice from the collector, at that time. If the person from whom the tax is required to be collected refuses to pay it or, if for any reason it is impossible for the collecting agency to collect the tax from such person, the collecting agency is required to report to the collector of internal revenue for the district in which its returns are filed the name and address of such person, the nature of the service or facility rendered, the amount paid therefor, and the date on which paid. Upon receipt of this information, the collector will report the item to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue for direct assessment.

(2) Rulings. The procedure to be followed in procuring a ruling with respect to any miscellaneous excise tax collected by assessment is the same as that set forth in § 601 (b) (2) concerning sales taxes.

(c) Proposed assessments of additional or delinquent tax. Assessment of additional or delinquent miscellaneous taxes is made in the same manner as are assessments of additional or delinquent sales taxes, as set forth in § 601.6 (c), except that where the proposed assessment results from the bona fide inability of a collection agency to collect the tax from the person legally liable for it, the Bureau's dealings are then had directly with such person rather than with the collecting agency. If the failure of the collecting agency to collect the tax, however, was willful, a penalty in the full amount of the tax not collected may be imposed upon the collecting agency. Such a penalty may also be imposed in case of failure on the part of a collecting agency to truthfully account for and pay over any tax collected, or an attempt in any manner to evade or defeat the tax.

(d) Administrative remedies available to taxpayers after assessment and/or payment of miscellaneous excise taxes alleged to have been erroneously or illegally assessed or collected. The administrative remedies available to taxpayers in the case of the miscellaneous excise taxes collected by assessment are the same as those available in the case of sales taxes, as set forth in § 601 (6) (d).

(e) Offers in compromise. The procedure in the case of offers in compromise of liability for miscellaneous excise taxes collected by assessment is the same as that set forth in § 601 (6) (e), applicable to sales taxes.

(b) Procedure—(1) Collection of tax. Taxes on liquors are paid principally by stamp. The stamps are purchased from the collector of internal revenue of the district and are attached to the containers of the liquors. In some cases the collector certifies to the payment of the tax or issues certificates of tax-payment in lieu of stamps. Such certifications are presented to the Government officer or are attached to the containers of the liquors. When the tax on liquors is not paid in the prescribed time and manner, the unpaid taxes are assessed against the taxpayer. Special tax stamps are issued to denote the payment of occupational taxes by liquor dealers and others. Such stamps are required to be posted in the taxpayer's place of business as evidence of tax payment. Detailed information respecting the payment of taxes on liquors and the payment of occupational taxes by still manufacturers, brewers, rectifiers, dealers in liquors, and manufacturers of nonbeverage products as prerequisite for drawback under section 3250 (1), Internal Revenue Code, including the forms to be used and the procedure to be followed, is contained in the respective regulations described in paragraph (a) (3).

(2) Claims for remission. When the taxpayer claims that liquors on which tax has not been paid have been lost, and the tax thereon may be remitted, he may file claim for remission, setting out all the facts surrounding the loss, with the District Supervisor of the Alcohol Tax Unit of the district. Upon receipt of the claim, the district supervisor makes a factual determination and forwards the claim to the Commissioner for consideration. The Deputy Commissioner of the Alcohol Tax Unit notifies the District Supervisor of the allowance or rejection of the claim, and he in turn notifies the taxpayer. If the claim is rejected, the tax is assessed, and the collector of internal revenue issues to the taxpayer a notice and demand for payment of the tax.

(3) Claims for abatement. When the tax is assessed and the taxpayer thinks that the tax is not due under the law, he may file a claim in abatement of the tax on Form 843 with the collector of internal revenue of the district. Forms 843 may be procured from such collector. The collector forwards the claim to the Commissioner for consideration, and the collector may call upon the taxpayer to file a bond in double the amount of the tax in order to insure collection of the tax if the claim is rejected. When the claim is acted upon, both the taxpayer and the collector are notified of the allowance or rejection of the claim. If the claim is rejected, the collector again makes demand on the taxpayer for payment of the tax. See § 601.1 (d) (1).

(4) Claims for refund. The taxpayer may, after payment of the tax, file a claim for refund on Form 843 with the collector of internal revenue to whom the tax is paid. Such claim must be filed within four years after the date of payment of the tax. The collector forwards the claim to the Commissioner for consideration. If the claim is rejected, the taxpayer is notified of the rejection by registered mail, and he may then bring suit in the United States District Court or the Court of Claims for recovery of the tax. Such suits must be filed within two years from the date of the rejection notice. If the claim is allowed, an appropriate notice of allowance with a check for the amount of the refund and allowable interest is forwarded to the collector of internal revenue. The collector forwards the check to the taxpayer, unless he finds that there are other unpaid taxes outstanding against the taxpayer, in which event, delivery of the refund check to the taxpayer is held in abeyance pending payment of the unpaid taxes. See § 601.1 (d) (1).

(c) Offers in compromise. The statutes provide forfeitures and penalties for violation of the statutory requirements relative to liquors, and authorize the Commissioner, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, to compromise such liabilities. The Commissioner is also authorized to compromise tax liabilities where there is substantial doubt as to the taxpayer's liability or his ability to pay the tax. Persons desiring to submit offers in compromise of such liabilities, in order to avoid forfeiture or prosecution proceedings, and taxpayers who disdain liability for taxes assessed, or claim inability to pay the taxes in full, may submit offers in compromise on Form 656 to the collector of internal revenue, or to a deputy collector, of the district. Form 656–C is used when the offer is payable in installments. Such offers are forwarded by the collector to the Commissioner for consideration. When the offer is acted upon, the collector and the district supervisor are notified of the acceptance or rejection of the offer, and the district supervisor in turn notifies the proponent. If the offer is rejected, the sum submitted to the collector is returned to the proponent and forfeiture, prosecution, or collection proceedings are resumed. If the offer is accepted, the taxpayer is notified and the case is closed. Acceptance of an offer in compromise of civil liabilities does not remit criminal liabilities, nor does acceptance of an offer in compromise of criminal liabilities remit civil liabilities. See § 601.1 (d) (3).

(d) Additional claims procedure. Claims for remission of tax on alcohol lost at industrial alcohol plants, bonded warehouses, and denaturing plants, and for losses of tax-free and specifically denatured alcohol at denaturing plants and at dealers and users' premises, must prepared and filed in accordance with Regulations 3. See paragraph (a) (3). These regulations contain full information in respect to the procedure in the verification and examination of such claims.

Claims for remission of tax on distilled spirits lost at distilleries must be prepared and filed in accordance with Regulations 4 and 5 (see paragraph (a) (3)), which contain complete information respecting the procedure followed in verifying and examining such claims.

Claims for redemption or refund of bottled-in-bond stamps must be prepared and filed in accordance with Regulations 6 (see paragraph (a) (3)), which contain full information in respect thereto. Such claims must be for an amount of $5.00 or more and must be filed within two years after the date of purchase of the stamps. The stamps for which redemption is claimed must be surrendered with the claim, or proof of destruction must be submitted.

No formal requirements are prescribed for such conference.

(g) Attorneys and agents. Attorneys and agents representing taxpayers before the Bureau, in the office of the Deputy Commissioner in charge of the Alcohol Tax Unit, or in the offices of district supervisors or investigators in charge, must be enrolled to practice before the Treasury Department and be authorized by power of attorney, filed with the Bureau, to represent the taxpayer in the matter under discussion. See section 601.

(h) Form. For form to be used, see paragraph (a) (3).

§ 601.9 Tobacco taxes—(a) Introductory—(1) Imposition of tax. Chapter 15, Subchapter A, of the Internal Revenue Code imposes certain taxes on cigars, cigarettes, tobacco, and snuff manufactured in or imported into the United States, and upon cigarette papers and cigarette tubes sold by the manufacturer or importer.

(2) Rules. Rules bearing upon the function of the Bureau, the forms used, etc., in connection with these taxes are contained in the following regulations:

(i) Regulations 8, relating generally to the taxes on tobacco, snuff, cigars and cigarettes, cigarette papers and tubes, and to the purchase and sale of leaf tobacco (26 CFR, Cum. Supp., Part 140), as amended (26 CFR, 1943 Supp., 1944 Supp., 1945 Supp., Part 140, T. D. 5509, 11 F. R. 4523).

(ii) Regulations 34, relating in part to the withdrawal of tobacco, snuff, cigars and cigarettes from factories, free of tax, for use of the United States (26 CFR, Cum. Supp., Part 450), as amended (26 CFR, 1943 Supp., 1944 Supp., 1945 Supp., Part 450).

(iii) Regulations 73, relating in part to the exportation of tobacco products without payment of tax, to shipments of such products to possessions of the United States, and to drawback of tax paid on tobacco products exported to foreign countries or shipped to possessions of the United States (26 CFR, Part 451).

(iv) Regulations 76, relating to shipment or delivery of manufactured tobacco, snuff, cigars, or cigarettes for use as sea stores without payment of tax (26 CFR, Cum. Supp., Part 141).

(b) Special registration and bonding requirements. On commencing business and thereafter on the first day of July of each year, every dealer in leaf tobacco, manufacturer of tobacco, snuff, cigars, or cigarettes, and peddler of tobacco must register with the collector of the district his name or style, place of residence, and place where the business is carried on. The form prescribed for registration is Form 277, copies of which may be obtained from collectors of internal revenue. Every person required to so register must, at the time of commencing business, execute a bond, in duplicate, on the prescribed form and in such amount as is required by Regulations 8, referred to in paragraph (a) (2) (i). When the application for registration and the bond are received and approved by the collector, the collector will issue to the person named in the application a certificate of registry. This certificate of registry must be posted in accordance with the requirements of Regulations 8.

(c) Tax collection. The taxes on cigars, cigarettes, tobacco, and snuff are paid by stamps affixed to the box or package, and are due upon withdrawal of domestic products from the factory and withdrawal of imported products from customs custody, or upon sale prior to withdrawal. Information returns are required to be filed with the collector of internal revenue of the district in which the taxpayer is located, on or before the 10th day of the month following the month in which domestic products are withdrawn from the factory. Such returns show the quantities of tobacco, tobacco products, leaf tobacco, and internal revenue tobacco stamps handled. In addition to the monthly information returns, each manufacturer and leaf tobacco dealer is required to prepare on the prescribed form and submit to the collector a true inventory of the materials on hand, finished and unfinished, at commencement of business, on January 1 of each year, and at the time of discontinuing business. The collector, after abstracting for his record the information contained on the returns and the inventories, forwards them to Washington, D. C., for examination and audit.

The taxes on cigarette papers and tubes, unlike the taxes on tobacco and tobacco products (see paragraph (a) (1)), are sales taxes payable by the manufacturer or importer upon sale to any person, other than to a manufacturer of cigarettes for use by him in the manufacture of cigarettes. The tax due on sales by manufacturers of cigarette papers is payable on the basis of monthly returns filed on Form 734 on or before the 10th day of the month following that in which the sales occur, while the tax on sales by manufacturers of cigarette tubes is payable by stamp affixed at the time of sale to each package of cigarette tubes. Form 734 is also filed by manufacturers of tubes as an information return disclosing all sales during the preceding month. With respect to cigarette papers imported into the United States, importers are required to file a return on Form 735, covering each importation, accompanied by remittance of the amount of the tax. This form is also submitted as anformation return covering each importation of cigarette tubes, showing the number of packages of tubes imported and the value of stamps affixed to the packages.

Detailed information as to the return forms, and all other forms, prescribed for use in connection with tobacco taxes are contained in the regulations referred to in paragraph (a) (2). Copies of these regulations, together with copies of all necessary forms and instructions as to their preparation and filing, may be obtained from the office of the collector of internal revenue for the district in which the taxpayer is located. (See list of locations of collectors' offices in § 600.51 (d).)

(d) Rulings. The procedure to be followed in securing a ruling on any question arising in connection with the tobacco taxes is the same as that set forth in § 601.6 (b) (2).

(e) Proposed assessments of additional or delinquent taxes. When additional or delinquent tobacco tax liability is discovered, the procedure followed in the same as that applicable in the case of sales taxes. See § 601.6 (c).[1]

(f) Administrative remedies available to taxpayers after the purchase of tobacco tax stamps or after assessment or payment of tobacco taxes—(1) Redemption of stamps. Tobacco tax stamps which have been spoiled, destroyed, or rendered useless or unfit for the purpose intended, or for which the owner may have no use, or which through mistake may have been improperly or unnecessarily used, or have been used in excess of the amount of tax actually due, or affixed to tobacco products withdrawn from the market, may be redeemed by the owner upon proper claim filed with the collector. Such claims must be prepared on Form 843 in accordance with the instructions shown on the form and in Regulations 8, referred to in paragraph (a) (2) (i). Copies of Form 843 are obtainable from offices of collectors of internal revenue.

(2) Drawback claims. Section 2136 of the Internal Revenue Code permits the filing by exporters of claims for drawback of internal revenue taxes paid by stamp on tobacco, snuff, cigars and cigarettes which are exported. The form used for this purpose is Form 901, copies of which are obtainable from collectors' offices. As a condition precedent to the allowance of any such drawback claim, the exporter is required to file a bond in a penal sum double the amount for which the claim is made conditioned that he will furnish satisfactory evidence that the tobacco products have been landed at a port outside the jurisdiction of the United States, or that the shipment was lost at sea, and has not been relanded within the limits of the United States.

(3) Claims for abatement or refund. Where a tobacco stamp tax is not paid by stamp but the amount thereof is assessed, the person against whom the assessment is made may file a claim for abatement of the tax or a claim for refund for any part of the assessment which has been paid. In either case, the procedure to be followed by the claimant is the same as that set forth in the case of claims for abatement or refund of sales taxes, as described in § 601.6 (d). All claims for refund of tobacco taxes paid pursuant to an assessment must be filed within four years after payment of the tax.

Detailed instructions as to the requirements necessary to be complied with in connection with the filing of claims for redemption, drawback, and refund are fully set forth in the regulations referred to in paragraph (a) (2).

See Regulations 59 (26 CFR, Cum. Supp., Part 323), as amended, (26 CFR, 1944 Supp., Part 323).

(e) General procedure—(1) Tax collection. The documentary and commodity stamp taxes are paid by having affixed to the document, memorandum of sale, policy, package, container, etc., an internal revenue adhesive stamp or stamps in an amount equal to the tax due and by thereafter cancelling such stamps in the manner prescribed. Payment of occupational taxes is evidenced by the posting or displaying of a special occupational tax stamp on the premises where the business is operated. The stamps used for such purposes are prepared and distributed by the Bureau through collectors of internal revenue.

Documentary taxes are payable with respect to every transaction, i. e., each issue, sale, transfer, etc., of the instrument subject to tax. Commodity taxes are payable with respect to the manufacture, importation, or transfer, as the case may be, of the contents of each package or container. Occupational taxes are payable annually for the privilege of doing business beginning with July 1 of each year, when the taxpayer is in business on that date, or from the beginning of the month in which the business is commenced on a pro rata basis.

Documentary stamps may be purchased from (1) collectors of internal revenue and duly authorized deputy collectors; (2) postmasters in all post offices in the first and second classes and such post offices of the third and fourth classes as are located in county seats; and (3) designated depositaries of the United States. Commodity and occupational tax stamps may be purchased only from collectors and duly authorized deputy collectors. Such purchases may be made only upon the filing of the prescribed requisition, application, or other form and from an official authorized by law to sell such stamps. Payment for such stamps must be made by means of cash, post office money order or certified check. In situations (1) where the instruments, documents, commodities, etc., subject to stamp tax are no longer in existence or (2) where, for other reasons, such instruments, documents, etc., cannot be stamped, or (3) where it is discovered that occupational tax stamps are due for prior taxable years, or (4) where a taxpayer, after being advised of his liability, refuses to affix stamps, the tax is collected by assessment. See § 601.1 (b).

Copies of these regulations, together with copies of all necessary forms and instructions as to their preparation and filing, may be obtained from the office of the collector of internal revenue for the district in which the taxpayer is located. (See list of location of collectors' offices in § 600.51 (d).

(2) Rulings. The procedure to be followed in securing a ruling with respect to any miscellaneous excise tax collected by means of a revenue stamp is the same

[1] In a number of instances, where a stamp tax has been imposed with respect to a particular commodity, an occupational tax has also been levied on manufacturers, dealers, etc., in such commodity. In these cases, for the sake of brevity, and because the occupational tax is treated in the same regulations with the commodity tax, both taxes are described under the "commodity stamp tax" classification.

[2] These regulations are issued jointly by the Bureau of Internal Revenue and the Bureau of Narcotics, which agencies share responsibility for the administration and enforcement of the narcotic taxes.

[4] In addition to the administration of the taxes with respect to machine guns and certain types of short-barrelled firearms, the Bureau of Internal Revenue is also charged with the administration of the Federal Firearms Act (52 Stat. 1250). This Act is not a revenue measure but is a licensing statute and its provisions are not codified in the Internal Revenue Code. The act makes it unlawful for any manufacturer or dealer, except a manufacturer or dealer having a license issued under the provisions of the act, to transport, ship, or receive any firearms or ammunition in interstate or foreign commerce. Rules bearing upon the functioning of the Bureau, the forms used, etc., in connection with this Act are contained in Treasury Decision 4898, as amended, (26 CFR, Cum. Supp., Part 315). The procedure to be followed in making application for a license and all other requirements imposed under the act upon manufacturers and dealers in firearms and ammunitions are set forth in such Treasury decisions.

as that set forth in § 601.6 (b) (2) relating to sales taxes.

(f) Liability for additional or delinquent tax. When liability for additional or delinquent tax is disclosed by the taxpayer or is discovered as a result of an examination of the taxpayer's books and records, payment thereof is evidenced by means of the prescribed stamp if the document, commodity, etc., is still in existence or, in the case of an occupational tax, if the liability is for the current period. Where the documents, commodities, etc., are no longer in existence, or where the taxpayer refuses to affix or purchase the stamps or where, in the case of an occupational tax, the liability is for a prior taxable period, the additional or delinquent tax is assessed in the same manner as sales taxes, as set forth in § 601.6 (c). Whether the liability is proposed to be asserted by requiring the taxpayer to affix or purchase stamps or by making an assessment of the tax, the same opportunity for protest or conference is accorded him.

(g) Administrative remedies available to taxpayers after purchase of documentary, commodity, or occupational tax stamps or after assessment and/or payment of tax—(1) Redemption of stamps. Where stamps have been rendered useless by gumming or sticking together in transit or otherwise without fault of the purchaser, they may be exchanged by a collector of internal revenue for other stamps of the same quantity and denomination. Stamps which have been spoiled, destroyed, or rendered useless or unfit for the purpose intended, or for which the owner may have no use, or which through mistake have been improperly or unnecessarily used, or have been used in excess of the amount of tax actually due, may be redeemed upon proper claim filed with the collector. All such claims must be prepared on Form 843 (see § 601.1 (f)) and must be filed with the collector for the district in which is located the principal office of the claimant, or if he has no such office, with the collector for the district in which he resides. The claim must be filed within four years after the date of purchase of the stamps from the Government. The stamps either must be submitted with the claim, or if it is impracticable to remove them from the instruments, documents, etc., to which they are attached they must be presented to a deputy collector or other internal revenue representative who will write on the face of the stamps the words "Claim for refund filed," and attach to the claim a statement showing that such endorsement has been made. In any case where the actual date of purchase of the stamps from the Government cannot be given, it must be definitely shown in the claim whether they were so purchased within four years prior to the date of filing of the claim. Once filed, a claim for redemption follows the same channels as do claims for refund of sales taxes, as set forth in § 601.6 (d) (2).

(2) Claims for abatement or refund. Where a stamp tax is not paid by stamp but the amount thereof is assessed, the person against whom the assessment is made may file a claim in abatement of the tax or a claim for refund for any part of the assessment which has been paid. In either case, the procedure to be followed by the claimant is the same as set forth in the case of claims for abatement or refund of sales taxes, as described in § 601.6 (d). All claims for refund of stamp tax paid pursuant to an assessment must be filed within four years next after payment of the tax.

Detailed instructions as to the manner in which claims for redemption of stamps and for abatement or refund of stamp taxes should be prepared and filed are contained in the various regulations listed in paragraphs 4b), (c), and (d).

(h) Offers in compromise. The procedure in the case of offers in compromise of liability for miscellaneous excise taxes collected by stamp is the same as that set forth in § 601.6 (e), applicable to sales taxes.

(i) Provisions Special to the Documentary, Commodity, and Occupational Stamp Taxes—(1) Documentary Stamp taxes. Every person engaged in any of the following businesses or activities is required to register with the collector of internal revenue for such district in which such business or activity is conducted: (1) negotiating, making, or recording sales or transfers of stock, bonds, etc.; (2) conducting or transacting a stock or bond brokerage business; (3) accepting or procuring the transmission of orders for the purchase or sale or transfer of stocks, etc., to be executed at a stock or bond brokerage office or an exchange or similar place; (4) transferring stock, bonds, etc., other than his own; and (5) conducting an exchange or clearing house, or clearing association, for the clearing, adjusting and settling of transactions made on exchanges or similar places.

A concern having branches or agencies must file a statement in the district in which its principal office is located, showing the address of each branch office or agency and the name of the manager or agent thereof. A separate statement must also be filed in each of the other districts in which branches or agencies are maintained. The data shown in a statement covering a branch or agency must relate to such branch or agency rather than the principal office. For further information as to the proper execution of Form 741, see Regulations 71, referred to in paragraph (b).

Any person conducting a stock brokerage business who has registered with the collector as provided above may appoint some person to act as nominee in holding stock on his behalf. Also, any person acting in the capacity of a custodian may appoint some person to act as nominee in holding stocks or bonds on his behalf. The name of the person appointed as nominee of a broker or a custodian shall be registered with the collector for the district in which the principal place of business of the broker or the custodian is located. Substitution of a nominee may be effected by likewise registering the name of the successor nominee. No special form is prescribed for use in registering a nominee.

Provision is also made for the exportation without payment of tax of oleomargarine, adulterated butter, and playing cards. The procedure to be followed, and the forms to be used, etc., in the case of such exportation are contained in Regulations 73, (26 CFR, Part 451), as amended (26 CFR, 1944 Supp., Part 451).

§ 601.11 Excess Profits Tax Council; Appellate functions and procedures under section 722 of the Internal Revenue Code. —(a) General. Subchapter E of Chapter II of the Code imposed on corporations an excess profits tax based on their "excess profits tax net income" as defined in section 711 of the Code. This tax was effective as to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1939 and was repealed by the Revenue Act of 1945, as of January 1, 1946. Section 722 of the Code provides that if the taxpayer, pursuant to certain rules and standards in such section, establishes that the tax computed under subchapter E is excessive and discriminatory, relief under limitations contained in section 722 will be granted. As set out in section 600.12, the appellate functions of the Excess Profits Tax Council are limited to considering cases arising under section 722. The Council has no jurisdiction of issues respecting excess profits tax liability which do not fall under section 722. Such issues are handled under established procedures by the field divisions of the Income Tax Unit (see § 601.52) and field divisions of the Technical Staff (see § 601.53).

The rules bearing upon the procedure applicable with respect to section 722 of the Code are found in Regulations 109 and Regulations 112 (see § 601.2). There has also been published a "Bulletin on Section 722 of the Internal Revenue Code", copies of which may be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C. The authority, functions, and procedures of the Excess Profits Tax Council are shown in Commissioner's Mimeograph No. 6044, approved by the Secretary of the Treasury July 30, 1946 (see § 600.12). The Council has promulgated statements on organization and procedure, E. P. C. 1 and 2. Copies of Mimeograph No. 6044 and E P. C. 1 and 2 may be obtained from the Council or a Field Committee (see §§ 600.12 and 600.56). Practice and conference procedure before the Council is also governed by Treasury Department Circular 230 (31 CFR, Cum. Supp., Part 10), as amended (31 CFR, 1945 Supp., Part 10), and the Bureau of Internal Revenue Conference and Practice Requirements (Internal Revenue Bulletin 1942–1, page 384; see § 601.1 (d) (4)).

(b) Procedure. To secure excess profits tax relief under section 722 of the Code an application therefor must be filed with the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Washington 25, D. C. Generally, such application must be filed within three years from the date the excess profits tax return was filed or within two years from the date the tax was paid, whichever is the later. See sections 722 (d) and 322 of the Code. The application is required to be filed in duplicate on Form 991, copies of which are obtainable at collectors' offices. The regulations promulgated under section 722 (see subsection (a)) provide that no application must be filed for each year for which the benefits of section 722 are claimed and that only one section 722 application for each year may be filed. Such applications are required to be so framed as to adequately disclose the essential facts and issues involved.

Applications for relief under section 722 are referred for investigation and consideration to section 722 Field Committees established at the offices of Internal Revenue Agents in Charge (see §§ 600.12 and 600.56). After completion of investigation and consideration of an application for relief by a section 722 Field Committee the taxpayer is afforded opportunity for a conference for the consideration of the Committee's findings. After Field Committee consideration and conference with the taxpayer, the recommendations of the Field Committee are certified to the Excess Profits Tax Council for review. In the event that the taxpayer and the Field Committee cannot reach an agreement on the application or where an agreement between the taxpayer and the Field Committee is not approved by the Council, the taxpayer will be afforded an adequate opportunity to have its case heard before the Council.

Hearing rules of the Council will be published when promulgated.

Determinations of the Council are subject to appeal to the Tax Court of the United States under the provisions of section 732 of the Code.

§ 601.12 Salary Stabilization—(a) General. The functions of the Salary Stabilization Unit relate to supervision of certain salary adjustments, including the establishment of new salary rates, pursuant to authority vested in the President by the Act approved October 2, 1942 (56 Stat. 765) as amended (50 U. S. C. App. Sup. Sections 961–971) which authority has been delegated to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue who acts through the Head of the Salary Stabilization Unit. As to delegation of authority see: Executive Orders Nos. 9250, 9328 (3 CFR. Cum. Supp.); 9599, 9651 (3 CFR, 1945 Sup.); Executive Order No. 9697, 11 F. R. 1691; and Executive Order No. 9699, 11 F. R. 1929; also Regulations of the Economic Stabilization Director, approved October 27, 1942 (32 CFR, Cum. Sup., Part 4001), as amended by Regulations approved August 28, 1943 (32 CFR, 1943 Sup., Part 4001); and Supplementary Wage and Salary Regulations promulgated March 8, 1946, by the Director of Economic Stabilization, 11 F. R. 2517.

Rules in regard to the functions of the Bureau in connection with the stabilization of salaries are contained in Treasury Decisions 5186, 5295, 5406, 5416, 5435, 5450, 5462 (29 CFR, Cum. Sup., Part 1001), T. D. 5489, 11 F. R. 296; T. D. 5506, 11 F. R. 4083; and T. D. 5511, 11 F. R. 4724.

(b) Jurisdiction. During the period October 3, 1942, to August 18, 1945, the approval of the Commissioner was required for adjustments in compensation of certain employees, particularly described in the Treasury decisions cited above, with the exception of adjustments specifically set forth in those Treasury decisions as not requiring approval or deemed approved. Such adjustments made without approval were unlawful, and the Commissioner is empowered to impose sanctions upon employers determined to have contravened the Act by the unlawful payment of compensation during that period.

During the period March 15, 1946, to July 1, 1946, and after July 25, 1946, increases in employees' salaries subject to the jurisdiction of the Commissioner under the Act of October 2, 1942, may not, with exceptions noted in the Treasury decisions listed above, be used as bases for seeking increases in price or rent ceilings, or public utility rates, for resisting otherwise justifiable reductions in such ceilings or rates, nor for increasing costs to the United States unless the increases are approved by the Salary Stabilization Unit.

The establishment of a new salary rate in a new plant or in a new department of an existing plant without approval of the Commissioner is unlawful unless the rate conforms to those provisions of Treasury Decision 5295 which authorize certain increases to be made without approval.

Decreases in certain salaries without approval of the Commissioner are unlawful, with the exceptions noted in sections 1002.15 and 1002.16 of Treasury Decision 5295.

(c) Procedure. Applications for approval of salary adjustments are required to be filed on Form SSU–1; and for approval of salaries for new positions, on Form SSU–2. These applications must be filed with the Regional Office of the Salary Stabilization Unit having jurisdiction over the territory in which the employer has his principal office or place of business, and will be considered and decided by such Regional Office.

Applicants who disagree with decisions of Regional Offices may appeal to the Head of the Salary Stabilization Unit, who will review and sustain, reverse, or modify any action upon which an appeal is filed. No particular form of appeal is prescribed, the only requirement being that a request shall be made in writing for review of the action of the Regional Office.

The Head of the Unit may, of his own volition, review and amend or reverse any decision of a Regional Office, but such action will not operate to the detriment of an applicant for the period during which he has paid salaries at rates approved by the Regional Office and until he is notified by the Head of the Unit of his amendment or reversal of such approval.

(d) Conference. An employer who desires a conference in regard to any salary stabilization matter may obtain such a conference in a Regional Office or in the office of the Head of the Salary Stabilization Unit by addressing a letter to the office in which the conference is sought. If the employer desires to be represented by a person who is not an officer or employee whose salary is not in issue, such representative must be enrolled to practice before the Treasury Department and must file a power of attorney authorizing him to represent the employer in salary stabilization matters. See § 601.1 (d) (4).

(e) Contravention. The procedure with respect to contravention or alleged contravention of the Act of October 2, 1942, is set forth in Treasury Decision 5416. See subsection (a).

(f) Description of forms. The forms prescribed for use in connection with salary stabilization are as follows:

FORM SSU–1. Employers Application for Approval of Salary Adjustment. This form requires information as to the nature and size of the employer's business, duties of the position, salary history of the position and of the employee, and reasons for the proposed adjustment.

FORM SSU–2. Employers Application for Approval of Salary Rate for New Position. This form requires a brief description of the size and nature of the employer's business, duties of the position, organization chart, comparison of proposed rate with existing rates for similar positions, and earning history of the employee.

Both forms may be obtained at Regional Offices.

§ 601.13 Rules—(a) Formulation. Internal revenue rules take various forms. The most important rules are issued as regulations and Treasury decisions, prescribed by the Commissioner and approved by the Secretary. Less important rules may be issued over the signature of the Commissioner only. The channeling of rules varies with the circumstances. Regulations and Treasury decisions are prepared in the Bureau by representatives of the appropriate Deputy Commissioner and the Chief Counsel for the Bureau. After consideration by the Deputy Commissioner, the Chief Counsel, and the Commissioner, they are forwarded to the Office of the General Counsel for the Treasury Department for further consideration. After being considered by the Tax Legislative Counsel and the General Counsel, they are submitted to the Secretary or to an Assistant Secretary for further consideration and final approval. General notice where required by section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (Public Law 404, 79th Congress, 2d Session) and in such other instances as may be desirable is published in the FEDERAL REGISTER of proposed rules (unless all persons subject thereto are named and either personally served or otherwise have actual notice thereof in accordance with law) and includes (1) a statement of the time, place, and nature of public rule-making provisions; (2) reference to the authority under which the rule is proposed; and (3) either the terms or substance of the proposed rule or a description of the subjects and issues involved.

(b) Petition to change rules. Interested persons are privileged to petition for the issuance, amendment, or repeal of a rule and such petitions will be given careful consideration. Petitions should be addressed to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Washington 25, D. C.

(c) Publication. All internal revenue regulations and Treasury decisions (whether interpretative or substantive) are published in the FEDERAL REGISTER and in the Code of Federal Regulations. The Treasury decisions are also published in the semimonthly Internal Revenue Bulletin and the annual Cumulative Bulletin. In addition, it is the policy of the Bureau to publish all rulings and decisions, including opinions of the Chief Counsel, which because they announce a ruling or decision upon a novel question or upon a question in regard to which there exists no previously published ruling or decision, or for other reasons, are of such importance as to be of general interest. It is also the policy of the Bureau to publish all rulings or decisions which revoke, modify, amend, or affect in any manner whatever any published ruling or decision.

(d) Executive orders. Executive orders on matters arising under the internal revenue laws such as, for example, inspection of tax return (see § 600.1 (b) (2)) are ordinarily prepared in the office of the Chief Counsel for the approval of the President.

[SEAL] JOSEPH J. O'CONNELL, Jr.,
Acting Secretary.

BUREAU OF THE MINT

[31 CFR, Ch. I]

PART 91—FUNCTIONS AND ORGANIZATION, BUREAU OF THE MINT

Sec.
91.1 Functions.
91.2 Central organization.
91.3 Field organization.
91.4 Public information; submittals and requests.

§ 91.1 Functions. The first United States Mint was founded at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, in 1792. The direction of the branch mints and assay offices, authorized later, remained at Philadelphia until 1873, when the Bureau of the Mint was established, headed by the Director of the Mint with offices in Washington.

The Bureau of the Mint and the mint and assay offices and depositories throughout the United States administer various Acts of Congress contained in Title 31 of the United States Code, Chapters 7 and 8, which deal with the coinage of money and the purchase, sale, deposit, assay, refining and custody of gold and silver; and in part administer Treasury controls over the acquisition, ownership, possession and use of the monetary metals.

§ 91.2 Central organization. The Central office of the Bureau of the Mint, headed by the Director of the Mint, is situated in the Washington Building, 15th and New York Avenue, Washington 25, D. C., and is composed of the following divisions: (a) The Office of the Director; (b) The Gold Unit; (c) The Silver Unit; (d) The Laboratory Unit; (e) The Accounting Unit; and (f) The Personnel Unit.

(a) The Office of the Director. The Director of the Mint is appointed by the President with the advice and consent of the Senate for a term of 5 years. By statute, the Director is charged with the general supervision of the activities of the central office and of the seven field institutions, under the general direction of the Secretary of the Treasury (31 U. S. C. 251). All inquiries regarding general mint matters not specifically stated to be directed to the field institutions should be addressed to the Director of the Mint.

The Secretary of the Treasury has delegated to the Director the authority to administer the issuance of Treasury licenses for the acquisition, ownership, possession, and use of gold for industrial, professional and artistic purposes; the revocation of such licenses, or the denial of applications therefor, is subject to review by the Secretary of the Treasury.

The Director fixes the charges for the coinage of money for foreign countries, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, and prepares quarterly estimates of the values of the standard coins of the various nations of the world, which the Secretary of the Treasury is required by law to proclaim (31 U. S. C. 367, 372).

The Assistant Director of the Mint is a civil service employee and has been designated by the Secretary of the Treasury to act as Director in the temporary absence of the latter.

(b) The Gold Unit. Administers the Gold Regulations (31 CFR and Cum. Supp., Part 54); examines all applications for licenses for the industrial, professional, and artistic use, and the export, of gold, and prepares for the signature of the Director (1) authorizations to be sent to the Mint institutions in the field for the issuance of industrial licenses in appropriate cases; (2) authorizations to be sent to the Mint institutions in the field for the issuance of specific licenses for individual exports of gold; (3) general export licenses for periods of three months, and (4) instructions to effect delivery of illegally held gold coin or bullion and instructions for the disposition of gold which through litigation or forfeiture has become the property of the United States; makes recommendations to the Director for the revocation of gold licenses or the denial of applications therefor; initiates investigations of indicated irregularities in gold transactions; and audits reports of licensees.

(c) The Silver Unit. Administers the regulations concerning newly mined domestic silver, audits reports and examines affidavits to ascertain the eligibility of silver delivered to the mint institutions pursuant to such regulations; conducts investigations through its field auditors to preclude the acceptance of ineligible silver; compiles and analyzes general data relative to silver; and prepares rules concerning the eligibility of silver under the Newly Mined Domestic Silver Regulations (31 CFR, Cum. Supp. Part 80).

(d) The Laboratory Unit. Advises the Director of the Mint on metallurgical matters and makes necessary metallurgical and chemical investigations, tests, and assays.

(e) The Accounting Unit. Handles fiscal matters and budget estimates, collects and compiles domestic and foreign monetary statistics for publication, and prepares for the Director the Annual Report and the quarterly estimates of the values of foreign moneys.

(f) The Personnel Unit. Performs customary personnel functions for all employees of the Mint Service.

§ 91.3 Field organization. The Mint service includes Coinage Mints located at 16th and Spring Garden Streets, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; Colfax and Delaware Streets, Denver, Colorado; and Buchanan Street and Duboce Avenue, San Francisco California: Assay Offices at 815 Airport Way, Seattle, Washington, and 32 Old Slip, New York City: a Bullion Depository for gold at Fort Knox, Kentucky, and a silver Bullion Depository at West Point, New York.

The United States is divided into the following mint districts for the administration of the gold and silver regulations and for the receipt of gold and silver deposits:

The Philadelphia Mint District, consisting of the States of Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, Missouri, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia, and West Virginia, and the District of Columbia.

The Denver Mint District, consisting of the States of Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Nebraska, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Texas, Utah, and Wyoming.

The San Francisco Mint District, consisting of the States of Arizona, California, and Nevada, and the Territories and possessions of the United States not specifically included in other mint districts.

The Seattle Mint District, consisting of the States of Idaho, Montana, Oregon, and Washington, and the Territory of Alaska.

The New York Mint District, consisting of the States of Connecticut, Delaware, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Rhode Island, Vermont, and Wisconsin, and Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands of the United States, and the Panama Canal Zone.

A Superintendent, appointed by the President by and with the advice and consent of the Senate for no fixed term, is in charge of each coinage mint and assay office (with the exception of the United States Assay Office at Seattle which is headed by the Assayer In Charge). The Superintendent has general supervision of and responsibility for the conduct of the business of the institution and is responsible for values received and stored therein. All inquiries and correspondence relative to business conducted at the coinage mints and assay offices should be addressed to the Superintendent in charge of the respective institutions (or to the Assayer In Charge of the Seattle office).

The assistant head of each mint and assay office is the Chief Clerk, who is authorized by statute to act as Superintendent (or Assayer in Charge) in the absence of the latter. Each mint and the New York assay office has an Assay Department headed by the Assayer, who is appointed by the President by and with the advice and consent of the Senate for no definite term, and who by law is responsible for the assay made of every deposit of gold and silver and its correctness.

All coinage mints and assay offices receive gold and silver bullion for deposit and return or for purchase by the Government in accordance with applicable laws and regulations; determine the eligibility of such gold and silver for deposit and return or purchase; have custody of such gold and silver bullion as may be purchased by them; and sell gold and silver as authorized by law. All mints and assay offices issue licenses for the use of gold, after approval of applications by the Director. Information in connection with the issuance of such licenses, the eligibility of gold and silver for deposit, and the sale of gold and silver, as well as the necessary application and affidavit forms, may be obtained from any mint or assay office. All mints and assay offices make assays of gold and silver bullion for the public and the Denver Mint and the Seattle Assay Office make commercial assays of ores.

The coinage mints at Denver, Philadelphia, and San Francisco manufacture all of the metal money of the United States and have custody of the finished coins until they are shipped to the Federal Reserve Banks by order of the Treasurer of the United States. Coins are manufactured for foreign governments pursuant to contract. Medals of a national character and proof coins for sale to the public are manufactured at the Philadelphia mint, and are available only upon application to the Superintendent of that institution.

The United States Bullion Depository at Fort Knox is maintained solely for safe-keeping of the Government's stores of monetary gold and is not open to the public. It is headed by the Chief Clerk in Charge, and in his absence the Assistant Chief Clerk.

The United States Bullion Depository at West Point is operated as an adjunct to the New York Assay Office and is used solely for the storage of silver. It is not open to the public.

Furthermore, such documents may contain information of a confidential nature concerning the commercial and industrial affairs and activities of individuals and enterprises, e. g., amounts of gold and silver mined, or held in stock, proposed industrial, professional and artistic uses to be made of such metals, etc. To permit inspection of such documents would violate public and private confidence and would be contrary to the best interests of the Government and of persons dealing with the Bureau of the Mint.

Persons desiring to examine records of the Bureau of the Mint are required to make written application to the Director of the Mint, Washington 25, D. C., giving information as to the particular records desired to be examined. Applicants will be advised of the records which, in accordance with the provisions above, they will be permitted to examine, and the time and place of examination. In certain instances, where facilities permit, copies of documents may, in the discretion of the Director, be sent to the applicant.

(b) Submittals and requests. The public may secure information from, or make submittals or requests to, the Director of the Bureau of the Mint, Washington 25, D. C. However, attention is directed to Part 92 of this chapter which sets forth procedures to be followed in connection with customary functions of the Mint Bureau, such as the issuance of gold licenses. In all appropriate cases such procedures should be followed before submittals or requests are made to the Director.

§ 92.1 Regulation of use and holding of gold. Pursuant to Executive Order No. 6102 of April 5, 1933, Executive Order No. 6260 of August 28, 1933 (31 CFR, Part 50), and the Order of the Secretary of the Treasury of December 28, 1933, as amended and supplemented (31 CFR 52.1), all persons subject to the jurisdiction of the United States were required to deliver to the Treasurer of the United States all gold coins (except "rare" gold coins), gold bullion, and gold certificates situated in the United States, with certain minor exceptions not of interest to the general public. At the present time, the acquisition, ownership and disposition of gold in all forms is permitted only in accordance with the Provisional Regulations issued under the Gold Reserve Act of 1934 (31 CFR, Part 54).

Persons holding gold in melted or treated form which was required to be delivered pursuant to the orders mentioned above, or which is not authorized to be held under the Gold Regulations, should immediately deliver such gold to a United States Mint or Assay Office and should execute the form entitled "Special Affidavit of Depositor of Gold in Melted Form." This form may be procured from any United States Mint or Assay Office or from the Director of the Mint, Washington, D. C. Payment for gold held in noncompliance with the Orders referred to above is governed by the Instructions of the Secretary of the Treasury of January 17, 1934 (31 CFR 53.1) which provide, subject to the rights reserved, for payment at the rate of $20.67 an ounce. Disposition of gold not authorized to be acquired or held under the Gold Regulations is determined by the Director of the Mint.

Section 20 of the Provisional Gold Regulations permits, with certain exceptions, the acquisition, holding, etc., of "rare" gold coins. This section does not, however, permit the acquistion, holding, etc., of gold coins which were required to be delivered under the Orders mentioned above.

Gold coins which have been withheld in violation of any of such orders should be delivered promptly to the Treasurer of the United States a United States Mint or Assay Office, a Federal Reserve Bank or branch, or a member bank of the Federal Reserve system. Any gold coin which has not been of recognized special value to collectors of rare and unusual coins since prior to April 5, 1933, should, in the absence of special circumstances, have been delivered pursuant to such administrative orders, and accordingly is now required to be so delivered.

Payment for gold coins required to be delivered under the Orders mentioned above is governed by the Instructions of the Secretary of the Treasury of January 17, 1934, which provide, subject to the rights reserved, for payment of the dollar face amount for United States coins and payment at the rate of $20.67 an ounce for foreign gold coins.

§ 92.2. Issuance of gold licenses—(a) Licenses for industrial, professional, and artistic uses. Applications for licenses for the industrial, professional and artistic use of gold are made on Form TG–12 and the supplement thereto, which require a description of the applicant's business, a statement of the specific purpose for which the gold is to be used, an estimate of requirements for a three months period and other information. Copies of these forms are available at all field offices or at the Office of the Director of the Mint. The applications should be submitted to the Mint or Assay Office in the district in which the applicant resides or has his principal place of business. Applications are given preliminary processing for completeness and technical acceptability and are then forwarded to the Office of the Director which determines the eligibility of the applicant under the Gold Regulations to receive a license. If the Mint Bureau is satisfied that the gold is required for "legitimate and customary" use in an industry, profession or art, the appropriate mint office is authorized by the Director to issue the license (31 CFR 54.23). The licenses are issued on Forms TGL–12, License to Deal in Unmelted Scrap Gold; TGL–13, License to Acquire and Hold, Transport, Melt and Treat, and Import Gold for Furnishing to, Processing for, or Use in, Industry, Profession, or Art, or for Refining for Reexport, or for Sale to the United States; or TGL–14, License to use Gold in Industry, Profession, or Art; depending upon the amount authorized and character of the applicant's business (31 CFR 54.25 (a) and (b). If an application for a license is denied the interested party is so informed by the Director of the Mint. Gold Licenses are subject to revocation by the Mint of issue upon instructions from the Director with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury for noncompliance with the Gold Regulations or the terms of the License or for other sufficient cause. Any subsequent correspondence in regard thereto should be addressed to the Director.

Quarterly reports are required on Form TGL–12 from scrap gold dealers licensed on Form TGL–12, on Form TGL–13 from refiners and smelters of gold licensed on TGL–13, and on TGL–14, from fabricators of gold products licensed on TGL–14, containing detailed information as to their operations during the preceding three months. The report forms are mailed quarterly from the Office of the Director of the Mint to the licensees and are filed by them with the Office of the Director, where they are examined and audited (31 CFR 54.27).

(b) Licenses for the export of gold. Licenses for the export of gold in all forms are issued only to the holders of gold licenses mentioned above, and persons authorized to hold gold under the Gold Regulations (31 CFR 54.21) upon a satisfactory showing that the export or transport from the continental United States is for a "specific and customary industrial, professional, or artistic use connected with the applicant's business, and not for the purpose of using or holding or disposing of such gold beyond the limits of the continental United States as, or in lieu of, money, or for the value of its gold content" (31 CFR 54.25 (c)).

Applications for the export of gold in individual lots are filed on Form TG–15 which requires information as to the amount and value of gold exported, the consignee, and the purpose for which such gold is to be used. This form is available at all mint institutions and should be filed with the mint or assay office from which the applicant holds his industrial license. The applications are forwarded to the Office of the Director which authorizes the issuance of the license on Form TGL–15, by the Superintendent of the Mint.

Applications for the export of gold coin, having a recognized special value to collectors of rare and unusual coin, are filed on Form TG–11 with the Director of the Mint who issues such licenses. Licenses are granted, when or if the Director of the Mint is satisfied that the coins are of such recognized special value and have not been held in violation of the Gold Regulations or the gold Orders referred to in § 92.1.

A detailed description of such coins, or the coins themselves, may be sent at the owner's risk to the Office of the Director of the Mint to be submitted to the National Museum (Smithsonian Institution) for determination as to whether such coins are rare.

Export licenses on TGL–16 are issued for the export of gold refined (or the equivalent of gold refined) from gold bearing materials imported with the intention of exporting the gold refined therefrom, provided that a formal declaration is made to the Collector of Customs at the port where the material is entered that such exportation is intended to be made, and that a copy of the entry with the Collector's notation to that effect is forwarded to the United States Assay Office at New York or to the Mint at San Francisco, as designated by the importer. An application on Form TG 16, giving information as to the amount of refined gold, the consignee, the location of the plant at which the gold was refined and other information must be filed not later than three months from the date of entry with such institution.

Gold may be imported and transported for prompt export without the necessity of holding a license provided that it remains under customs custody throughout the period during which it is within the customs limits of the United States. If the gold leaves customs custody, it may be transported and exported only under a license on Form TGL–17 pursuant to an application on Form TG–17, which requires information as to the port of entry, the amount of gold, the name and address of the consignee and other pertinent facts, filed with the Assay Office at New York or the Mint at San Francisco.

Export licenses for the export of gold for a period of three months on Form TGL–15 Special, General License for the Export of Gold, are issued from the Office of the Director in Washington, after applications are filed with such office on Form TG–15 (Special) which calls for substantially the same information as that required on Form TG–15. Reports containing information as to the amounts of gold exported, the consignees, and the use of such gold are required on Form TGR–15 (Special).

Applications for three months licenses for the exportation of gold ores and concentrates are made on Form TG–15B, licenses are granted on Form TGL–15B and quarterly reports are required on TGR–15B in the same manner as applications for the export of other gold as set forth above.

§ 92.3 Purchase of gold. Deposits of gold are required to be accompanied by affidavits on Form TG–19, by persons who have recovered gold by mining and panning; TG–20 by persons who have recovered it in the regular course of their business of operating a custom mill, smelter or refinery; TG–21, by persons purchasing gold directly from miners and panners; TG–22, by depositors of unmelted scrap gold; and TG–23 by persons depositing gold including foreign gold coin imported into the United States. All of the above forms require a description of the gold and information as to the source and date of acquisition or mining. The deposits and affidavits are delivered to the Mint institutions in the district in which the depositor lives or has his principal place of business, for return in the form of stamped bars when the depositor is authorized to receive such bars, or for sale to the Government.

(31 U. S. C. 325, 360) The price paid is $35 per fine troy ounce, less ¼ of 1%, less the usual mint charges as set forth in the Table of Charges (31 CFR 54.42 and Part 90).

If the deposit contains less than one ounce of fine gold, if the report of the Assayer is that it is unsuitable for the operations of the Mint, or if it contains less than 200 parts of gold in 1,000, or 800 or more parts of base metal in 1,000 by assay it will not be purchased by the Mint (31 CFR 54.26, 31 U. S. C. 329). In such case, if the depositor is authorized by the terms of a license issued pursuant to the Gold Regulations to hold melted gold, the unacceptable deposit will be returned to him.

Silver contained in gold bullion sold to the Government may be returned in the form of silver bars or will be purchased at such valuations as are from time to time established by the Director of the Mint, as authorized by Statute (31 U. S. C. 328). The price currently being paid for such silver is the next even cent below the official New York Market Price on the day the deposit is made, except that silver contained in deposits of newly mined domestic gold may be paid for as newly-mined domestic silver if it meets the conditions set forth in § 92.4.

§ 92.4 Deposit of newly-mined domestic silver. Any owner of silver bullion may deposit it at the mint or assay office in his district for return in the form of unparted stamped bars and at the coinage mints and the New York Assay Office for return in the form of refined stamped bars (31 U. S. C. 325, 328).

Domestic silver mined subsequent to July 1, 1939 from natural deposits in the United States or any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof may be deposited with the coinage mints. As a matter of convenience to the public, the Assay Offices at New York and Seattle will accept eligible silver for the accounts of the mints at Philadelphia, and San Francisco, respectively. A return of 71.11 cents per ounce will be made for silver mined subsequent to July 1, 1939 as prescribed in the Act of July 6, 1939, and a return of 90.5 cents per ounce will be made for silver mined subsequent to July 1, 1946 as prescribed in the Act of July 31, 1946, if tendered to the coinage mints within one year in accordance with the provisions of the Newly-Mined Silver Regulations (31 CFR, Part 80). At the time of deposit, the owner of such silver shall file with the coinage mint an affidavit on TSA–1 (for silver eligible for purchase under the Act of July 6, 1939) or TSA–10 (for silver eligible for delivery under the Act of July 31, 1946) which requires certain information and warranties as to the date of mining of such silver, supported by miner's affidavits on Forms TSA–2 or TSA–20, respectively, or, in the case of silver taken from mine dumps and tailing piles, on TSA–2a and TSA–20a, respectively.

Persons delivering silver in the manner described above are required to file with the Office of the Director a report on Form TSA–3 (in the case of silver delivered under the Act of July 6, 1939) or TSA–30 (in the case of silver delivered pursuant to the Act of July 31, 1946) containing details as to the amount of silver on hand at the beginning of the period covered, mined, and/or received from other sources during such period, and the dispositions, metallurgical losses, if any, and the balance on hand at the end of the period. The records required to be maintained by the regulations must be available for inspection by representatives of the Office of the Director.

§ 92.5. Receipt, handling of bullion deposits; payment therefor. As a matter of practical expedience and convenience to the public, the officers in charge of mint institutions are authorized to receive deposits of bullion by express or mail. In cases where reasonable doubts may arise as to the ownership and eligibility or any other pertinent factor concerning deposits, the officers may decline to receive deposits unless made in person.

All bullion deposited or purchased at any of the Mints or Assay Offices of the United States is weighed, when practicable, in the presence of the depositor or his agent, and the weight is verified by some official or competent employee of the Mint. Weights are recorded in troy ounces and hundredths of an ounce. Whenever the depositor so requests, he is given a receipt on United States Mint Form 7a for the before-melting weight of his deposit. Such receipts must be surrendered, properly indorsed by the depositor at the time payment is made for the bullion represented thereby (31 U. S. C. 329).

The Assayer takes at least two samples in sufficient portions for assay from each deposit of bullion. The proportion of the gold, silver and base metal contained, as well as the charges to which the deposit is subject, are indicated by the Assayer on Form 39 which is signed by the Assayer. This form also contains the depositor's name, the number and date of the deposit, the class of bullion, the weight before and after melting and the deductions, if any, to which the deposit has been subjected. The charges for the various operations on bullion deposited and for the preparation of bars are fixed from time to time by the Director of the Mint, with the concurrence of the Secretary of the Treasury, so as to equal but not exceed, in their judgment, the actual average cost to each mint and assay office of the material, labor, wastage and use of machinery employed (31 U. S. C. 330–2, 334). The current charges are set forth in the Table of Charges (31 CFR, Part 90).

Depositors are credited with the after-melting weight of their bullion (31 U. S. C. 329). The detailed memorandum of the weight of bullion after melting and deduction and the report of the Assayer as to fineness, the value of the deposit and the amount of the charges is given to the depositor (31 U. S. C. 273, 334).

Payments for bullion are made, insofar as practicable, in the order in which the deposits are received at the mints, by checks drawn in favor of the depositor or such other person as he may designate, except when cash or bars are requested, but in no case is a check in payment of a deposit drawn in favor of any officer or person of the institution where the deposit is made and in no case may any person employed in the institution act as agent for the depositor (31 U. S. C. 357, 358, 359, 463). Checks may be sent by ordinary mail at the risk of the payees or by registered mail at their expense and request.

When the approximate fineness of a deposit of bullion containing $5,000 or more in gold or 5,000 ounces of silver may be readily determined, partial payment of 90% of the value may be made in the discretion of the officer in charge. If the fineness is already closely determined by assay, and the deposit is awaiting remelting and reassay for exact determining, partial payment up to 98% of the value may be made. Partial payment of 99% of the declared value of a deposit of foreign coin valued at at least one million dollars after its weight and approximate value have been determined may be made; on a deposit of a million dollars in value of gold bullion .995 fine, payment of 98% of the declared value may be made after the weight and approximate value have been determined (31 U. S. C. 358).

§ 92.6 Deposits of United States coin. United States gold coin is received only under instructions in effect from the Secretary of the Treasury. (See § 92.1.) Coin, eligible for acceptance under such instructions, if of legal weight is paid for at face value; if worn or mutilated, is received as standard metal without previous melt or assay (except when it may be necessary to establish the amount of foreign substance present that cannot otherwise be determined), and is paid for as bullion at the rate of $20.67 per ounce of fine gold.

Redemption of silver coins is made by the Treasurer of the United States, as provided in 31 CFR, Part 100.

Mutilated silver and minor coins as defined in 31 CFR, 100.10 and 100.11, however, when offered in lots of not less than 1 pound of each kind, will be purchased at the coinage mints at a price which represents the approximate value as metal, as fixed from time to time by the Director of the Mint. Mutilated silver coins are also purchased at the New York Assay office.

§ 92.7 Sale of gold. A licensee or other person authorized under the Provisional Gold Regulations to acquire gold, may apply for the purchase of gold in bar form on Form TG–24, if the applicant is a user of gold, or on Form TG–25, if a dealer in gold. These forms require information as to the amount of gold held by the applicant and representations as to the use to be made of the gold requested. Applications shall be filed with the mint institution from which he holds his license or, if no license is required, in which he resides or has his principal place of business. The right is reserved, however, to furnish such gold from any mint institution. Fine gold bars of not less than .995 fineness, stamped with the name of the institution which manufactured them, the weight and fineness are furnished (31 U. S. C. 325). No bar of less weight than five ounces is issued by any United States Mint or Assay Office and no bars are sold in lots of less than 25 troy ounces (31 CFR, 54.43).

Gold is sold at $35 plus 1/4 of of 1% per fine troy ounce plus the mint charges set forth in the Table of Charges (31 CFR, 54.43; 21 CFR, Part 90), and transportation costs from the institution of sale are paid by the buyer. Payment is made at the time of delivery of the bars, in cash and currency. Payment by check will be accepted but delivery will not be made until the check has been deposited by the officer in charge of the institution and has cleared (31 U. S. C. 462).

§ 92.8 Sale of silver. An application for the purchase of silver may be filed with the mint or assay office in the district in which the applicant has his principal place of business, on forms which are available at all mints and assay offices and the Office of the Director of the Mint. Such forms require information as to amounts of silver previously used in applicant's business. The right is reserved to supply the silver, however, from any other mint institution if the interest of the Government so requires. Silver will be sold only in amounts required for manufacturing use in the normal conduct of the applicant's business. Applications for unusual amounts of silver are required to be referred to the Office of the Director of the Mint for approval before the sale can be made. Silver is sold at a price not less than 90.5¢ per fine troy ounce. The present price is 91¢. Transportation from the institution at which it is sold to the purchaser is paid by him. Payment for silver may be made in the same manner as for gold, as set forth in § 92.7 (Act of July 31, 1946, Public Law 579, 79th Congress).

§ 92.9 Assays of bullion and ores. Samples of bullion are assayed for the public at all mint institutions, at the charges set forth in the Table of Charges (31 CFR, Part 90, 31 U. S. C. 273, 283). Samples of ores are assayed at the Denver Mint and the Seattle Assay Office, at the the price set forth in the Table of Charges (31 CFR, Part 90).

§ 92.10 Medals and proof coins. Medals of historic interest are manufactured at the Philadelphia Mint for sale to the public. A list of those available and the price charged therefor may be obtained from the Superintendent of that institution. Dies for private medals cannot be prepared at the mint but, when the regular business of the mint will permit, private medals can be struck from dies furnished, at a charge sufficient to cover the cost of the operation. Applications for the manufacture of such medals may be made by letter to the Superintendent of the Philadelphia Mint. Such manufacture is subject to the approval of the Director of the Mint (31 U. S. C. 368).

Proof coins, which are made in the medal room of the Philadelphia Mint, on a hydraulic press, from coin blanks which have been specially cleaned and polished, are sold by that institution at face value plus a charge sufficient to cover the additional expense of their preparation. Their manufacture and issuance are contingent upon the demands of regular operations, and it is not anticipated that any will be manufactured during the calendar year 1946.

§ 92.11 Informal procedures. Officials of the Bureau of the Mint or of the Treasury Department, who are concerned with mint affairs, are available by appointment for consultation with any person having a problem involving the functions of the Bureau, interpretation of regulations, or similar matters. Upon written request by an applicant for a license, the Director of the Mint will schedule a hearing on such application, at which time there may be brought to the attention of the Bureau any information bearing upon such application. An appeal from a denial of an application for a license, from a revocation of an existing license, or from other administrative determinations of the Bureau, may be addressed by letter to the Secretary of the Treasury for his consideration, or a new application may be filed and a hearing thereon requested.

(1) Enforcement Division. The Assistant to the Commissioner is head of this division, which directs and supervises enforcement and investigative matters generally.

(2) Returns Division. Audits returns of importers, manufacturers and wholesale dealers, and handles statistical work regarding production and distribution of narcotic drugs, including estimates and quotas.

(3) Legal Division. Handles legal questions arising in the course of narcotic law enforcement. This division is responsible to the General Counsel for the Department of the Treasury.

(4) Personnel Section. Handles matters relating to personnel of the Bureau.

§ 206.2 Field organization. The field organization is composed of 15 District Supervisors, each of whom is in charge of a district comprising one or more states and territories. The District Supervisor directs the activities of a group of narcotic agents, and has direct charge of narcotic law enforcement investigation and detection in his district, under the general supervision of the Commissioner. SUBPART B—DELEGATION OF AUTHORITY

§ 206.3 Delegations by the Secretary to the Commissioner of Narcotics. The Secretary of the Treasury has delegated, subject to his general supervision and direction, to the Commissioner of Narcotics:

(a) Certain regulation-making and enforcement powers under the Internal Revenue Code relating to marihuana (26 U. S. C. 2590–2604, and 3230–3239), except that the Commissioner of Internal Revenue and the Commissioner of Narcotics may prescribe such regulations jointly, subject to the approval of the Secretary. (Narcotic T. D. 28, 2 F. R. 1808; see note, 25 CFR 152.1).

(b) Authority to cooperate with state authorities under section 8 of the Act of June 14, 1930 (21 U. S. C. 198), in state narcotic law prosecutions and in proceedings before state licensing boards involving narcotic irregularities §§ 201.8–201.12, this chapter).

(c) Authority to seize, and to the several district supervisors authority to hold in custody, vessels, vehicles and aircraft subject to seizure in so far as concerns narcotic contraband, under the Act of Congress approved August 9, 1939 (49 U. S. C. 781–788), but regulation-making power is retained by the Secretary of the Treasury (26 CFR, Cum. Supp. 466.1–466.3).

(d) All authority granted to the Secretary by the Opium Poppy Control Act of 1942 (21 U. S. C., Supp. V, 188 et seq.) including the issuance, renewal, revocation and denial of licenses to produce the opium poppy or to manufacture opium or opium products therefrom, and to make, prescribe and publish, with the approval of the Secretary, necessary rules and regulations for carrying out the provisions of said act (§§ 203.1–203.3 of this chapter).

(e) Certain authority of a general enforcement and rule-making nature, as contained in Titles III and IV, and to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue in Title V, of Narcotics Treasury Decision No. 2 of July 1, 1930, which provisions are continued in effect, pursuant to section 3b of the Act of June 14, 1930 (5 U. S. C. 282b (b)) and Treasury Decision 4884, approved February 11, 1939 (Note, Title 25 CFR, Cum. Supp., page 5875) in revised form as follows:

III. RIGHTS, PRIVILEGES, POWERS, AND DUTIES CONFERRED AND IMPOSED UPON THE COMMISSIONER OF NARCOTICS

(1) There are hereby conferred and imposed upon the Commissioner of Narcotics, subject to the general supervision and direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, all the rights, privileges, powers, and duties conferred or imposed upon the Commissioner of Internal Revenue (and which are transferred to and conferred and imposed upon the Secretary of the Treasury by subdivision (a) of section 4 of the act of March 3, 1927) by 26 U. S. C. 2550–2571 and 3220–3228, insofar as such rights, privileges, powers, and duties relate to:

(a) The investigation and the detection and punishment of violations of either of the above laws or any regulations issued thereunder;

(b) Exemptions from any of the provisions of the above laws;

(c) The books, records, and returns required to be kept or rendered under any of the above laws;

(d) The prescribing of forms and order forms under any of the above acts;

(e) The manner in which the record of sales, exchanges, and gifts of tax-exempt preparations and remedies containing narcotic drugs shall be kept;

(f) The manner in which application shall be made for confiscated narcotic drugs;

(g) The appointment of a committee for the certification and disposition of confiscated narcotic drugs;

(h) The compromise of any criminal or civil case arising under either of the above laws, in accordance with section 3761 of Title 26, U. S. Code, and the determination, assertion, and compromise of liability for internal-revenue taxes and penalties under either of the above laws, except that all moneys shall be received and accounted for by collectors of internal revenue, under the direction of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue;

(i) Seizures, for violation of either of the above laws, of property, whether real or personal (except under distraint warrant), and the custody, control, sale, and disposition of property so seized;

(j) The appointment of such officers and employees as may be necessary for the execution of the functions imposed upon the Bureau of Narcotics.

(2) Power is hereby conferred upon the Commissioner of Narcotics to prescribe such regulations as he may deem necessary for the execution of the functions imposed upon him or upon the officers or employees of the Bureau of Narcotics, but all regulations and changes in regulations shall be subject to the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue and the Commissioner of Narcotics may, if they are of the opinion that the good of the service will be promoted thereby, prescribe regulations relating to internal-revenue taxes where no violation of the narcotic laws is involved, jointly, subject to the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury.

IV. RIGHTS, PRIVILEGES, POWERS, AND DUTIES CONFERRED AND IMPOSED UPON THE OFFICERS AND EMPLOYEES OF THE BUREAU OF NARCOTICS, INCLUDING THE FIELD SERVICE

There are hereby conferred and imposed upon the officers and employees of the Bureau of Narcotics, including the agents, inspectors, and other employees in the field service, all the rights, privileges, powers, and duties conferred or imposed upon the assistants, agents, and inspectors of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue (and which are transferred to and conferred and imposed upon the Secretary of the Treasury by subdivision (a), of section 4 of the act of March 3, 1927), by any narcotic law in so far as such rights, privileges, powers, and duties relate to any of the matters referred to in paragraphs (a) to (j), inclusive, of Section III of this order. All such officers and employees of the Bureau of Narcotics, including the agents, inspectors, and other employees of the field service, shall have, in the performance of their functions under the narcotic drug laws, all the rights, privileges, and powers of internal revenue officers.

V. RIGHTS, PRIVILEGES, POWERS, AND DUTIES CONFERRED AND IMPOSED UPON THE COMMISSIONER OF INTERNAL REVENUE

There are hereby conferred upon the Commissioner of Internal Revenue all the rights, privileges, powers, and duties conferred or imposed upon such officer (and which are transferred to and conferred and imposed upon the Secretary of the Treasury by subdivision (a) of section 4 of the act of March 3, 1927) by any narcotic law, except such rights, privileges, powers, and duties as are hereinbefore conferred or imposed upon the Commissioner of Narcotics.

§ 206.4 Other delegations to Commissioner of Narcotics.—(a) The War Assets Administrator has approved the delegation of authority to the Bureau of Narcotics to act for and in its behalf as disposal agency for surplus narcotic drugs and marihuana under the Surplus Property Act of 1944 (50 U. S. C. App. Sup. 1611), Public Laws Nos. 181 and 375, 79th Congress, and Executive Order 9689 (11 F. R. 1265), by War Assets Administration Regulation 1, Order 5 (11 F. R. 7977).

(b) The War Production Board delegated to the Bureau of Narcotics authority to allocate narcotic drugs, under Title III of the Second War Powers Act (50 U. S. C., App. 633) and this delegation has been ratified and continues in effect (W. P. B. Directive No. 10, October 6, 1942, 32 CFR, Cum. Supp. 903.116; Executive Order 9638, October 4, 1945; 10 F. R. 12591; C. P. A. Regulation 1, November 5, 1945, 10 F. R. 13714)

§ 206.5 Delegations by the Commissioner. There is no formal delegation of final authority by the Commissioner. Under the act of June 14, 1930 (5 U. S. C. 282a) the Deputy Commissioner acts as Commissioner of Narcotics during the absence or disability of such Commissioner, or in the event that there is no Commissioner. The Commissioner may, however, in a particular case, refer an applicant for agency action to the Deputy Commissioner, Assistant to the Commissioner, the head of the Returns Division, or to the head or assistant head of the Legal Division, for informal conference.

§ 206.6 Public information, submittals and requests. Public information concerning the scope of application of a particular provision of the Federal narcoting and marihuana laws or of any regulation thereunder, may be obtained from the District Supervisor at the headquarters office of the district in which the applicant is located. (§ 206.2). The opinion or interpretation of the District Supervisor is subject to review or confirmation by the Commissioner of Narcotics, Washington 25, D. C. All other information may be obtained from, and submittals and requests should be submitted to, the Commissioner of Narcotics, Washington 25, D. C., except that the Commissioner will not give information which, in his opinion, may prejudice a present or prospective investigation or which may prejudice the rights of a third person.

SUBPART C—FUNCTIONS AND PROCEDURES

§ 206.7 Rules—(a) Regulations under the internal revenue laws relating to narcotic drugs and marihuana (26 U. S. C. 2550–2571; 26 U. S. C. 2590–2604; 26 U. S. C. 3220–3239) are made jointly by the Commissioner of Narcotics and the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, subject to the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury. (§ 206.3). Regulations under the Narcotic Drugs Import and Export Act, as amended, (21 U. S. C. 171–185) are made by the Commissioner of Narcotics, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury (5 U. S. C. 282b (e)). Regulations under section 8 of the Act of June 14, 1930 (21 U. S. C. 198) with reference to cooperation with states, are made by the Secretary of the Treasury, upon recommendation by the Commissioner of Narcotics. Regulations under the Act of August 9, 1939 (49 U. S. C. 781–788) regarding seizures of vessels, vehicles, and aircraft involved with narcotic contraband, are made by the Secretary of the Treasury, upon recommendation by the Commissioner of Narcotics. Regulations under the Opium Poppy Control Act of 1942 (21 U. S. C., Sup. 188–188n) are made by the Commissioner of Narcotics, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury (§§ 203.1–203.3) of this chapter.

(b) General notice of the making of a substantive regulation with which the Commissioner of Narcotics is concerned, will be published in the Federal Register not less than thirty days prior to the intended effective date of the regulation, with a statement of the tentative text or, if revision of an entire group of regulations is contemplated, a statement of the salient points of proposed revision. The notice will include a statement of the time, place and nature of public regulation-making proceedings and reference to the authority under which the regulation is proposed. Within a period of twenty days from the date of publication of notice, any interested person may participate in the making of the regulation through submission to the Commissioner of Narcotics at Washington 25, D. C. of written data, views or arguments which will be given due consideration. If the Commissioner finds it necessary to disapprove, in whole or in part, such data, views or arguments, he shall so notify the proponent thereof, with a statement of his reasons. The final draft of the regulation or regulations, with a concise general statement of basis and purpose, will be published in the Federal Register promptly after approval by the necessary officer or officers, and will be made effective in thirty days unless for good cause found and published with the regulation, an earlier effective date is stated.

(c) The foregoing paragraph shall not apply where an urgent situation justifies a finding, explained in the regulation, that notice and public procedure thereon are impracticable, unnecessary, or contrary to the public interest. It shall not apply in the case of interpretative regulations, general statements of policy, rules of agency organization, procedure, or practice, but such regulations or rules shall be published at least thirty days before the effective date unless the Commissioner of Narcotics shall determine that an earlier date is necessary in the public interest.

(d) Any interested person may submit to the Commissioner of Narcotics at Washington 25, D. C., a written petition for the issuance, amendment, or repeal of a rule or regulation, giving reasons in support of the petition. The Commissioner shall consider the petition, and shall notify the petitioner as promptly as possible of his decision thereon, with statement of reasons therefor.

§ 206.8 Adjudication and licensing. (a) In general, applications for orders and licenses must be made in writing to the Commissioner of Narcotics at Washington 25, D. C. This does not include applications relating directly to fiscal functions under the internal revenue marihuana or narcotic laws such as applications for registration (26 CFR 152.4 and 26 CFR 151.4) and applications for the purchase of official order forms (26 CFR 152.46 and 26 CFR 151.64).

(b) Procedure on application. When the written application is received by the Commissioner, he may refer it to the Deputy Commissioner, the Assistant to the Commissioner, the head of the Returns Division, or to the head or assistant head of the Legal Division, for study and report. Further information may be requested from the proponent, and independent investigation may be made, including investigation by a District Supervisor. If requested, the Commissioner will afford the proponent opportunity to appear personally, with qualified attorney if desired, before the Commissioner or an officer designated by the Commissioner, at the Bureau of Narcotics, Washington, D. C., to give oral testimony and argument in support of the application. As promptly as possible after due consideration of all facts and arguments adduced, the Commissioner shall notify the proponent of his decision and the reasons therefor. Any person aggrieved by any order, rule, or decision of the Commissioner, or by his failure to rule upon or decide any matter presented to him by proper application, may appeal therefrom to the Secretary of the Treasury (5 U. S. C. 282c; 21 CFR, Cum. Supp., 201.1–201.7).

(c) Registration or reregistration under Internal Revenue Narcotic Law. (1) Applicants for registration or reregistration under the internal revenue narcotic law (26 U. S. C. 3220) are required by that law, as a condition to registration, to be lawfully entitled to engage in the business or professional activity, involving the use of narcotics, for which registration is desired. Forms of application (678–A for initial registration and 678 for reregistration) may be obtained from the Collector of Internal Revenue of the applicant's district. Both forms require applicant to state his name, place of business, occupational tax classification, and to certify that under the laws of the jurisdiction in which he is operating or proposes to operate, he is legally qualified or lawfully entitled to engage in the activities for which registration is sought. (26 CFR 151.6.) All applications on form 678–A are referred by the Collector to the appropriate District Supervisor of the Bureau of Narcotics for Investigation, report and recommendation. Applications on form 678 are also referred by the Collector to the appropriate District Supervisor for investigation, report and recommendation, if the Collector is in doubt as to the applicant's being lawfully entitled to engage in the activity for which he seeks registration. (26 CFR 151.5.) The District Supervisor, upon receipt of the referred application, investigates to ascertain whether the applicant is so lawfully entitled, usually involving a determination whether the applicant is currently licensed under the law of the state, territory, or District of Columbia, if such law requires a license for the activity for which registration is sought. He returns the application to the Collector with recommendation for approval or disapproval according to whether he finds the applicant legally qualified or not. If disapproval is thus recommended, the Collector denies registration to the applicant.

(2) In the case of an applicant for reregistration so found not legally qualified therefor, no prior notice of denial of the application shall be given under section 9 (b) of Public Law 404, 79th Congress, since the necessity for prompt and continuous control of activities relating to these potentially dangerous narcotic drugs requires otherwise in the interest of the public health and safety.

(d) Licenses to import and export—(1) An application for initial authority to import crude opium or coca leaves under the Narcotic Drugs Import and Export Act, as amended, (21 U. S. C. 171–185) must be made in writing and submitted to the Commissioner of Narcotics, Washington 25, D. C. No special form of application is required but the applicant must show evidence that he complies with the requirements of the pertinent regulations. (§§ 202.2 and 202.30 of this chapter). The provisions of paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section apply to such an application for initial authority to import.

(2) An applicant who has been granted initial authority to import crude opium and coca leaves must submit to the Commissioner of Narcotics at Washington 25, D. C., a special application for a formal permit to cover each proposed importation. The application to import crude opium or coca leaves for medical and legitimate purposes (21 U. S. C. 173) is made on Bureau of Narcotics form No. 20, and the application to import special coca leaves (21 U. S. C. 173a) is made on Bureau of Narcotics form No. 20–A. Copies of both forms are obtainable from the Commissioner of Narcotics at Washington 25, D. C. It is required that both forms state the statistical and routing information described in §§ 202.3–202.4 and 202.33 respectively, of this chapter. If the application, submitted by a qualified importer, is in due form, and the proposed importation will not result in an excess over the maximum quantity of crude opium and coca leaves allotted to the importer for the particular year, (§§ 202.3 and 202.32 of this chapter) the Commissioner of Narcotics will issue the formal import permit in sextuplet, containing the information described § 202.6 of this chapter, the disposition of the various copies being explained in § 202.10 of this chapter.

(3) Applications for in-transit shipments of narcotic drugs through the United States, and for export of narcotic drugs from the United States (21 U. S. C. 180–182) must be submitted to the Commissioner of Narcotics at Washington 25, D. C., on Bureau of Narcotics form No. 161, copies of which form are obtainable from said Commissioner. The application must contain the statistical and routing information described in §§ 202.18 and 202.28 of this chapter and must show the registry number of the applicant under the internal revenue narcotic law. (26 U. S. C. 3220.) If the application as submitted by a qualified exporter, is found in due form, and supported by duly authenticated foreign import license or permit (§ 202.19 of this chapter) the Commissioner will issue a formal export or in-transit permit in sextuplet, the permit containing the information, and the various copies being disposed of as described in § 202.21 of this chapter.

(e) Licenses to produce opium poppies and opium products. Applications for licenses to produce opium poppies, and to manufacture opium products therefrom, under the Opium Poppy Control Act of 1942 (21 U. S. C., Supp. V, 188 et seq.) shall be made in writing to the Commissioner of Narcotics at Washington 25, D. C. No special form of application is provided, but the applicant must have evidence of qualifications and facilities described in the regulations (21 CFR, Cum. Supp., 204.3–204.9). No licenses are issuable unless the Commissioner of Narcotics shall determine such action to be appropriate to supply the medical and scientific needs of the United States for opium or opium products (21 U. S. C., Supp. 5, 188 (d); 21 CFR, Cum. Supp., 203.1–203.3; 21 CFR, Cum. Supp., 204.2 and since this contingency has not occurred, no licenses have been issued. No specific form of license has been provided; if in the remote contingency, it should be found appropriate to issue such a license to produce or to manufacture, the license would be issued in typewritten form, pursuant to the requirements of 21 CFR, Cum. Supp. 204.5 and 204.8–204.9. In the event of revocation or refusal to renew such a license, the provisions of 21 CFR, Cum. Supp., 204.11–204.13, apply. No forms of returns to be required of producers and manufacturers have been provided (21 CFR, Cum. Supp., 204.14–204.15) but if issuance of licenses were found appropriate, as explained herein, special forms to report the information required by the regulations would be provided.

(f) Petitions for remission of forfeitures. With respect to vessels, vehicles and aircraft seized under the act of August 9, 1939 (49 U. S. C. 781–788) when the seizure is made in connection with a violation involving a contraband article covered by section 1 (b) (1) of said act (49 U. S. C. 781 (b) (1)) the Secretary of the Treasury has designated as the custodial officer, the narcotic district supervisor for the district in which the seizure is made (26 CFR, Cum. Supp., 466.2). For list of District Supervisors, areas of districts and location of district headquarters office, see § 206.2. Any person having an interest in such seized property may make a timely petition for restoration of the proceeds of sale, or for remission or mitigation of the forfeiture (19 U. S. C. 1613, 1618 made applicable by 49 U. S. C. 784; 26 CFR, Cum. Supp., 153.8–153.10). No special form for the petition is provided, but it must be filed in duplicate, addressed to the Secretary of the Treasury, sworn to, and submitted to the district supervisor for the district in which the seizure occurred. The petition shall contain the information required by 26 CFR, Cum. Supp., 153.8, and must be seasonably filed (Id., 153.9). If the petition is cognizable by the Secretary of the Treasury (26 CFR, Cum. Supp., 153.10), it will be forwarded by the District Supervisor with his report of any investigation made, to the Commissioner of Narcotics, who will transmit the petition and report, with his recommendation, to the Secretary of the Treasury for decision, and such decision shall be communicated to the petitioner through the District Supervisor.

(g) Narcotic drugs conservation. Pursuant to authority heretofore delegated to the Commissioner of Narcotics relative to allocation of narcotic drugs, by the War Production Board and confirmed by the Civilian Production Administration (§ 206.4 (b)), the Commissioner of Narcotics has issued Narcotic Conservation Order No. 1 (21 CFR, Cum. Supp., 205.1–205.10). Narcotic drug quotas are assigned, under the order, to provide orderly and adequate supply and distribution for military and civilian medical and scientific needs.

(h) Presidential function under Opiates Act. Under the act of March 8, 1946 (Public Law 320, 78th Congress), section 3228 of the Internal Revenue Code (26 U. S. C. 3228) is amended by adding a new subsection (f) at the end thereof, this new subsection being a definition of the term "Opiate." The term "Opiate" is defined in the subsection to mean any drug (as defined in the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act—21 U. S. C. 321 (g)) found by the Secretary of the Treasury, after due notice and opportunity for public hearing, to have an addiction-forming or addiction-sustaining liability similar to morphine or cocaine, and proclaimed by the President to have been so found by the Secretary. When the Secretary of the Treasury shall find that a given drug has such addiction-forming or addiction-sustaining liability, he shall report his finding to the President. If and when the President shall proclaim that the drug has been so found by the Secretary of the Treasury, the drug shall become an Opiate under said section 3228 (f) of the Internal Revenue Code (26 U. S. C. 3228 (f)) from the date of the President's proclamation.

SUBPART D—SUBSTANTIVE RULES

§ 206.9 Publication. Substantive rule including statements of general policy or interpretations formulated and adopted by the Bureau for the guidance of the public, have heretofore and prior to June 11, 1946, been published in the Federal Register and in the Code of Federal Regulations. Future publication of subsequently adopted substantive rules will be so published as described in § 206.7.

SUBPART E—OPINIONS AND ORDERS

§ 206.10 (a) Publication of opinions and orders. There will be made available for public inspection at the office of the Bureau of Narcotics at Washington, D. C., any final opinion with respect to interpretation of the statutes or regulations with the enforcement of which the Bureau is concerned. Such final opinions are usually reduced to regulations, and all regulations (rules) are available for public inspection at said office of the Bureau. Orders issued in the course of investigations of suspected violations of law, where criminal prosecution may ensue, will not be made available for public inspection. Other orders in the adjudication of cases are not ordinarily cited as precedents, and their publication may unfairly disclose private business affairs to actual or prospective business competitors. Publication of orders in the adjudication of other cases may unduly and unfairly publicize the drug addiction of a specific person. The Bureau reserves the right to determine, according to these standards, the final orders in the adjudication of cases which it will make available for public inspection.

(b) Findings proclaimed by the President under the Opiates Act. The finding by the Secretary of the Treasury, when proclaimed by the President, under the Act of March 8, 1946 (Public Law 320, 79th Congress; see § 206.8 (h)) will be made available for public inspection at the office of the Bureau of Narcotics at Washington, D. C.

SUBPART F—PUBLIC RECORDS

§ 206.11 (a) Records of the Bureau. Most of the official records of the Bureau of Narcotics consist of reports and correspondence concerning violations or suspected violations of law and are necessarily of a secret and confidential nature. These records will not be made available to any person except as necessary for the prosecution in the courts on charges based thereon, or for authorized cooperation with state authorities (21 CFR 201.8–201.12) unless upon special application in a particular case, the Commissioner of Narcotics shall find that disclosure of the particular record is not inimical to the public interest. Returns, and other data relating to production and sales, required to be furnished to the Bureau by registrants, represent also private business records, and will not be made available for public inspection. Personnel records will not be made available, unless the Commissioner of Narcotics shall find it in the public interest, in a particular case, to permit disclosure of the record. Other records will be made available to persons properly and directly concerned, as the Commissioner of Narcotics in each case shall find that disclosure will not prejudice any present or prospective investigation or will not unfairly invade the right of a third person.

(b) Record of hearings under Opiates Act. The record of a hearing, including pertinent documents, upon which the Secretary of the Treasury makes a finding which is proclaimed by the President under the act of March 8, 1946 (Public Law 320, 79th Congress; § 206.8 (h), will be made available at the Bureau of Narcotics, Washington, D. C., for inspection by persons properly and directly concerned.

SUBPART 1.01—AUTHORITY, FUNCTIONS, AND GENERAL ORGANIZATION

§ 1.01-1 Authority. Pursuant to the act of January 28, 1915 (38 Stat. 800; 14 U. S. C. 1), as amended, the Coast Guard is constituted a military service and at all times constitutes a branch of the land and naval forces of the United States, operating under the Treasury Department in time of peace and as a part of the Navy in time of war, or whenever the President shall so direct.

§ 1.01-5 Functions. The functions of the Coast Guard, as the federal maritime police, embrace in general terms maritime law enforcement, saving and protecting life and property, safeguarding navigation on the high seas and navigable waters of the United States, and readiness for military operations.

§ 1.01-10 General organization—(a) Basic organization. The Coast Guard basic organization pattern reflects an assignment of military and administrative authority and responsibility among Coast Guard Headquarters, the 14 District Offices, and individual units in the field. Duties of the Coast Guard are in most instances actually performed by individual operating units such as ships; aircraft; air, light, radio, and lifeboat stations; Captain of the Port offices; marine inspection offices; and individual logistics units such as recruiting, receiving, and training stations; repair yards; and telephone system offices. The District Offices provide central direction and coordination of the performance of duties by individual field units located within certain geographical limits. Headquarters plans, supervises and coordinates the activities of the several districts and gives immediate direction to specific units in the field where such units report directly to Headquarters although located within the geographical limits of a particular district.

(b) Chain of commands. The chain of administrative and military command ordinarily runs from the Commandant to the District Commander, and in turn from the District Commander to the commanding officer or officer in charge of a particular operating or logistics unit. In the case of units reporting directly to Headquarters, the chain of command runs directly from the Commandant to the commanding officer of the unit.

(c) Administrative staffs. Administrative staffs are provided to assist the Commandant and the District Commanders in discharging their responsibilities. Any authority which these officers have is derived from the Commandant or the District Commander and the exercise of such authority is in behalf of the Commandant or the District Commander.

SUBPART 1.05—CENTRAL ORGANIZATION

§ 1.05-1 Commandant. The Commandant, U. S. Coast Guard, acts as chief of the Coast Guard and is charged with the administration of the Coast Guard. (b) Whether any failure of material (either physical or design) was involved so that proper recommendations for the prevention of the recurrence of similar casualties may be made.

(c) Whether any act of misconduct, inattention to duty, negligence, or willful violation of law on the part of any licensed or certificated man was involved so that appropriate proceedings against such person under 46 U. SUBPART 4.01—CASUALTIES AND ACCIDENTS

§ 4.01–1 Investigation. The Coast Guard District Commander after receiving either a notice or report of a marine casualty or accident submitted on Coast Guard form 2692 or 924E, submitted in accordance with the requirements of § 136.103 of this chapter and described in § 2.20–60 of this chapter will cause such preliminary investigations of marine casualties and accidents as may be necessary in accordance with § 136.104 of this chapter. The investigations of marine casualties and accidents and the determinations made as a result of such investigations are for the purpose of taking appropriate measures for safety of life and property at sea, and are not intended to fix civil or criminal responsibility. The investigations determine:

(a) The cause of the accident.

(b) Whether any failure of material (either physical or design) was involved so that proper recommendations for the prevention of the recurrence of similar casualties may be made.

(c) Whether any act of misconduct, inattention to duty, negligence, or wilful violation of law on the part of any licensed or certificated man was involved so that appropriate proceedings against such person under 46 U. S. C. 239 may be recommended and taken.

(d) Whether any Coast Guard personnel or any representative of any other government agency was guilty of any neglect or inattention to duty contributing to the casualty.

§ 4.01–15 Board investigations. Where the casualty or accident is considered as a major casualty and the Commandant, U. S. Coast Guard, believes that further investigation thereof would tend to promote safety at sea and would not be inimical to the public interest, the Commandant will designate an appropriate board to conduct such investigation as necessary in accordance with the requirements of §§ 136.101 to 136.110 of this chapter. Unless otherwise designated by the Commandant, the board of investigation consists of the Coast Guard District Commander, the Officer in Charge, Marine Inspection, within whose jurisdiction the casualty or accident occurred or within whose jurisdiction the casualty or accident is reported, and another Coast Guard officer designated by the Commandant, except in San Juan and Honolulu Districts where the board will consist of the Coast Guard District Commander, the Officer in Charge, Marine Inspection, and the district law officer.

§ 4.01–30 Board investigation reports. The Board of Investigation will make a complete report containing findings and recommendations to the Commandant in accordance with § 136.105 of this chapter. Disclosure of records will be in accordance with § 136.109 of this chapter, or §§ 1.80–1 to 1.80–80, inclusive, supra.

§ 4.01–45 Procedures followed in investigations. All witnesses called to testify in any preliminary investigations or board investigations are entitled to be represented by counsel if they so desire. In preliminary investigations private counsel are not permitted to examine or cross-examine witnesses unless such counsel represents the witness being interviewed, and may do no more than advise the witness. In public hearings conducted by a board, counsel for interested parties may attend and take part in the examination and cross-examination.

§ 4.01–60 Preferring charges. If upon investigation of a casualty or accident, it is determined that charges shall be or have been preferred against any licensed officer or certificated seaman, the report will set forth such information, stating the nature of the charge briefly, the name of the person charged, the misconduct file number, and the status of the proceedings of the charge. The report of the hearing on the charge will be separate and will not supplant the report of the investigation. The charges which may be brought will be made by the examining officer in accordance with the regulations in §§ 136.101 to 136.110, inclusive, of this chapter.

SUBPART 4.05—DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS

§ 4.05–1 General. (a) The basic statute for investigations and trials of licensed officers and certificated seamen is 46 U. S. C. 239, which provides authority to promulgate such necessary regulations as set forth in Part 136 of this chapter and by War Shipping Administration General Order 41, in §§ 304.61 to 304.72 of this title. The proceedings against licenses and certificates and Seaman's Employment Cards are undertaken by Merchant Marine Hearing Units in the United States and by Coast Guard Merchant Marine Details in certain foreign ports with the following purposes:

(1) The maintenance of discipline on merchant vessels.

(2) The safety of life and property at sea.

(b) The examining officer conducts the investigation and presents the case to the hearing officer who makes the finding and orders after all the evidence is in.

§ 4.05–5 Investigations. Immediately upon receipt of a complaint made to a local office or when a violation of any law or regulation is noted, an examining officer is dispatched to the vessel for the purpose of making a preliminary investigation in accordance with the regulations in Part 136 of this chapter. In making his investigation the examining officer interviews all interested parties and witnesses. On the basis of his findings he determines whether charges should or should not be preferred. If the examining officer finds that there is a prima facie case within the jurisdiction of 46 U. S. C. 239 he immediately writes out the charges and specifications on Coast Guard form 2639, Charge and Specification Sheet, and serves them. At this time he informs the person charged of all his rights under the law, such as right to counsel, nature of the proceedings, possible penalties, the bringing of witnesses in his behalf by subpoena. Should the person desire counsel and has no means of securing one, the Coast Guard supplies an officer to act in his defense. It is the duty of the examining officer on Coast Guard form 2639–B to subpoena any or all of the witnesses that the person charged desires to appear in his behalf.

§ 4.05–20 Hearings. (a) After service of a notice of hearing or a subpoena, the examining officer will indorse a return on the carbon copy showing the kind, time, and place of service and file the same with the Merchant Marine Hearing Unit, and a hearing will be set for the earliest possible time consistent with fairness. The hearing is usually held in the offices of the Merchant Marine Hearing Unit or wherever most convenient for everyone concerned. Every effort is made to conduct a hearing with dignity and in the fairest possible fashion. After the opening of the hearing, the examining officer outlines the whole case and then presents the case to the hearing officer. The following steps are usually followed in a hearing:

(1) Hearing Officer's opening statement.

(2) Production of documents and Selective Service data.

(3) Advising person charged of right to counsel.

(4) Appearances.

(5) Removal of all witnesses from the hearing room.

(6) Arraignment and plea.

(7) Opening statement of examining officer.

(8) Opening statement of person charged or statement in mitigation if a "guilty" plea.

(9) Testimony of witnesses (omitted in "guilty" cases).

(10) Findings.

(11) Prior record.

(12) Order.

(13) Service of original findings and order on person charged and return of certificate or license if appropriate; advising person charged that findings and order are not in any way binding on matters under jurisdiction of the shipping commissioner.

(14) Advising person charged of right of appeal.

(15) Declaration that the hearing is closed.

(b) After all the evidence has been presented and arguments made by the examining officer and the counsel for the person charged, the hearing officer makes his decision and issues a findings and order in each case on Coast Guard form 2639–C. If the finding is "not proved" the case is closed. If the charges are found proved the hearing officer may order his license or certificate suspended for a period of time or revoked. In the discretion of the hearing officers the order may be suspended and the person charged placed upon probation. The testimony at the hearing is taken down by a reporter. If an appeal from the decision of the hearing officer is made, a copy of the transcript is made available to the applicant.

§ 4.05–35 Appeals. Within 30 days an appeal may be made from the decision of the hearing officer to the Coast Guard District Commander of the district wherein the hearing was held. Should the District Commander uphold the decision of the hearing officer, a further appeal from his decision may be made to the Commandant, whose action is final. The appeal shall set forth the requirements appealed from and the reasons why the decision or action should be set aside or revised, in accordance with the procedures in § § 136.107 or 136.112 of this chapter.

The Commissioner of Accounts, aided by the Associate Commissioner and the Assistant Commissioner, has general administrative supervision and control over all of the work of the Bureau, which is concerned with the maintenance of control appropriation accounts and issuance of warrants for all of the departments and agencies of the Government except the Postal Service, the performance of collection and disbursing functions for Government agencies, the supervision of accounting procedures of the various Treasury bureaus and offices, the handling of matters relating to investment accounts under the control of the Secretary of the Treasury, the liquidation of the residual fiscal affairs of certain discontinued war agencies, general supervision over the preparation of the Daily Statement of the United States Treasury, and the performance of other accounting and reporting duties. (d) The Division of Disbursement. This Division was created by Executive Order 6166, dated June 10, 1933, which transferred the function of disbursement of money of the United States exercised by any agency of the executive branch of the Government to the Treasury Department and consolidated the function in that Division. The War and Navy Departments, except with respect to departmental salaries and expenses in the District of Columbia, were exempted from Executive Order 6166 by Executive Order 6728, dated May 29, 1934. The function of disbursement of moneys of the United States in the other executive departments and agencies in Washington and in the field has been taken over and consolidated in this Division with the exception of the Postal Service and United States marshals, which were exempted from Executive Order 6166 by the President's Reorganization Plan No. IV, effective June 30, 1940, 54 Stat. 1234. The Division includes the central office in Washington, D. C., 21 regional offices in the several Federal Reserve districts and 4 offices outside the continental limits of the United States.

S. C., Sup., 661–672, covering claims against the Republic of Mexico, and (4) under the agreement of November 19, 1941, between the United States and Mexico relating to expropriated petroleum properties; and handles matters relating to investment accounts under control of the Secretary of the Treasury and securities held by the Treasurer of the United States and the Federal Reserve Banks for which the Secretary of the Treasury is responsible, other than those related to public debt operations. S. C. 771, foreign depositaries, Territorial depositaries, Federal land banks, and the Philippine Treasury; matters pertaining to the qualification of Federal Savings and Loan Associations as fiscal agents of the United States; and matters pertaining to certain of the functions of the Treasury under the Government Losses in Shipment Act, as amended, 5 U. S. C. 134–134h.

It determines the underwriting qualifications of surety companies, audits their quarterly financial statements, makes examinations into their financial condition at the home offices wherever necessary, and performs other duties to determine whether the companies observe the requirements of existing law and regulations of the Treasury. The Section has custody of all fidelity bonds in favor of the United States, with a few exceptions, and notifies the accounting offices of the receipt and filing of such official bonds. The Section examines and approves as to corporate surety all fidelity and surety bonds taken by Treasury officers, except customs bonds filed in the field, and also examines and approves as to corporate surety the fidelity and surety bonds accepted by practically all of the executive departments and establishments in Washington.

(h) The Liquidation Division. (1) This Division has administrative and technical responsibility for the liquidation of the residual fiscal affairs of certain discontinued war agencies of the Government. This liquidation of the following agencies has been assumed pursuant to Presidential authorization: Central Administrative Services of the Office for Emergency Management (Executive Order 9471 dated August 25, 1944), Office of Civilian Defense (Executive Order 9562 dated June 4, 1945), War Refugee Board (Executive Order 9614 dated September 14, 1945), Office of Censorship (Executive Order 9631 dated September 28, 1945), Office of War Information, exclusive of those functions transferred to the Department of State and Bureau of the Budget (Executive Order 9608 dated August 31, 1945), and the Committee on Fair Employment Practice (letter of the President dated May 18, 1946). SUBPART B—FUNCTIONS AND PROCEDURES

§ 270.5 Surety companies and surety bonds. (a) The Section of Surety Bonds administers the provisions of the Act of August 13, 1894, as amended, 6 U. S. C. 6–13, relating to the issuance by the Secretary of the Treasury of certificates of authority to bonding companies to do business with the United States on recognizances, stipulations, bonds and undertakings. The general course and methods of procedure as to companies desiring a certificate of authority are contained in 31 CFR 223. Applications when received are reviewed by the Section on the basis of financial statements and other data submitted in support of the application, and if it appears from the evidence submitted that the company has authority under its charter or articles of incorporation to do the business provided for by the act above referred to, and that the company is solvent and financially and otherwise qualified to do the business provided in the said act, as amended, recommendation is made to the Secretary for issuance of a certificate of authority to the company to qualify as surety on obligations permitted or required by the laws of the United States. Further regulations, procedures and information in respect to surety companies doing business with the United States appear in 31 CFR 220–222, 224, 226, 227.

(b) Regulations, procedures and information concerning the acceptance of bonds, notes or other obligations, issued or guaranteed by the United States, as security in lieu of surety or sureties on penal bonds running to the United States are contained in 31 CFR 225.

§ 270.6 Substitute checks. Under the provisions of section 3646 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, as amended, 31 U. S. C., Sup., 528, whenever a Government check has been lost, destroyed, or stolen, a substitute check may be issued only with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury. This authority, with respect to checks drawn on accounts maintained outside the continental limits of the United States, has been delegated to the Secretary of War, Secretary of the Navy, certain officers of the Panama Canal for checks drawn by disbursing officers under their respective jurisdictions, and the Chief Disbursing Officer, Treasury Department. Regulations, procedures and other information concerning the issuance of substitute checks are contained in 31 CFR 204.

§ 270.7 Claims for proceeds of "stale" checks. With the exception of checks relating to public debt obligations or transactions under the banking and currency laws, all checks drawn on the Tresaurer of the United States are payable only for one year after the close of the fiscal year in which issued. Thereafter the proceeds are cleared out of the disbursing officers' accounts and covered into a trust fund known as "Outstanding Liabilities." As provided in 31 CFR 202.28, checks for which the period of payment by the Treasurer of the United States has expired should be transmitted to the Secretary of the Treasury, Division of Disbursement, for payment from the "Outstanding Liabilities" appropriation, accompanied by an application for payment over the signature and address of the owner of such checks. Claims on account of such checks are reviewed in the Division of Disbursement, forwarded to the General Accounting Office for further consideration and the issuance of a certificate of settlement in the case. The certificates of settlement are sent to the Treasury for issuance and mailing of a new check to the claimant by the Division of Disbursement.

§ 270.8 Salvage of Philippine valuables and records. With the Japanese invasion of the Philippine Islands, the U. S. High Commissioner accepted, by direction of the President, bullion, currency, securities, and other valuables to avoid seizure. The bulk of these valuables were sent to the United States for safekeeping in the San Francisco Mint, the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco, or the U. S. Treasury in Washington. The remainder, principally currency and paid checks, was inventoried and destroyed. The records relating to these transactions were turned over to the Bureau of Accounts, which handles the claims for restitution. Claims and requests for information on the subject should be addressed to the Secretary of the Treasury, Washington 25, D. C.

§ 270.9 Depositaries of public funds.—(a) The Secretary of the Treasury designates the depositaries authorized to accept deposits of public funds. There are several classes of domestic depositaries: Federal Reserve banks, General Depositaries, Limited Depositaries, Special Depositaries, and Depositaries for Withheld Taxes. General Depositaries are depositaries and financial agents of the Government which have been authorized to maintain on their books an account in the name of the Treasurer of the United States. They are designated and maintained only at points where a depositary is needed to receive deposits of public moneys for credit to the account of the Treasurer of the United States or to render other essential banking services authorized by the Secretary of the Treasury.

(1) Limited Depositaries are depositaries which have been designated by the Secretary of the Treasury for the sole purpose of receiving, up to specified maximum amounts, deposits made by Government officers for credit in their official checking accounts with such depositaries and are not authorized to accept deposits for credit to the account of the Treasurer of the United States.

(b) Regulations, procedures and other information concerning the designation, qualification and operations of general and limited depositaries of public moneys, of special depositaries of public moneys, and of depositaries for withheld taxes are set forth in 31 CFR; 202, 203, and 212, respectively.

§ 270.10 Federal Savings and Loan Associations as fiscal agents of the United States. Certain Federal Savings and Loan Associations have been designated pursuant to the authority contained in the Home Owners Loan Act of 1933, as amended, 12 U. Regulations, procedures and other information concerning Federal Savings and Loan Associations as fiscal agents of the United States are contained in 31 CFR 312.

§ 270.11 Undelivered War Savings Bonds and cash withheld by employers. In connection with the operation of the payroll savings system for the purchase of war savings bonds by employees of private contractors performing work for the Government under cost-plus-a-fixed-fee contracts, arrangements have been made for the safekeeping by the Treasury Department of undelivered bonds and unclaimed payroll deductions. These funds, which belong to persons whose whereabouts are unknown, are received by the Bureau of Accounts of the Treasury Department through the various Government departments and establishments having jurisdiction over the contracts and from other employers who may care to avail themselves of this facility. The funds are held subject to claim by such former employees. Claims may be in the form of an ordinary letter addressed to the Commissioner of Accounts, Treasury Department, Washington 25, D. C., identifying the claimant and requesting payment. These claims are subject to approval by the Secretary of the Treasury. Upon his approval, a check representing funds held for the claimant's account is transmitted to the claimant. Claims for bonds should be addressed to the Chicago Office, Bureau of the Public Debt, Merchandise Mart, Chicago 54, Illinois.

§ 270.12 Checks withheld from foreign delivery. In accordance with the provisions of Executive Order 8389 of April 10, 1940, as amended, and the act of October 9, 1940, as amended, 31 U. S. C. Sup., 123, and regulations issued pursuant thereto, 31 CFR 211, United States Government checks issued in favor of payees residing in certain areas outside the United States where postal, transportation, banking facilities in general or local conditions are such that there is not a reasonable assurance that the checks will be delivered and negotiated for full value, have been withheld from delivery and their proceeds have been deposited in a special account for the owners thereof. Except for claims on account of checks representing payments under laws administered by the Veterans Administration, claims for payment of such withheld amounts should be presented to the Secretary of the Treasury. Claims involving payments under laws administered by the Veterans Administration should be presented direct to the Administrator of Veterans' Affairs. Regulations, procedures, and other information concerning checks withheld from foreign delivery are set forth in 31 CFR 211.

§ 270.13 Mexican claims—(a) In accordance with the provisions of the Act of April 10, 1935, 49 Stat. 149, the Joint Resolution of August 25, 1937, 50 Stat. 783, and the Settlement of Mexican Claims Act of 1942, as amended, 22 U. S. C., Sup., 661–672 and Treasury Department regulations, 31 CFR 254, awards and appraisals in favor of nationals of the United States on claims against the Government of Mexico are certified to the Treasury Department for payment.

(b) The Bureau of Accounts is charged with maintaining special accounts and certifying disbursements pertaining to such awards. Applications for payment made to the Bureau of Accounts, Division of Investments, with accompanying evidence, are examined in order to insure that payment is made in accordance with the awards and relevant statutes and regulations. Statutory interest and deductions are computed. Pursuant to a finding by the Secretary that payment is in order, the claims are certified to the Division of Disbursement for payment. Regulations, procedures and other information concerning payment of these awards and appraisals are set forth in 31 CFR 254.

(c) Claims against the Government of Mexico for expropriation of petroleum properties pursuant to the agreement of November 19, 1941 between United States and Mexico have been certified by the Secretary of State to the Secretary of the Treasury for payment. § 270.14 German, Austrian, and Hungarian claims. The Settlement of War Claims Act of 1928, 45 Stat. 254, authorized the Secretary of the Treasury to make payments on account of (a) awards of the Mixed Claims Commission, United States and Germany, for claims of American nationals against the Government of Germany; (b) awards of the War Claims Arbiter for claims of German, Austrian, and Hungarian nationals against the Government of the United States, and (c) awards of the Tripartite Claims Commission for claims of American nationals against the Governments of Austria and Hungary. Payment is made from Special Deposit Accounts established pursuant to the Act. Inquiries should be made to the Commissioner of Accounts, Treasury Department, Washington 25, D. C., Attention of the Division of Investments. Applications and accompanying evidence are examined to determine whether payment may be made in accordance with statutory priorities. Statutory interest and deductions are computed and, subsequent to determination by the Secretary of the Treasury, checks are issued from the relevant Special Deposit Account. Regulations, procedures and other information with respect to payment of awards of the Mixed Claims Commission, United States and Germany, are set forth in 31 CFR 245; with respect to awards of the War Claims Arbiter, in 31 CFR 248, 249, 252; and with respect to awards of the Tripartite Claims Commission, in 31 CFR 247, 251.

§ 270.16 Director General of Railroads and Railroad Obligations—(a) Pursuant to section 2 (b) of the President's Reorganization Plan No. II, effective July 1, 1939, 53 Stat. 1431, 1432, the Office of the Director General of Railroads was abolished and the functions and duties transferred to the Secretary of the Treasury to be exercised and performed by him personally or through such officer or officers of the Department of the Treasury as he may authorize. The Secretary of the Treasury was also designated an agent against whom actions or other proceedings may be brought in accordance with section 206 of the Transportation Act of February 28, 1920, 49 U. S. C. 74. The Secretary of the Treasury has designated the Fiscal Assistant Secretary, the Commissioner of Accounts, and the Assistant Commissioner of Accounts to perform on his behalf the duties and functions of the former Director General of Railroads. Requests for information should be submitted to the Secretary of the Treasury, Washington 25, D. C.

(b) Railroad obligations acquired on behalf of the United States under the provisions of the Transportation Act, 1920, as amended, are under the control of the Secretary of the Treasury by virtue of section 213 of Title II thereof, 40 U. S. C. 316, and Executive Order No. 8533 dated September 5, 1940, issued pursuant thereto. SUBPART C—FINAL OPINIONS AND ORDERS

§ 270.17 Availability of final opinions and orders. Final opinions and orders in the adjudication of cases falling within the jurisdiction of the Bureau of Accounts are made available to public inspection except those held confidential and not cited as precedents. The determination as to whether in a particular case a final opinion or order is confidential will be made in accordance with the standards set forth in § 270.18 of this subpart. All rules issued by the Bureau of Accounts will be made available upon request. Requests for such opinions, orders, or rules may be made to the Commissioner of Accounts, Treasury Department, Washington 25, D. C.

SUBPART D—PUBLIC RECORDS

§ 270.18 Public records. The official records on file in the Bureau of Accounts include appropriation accounting records, collection and disbursing accounting records, accounting records relating to investment accounts under the control of the Secretary of the Treasury, various other accounting records and records relating to the functions described in §§ 270.5 through 270.16 hereof. Certain of the information contained in these records is held confidential and is not available to the public because it relates to the personal financial transactions of individuals or corporations, or because the disclosure of the information would clearly be inimical to the public interest. All requests for information in respect to matters contained in the official records of the Bureau of Accounts should be addressed to the Commissioner of Accounts, Treasury Department, Washington 25, D. C. The request should set forth the interest of the applicant in the subject matter and the purpose for which information is desired. The determination as to whether the information is available for disclosure will be made by the Secretary, the Under Secretary, or the Fiscal Assistant Secretary. Whenever it is determined that a matter of official record is available for disclosure in a particular case, a copy of said official record will be furnished the party requesting the same, or the officer passing upon the request may, in his discretion, allow a personal inspection of the official record in question at the place where the document is normally kept. The regulations contained in this section shall supersede any other Treasury Department orders, rules, or regulations to the extent that they are in conflict with these regulations.

SUBPART A—ORGANIZATION

§ 323.1 Central organization. The Bureau of the Public Debt, a branch of the fiscal service, is generally charged

§ 210.8 Salvage of Philippine valuables and records. With the Japanese invasion as fiscal agents for the collection of department regulations, 31 CFR 254, awards with the administration of the public debt. The functions of the Bureau are exercised at Washington through the Office of the Commissioner, the Division of Loans and Currency, the Office of the Register of the Treasury, the Division of Public Debt Accounts and Audit, the Division of Paper Custody, and at Chicago by the Chicago Office of the Bureau, including branches of the foregoing offices and divisions (except the Division of Paper Custody) and a Division of Savings Bonds. Five Regional Offices of the Register of the Treasury and a small force at the Government Mill where distinctive paper is produced comprise the "field" organization of the Bureau. Of these enumerated offices those which deal generally with the public are described below.

(a) The Office of the Commissioner. The Commissioner of the Public Debt, aided by an Assistant Commissioner and a Deputy Commissioner, has general administrative supervision and control over the entire Bureau and its work. The Commissioner's office is generally concerned with the preparation (subject to the approval of the Secretary) and the effectuation of regulations, circulars, and instructions governing the offering and issue of public debt securities and the conduct of subsequent transactions therein.[1] In addition the Commissioner's office handles contracts for the distinctive paper used in the printing of securities and currency.

(b) The Division of Loans and Currency. This Division is charged with the receipt and custody of all stocks of securities and distribution thereof to other issuing agents directly, or through the Federal Reserve Banks and Branches. The Division issues securities, other than Treasury bills, and conducts transactions in such securities after issue, including exchanges, transfers, conversions, maintenance of marketable registered bond accounts and the issue of checks for interest thereon, the settlement of claims on account of lost or destroyed securities, and those held in estates of deceased owners. It also conducts correspondence with the public regarding such securities and transactions therein. (For savings bonds see § 323.8 and paragraph (c) of this section.) It is under the supervision of the Chief of the Division who is aided in the performance of his duties by an Assistant Chief.

(c) The Chicago Office of the Bureau. This office, with headquarters at the Merchandise Mart, Chicago 54, Illinois, is charged with the maintenance of records of the ownership and the redemption of savings bonds, the issue of checks in payment of interest on savings bonds of Series G (interest on other series of savings bonds is payable with the principal when the bonds are redeemed) and with all matters relating to United States Savings Bonds after their original issue (except payment thereof), including correspondence with the public concerning such matters. Within the Chicago Office after-issue transactions are largely conducted by the Chicago Branch of the Division of Loans and Currency. The office is under the supervision of the Deputy Commissioner in Charge who is aided in the performance of his duties by an Assistant Deputy Commissioner in Charge.

[1] As agent the Bureau also conducts transactions in interest-bearing issues of the Philippine and Puerto Rican Governments, and establishments of the Federal Government such as the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and others—under the procedures and regulations set forth in Sec. 323.7 of this Part.

§ 323.2 Associated organizations. Numerous organizations are associated with the Bureau in conducting public debt functions, including certain offices in the Treasury in addition to those enumerated above; The Post Office Department and postal service; the Federal Reserve Banks, fiscal agents of the United States, and their Branches; and banks, trust companies, savings and loan associations and the like.

§ 323.3 Delegations of final authority. The Second Liberty Bond Act, as amended, authorizes the issuance of various classes of securities of the United States (see 31 U. S. C., ch. 12). The circulars concerning the various types of securities which are offered for sale establish, for the most part, the delegations of final authority to handle transactions arising in connection with such securities from their issue to their redemption. The various types of securities, the numbers of the circulars relating thereto (accompanied by references to the places in which they are published in the Federal Register) are enumerated and described in §§ 323.7 and 323.8, which show the practical application of the delegations of final authority of interest to the public.

§ 323.4 Established places for obtaining information and making requests. In addition to the constituent offices and divisions of the Bureau of the Public Debt, including the Chicago Office of the Bureau, the most important places for obtaining information and making submittals or requests are the Federal Reserve Banks, fiscal agents of the United States, and their Branches, which are listed at the end of this section. However, thousands of banks, trust companies, savings and loan associations, and other financial institutions, as well as other agencies which have qualified as issuing agents for savings bonds of Series E or paying agents for savings bonds of Series A through E registered in the names of individuals and, in some cases, in both capacities will be able to give the public information concerning the issuance of savings bonds of Series E and payment of savings bonds of Series A through E registered in the name of individuals. The circulars concerning the various types of securities and the circulars containing the regulations governing them, which may be obtained from the Federal Reserve Banks and Branches, will also be of considerable value to any one seeking information.

§ 323.5 Notice of Department circulars; description of circulars. The text, front or back, of the various public debt securities usually, if not always, refers by number to the circular under which those securities are offered for sale and the offering circulars in turn refer to the governing regulations. The offering circular is not primarily concerned with regulations as such, but with the announcement that a particular security is offered for sale and with giving a description of the terms and conditions of issue of the security, including the places at which it may be purchased, the purchase price, the investment yield, etc. For example, Department Circular No. 653, Second Revision, describes the terms and conditions of issue of savings bonds of Series E and only incidentally refers to matters of regulation, whereas Department Circular No. 530, Sixth Revision, contains the regulations governing savings bonds of all series.

SUBPART B—FUNCTIONS AND PROCEDURES

§ 323.6 General. The functions of the Bureau and organizations associated therewith referred to in § 323.2 and the general course in which they are channeled and determined are summarized in the following sections under the two broad classes of "marketable" and "nonmarketable" securities. In general, owners of Government securities of all classes and persons desiring to purchase them will find it more convenient to deal with the nearest Federal Reserve Bank or Branch (see § 323.4) concerning the purchase of such securities or any transaction with respect thereto, except for the purchase of savings bonds of Series E, as to which see § 323.8 (e) (1).

§ 323.7 Marketable securities. These securities are transferable either by assignment as in the case of registered Treasury bonds or merely by delivery as in the case of Treasury bonds in bearer form and other bearer securities such as Treasury notes, bills, and certificates of indebtedness. The circulars concerning these securities and a description of the method of channeling and determining transactions in connection therewith follow:

(a) Treasury bonds, notes, and certificates of indebtedness. Department Circular No. 300, 31 C. F. R. Part 306, contains the general regulations governing them. Department Circular No. 666, 31 C. F. R., Cum. Supp., Part 307, is concerned exclusively with the regulations governing payment or redemption of those securities and other transferable public debt securities of the United States at maturity or before maturity pursuant to call for redemption in accordance with their terms.

(b) Treasury bills. For regulations governing the issue and sale of Treasury bills see Department Circular No. 418, 31 CFR (Cum. Supp.) 309.

(1) Where to purchase—(i) Treasury bonds, notes, and certificates of indebtedness. Unlike United States Savings Bonds and Treasury Savings Notes of Series C, Treasury bonds, notes, and certificates of indebtedness are not on continuous sale, except on the market at prevailing market prices. They are offered for subscription by the Treasury only from time to time, and the official circulars governing their offering are published in the Federal Register. Information regarding new offerings may be obtained from any Federal Reserve Bank or Branch or the Treasury Department, and subscriptions may be placed directly with the Treasury or any Federal Reserve Bank or Branch during the period the subscription books are open. Usually the offering circulars provide that banking institutions generally may submit subscriptions for account of customers, but only the Federal Reserve Banks and the Treasury Department are authorized to act as official agencies.

(ii) Treasury bills. Treasury bills are issued on a discount basis under competitive and limited fixed-price bidding, tenders for which are invited by the Secretary of the Treasury and may be received only at the Federal Reserve Banks and Branches up to a specified closing hour for each issue.

(2) Transactions after purchase. Transactions after the purchase of these securities, including the issuing of checks for interest[1] on registered Treasury bonds, are largely conducted by the Division of Loans and Currency, Washington, D. C., which has final authority to act in any matter clearly within the governing regulations, with certain limited exceptions, as for example the granting of relief on account of the loss, theft, destruction, mutilation, or defacement of securities and matters involving questions of policy not heretofore decided. The Federal Reserve Banks and Branches also have broad authority to handle any transactions arising after the purchase of these securities without referring them elsewhere for review.

[1] Interest on bearer securities is usually payable by coupons which may be detached and cashed as they mature. The text of the securities will state how interest is to be paid.

§ 323.8 Nonmarketable securities. These securities are subject to certain restrictions against any transfer by voluntary act of the owner during his lifetime and may not be sold on the market. They are:

(a) Treasury Savings Notes of Series C. See Department Circular No. 696, Second Revision.

(b) Savings bonds of Series E. The offering circular for which is Department Circular No. 653, Second Revision, 31 CFR, 1943 Supp., Part 316. Department Circular No. 657, 31 CFR Part 317, contains the regulations governing agencies for the issue of bonds of that series.

(c) Savings bonds of Series F and G. The offering circular for which is Department Circular No. 654, Second Revision, 31 CFR, 1944 Supp., Part 318.

(d) United States Savings Bonds of all series—regulations. The regulations governing those securities are set forth in Department Circular No. 530, Sixth Revision, 31 CFR, 1945 Supp., Part 315. Regulations governing cash payments of savings bonds of Series A through E are set forth in Department Circular No. 750, Revised, 31 CFR, 1945 Supp., Part 321.

(e) Transactions in nonmarketable securities—(1) Where to purchase. Treasury Savings Notes of Series C and United States Savings Bonds of any series may be purchased from the Treasury Department, Washington, D. C., and from the Federal Reserve Banks and Branches. Bonds of Series E may also be purchased from thousands of organizations throughout the United States and its possessions, including post offices, banks, trust companies, building and savings and loan associations, credit unions, and other financial institutions; and from employers operating payroll savings plans, and national farm and loan associations. Various government offices or officials, Federal and state may issue bonds of Series E to their employees.

(2) Where to redeem. The majority of the banks of the country and many other financial institutions are qualified to cash United States Savings Bonds of Series A through E, (with limited exceptions) for individuals named as registered owners of the bonds. The Federal Reserve Banks and their Branches have much broader authority to redeem savings bonds of Series A through E and in addition have authority to redeem savings bonds of Series F and G in many cases. The Treasury Department pays United States Savings Bonds of any series. Treasury Savings Notes of Series C may be redeemed by any Federal Reserve Bank or Branch or the Treasury Department, Washington, D. C.

(3) Other transactions—(i) By Federal Reserve Banks. The Federal Reserve Banks and their Branches have been authorized to conduct many classes of reissue transactions (and other transactions arising after the original issue of savings bonds) in unmatured savings bonds of any series, without referring them elsewhere for review. The classes of reissue transactions which the Federal Reserve Banks and Branches are authorized to complete include, but are not limited to, reissue to correct an error in original issue, to add, omit, or substitute a beneficiary; to add a coowner or to change a beneficiary to a coowner; to show a change of name of any individual named on a bond, to name a trustee of a living trust; to make disposition to persons entitled upon the death of an owner in certain cases and to name a succeeding fiduciary. Other transactions in Treasury Savings Notes of Series C should be handled by or through the agency which issued the Notes.

(ii) By the Chicago Office. This Office has final authority to conduct all transactions in savings bonds after their issue (as authorized under the governing regulations) with certain exceptions described below, but even in these exceptional cases the Chicago Office is charged generally with the responsibility of setting forth requirements, obtaining the necessary evidence, preparing the case, and transmitting it with appropriate recommendations to the Treasury Department, Washington, D. C., for review by the Commissioner of the Public Debt, and action thereon by the Fiscal Assistant Secretary of the Treasury. The exceptional cases are:

(a) Approval of evidence and granting of relief on account of the loss, theft, destruction, mutilation or defacement of savings bonds under the provisions of Sec. 8 of 50 Stat. 481 as amended (U. S. C. 1940 Ed., Title 31, Sec. 738a).

(b) Acceptance of indemnity bonds when required under the law cited above or the savings bond regulations.

(c) Transactions (1) which are not authorized by the savings bond regulations, (2) which under the applicable regulations require approval by the Secretary of the Treasury, and (3) which involve a question of Department policy that has not heretofore been decided.

§ 323.9 Nature and requirements of procedures and forms. The terms and conditions under which securities will be issued, reissued, or redeemed, and the evidence required in connection with any transaction in the securities after their original issue are set forth in the offering circulars and in the circulars containing the governing regulations (for which see §§ 323.7 and 323.8), and for the most part references to the numbers of the forms to be used are made in such circulars, especially in the circulars containing the regulations. For example, § 315.46 (b) (2) of Department Circular No. 530, Sixth Revision, makes it quite clear that in order to have a savings bond reissued during the lifetime of the beneficiary named thereon, the registered owner should execute a request for such reissue on Form PD 1787 and the beneficiary should execute his consent thereto on the same form. There are some forms in ordinary use in connection with transactions in various securities which § 323.10 Undeliverable savings bonds. (Bonds which for various reasons the issuing agent has not been able actually to deliver to the owner.) Savings bonds which issuing agents have not been able actually to deliver to the owner after trying to do so for a period of six months are on file at the Chicago Office, except savings bonds purchased through the War and Navy Departments including the Coast Guard and Marine Corps. Application for these undeliverable bonds which are at the Chicago Office may be made by letter, and upon proper identification the bonds will be released to the owner or person entitled to them, such as an executor or administrator in case of the owner's death. Application for undeliverable bonds held by the War Department should be made to United States Savings Bond Branch, Army Finance Center, OCF, Building 204, 4300 Goodfellow Blvd., St. Louis 20, Missouri. C., as the case may be.

NOTE: Certain employers performing work for the Government, and some other employers voluntarily, have deposited cash accumulated in connection with the operation of the payroll savings plan for the purchase of United States Savings Bonds by their employees. For various reasons such employers were not able to apply the cash to the purchase of the bonds or return it to their employees. The disposition of this cash is covered in Subchapter A dealing with the Bureau of Accounts. Claims for such funds should be addressed to the Commissioner of Accounts, Treasury Department, Washington 25, D. C.

§ 323.11 Nonreceipt of savings bonds. If after submitting an application and paying for savings bonds the purchaser does not receive them within a reasonable time or they are lost in the mail, he should contact the agent from which he purchased them for appropriate instructions as to how to proceed in trying to obtain the original bonds, or bonds to replace them. This is not to be confused wtih the procedure required to procure duplicate bonds in place of those which the owner has lost or which have been stolen or destroyed after he receives them. In the event that bonds are lost, stolen, or destroyed after the owner actually received them, the appropriate procedure is to submit a claim on Form PD 1048, referred to in § 323.9 (a), which may be obtained from any Federal Reserve Bank or Branch, or from the Chicago Office of the Bureau.

SUBPART C—RULES; OPINIONS AND ORDERS; PUBLIC RECORDS

§ 323.12 Substantive rules. Substantive rules adopted as authorized by law and statements of general policy or interpretations formulated and adopted by the Bureau of the Public Debt for the guidance of the public will be published as required by the Administrative Procedure Act. All of the regulations now in effect in the Bureau of the Public Debt are published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

§ 323.13 Opinions and orders. Final opinions and orders by the Bureau of the Public Debt in the adjudication of cases involve the ownership of securities and transactions with respect thereto by individuals, organizations, and others. These final opinions and orders are not cited as precedents and, except under limited circumstances as set forth in § 323.14, are held confidential for the reason that they involve private financial affairs of individuals, organizations, and others who purchased Government securities in the belief that in so doing their affairs would not be exposed to public scrutiny. Rules of the Bureau of the Public Debt are published in 31 CFR, Chapter II, Subchapter B.

§ 323.14 Records. Apart from records pertaining solely to internal management, the records maintained by the Bureau of the Public Debt and organizations associated with the Bureau in carrying on its work pertain to the purchase and ownership of Government securities and transactions in connection therewith. These records ordinarily will be disclosed only to the owners of such securities, to their executors, administrators, or other legal representatives or to their survivors, or to investigative and certain other agencies of the Federal and state governments, to trustees in bankruptcy, receivers of insolvents' estates, or to Federal and state courts, where proper order has been entered requesting disclosure of information. The records are held confidential as to others for the reason that they involve private financial affairs of individuals, organizations, and others who purchased Government securities in the belief that in so doing their affairs would not be exposed to public scrutiny. Persons seeking information concerning official records should submit their applications to the Division of Loans and Currency, Bureau of the Public Debt, Treasury Department, Washington 25, D. C., if it concerns marketable securities; to the agency of issue if it concerns Treasury Savings Notes of Series C; and to the Chicago Office of the Bureau of the Public Debt, Merchandise Mart, Chicago 54, Illinois, if it concerns United States Savings Bonds of any series. The request for the information should be accompanied by a statement of the reasons why such information is requested and evidence that the person requesting the information is entitled thereto.

SUBPART B—FUNCTIONS AND PROCEDURES

§ 351.4 Payment of checks. Checks drawn on the Treasurer of the United States by Government disbursing officers and Government owned corporations, which are received in the mail from various Federal Reserve Banks and other Government depositaries through which they have been cleared, and over the counter from local banks, are examined for validity in the Accounting Division of the Treasurer's Office and if found to be in order, are paid; checks which are not payable upon presentment because of forgery of the drawer's signature, alteration, or other reasons, or because stoppage of payment has been entered, are returned to the presenter with the reasons for declination of payment. In the case of checks payable through designated Federal Reserve Banks the examination for validity is made by the Federal Reserve Bank through which the checks are payable. In addition to checks presented by mail, the Cash Division of the Treasurer's Office has facilities for cashing over the counter for the payees Government checks presented directly to the Treasurer of the United States. Full information as to the conditions governing payment of checks is contained in 31 CFR 202, 206 and regulations concerning indorsements are set forth in 31 CFR 360.

§ 351.5 Lost, stolen and destroyed checks. When an original check is lost, stolen or destroyed, the owner notifies the Government disbursing officer who issued the check, who thereupon requests the Treasurer of the United States to stop payment of it. If the owner of the check cannot identify the disbursing officer who issued it, the notification of the loss, theft or destruction should be sent to the Treasurer of the United States, Accounting Division, Washington 25, D. C. If the check is found to be outstanding, the Accounting Division of the Treasurer's Office forwards to the claimant a form for execution to secure a substitute check, together with full instructions. Information as to the conditions governing the issuance of substitute checks is contained in 31 CFR, 204. FOREIGN FUNDS CONTROL

PART 138—ORGANIZATION OF FOREIGN FUNDS CONTROL

Sec.
138.1 General statement of functions.
138.2 Outline of organization.
138.3 Description of functions performed by divisions and offices.
138.4 Delegation of final authority.
138.5 Official records.
138.6 Places and methods of securing information and making submittals.

§ 138.1 General statement of functions. The Bureau of Foreign Funds Control acts pursuant to powers of the President under Sections 3 (a) and 5 (b) of the Trading with the enemy Act, as amended, (50 U. S. C., App., secs. 3 (a) and 5 (b)) delegated to the Secretary of the Treasury by Executive Orders Nos. 8389 and 9193, as amended, (31 CFR, Cum. Supp., 127.9–127.17; 3 CFR, Cum. Supp., Chap. II; 3 CFR, 1945 Supp., Chap. II). The Control exercises these powers so far as they apply to property of and transactions with foreign countries and their nationals and to trade and communication with the enemy. Through a system of licenses, rulings and other documents, collectively known as the freezing regulations, the Control regulates financial and property transactions involving blocked countries and their nationals as defined under Executive Order No. 8389. With regard to liberated and neutral blocked countries, the primary purposes of the Control are to uncover enemy assets and prevent the consummation of looting transactions initiated by enemy countries. The general aim with respect to enemy countries and their nationals is to immobilize their assets pending their ultimate disposition, while additional controls are maintained on trade and communication with Germany and Japan with a view to insuring that they are conducted only in accordance with the national policy of the United States. The Control also administers regulations designed to prevent the importation into the United States of looted securities, currency, checks and drafts.

§ 138.2 Outline of organization—(a) The central organization. Foreign Funds Control is headed by the Director, who exercises his functions through four administrative divisions: (1) the Licensing Division, including the Trade and Remittance Section and the Business and Securities Section, (2) the Enforcement Division, including the Compliance Section and the Program Planning Section, (3) the Statistics and Reporting Division, including the Statistical Operations Section and the Property Accounts Section, and (4) the Administrative Services Division, including the Personnel Office, the Budget and Planning Office, and the Office Service Section. Each division is headed by a Chief. In addition, there is a Legal Division functioning under the Chief Counsel of Foreign Funds Control, who is responsible to the General Counsel of the Treasury Department.

(b) The field organization. Foreign Funds Control is represented in the field by the Federal Reserve Banks of New York, Chicago and San Francisco. There is also a small Liberated Areas Staff. The Federal Reserve Bank of New York has jurisdiction with respect to the Federal Reserve Districts of New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Richmond and Atlanta, and with respect to Puerto Rico. The Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago has jurisdiction with respect to the Federal Reserve Districts of Chicago, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Kansas City and Dallas. The Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco has jurisdiction with respect to the Federal Reserve District of San Francisco. Under General Ruling No. 5 (31 CFR, 1943 Supp., 131, App. A) controls over the importation of securities and currency are in the first instance enforced in the field by the Bureau of Customs and the Post Office Department, as agents of the Control.

§ 138.3 Description of functions performed by divisions and offices—(a) Licensing Division. This division has general responsibility for the licensing activities of the central organization. In addition to reviewing and acting upon specific applications, the division (1) establishes policies and procedures to guide the licensing activities of the field organization, (2) formulates general or blanket licenses under which broad categories of acceptable transactions may be consummated, and (3) has primary responsibility for developing unblocking arrangements with liberated and neutral countries.

The Trade Section deals with matters relating to trade and shipping involving non-enemy blocked countries; trade or communication with enemy territory; business and personal remittances; patents, trademarks and copyrights; granting of generally licensed national status to individuals and organizations; release of accounts from freezing control; internees; benevolent and charitable payments; and diplomatic and governmental expenses of blocked countries.

The Business and Securities Section deals with matters relating to securities and currency; foreign exchange; attachments; litigation, and the creation and administration of trusts and estates; real estate; business enterprises which are controlled by nationals of blocked countries; and miscellaneous transactions.

(b) Enforcement Division. This division directs the enforcement operations of the Control. It investigates activities which appear to be in violation of the freezing regulations and recommends appropriate action to prevent or punish such violations. The Compliance Section is responsible for the direct domestic and foreign enforcement functions of the Control, including cases involving blocking by specific action. The Program Planning Section coordinates enforcement activities of the Control with those of the corresponding authorities in liberated areas and assists in searching out enemy assets throughout the world in implementation of this Government's security and reparations programs.

(c) Statistics and Reporting Division. This division develops and carries out the statistical and reporting program of the Control including the analysis of data reported in the Census of Foreign-Owned Property on Form TFR-300 and the Census of American-Owned Property Abroad on Form TFR-500. (See § 139.3 of this chapter.)

(d) Administrative Division. This division provides all administrative management services of the Control.

(e) Legal Division. This division performs all legal functions of Foreign Funds Control, including the drafting of public documents.

(f) Federal Reserve Banks. Under general supervision of the central organization, the Federal Reserve Banks perform substantially all field operations of the Control in the territorial United States and Puerto Rico other than initial enforcement of controls over importation of securities and currency under General Ruling No. 5 (31 CFR, 1943 Supp., 131, App. A). Excepting a limited category of cases directly involving foreign governments, all license applications arising within the territorial jurisdiction of the Banks are filed with them and final action on the applications is announced through them.

(g) Liberated Areas Staff. This group assists the military authorities in Germany and Japan and the Governments of liberated areas in tracing Axis assets and in investigating and uncovering the network of financial and commercial interrelationships by means of which enemy interests have penetrated the economic systems of other countries.

§ 138.4 Delegation of final authority—(a) The central organization. Regulations, rulings, general licenses, and other public documents, except public interpretations, are issued by the Secretary of the Treasury. The Director of Foreign Funds Control has been delegated general authority to take final action with respect to all other Foreign Funds Control matters.

Authority to take final action on license applications referred to the central office has been granted to the Chiefs of the Licensing and Enforcement Divisions and of the Sections within these Divisions. Final action on license applications is taken within the Division through the Section Chiefs, subject to instructions to secure clearance from the Division Chief or the Director, where the application involves an important policy decision.

Officers acting in the place of other officers have all the authority of the persons for whom they act.

(b) The field organization. Authority to take final licensing action on most types of applications arising within their respective jurisdictions has been delegated to the Federal Reserve Banks of New York, Chicago and San Francisco, subject to policies and procedures prescribed by Foreign Funds Control. Applications which are of a special nature or involve policy decisions are forwarded to the central office for review before final action.

§ 138.5 Official records—(a) Classification. The official records of Foreign Funds Control are divided into the following categories:

(1) Applications, correspondence relating thereto and licenses, denials, or other final opinions, orders or other official responses thereon.

(2) Transcripts of hearings with exhibits and other supporting documents.

(3) Reports, including reports on Form TFR-300 relating to foreign-owned property, and on Form TFR-500 relating to American-owned property abroad. (See § 138.3 (c).)

(4) Miscellaneous correspondence.

(5) Documents submitted by the public in connection with rule-making.

(b) Who may inspect records. Any application, report, or correspondence submitted to Foreign Funds Control and any license, denial, or other final opinion or order or other official response pertaining to any such document is available for inspection by the person submitting such document or his agent or successor in interest by operation of law upon the filing of a written request with the Director. Transcripts of hearings and supporting documents are available to any participant upon similar application. The foregoing matters of official record are available to other persons properly and directly concerned upon written request to the Director supported by a court order entered in pending litigation, or in lieu of such order the written consent of the applicant, reporter or author, but reports on Forms TFR-300 and TFR-500 will be made available only to the reporter or his agent or successor in interest by operation of law. Documents submitted by the public in connection with rule-making may be inspected by any person upon written or oral request.

In all other cases and under all other circumstances all official records in the files of Foreign Funds Control are held to be confidential. Information contained therein and final opinions and orders involve matters of public or private confidence. Applications and other submissions by members of the public, and official action taken by the Control thereon, involve private financial or business affairs. Any publication of such matters would deter persons dealing with the Control from supplying necessary information fully and freely. Accordingly, it would be contrary to the best interests of the Government and of persons dealing with Foreign Funds Control to make such information available for general purposes by permitting inspection on a broader basis than provided above. Final opinions and orders are not cited as precedents.

Rules of Foreign Funds Control are published in 31 CFR, Chap. I, Part 127 et seq.

(c) Methods of inspection. Matters of official record which are available for inspection as provided above may be examined in the files of Foreign Funds Control or when available in the appropriate field office or by securing a photostatic copy which will be furnished upon the payment of a standard charge.

(d) Information required in requests for inspection. Except as provided above with regard to documents submitted by the public in connection with rule-making, requests for inspection must set forth in detail the interest of the applicant in the subject matter and the purpose for which inspection is desired.

(e) Decision on requests. Decision on requests for inspection will be made by the Director or under his direction.

§ 138.6 Places and methods of securing information and making submittals—(a) Information, submittals and requests, in general. The public may in general secure any information or make submittals, requests or petitions with respect to any Foreign Funds Control matters by communicating through correspondence or telephone or by coming in person or sending a representative, either to the central office in Washington or to the Federal Reserve Banks of New York, Chicago, or San Francisco.

(b) Applications for licenses. Applications for licenses to effect transactions subject to the Control should be filed with the Federal Reserve Bank or other agency prescribed by the appropriate regulations, 31 CFR, 130.3 (11 F. R. 1769, 7184), or other applicable document. Instructions in this respect are set forth in Section 139.1 of this chapter.

(c) Prescribed forms. Forms and instructions to be used in submitting license applications, reports and certain other types of submittals or requests are covered in §§ 139.1–139.3 of this chapter.

(d) Addresses. Correspondence with the central office should be directed to "Foreign Funds Control, United States Treasury Department, Washington 25, D. C." Personal inquiries to the central office should be made at the District National Bank Building, 1406 G Street, NW., Washington, D. C. All correspondence or inquiries to the respective Federal Reserve Banks should be addressed as follows: (1) Foreign Funds Control Department, Federal Reserve Bank of New York, 33 Liberty Street, New York 7, New York, (2) Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, Chicago 90, Illinois, and (3) Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco, San Francisco 20, California.

PART 139—PROCEDURES OF FOREIGN FUNDS CONTROL

Sec.
139.1 Licensing.
139.2 Unblocking.
139.3 Reporting.
139.4 Rule making.

§ 139.1 Licensing—(a) General licenses. General licenses have been issued authorizing under appropriate terms and conditions, many types of transactions which are subject to Executive Orders Nos. 8389 and 9193, as amended (31 CFR, Cum. Supp., 127.9–127.17; 3 CFR, Cum. Supp., Chap. II; 3 CFR, 1945, Supp., Chap. II). All such licenses are published in 31 CFR, 131. Persons availing themselves of certain general licenses are required to file reports in the form and in accordance with the instructions specified in the licenses.

(b) Specific licenses—(1) General course of procedure. Transactions subject to the Executive Orders which are not authorized by general license may be effected only under specific license. The specific licensing activities of Foreign Funds Control are performed by the central organization, the Federal Reserve Banks of New York, Chicago, and San Francisco. Under policies and procedures prescribed by the Control, the Federal Reserve Banks take final action upon most applications filed with them. All other applications are forwarded to the central office and are initially referred to the Section within the Control dealing with the type of subject matter or transaction with which the application is concerned. (For a description of the organization of the Control see Sections 138.2–138.3 of this Chapter). When an unusual problem is presented, the proposed action is cleared with the Chief of the Division or with the Director.

(2) Applications for specific licenses. Except as provided below, applications for specific licenses are to be filed on Form TFE–1 with the Federal Reserve Bank or other agency prescribed in the appropriate regulations, 31 CFR, 130.3 (11 F. R. 1769, 7184).

Applications for the release of securities imported into the United States and surrendered in accordance with the provisions of General Ruling No. 5 (31 CFR, 1943 Supp., 131, App. A) are to be filed on Form TFA–1 with the Federal Reserve Bank or other agency holding such securities as prescribed in the ruling and the regulations.

Applications for the attachment of Form TFEL–2 to securities with reference to General License No. 25 (31 CFR, Cum. Supp., 131.25) are to be filed on Form TFE–2 with the appropriate Federal Reserve Bank or other agency in accordance with the regulations.

(3) Information to be supplied. Applicants must supply all information specified by the respective forms and instructions, including, in the case of business enterprises applying for operating licenses, the information required by Form TFBE–1. They may also be required to furnish such further information as is deemed necessary to a proper determination by the Control or any of its offices or agencies. If an applicant or other party in interest desires to present additional information or discuss or argue the application, he may do so at any time before or after decision. Arrangements for oral presentation should ordinarily be made with the agency with which the application was filed.

(4) Effect of denial. Except as provided by General Ruling No. 19 (31 CFR, 131, App. A; 11 F. R. 8350) relating to property vested by the Alien Property Custodian, the denial of a license does not preclude the reopening of an application or the filing of a further application. The applicant or any other party in interest may at any time request explanation of the reasons for a denial by correspondence or personal interview.

(5) Reports under specific licenses. As a condition upon the issuance of any license, the licensee may be required to file reports with respect to the transaction covered by the license, in such form and at such times and places as may be prescribed in the license or related communication.

§ 139.2 Unblocking. The procedure to be followed by any person desiring the unblocking of accounts or other property on the ground that no person having an interest in the property is a national of a blocked country is set forth by General Ruling No. 13 (31 CFR, Cum. Supp., 131, App. A).

Funds Control is represented in the field by the Federal Reserve Banks of New other final opinions, orders or official responses thereon.

No. 177A——13

§ 139.3 Reporting. Information with respect to property in which nationals of blocked countries have an interest is required to be submitted in certain cases on Report Form TFR-300, Series L, as prescribed in Public Circular No. 4C (31 CFR, Cum. Supp., 131, App. B; 31 CFR, 1945, Supp., 131, App. B). The question of reports under licenses is treated in § 139.1.

§ 139.4 Rule making. All rules and other ublic documents, except public interpretations, are issued by the Secretary of the Treasury upon recommendation of the Director. Public interpretations are issued by the Director. Except when interpretative rules, general statements of policy, or rules of agency organization, practice, or procedure are involved or when notice and public procedure are impracticable, unnecessary or contrary to the public interest, interested persons will be afforded an opportunity to participate in rule making through submission of written data, views, or argument, with oral presentation in the discretion of the Director. In addition, it is the practice to hold, as far as possible, informal consultations with interested groups or persons before the issuance of any rule or other public document.

Any interested person may petition the Director in writing for the issuance, amendment, or repeal of any rule.

All other official records of the Procurement Division will be made available by the Director of Procurement to persons properly and directly concerned for inspection or copying, and copies of such records will be provided upon payment of costs of reproduction. These records relate principally to the procurement of supplies, materials, equipment and services, the award, performance, payment, amendment and termination of contracts, the disposal of forfeited distilled spirits, and the settlement of motor accident claims involving Procurement Division vehicles.

SUBPART B—PROCEDURE

§ 5.101 Contracts—(a) Invitations for bids. Bids are solicited for the procurement of supplies, materials, equipment and services and the disposition of surplus supplies through public notices posted or published and invitations for bids sent to suppliers and purchasers believed qualified and interested, within such limits as the public interest requires. Invitations for bids are issued by both the Washington Office and the several field offices. Those wishing to receive invitations for bids should apply separately to each office as desired. Before being placed on the mailing list to receive pertinent invitations for bids, Procurement Division Form 705 (Revised), "Data Concerning Prospective Bidders" must be filed. Copies are available at all offices.

(b) Awards. Contracts are awarded to the lowest responsible bidder offering to furnish supplies, materials, equipment and services and to the highest responsible bidder offering to purchase surplus supplies in the absence of special security or other public interest factors. Contracts are signed by authorized contracting officers in Washington, D. C., and the field (41 CFR 5.3) upon the recommendations of purchasing and sales officers and their supervisors. Standard Government contract forms are used as applicable (41 CFR, Part 12). However, for war contracts, Procurement Division Form No. 818 and Contract Terms No. 7, dated March 7, 1946, as revised from time to time, are used. Copies are available at all offices.

(c) Protests of awards. Protests of awards of contracts should be in writing and filed with the head of the local field office or the Special Assistant to the Director, Procurement Division, Treasury Department, Washington 25, D. C., depending on the place of award. No special forms are needed, but the protester should indicate the nature of his interest in the matter. Hearings will be arranged on request, in Washington, D. C., before a committee composed of the Special Assistant to the Director, a member of the Legal Division, the Head, Contract Division and the chief of the commodity group concerned. Recommendations of this committee will be made to the Director of Procurement.

(d) Disputes. All questions and disputes with respect to contract performance, payment and procedure should be referred to the contracting officer concerned, through an inspector if available at the premises, in the absence of special instructions or notice received in particular cases. Determinations of the contracting officer are ordinarily reviewable, in the manner prescribed by the contract, by the Secretary of the Treasury or such representative as he may designate from time to time. No special forms are required to submit questions, disputes and claims, or appeals from determinations thereon. However, claims for amounts due deceased contractors must be filed on Standard Form No. 1055 (Revised), "Claim Against the United States for Amounts Due in the Case of a Decedent."

(e) Termination settlements. Settlements of terminated war contracts are made by the Chief of Contract Terminations, subject to review by his supervisors and, as required by law, by a settlement review board and an inventory disposal review board. The procedure to be observed by the contractor in filing and settling his claim is stated in the notice of termination received and the standard Office of Contract Settlement inventory and claim forms also received. Settlements are made in Washington, D. C., but Government inspectors and accountants may assist the contractor at his plant.

(f) Term contracts. Where contracts are made by contracting officers of the Procurement Division with contractors to furnish supplies, materials, equipment and services as required by Executive agencies during specified periods, frequently referred to as contracts composing the General Schedule of Supplies, purchase orders are placed directly with contractors by ordering Executive agencies which have been informed of such contracts. Ordering offices make payments directly to the contractor and, in the first instance, determine whether performance is in accordance with contract requirements. In the event the contractor offers defective supplies, they may accept or reject them, make price adjustments or seek replacements, or terminate purchase orders, purchase from other sources and charge the contractor with any resulting excess costs. All disputes concerning questions of fact arising under the contract which cannot satisfactorily be settled between the ordering office and the contractor and all notices filed by the contractor that a delay in the time of performance was due to an excusable cause preventing assessment of excess costs under the provisions of the contract must be referred to the contracting officer of the Procurement Division for consideration. His determinations are reviewable by the Secretary of the Treasury as in other contracts (see paragraph (d) of this section). In order that the Procurement Division may properly supervise operation of the contracts and ascertain the suitability of the contractor for further awards, ordering offices are required to report to the Procurement Division, Washington 25, D. C., the details concerning all material instances of unsatisfactory performance by a contractor, whether or not adequately adjusted and settled.

§ 5.102 Forfeited distilled spirits. In the disposal of forfeited distilled spirits, wine and malt beverages as a gift to eleemosynary institutions for medicinal purposes (41 CFR, Part 36), institutions are required to establish eligibility and needs by filing with the Director of Procurement, Washington 25, D. C., Procurement Division Form No. 735, "Affidavit on Behalf of Eleemosynary Institution." Eligible institutions are placed on a mailing list to receive circulars of available distilled spirits and from time to time request transfers of distilled spirits in the circulars. No special form of request for transfer is prescribed.

§ 5.103 Motor accident claims. Those desiring to file claims for damages resulting from accidents involving Procurement Division motor vehicles must do so on Government Standard Form No. 28, "Claim for Damages—Accident, Motor Transportation." The completed form should be delivered to the Government accident investigator, or it may be submitted to the head of the local field office or to the Deputy Director, Administrative Branch, Procurement Division, Treasury Department, Washington 25, D. C., depending upon the place of accident. Claims must be supported by at least three reliable estimates of the cost of repairing any property alleged to have been damaged by the accident.

(3) Records of public education activities relative to counterfeiting and to the theft, forgery, or fraudulent negotiation of Government checks.

(4) Records of inquiries from the public relative to application of the criminal laws enforced by the Secret Service.

Records in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph contain final orders in the adjudication of cases, but such orders relate solely to the arrest and prosecution of criminals and to the confiscation of contraband. These orders are not cited as precedents and are held confidential in the public interest because they contain information of value to criminals, the disclosure of which might reduce the effectiveness of Secret Service law enforcement operations. The Secret Service Division has issued no final opinions in the adjudication of cases.

The records described in subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph (other than the final orders already referred to) are not deemed to constitute official records within the meaning of section 3 of the Administrative Procedure Act (Public Law 404, 79th Congress, 60 Stat. 238), but they are in any case held confidential for the reason that the information contained therein would be of material assistance to criminals and potential law violators, disclosure of which information might reduce the effectiveness of Secret Service law enforcement operations.

Records described in subparagraphs (3) and (4) of this paragraph are not deemed to constitute official records within the meaning of section 3 of the Administrative Procedure Act but will, upon application in writing to the Chief of the Secret Service or to a Supervising Agent of a District headquarters, be made available to inspection by members of the public.

The Secret Service Division has adopted no rules other than the following previously published in the FEDERAL REGISTER: rules, issued pursuant to 18 U. S. C. 264, 350, authorizing under certain conditions illustrations of United States postage stamps, reproduction of canceled United States internal revenue stamps, film recordation by banking institutions of United States securities, checks, warrants, and paper money, and illustration of War Savings Bonds and Stamps (31 CFR and Supps., Parts 400, 402, 404, 405); a rule, issued pursuant to 18 U. S. C. 286, authorizing all banking institutions to deliver to the Treasury Department counterfeit obligations and other securities and coins of the United States or of any foreign government (31 CFR, Part 403); rules, issued pursuant to 49 U. S. C. 781–788, relating to seizure and forfeiture of vessels, vehicles and aircraft used to transport counterfeit coins, obligations, securities, and paraphernalia (31 CFR, Part 401).

(b) Submittals and requests. The public may secure information from, or make submittals or requests to, the Chief of the Secret Service, Treasury Department, Washington, D. C., the Supervising Agent of a District headquarters, or the Agent-in-Charge of a Sub-District office. Among other matters, information may be obtained relative to the criminal laws enforced by the Secret Service (including the laws and regulations relating to reproductions in the likeness of stamps, obligations, securities, and coins of the United States and of foreign governments), the detection of counterfeit money, and the guarding against theft, forgery, and fraudulent negotiation of Government checks.

§ 406.4 Delegations of final authority. Supervising Agents of District headquarters and Agents-in-Charge of Sub-District offices are authorized to make determinations in matters with respect to which the policy and practice of the Secret Service Division have been established. All final authority resides in the Secretary of the Treasury, the Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in charge of the Secret Service Division, and the Chief of the Secret Service.

PART 407—PROCEDURES

§ 407.1 Procedures in general. There is no general course and method by which the functions of the Secret Service Division are channeled and determined in the sense that the public may rely upon and utilize such procedures.

SUBPART B—PROCEDURE

§ 5.101 Contracts—(a) Invitations for bids. Bids are solicited for the procurement of supplies, materials, equipment and services and the disposition of surplus supplies through public notices posted or published and invitations for bids sent to suppliers and purchasers believed qualified and interested, within such limits as the public interest requires. Invitations for bids are issued by both the Washington Office and the several field offices. Those wishing to receive invitations for bids should apply separately to each office as desired. Before being placed on the mailing list to receive pertinent invitations for bids, Procurement Division Form 705 (Revised), "Data Concerning Bidder," must be filed. Copies are available at all offices.

(b) Protests of awards. Protests of awards of contracts should be in writing and filed with the head of the local field office or the Special Assistant to the Director, Procurement Division, Treasury Department, Washington 25, D. C., depending on the place of award. No special forms are needed, but the protester should indicate the nature of his interest in the matter. Hearings will be arranged on request in Washington, D. C., before a committee composed of the Special Assistant to the Director, a member of the Legal Division, the Head Contract Division and the chief of the commodity group concerned. Recommendations of this committee will be made to the Director of Procurement.

(c) Disputes. All questions and disputes with respect to contract performance, payment and procedure should be referred to the contracting officer concerned, through an inspector if available at the premises, in the absence of special instructions or notice received in particular cases. Determinations of the contracting officer are ordinarily reviewable, in the manner prescribed by the contract, by the Secretary of the Treasury or such representative as he may designate from time to time. No special forms are required to submit questions, disputes and claims, or appeals from determinations thereon. However, claims for amounts due deceased contractors must be filed on Standard Form No. 1055 (Revised), "Claim Against the United States for Amounts Due in the Case of a Decedent."

The procedure to be observed by the contractor in filing and settling his claim is stated in the notice of termination received and the standard Office of Contract Settlement inventory and claim forms also received. (f) Term contracts. Where contracts are made by contracting officers of the Procurement Division with contractors to furnish supplies, materials, equipment and services as required by Executive [illegible] other and the contractor and all notice filed by the contractor that a delay in the time of performance was due to an excusable cause preventing assessment of excess costs under the provisions of the contract must be referred to the contracting officer of the Procurement Division for consideration. His determinations are reviewable by the Secretary of the Treasury as in other contracts (see paragraph (d) of this section). In order that the Procurement Division may properly supervise operation of the contracts and ascertain the suitability of the contractor for further awards, ordering offices are required to report to the Procurement Division, Washington 25, D. C., the details concerning all material instances of unsatisfactory performance by a contractor, whether or not adequately adjusted and settled.

§ 5.102 Forfeited distilled spirits. In the disposal of forfeited distilled spirits, wine and malt beverages as a gift to eleemosynary institutions for medicinal purposes (41 CFR, Part 36), institutions are required to establish eligibility and needs by filing with the Director of Procurement, Washington 25, D. The completed form should be delivered to the Government accident investigator, or it may be submitted to the head of the local field office or to the Deputy Director, Administrative Branch, Procurement Division, Treasury Department, Washington 25, D. C., depending upon the place of accident. Claims must be supported by at least three reliable estimates of the cost of repairing any property alleged to have been damaged by the accident.

(3) Records of public education activities relative to counterfeiting and to the theft, forgery, or fraudulent negotiation of Government checks.

(4) Records of inquiries from the public relative to application of the criminal laws enforced by the Secret Service.

Records in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph contain final orders in the adjudication of cases, but such orders relate solely to the arrest and prosecution of criminals and to the confiscation of contraband. The Secret Service Division has issued no final opinions in the adjudication of cases.

The records described in subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph (other than the final orders already referred to) are not deemed to constitute official records within the meaning of section 3 of the Administrative Procedure Act (Public Law 404, 79th Congress, 60 Stat. 238), but they are in any case held confidential for the reason that the information contained therein would be of material assistance to criminals and potential law violators, disclosure of which information might reduce the effectiveness of Secret Service law enforcement operations.

Records described in subparagraphs (3) and (4) of this paragraph are not deemed to constitute official records within the meaning of section 3 of the Administrative Procedure Act but will, upon application in writing to the Chief of the Secret Service or to a Supervising Agent of a District headquarters, be made available to inspection by members of the public.

The Secret Service Division has adopted no rules other than the following previously published in the FEDERAL REGISTER: rules, issued pursuant to 18 U. S. C. 264, 350, authorizing under certain conditions illustrations of United States postage stamps, reproduction of canceled United States internal revenue stamps; film recordation by banking institutions of United States securities, checks, warrants, and paper money, and illustration of War Savings Bonds and Stamps (31 CFR and Supps., Parts 400, 402, 404, 405); a rule, issued pursuant to 18 U. S. C. 286, authorizing all banking institutions to deliver to the Treasury Department counterfeit obligations and other securities and coins of the United States or of any foreign government (31 CFR, Part 403); rules, issued pursuant to 49 U. S. C. 781–788, relating to seizure and forfeiture of vessels, vehicles and aircraft used to transport counterfeit coins, obligations, securities, and paraphernalia (31 CFR, Part 401).

(b) Submittals and requests. The public may secure information from, or make submittals or requests to, the Chief of the Secret Service, Treasury Department, Washington, D. C., the Supervising Agent of a District headquarters, or the Agent-in-Charge of a Sub-District office. Among other matters, information may be obtained relative to the criminal laws enforced by the Secret Service (including the laws and regulations relating to reproductions in the likeness of stamps, obligations, securities, and coins of the United States and of foreign governments), the detection of counterfeit money, and the guarding against theft, forgery, and fraudulent negotiation of Government checks.

§ 406.4 Delegations of final authority. Supervising Agents of District headquarters and Agents-in-Charge of Sub-District offices are authorized to make determinations in matters with respect to which the policy and practice of the Secret Service Division have been established. All final authority resides in the Secretary of the Treasury, the Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in charge of the Secret Service Division, and the Chief of the Secret Service.

PART 407—PROCEDURES

No officer or employee may permit the disclosure or use of the same for any purpose other than for the performance of his official duties, except in the discretion of the Attorney General, The Assistant to the Attorney General, or an Assistant Attorney General acting for him. Whenever a subpoena duces tecum is served to product any of such files, documents, records or information, the officer or employee on whom such subpoena is served, unless otherwise expressly directed by the Attorney General, will appear in court in answer thereto and respectfully decline to produce the records specified therein, on the ground that the disclosure of such records is prohibited by this regulation.

§ 51.72 Opinions of the Attorney General. The formal opinions which he renders are collected and published in volumes known as Opinions of the Attorney General, cited as — Op. A. G. These opinions are available at the Department of Justice, at most law libraries, and may be obtained upon payment of reasonable fees from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C.

§ 51.73 Office of the Pardon Attorney. As to the nature and availability of reports and papers filed in connection with petitions for Executive clemency, see 11 F. R. 4786, dated May 2, 1946 (§ 1.15).

§ 51.74 Federal Bureau of Investigation. (a) Pertinent information contained in the identification records of the Federal Bureau of Investigation is available to domestic law enforcement agencies, and to certain foreign law enforcement agencies on a reciprocal basis, and to other Federal agencies having an official interest therein. 52.2 Office of the Pardon Attorney.
52.3 Tax Division.
52.4 Lands Division.
52.5 Criminal Division.
52.6 Customs Division.
52.7 Immigration and Naturalization Service.
52.8 Alien enemies.
52.9 Board of Immigration Appeals.
52.11 Parole of violators of Selective Training and Service Act.

§ 52.1 Office of the Assistant to the Attorney General. Conscientious Objectors. (a) Where a Draft Board of Appeal does not place a registrant in any of the deferred classifications stated in § 623.21 of the Selective Service Regulations (32 CFR 623.21) or if, in an appropriate case, it does not affirm the Local Draft Board's conscientious objector classification, it is required by section 5 (g) of the Selective Training and Service Act (50 U. S. C. App. 305 (g)) and § 627.25 of the Selective Service Regulations (32 CFR 627.25) to refer the registrant's file to the Department of Justice for "inquiry and hearing" and advisory recommendation as to the validity of the registrant's claim for exemption as a conscientious objector.

(b) "Reference" to the Department of Justice by a Board of Appeal is made by transmitting the file, with the notations required by § 623.25 of the Selective Service Regulations (32 CFR 623.25), to the United States Attorney having jurisdiction over the registrant's Local Board.

(c) The United States Attorney thereupon examines the file to determine if the Department has jurisdiction in the case, and if he is satisfied that it has, he forwards the file to the nearest Field Office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and notifies the Department of his action.

(d) Upon receipt of the file by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the documents therein are photostated and the photostatic copy is sent to the Office of The Assistant to the Attorney General for examination and retention in the Departmental file. The Federal Bureau of Investigation thereupon conducts the "inquiry" contemplated by section 5 (g) of the act, and investigates the religious background, character and sincerity of the registrant.

(e) Upon completion of the "inquiry", the file and a copy of the investigative report are returned to the United States Attorney by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and a copy of the investigative report is forwarded to the Office of the Assistant to the Attorney General in Washington.

(f) The United States Attorney thereupon transmits the original file and the copy of the investigative report to the Special Assistant to the Attorney General designated as Hearing Officer for this district.

(g) Upon receipt of the file and investigative report, it is studied by the Hearing Officer and he issues a "Notice of Hearing" to the registrant. The Hearing Officer has no power of subpena, and the appearance of the registrant and his witnesses is purely voluntary.

(h) After the hearing, the Hearing Officer prepares a report in triplicate in which he makes a recommendation to the Department of Justice. This report, together with the file and the copy of the investigative report, is forwarded to the Office of The Assistant to the Attorney General in Washington for examination and review.

(i) Upon receipt of the entire file and reports in the Office of The Assistant to the Attorney General, the case is reviewed to ascertain if it has been handled in conformity with departmental advices, instructions and policy.

(j) The Assistant to the Attorney General thereupon makes a definite recommendation to the Board of Appeal, returning the file and the original copy of the Hearing Officer's report.

(k) Upon receipt of the departmental recommendation, the Board of Appeal proceeds independently to classify the registrant, on the basis of the entire record, and in its determination it gives consideration to, but is not bound to follow, the recommendation of the Department. The Board of Appeal notifies the Department of its action on the recommendation and advises the Department of the classification accorded to the registrant.

§ 52.2 Office of the Pardon Attorney. Petitions for Executive clemency are entertained in accordance with the rules published in 11 F. R. 4785, dated May 2, 1946.

§ 52.3 Tax Division. As a matter of policy the procedures of the Division relating to discussions with opposing counsel and the securing of information and the making of submittals or requests by them, or other persons having a legitimate interest, are entirely informal. No forms are required in submitting offers in compromise or in transacting business with the Division. Upon timely request by counsel, or other persons having a legitimate interest, the Division affords the opportunity of an informal discussion with appropriate members of its staff concerning any matter pending before it.

§ 52.4 Lands Division—(a) Title opinions in acquisitions of land by direct purchase. Offers to sell land, or any interest therein, to the United States are negotiated and accepted by the agency or department of the Government for the use of which the land is being acquired. Title opinions (preliminary and final) on the validity of the titles are prepared after an examination of the purchase contract, evidence of title and other related documents submitted to the Department of Justice by the acquiring agency. To be acceptable, abstracts of title prepared by approved abstractors or title companies, or certificates of title issued by approved title corporations, must be prepared in accordance with "Regulations for the Preparation of Title Evidence, dated January 1, 1946," issued by the Department of Justice; copies of these regulations will be supplied to interested parties upon request.

(b) Offers in compromise. In cases other than those in the Court of Claims, offers in compromise should be submitted to the United States Attorney or other field representative of the Department in charge of the litigation and should be accompanied by cashiers' or certified checks or money orders in the amount of the offers. Pending acceptance or rejection of the offers the checks or money orders are often cashed and the proceeds placed in a special account to the credit of the debtor; the cashing of the checks or money orders under these circumstances is without prejudice to the Government and does not constitute an acceptance of the offers in compromise. United States Attorneys are authorized to accept or reject offers in compromise in matters involving trespasses on lands, buildings or projects, or the collection of delinquent rentals on property, under the jurisdiction of the Department of Agriculture, the National Housing Agency or the Office of Indian Affairs when the gross amount of the claim is not in excess of $500.00 and the local field officer of the interested department or agency concurs in the recommendation of the United States Attorney.

§ 52.5 Criminal Division—(a) Offers in compromise. Offers of compromise in internal revenue liquor cases involving criminal, forfeiture, and tax liability in instances where a criminal or forfeiture case is pending, compromise offers in customs cases, narcotic cases, and cases under the immigration laws involving an immigration fine or penalty, should be submitted through the offices of the respective United States attorneys. The offers, together with the remittance in the form of certified checks, cashier's checks or money orders are transmitted by letter, by the United States Attorney, to the Department of Justice for action by the Criminal Division.

(b) Petitions for remission or mitigation of forfeitures. (1) Petitions for remission or mitigation of forfeitures under internal revenue laws relating to liquor valued at more than $500 and under laws to enforce the Twenty-First Amendment (27 U. S. C. 224) should be submitted through the offices of the respective United States Attorneys.

(2) Petitions for remission or mitigation of forfeitures or penalties under the customs laws may be filed with the Secretary of the Treasury prior to reference of the case to the Department of Justice for action, or prior to filing of a claim and cost bond if the value of the property is $1,000 or less. After the case is referred or a claim and cost bond is filed, the petition is filed with the Department of Justice, preferably through the office of the United States Attorney.

(3) Petitions for remission or mitigation of forfeitures under the internal revenue and customs laws, and the contraband transportation laws relating to narcotics violations (49 U. S. C. 781–788) may be filed with the Secretary of the Treasury prior to reference of the case to the Department of Justice for action, or prior to the filing of a claim and cost bond if the property is valued at less than $500 in internal revenue cases, or $1,000 in customs and contraband transportation cases. After the case is referred or a claim and cost bond filed, the petition is filed with the Department of Justice, preferably through the office of the United States Attorney.

§ 52.6 Customs Division. The method by which an importer may challenge the appraised value of his merchandise is set forth in section 1501 of Title 19 of the United States Code; a claim for remission of additional duties assessed because of undervaluation is filed in the manner set forth in section 1489; all decisions of the collector affecting the rate and amount of duties are subject to judicial review under the procedure in section 1514.

Actions may be instituted in any port or sub-port of the United States where an importer may have entered his merchandise. The matter is transmitted to the United States Customs Court for hearing and determination. That Court is located in New York City but conducts regular circuits for the purpose of hearing cases arising at the principal ports in the United States. The Customs Division represents the United States at such circuits. In representing the Government the Customs Division has no authority to compromise cases. As a general rule it does not make any settlement but defends the decision which the importer has brought into question and leaves determination of the case to the Customs Court.

(c) Frequently numerous actions are instituted involving substantially the same questions of law or fact, or both. In such cases, the Customs Division agrees by stipulation with the plaintiffs' attorneys that a test case shall be tried and all others suspended pending the determination of the litigated action. When the test case is finally settled, if the decision is adverse to the Government and no new trial is recommended, all pending cases can be settled by stipulation, in which the importer recites sufficient information to establish that the question at issue in the suspended cases is the same as in the test case. The truth of the factual matters in the stipulation is attested by a certificate signed by the Customs official who saw the merchandise at the time of importation and has first-hand knowledge thereof. No set form of stipulation or certificate is required, but the Customs Division will, upon request, furnish an importer or his attorney with a form of stipulation which embodies the necessary requirements in any given case.

(d) The attorney in charge of the Classification Section of the Customs Division maintains a catalog of all pending cases which have arisen under section 1514. The attorney in charge of the Reappraisement Section maintains a similar catalog of all pending issues which have arisen under section 1489 or 1501. In order to avoid a multiplicity of suits, an importer who has instituted an action under any of these sections may inquire of either of these two officials and be advised whether a similar case is pending, in which case the Customs Division will agree to suspend the new action. This is true whether the test case is before the Customs Court for determination after trial, or is on appeal before the United States Court of Customs and Patent Appeals or the Supreme Court of the United States.

(e) Whenever cases are docketed for trial before the United States Customs Court, the Customs Division presumes that they will be moved for trial, in the absence of notice to the contrary. Requests for adjournment or suspension are customarily directed to the Customs Court but are first submitted, with a carbon copy, to the Customs Division for approval. Approval for adjournments and suspensions, not in excess of two, is given as a matter of course.

(f) The manner of filing pleadings and briefs with the Customs Court and the United States Court of Customs and Patent Appeals is governed by the rules of those tribunals. Acknowledgement of service of such papers is given by the Customs Division when the papers are presented through ordinary mail.

(g) All pleadings and documents requiring the assent of the Customs Division should be prepared for the signature of the Assistant Attorney General, with an additional line beneath for the signature of the Special Attorney to whom the matter will be assigned.

§ 52.7 Immigration and Naturalization Service. For a description of its procedures, reference should be made to Title 8, Chapter I, Part 1, published in this issue.

§ 52.8 Alien enemies—(a) Removal of alien enemies. In any case where the Attorney General has tentatively determined to order the removal of an alien enemy, a hearing is given to the alien enemy. The hearing is conducted by a traveling hearing board, the membership of which is appointed by the Attorney General. Hearings are held at such times and places as are determined by the Director of the Alien Enemy Control Unit of the Department of Justice. After opportunity is granted to the alien to present witnesses and evidence in his own behalf, the hearing board transmits its recommendation to the Alien Enemy Control Unit which, in turn, forwards it to the Attorney General for his final determination as to how the discretion vested in him under the Alien Enemy Act of 1798 and Presidential proclamations issued pursuant thereto shall be exercised. No fixed procedures or procedural requirements have been established by which appeal to the discretion of the Attorney General must be made. All appeals, whether by the alien himself or his friends or representatives and whether formal or informal, are considered on their merits.

(b) Return of articles to alien enemies. On February 5, 1942, the Attorney General issued regulations requiring that certain articles, the possession of which by alien enemies was prohibited, be deposited with the local or state police. These articles were turned over to the marshals for custody. On December 10, 1945, such regulations were revoked. The deposited articles will now be returned to the alien enemies upon application to the United States marshal for the district in which the articles were deposited, subject to delivery of the original receipt thereof and proper identification of the owner. Where the property cannot be located, the owner may file a claim on a form which will be furnished by the marshal. No funds are presently available for the payment of such claims, but the form will be accepted as a means of protecting the owner's interests and for use if funds are made available for settlement of such claims.

§ 52.9 Board of Immigration Appeals. For a description of its procedures, reference should be made to 8 CFR Cum Supp., Parts 90 and 95.

§ 52.10 Board of Parole. For a description of its procedures, reference should be made to Title 28 of the Code of Federal Regulations, Chapter I, Part 2.

§ 52.11 Parole of violators of Selective Training and Service Act. Executive Order 8641, issued by the President on January 18, 1941, authorizes the Attorney General, acting for the President, and with the approval of the Director of National Selective Service, to release on special parole certain violators of the Selective Training and Service Act who have been sentenced to imprisonment under that act. The Attorney General may parole such violators for induction into the land or naval forces, or for work of public importance or in the national interest. Recommendations for parole are sent from the Federal prisons to the Director of the Bureau of Prisons where they are reviewed before being forwarded to the Attorney General for his decision.

PLACES AND MANNER OF SECURING INFORMATION

§ 1.60 Places where, and methods whereby, information may be secured or submittals or requests made. (a) Any person desiring information relative to a matter handled by the Immigration and Naturalization Service or any person desiring to make a submittal or request in connection with such a matter should communicate either orally or in writing with whichever of the following offices is most convenient for him:

§ 1.71 Rule making. (a) There are numerous provisions in the statutes dealing with immigration and nationality which require the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization to issue, with the approval of the Attorney General, rules and regulations to implement such statutes (e. g., sec. 23, 39 Stat. 892, sec. 15, 43 Stat. 162, sec. 24, 43 Stat. 166, sec. 37 (a), 54 Stat 675, sec. 327 (b), 54 Stat. 1151, sec. 705, 56 Stat. 183, sec. 4, Act of June 29, 1946 (Public Law 471, 79th Congress); 8 U. S. C. 102, 215, 222, 458 (a), 727 (b), 1005). Such valid rules and regulations have the force and effect of statutes. The authority of the Attorney General to approve the issuance of such rules and regulations has not been delegated by § 90.1 of this chapter, or otherwise. Rules and regulations are drafted by the Commissioner with the assistance of his staff (see § 90.17 of this chapter). The provisions of the Federal Register Act (49 Stat. 500, 50 Stat. 304, 56 Stat. 1045; 44 U. S. C. Ch. 8B) and of the regulations thereunder (1 CFR, Cum. Supp., Part 2) governing the issuance of rules and regulations are observed. Rules and regulations drafted by the Commissioner are submitted to the Attorney General for approval and, upon being so approved, are filed with the Division of the FEDERAL REGISTER of The National Archives for publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER. Rules dealing with Service organization, including delegations of authority, are now and will hereafter be separately stated; that is, they appear in separate parts such as this Part 1 and Parts 60 and 90 of this chapter. Substantive rules will, on and after September 11, 1946, usually be issued in connection with adjective or other rules, but within each part dealing with a particular proceeding will be observed the requirements of section 3 (a) of the Administrative Procedure Act for separation of rules by type and content.

(b) There is no requirement in the immigration and nationality laws for the giving of notice of, or for hearing on, proposed rules or regulations under these laws. Pursuant to the provisions of section 4 (b) of the Administrative Procedure Act, substantive rules will hereafter be issued after the giving of notice and all interested persons will be given an opportunity to participate in such rule making under such conditions as may be specified in the notice of proposed rule making. Rules other than substantive may be issued without either notice or hearing. Petitions by interested persons for the issuance, amendment, or repeal of a rule may be submitted to the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization. Such petitions will be considered by the Commisisoner and the petitioner will be notified of any denial of such petition and, where considered appropriate, of any other action taken in connection therewith.

(c) Authority is vested in the Attorney General by section 7 (d) of the Air Commerce Act of 1926 (44 Stat. 572; 49 U. S. C. 177 (d)) to issue certain rules applying immigration laws to civil air navigation. While such statute does not place any responsibility on the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization, such rules are recommended to the Attorney General by the Commissioner and the provisions of this section will be followed to the extent applicable where regulations dealing with civil air navigation are involved.

AVAILABILITY OF OPINIONS, ORDERS, AND RECORDS

§ 1.80 Opinions, orders, and records of the Immigration and Naturalization Service regarded as confidential. Under existing regulation (Order No. 3229 issued by the Attorney General on May 2, 1939 (11 F. No such officer or employee may permit the disclosure or use of the same for any purpose other than for the performance of his official duties, except in the discretion of the Attorney General, The Assistant to the Attorney General, an Assistant Attorney General acting for him, or the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization acting for the Attorney General pursuant to the provisions of § 90.1 of this chapter. Therefore, such official files, documents, records, and information shall not be published, opened to public inspection, or made available to the public in any other way, except where the Attorney General, The Assistant to the Attorney General, or the Commissioner permits disclosure, either by the exercise of discretion in particular cases or, generally, through specific provisions of this section, part, or chapter.

C., or inspected at a Service office indicated in § 1.60, a publication entitled "Administrative Decisions under Immigration and Nationality Laws." The decisions in such publication may be cited as precedents, but are in no manner binding upon subsequent administrative decisions.

The right provided in this section shall extend to any attorney or representative who is recognized by the Service as counsel for the person in the proceeding.

§ 1.84 Copies of records. In accordance with the provisions of this part, Part 383, and all other applicable provisions of this chapter and subject to all applicable statutory provisions relating to applications, fees, and other requirements, and where not prejudicial to the interests of the public or the Government, copies of and information from records of the Immigration and Naturalization Service may be furnished to persons who establish that they have a reasonable and legitimate need for them.

Such privilege is ordinarily granted with respect to records which are statistical in nature, such as records of arrival or of naturalization.

§ 1.85 Intra-Service manuals. The following manuals are prepared solely for the guidance of the Immigration and Naturalization Service and the contents of such manuals shall not be published, opened to public inspection, or made available to the public in any other way except in unusual cases where the Commissioner specifically authorizes the furnishing of an excerpt from such manuals:

All requests for continuances prior to the commencement of the hearing shall be in writing and directed to the Second Assistant Postmaster General. The request shall contain a concise statement of the basis for the continuance.

(m) Prehearing conferences. In any proceeding assigned for hearing the Trial Examiners or either party may request a prehearing conference for the settlement or simplification of the issues by consent of the parties. No transcript of such conference shall be made but the Trial Examiners shall prepare and file for the record a written summary of the action taken at the conference which shall incorporate any written stipulations or agreements made by the parties at the conference or as a result of the conference.

(n) Order of procedure. The Petitioner shall have the burden of proof and shall have the right to open and close.

(o) Witnesses. All witnesses shall be duly sworn and shall be subject to cross-examination.

(p) Evidence. Competent, material and relevant oral or documentary evidence may be offered and received. Documentary evidence must be properly identified or authenticated. Three copies of all documentary exhibits must be supplied for the record.

(q) Objections. If any party objects to the admission or rejection of any evidence, or to the limitation of the scope of direct or cross-examination, he shall state briefly the grounds for such objection. Exceptions to all adverse rulings are automatic. The objection, grounds and ruling thereon shall become a part of the record. Oral argument thereon shall be omitted from the record.

(r) Subpenas. The Post Office Department is not authorized by law to issue subpenas requiring the attendance or testimony of witnesses.

(s) Oral argument. At the conclusion of the testimony the parties shall have the right to argue the issues orally before the Trial Examiner, within such limits as to time and subject matter as may be prescribed by him. Oral arguments shall become a part of the record of the case. The petitioner shall have the right to open and close.

(t) Transcript of proceedings. The hearing shall be reported and transcribed by the reporting system made available by the Post Office Department. Said transcript together with all preliminary papers filed in the case and exhibits received in evidence and those identified and offered but excluded and which are necessary to complete the record of the proceeding and all briefs, proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law; the Trial Examiner's findings, report and recommended decision, shall be included in the official record of the proceeding and shall become a part of the files of the Post Office Department. A copy thereof shall be loaned to each party for use in preparing briefs and must be returned to the Department with the brief.

(u) Briefs. Within such time limit as the Trial Examiner shall specify and prior to any recommended decision each party may file a brief and proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law. If it shall be deemed necessary the Trial Examiner may require the attorney for the Department to brief his side of the case.

(v) Trial Examiner's report. Upon the basis of the entire record as hereinabove defined the Trial Examiner shall promptly prepare a report which shall include his recommended decision and his rulings upon each proposed finding of fact and conclusion of law with the reasons or basis for such ruling, and transmit it to the Second Assistant Postmaster General, together with the transcript of proceedings. Such report will be advisory only and not binding upon the Second Assistant Postmaster General.

(w) Decision. Upon the basis of the transcript of proceedings, the Second Assistant Postmaster General shall revoke the order in question or deny the petition. No oral argument before the Second Assistant Postmaster General will be allowed.

(x) Administrative appeals. Section 576 of Title 39 U. S. Code provides for direct appeal to the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia within twenty days of any final decision adverse to the petitioner. Rehearings or administrative appeals to the Post Office Department are neither allowed nor necessary. (39 Stat. 424, 48 Stat. 926; 39 U. S. C. 576.)

§ 50.1000 Air mail service, Alaska—(a) Application and authorization of service. Upon application of carriers to engage in air transportation in Alaska, investigation is made by the Civil Aeronautics Board to determine the carrier most fit, willing and able to perform the service. When determined, such carrier is issued a certificate of convenience and necessity, in some cases for the transportation only of persons and property, and in others for the transportation of persons, property and mail. When the certificate authorizes the transportation of mail between any points in Alaska, such service is designated by the Postmaster General if the needs of the service require it. If mail service by aircraft is found to be necessary at other points in Alaska in addition to that authorized in certificates, the Postmaster General may certify such finding to the Civil Aeronautics Board with a statement showing the additional service required. If found to be in the public interest, a new or amended certificate may be issued authorizing the service.

(b) Special contracts. The Postmaster General may contract, in accordance with the procedure set out in § 50.1300, for the carriage of all classes of mail in Alaska when the needs of the service require transportation by aircraft and where no transportation has been authorized under the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, title IV. (49 U. S. C. 481.) Form 2253, "Contract for Mail Service by Airplane on Star Route in Alaska," is used in connection with this service when contracts are awarded on a four-year basis; when authorized for one year, Form 2252, "Contract for Temporary Mail Service by Steamboat or other Power Boat," amended for the airplane service, is used.

(c) Emergency service contracts. Contracts for emergency air mail service due to flood, fire, or other calamitous visitation are authorized, without advertising, when service by other facilities is not available, and are for periods of the emergency, not exceeding one year. Form 2252 mentioned above is used for these contracts.

(d) Rates. The rates of payment for transportation of all classes of mail in Alaska by air carriers authorized to engage in the transportation of mail under title IV of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938 are established by the Civil Aeronautics Board. (43 Stat. 960; 52 Stat. 987; 54 Stat. 1175, 1235; 39 U. S. C. 488a; 49 U. S. C. 481, Supp. V)

CROSS REFERENCE: See 5 F. R. 2421; for forms see §§ 55.1000; 55.1001 of this chapter. For similar procedures see §§ 50.1401, 50.1402, 1.6 (g).

§ 50.1001 Mail messenger service—(a) General provisions. This class of service is not let for any stated period, and no formal contract or bond is required for the reason that by its nature the service is flexible, and changes may be necessary at any time. Mail messengers are not employees of the classified service and are not entitled to the benefits applying to the classified service. Generally, it is not the practice of the Department to disturb the service where it is rendered in a satisfactory manner, unless it is indicated after the service has been in effect for at least one year, that a material reduction in cost can be obtained, or for some other reason the issuance of an advertisement for new bids becomes necessary. Any postmaster where the service is in effect will furnish information desired regarding the operation of the service, the issuances of new advertisements or other questions with respect thereto.

(b) Advertisement for bids. Before establishing this service or before changing an existing service, an advertisement setting forth the service to be provided shall be issued and the postmaster shall post notices thereof in public places for ten days.

(c) Awards. The report on the advertisement, with all bids submitted, is forwarded to the Second Assistant Postmaster General, where the bids are opened, and the lowest bidder, if in all other respects acceptable, shall be designated, in the event that an award is made. If the Department considers the rates of the bids to be excessive, they may be rejected and another advertisement may be issued.

(d) Termination or discontinuance of service. In the event the Second Assistant Postmaster General considers that for any reason the termination of service and pay of a mail messenger is warranted, an advertisement for new bids may be issued. In such a case the postmaster and mail messenger are notified in writing. There is no appeal from the decision of the Second Assistant Postmaster General. (24 Stat. 492; 43 Stat. 352; 39 U. S. C. 578, 579)

§ 50.1002 Fines and deductions, mail messengers—(a) Reports of irregularities. Reports of failures or irregularities on the part of Mail Messengers are made to the Second Assistant Postmaster General by field operating officials.

(b) Notice of irregularity and answer. When a failure or irregularity occurs, the mail messenger is called upon for a statement as to the reason therefor, and he is given the opportunity to explain the circumstances in writing and offer such defense as he may desire in his behalf. No form is provided for this purpose.

(c) Notice of fine. When the investigation is completed and all reports are received at the Post Office Department, the facts are considered and the amount of the fine, if any, is decided upon and imposed by authority of the Postmaster General. (44 Stat. 499; 48 Stat. 952; 39 U. S. C. 443)

CROSS REFERENCE: For similar procedures, see §§ 50.1003, 50.1401, 50.1402.

§ 50.1003 Fines and deductions, railroad, electric car companies, power boat contractors and carriers in the United States, Alaska, Puerto Rico and Hawaiian service, airplane and overland star route contractors and carriers in Alaska and carriers on certificated air mail routes in Alaska—(a) Notice of irregularity, answer; assessment of fine. Briefs of irregularities involving delays, loss or damage to the mails, careless handling, rough switching and unsatisfactory condition of postal cars or other delinquencies are reported by the Postmaster, Transfer Clerk or Postal Clerk to the Chief Clerk, Railway Mail Service, who then advises the company or contractor of same; and requests the delinquent party to advise if responsibility is acknowledged. When the investigation is completed the briefs with statement of facts on Forms 5178 and 5179 are forwarded to the Second Assistant Postmaster General and carefully examined to determine the responsibility of the company or contractor involved and the amount of fine, if any, is then decided upon.

(b) Damage or loss of mails; responsibility of carrier. Damage cases are handled in the same manner as the class of cases mentioned above except that where it is found, after investigation, that the Government has suffered a loss through the payment of indemnity or otherwise resulting from damage or loss of mails, such loss is taken into consideration when determining the amount of the fine.

(c) Notice of fine, appeal. When a fine is imposed the carrier involved is mailed a notice on proper forms stating the facts and the amount of the fine. The carrier may protest the imposition of fine but must file application in the office of the Second Assistant Postmaster General with evidence in support thereof, within six months from the date of notice of fine. (44 Stat. 499; 48 Stat. 952; 39 U. S. C. 443)

CROSS REFERENCE: For Forms see §§ 55.1002, 55.1003. For similar procedures see §§ 50.1002, 50.1401, 50.1402.

§ 50.1100 International mail; admissibility to mails. The question of the mailability or of the rates, classification, or other conditions of admissibility of an article or parcel it is desired to mail to a foreign country should first be taken up with the post office where the article or parcel is to be mailed. Detailed information concerning the rules of mailing may also be found in Part II of the U. S. Official Postal Guide. If the article or parcel is refused for mailing and there is doubt that it is in fact nonmailable, the question may be submitted by the proposed sender by letter to the Second Assistant Postmaster General, Washington 25, D. C., for review and final determination. (See also 39 CFR, 6.12.) (R. S. 398; 48 Stat. 943; R. S. 161, 396 secs. 304, 309; 42 Stat. 24, 25; 5 U. S. C. 22, 369, 372)

§ 50.1101 International mail, inquiries, complaints and claims—(a) Filing of forms. Complaints of loss, rifling, damage, delay, or wrong delivery of international mail are to be made on Form 1510, which should be filed at the office of mailing; however, for mailings at first- and second-class offices and except in the case of Canada, Form 540 is used for loss of ordinary parcel post; Form 541 for loss of other ordinary mail, and Form 542 for loss of registered mail (including registered parcel post). Form 1510, as well as Form 2855, must be executed and filed for insured mail addressed to Canada. Inquiries concerning disposition or complaints relative to insured parcels to other countries are handled in the same manner as complaints of loss of registered mail, except that in case of prima facie loss, rifling, damage, delay, or wrong delivery of an insured parcel, Forms 1510 and 2855 may be executed. Inquiries are accepted only within the period of one year, counting from the day following that of mailing of the article. Simple requests for information presented after that period are complied with regarding articles mailed less than 2 years previously. In the case of insured mail with Canada and Newfoundland, however, the inquiry, oral or written, must be made within 6 months from the date of mailing. Claims for indemnity on account of the loss, rifling, or damage of international registered (Postal Union or Parcel post) or registered C. O. D. mail shall be filed on Form 565. Form 2855 shall be used in connection with complaints of the loss, rifling, or damage of international insured, insured C. O. D. or Americo-Spanish ordinary parcel post and for nonreceipt or shortage of C. O. D. charges borne by all international C. O. D. parcels.

(b) Fees charged. A charge of 10 cents (5 cents in the case of ordinary Postal Union mail) shall be made for an inquiry or complaint in connection with registered or insured mail addressed to a foreign country, unless the sender has failed to receive a return receipt for which he paid the required fee, or is able to show that a prima facie loss or other irregularity has occurred through fault of the Postal Service by (1) exhibiting a letter or other report from the addressee dated a reasonable time after the article involved would, in regular course, have been delivered, or (2) satisfactorily accounting for the failure to exhibit such letter or report. If an inquiry or complaint is accepted without collection of a fee under the foregoing but it is subsequently found that there was no mistreatment or unreasonable delay of the article chargeable to the Postal Service, the prescribed fee shall be collected when the result of the trace is furnished the sender. However, no fee shall be collected for inquiries or complaints regarding international C. O. D. mail, nor in the event of loss due to war causes or inability to account for an article due to the same causes. Registry return receipts for Postal Union mail articles and insured parcels may be obtained upon payment of a fee of 5 cents if requested at time of mailing or 10 cents if requested after mailing, except that no return receipts are furnished for insured parcels for Canada. The charge for return receipts for registered parcels varies according to the country of destination. Form 2865 is designed for this purpose and for complaints of failure to receive return receipts. However, at first- and second-class offices Form 542 is also used in connection with such complaints and Form 1510 at third- and fourth-class offices. (R. S. 398; 48 Stat. 943; R. S. 161, 396 secs. 304, 309; 42 Stat. 24, 25; 5 U. S. C. 22, 369, 372)

CROSS REFERENCE: For forms see §§ 55.4302; 55.1101, 55.1102; 55.1103; 55.1104; 55.2601; 55.1106, of this chapter.

§ 50.1102 International mail, requests for refund of postage and fees. Requests for refund of postage paid on international mail for which no service has been rendered, requests for refund of fees collected for return receipts when not furnished because of some fault of the Postal Service, and requests for refund of fees for inquiries and complaints when caused by some irregularity of the Postal Service, should be made in writing to the postmaster at the office of mailing, accompanied with the address portion of the relative envelope or wrapper with canceled postage affixed. Such requests are forwarded to the Second Assistant Postmaster General, Division of International Postal Service, for decision. (5 U. S. C. 22, 369, 372)

§ 50.1103 International Mail; Recall and Change of Address—(a) General provisions. The sender of any mail article addressed for delivery in a foreign country may cause it to be withdrawn from the Postal Service, or have its address changed (1) provided the article has not been dispatched from the United States, and (2) in case it has been dispatched from the United States and not delivered to the addressee and provided the legislation of the country of destination of the article allows such withdrawal or alteration.

(b) Applications. Application should be made at the office of mailing. If the article has actually been dispatched from the United States, the applicant must deposit with the postmaster a sum sufficient to cover the amount chargeable on a single rate registered letter to the country concerned, 23 or 25 cents as the case may be, as well as the amount necessary to prepay an air-mail letter or a cablegram to the country of destination if such service is desired by the applicant. The applicant will be required to pay any expenses incident to the return. (R. S. 398; 48 Stat. 943; R. S. 161, 396, secs. 304, 309; 42 Stat. 24, 25; 5 U. S. C. 22, 369, 372)

§ 50.1104 International mail; sealed articles not properly endorsed or labeled. In the case of sealed articles (other than parcel post) received in the mails from foreign countries which are known or believed to contain merchandise and do not bear the label Form C 1 (2976) or the endorsement "May be opened for customs purposes prior to delivery to addressee", or words of similar purport, the addressee may be required to furnish written authority for a customs officer to open the article in the presence of a representative of the postmaster, the article to be detained by the postmaster until opened. If the addressee does not furnish such written authority within 30 days after date of the notice or within such further time as may be allowed, the article may be treated as undeliverable mail matter and disposed of as such. (5 U. S. C. 22, 369, 372)

CROSS REFERENCE: For forms see § 55.1107 of this chapter.

§ 50.1105 International mail; importations prohibited by copyright law. Parcels and other mail from foreign countries which prove to contain articles prohibited importation by the copyright act are required to be retained by customs officers and the addressee notified of the facts. If an application is not made within a reasonable time to the Secretary of the Treasury for permission to return such articles to the country of export, the articles will be forfeited as provided in the copyright law. (5 U. S. C. 22, 369, 372; 17 U. S. C. 32.)

§ 50.1106 International mail, securities or currency from abroad. In the case of mail articles supposed to contain securities or currency (except currency mailed from Mexico) received in the mails from foreign countries other than Great Britain, Canada, Newfoundland or Bermuda, the addressee may be requested to appear at the post office and open the article for inspection. If the article is found to contain securities or currency subject to license or other authorization from the Secretary of the Treasury to bring into the country, the securities or currency are required to be sent to a Federal Reserve Bank or, in the case of Alaska, Hawaii, the Virgin Islands and the Canal Zone, to the Governor or Foreign Funds Control Office of the respective territory or possession, for further disposition. The addressee will be given a receipt for the securities or currency so sent. (5 U. S. C. 22, 369, 372.)

§ 50.1107 International mail; prepayment of customs duty, in certain cases only. Customs duties can be prepaid by mailers only on advertising matter sent to Australia, Canada, Newfoundland (including Labrador) and the Union of South Africa. In the case of Newfoundland (including Labrador), prepayment of customs duty on advertising matter sent thereto is compulsory. For further information see Regular Mail "Observation" under the country headings of the above named countries in Part II of the U. S. Official Postal Guide. (R. S. 398; 48 Stat. 943; R. S. 161, 396, secs. 304, 309; 42 Stat. 24, 25; 5 U. S. C. 22, 369, 372)

§ 50.1108 International mail; fraudulent or previously used stamps on mail from abroad. Articles bearing fraudulent or previously used postage stamps received from foreign countries will not be delivered unless the addressee pays the postage due and agrees to disclose the name and address of the sender and surrenders the envelope or cover concerned. (R. S. 398; 48 Stat. 943; R. S. 161, 396, secs. 304, 309; 42 Stat. 24, 25; 5 U. S. C. 22, 369, 372)

§ 50.1109 International mail; certificates of mailing. On request at the time of mailing and on payment of a fee of 1 cent for each article or parcel involved, senders of Postal Union (regular) mail articles and international parcel-post packages may obtain a certificate attesting the mailing of the article or parcel. (R. S. 398, 48 Stat. 943; R. S. 161, 396 secs. 304, 309; 42 Stat. 24, 25; 5 U. S. C. 22, 369, 372)

§ 50.1110 International mail, claims for compensation due for conveyance of mails to foreign countries by steamship—(a) Monthly accounts. Monthly accounts are to be submitted on standard government Forms 1034 and 1034a—revised showing amount due for the conveyance of all mails for which the Post Office Department is obligated to pay. The accounts must be accompanied by a statement showing the name of each vessel conveying the mails during the month for which pay is claimed, date of sailing and particulars of classes of mail conveyed by each vessel (this information is obtainable from Form 2963 furnished the carrier by the dispatching office).

(b) Rates of pay. The rates of pay applicable are stated in the Postal Laws and Regulations, section 2240.

(c) Payment through intermediary party. The term "third service", in so far as concerns the conveyance of mails by sea, is applied when compensation for the steamship service performed is paid by the postal administration of the country dispatching the mails to the postal administration of the country in which the conveying steamship is registered, pursuant to notification given through the International Bureau of the Universal Postal Union, Berne, Switzerland, by the postal administration of the country of registry, as authorized by Article 75 of the Universal Postal Convention. Such payments are normally based on postal statistics taken every three years for a period of 28 days. At present, because of disruptions of service by hostilities, payments are based on actual weights of the mails transported. There is no prescribed form on which report is to be made by the steamship companies of the actual weights of mails conveyed. Amounts due steamship companies under third service arrangements, are paid them by the post office department when the amounts are paid by the foreign countries concerned, without claim being filed by the steamship company. (44 Stat. 9900; 45 Stat. 696, 1175; 54 Stat. 2049; 5 U. S. C. 22, 369, 372; 39 U. S. C. 654)

§ 50.1111 Establishment or extension of air mail routes. (49 U. S. C. 485, 486) (See §§ 50.1400, 50.1000)

§ 50.1112 International mail, foreign air mail routes, procedure in filing claims for compensation due for conveyance of air mails. Monthly accounts are to be submitted on Post Office Department Form 2703–A showing amount due at rates specified by the Civil Aeronautics Board. These accounts are to be accompanied by trip reports, Form 2901, in support of the miles reported to have been flown on flights designated by the Second Assistant Postmaster General for the carriage of the mails. (5 U. S. C. 22, 369)

CROSS REFERENCE: For forms see §§ 55.1111 and 55.1112 of this chapter.

§ 50.1113 Fines and deductions; transportation of mails by air or water on routes extending beyond the borders of the United States. Upon receipt of information by the Second Assistant Postmaster General, either from a representative of the United States Post Office Department or a foreign country to which the mail was destined, reporting apparent delinquencies in the transportation of the mails a communication is addressed to the carrier requesting that a complete report be furnished in connection with the reported failure to render satisfactory service and that he further show cause in writing why a fine should not be imposed in the case. Upon receipt of the information requested, decision will be made as to the amount of fine to be imposed, if any, and the carrier will be informed accordingly. Non-receipt of further communication from the carrier will imply acceptance of the fine. (46 Stat. 1049; 39 U. S. C. 655; 49 U. S. C. 485, 486)

§ 50.1300 Star route and power boat service—(a) General provisions. The star route and power boat service is maintained primarily for the supply of post offices not afforded other means of supply, and is operated on a contractual basis. The United States is divided into four contract sections and contracts are let for a term of four years. General advertisements are issued the latter part of each calendar year, inviting proposals for all star and power boat routes in one of the contract sections effective at the beginning of the next fiscal year. Each post office named in the advertisement is furnished a copy of the advertisement and proposal forms. Advertisements for miscellaneous mail lettings are posted as the occasion requires in the post offices at the termini of any route to be let and upon a bulletin board in the Post Office Department. The post offices are also furnished with proposal forms. Copies of general advertisements and proposal forms may be obtained from the Second Assistant Postmaster General, Washington 25, D. C. For more detailed information concerning the contract sections and method of advertising see section 1793 to 1795 of the Postal Laws and Regulations, edition of 1940.

(b) Petition for establishment of service. Requests for establishment of or changes in star route and power boat service should be submitted to the Second Assistant Postmaster General. No special form of petition is provided.

(c) Advertisements inviting proposals. Advertisements inviting proposals for star route and power boat state the service contemplated, the time limits for submitting bids and general instructions. Proposals should be submitted to the Second Assistant Postmaster General. Proposal forms may be obtained from the post offices at the termini of any route to be let, the local Chief Clerk, Railway Mail Service, or the Second Assistant Postmaster General.

(d) Awards. Contracts are awarded by the Second Assistant Postmaster General to the lowest responsible bidder tendering sufficient guaranties for faithful performance in accordance with the terms of the advertisement. (21 Stat. 374; 27 Stat. 268; 54 Stat. 228; 39 U. S. C. 421, 422, 426, 429)

CROSS REFERENCE: For procedure see § 50.1300.

§ 50.1302 Fines and deductions—star route service. Deductions may be made from the pay of contractors for failure to perform service according to contract and fines may be imposed for other delinquencies as authorized by statute. Deductions and fines are based upon evidence received from postmasters and other field officials. Contractors are given written notice by the Second Assistant Postmaster General of the amount of deduction or fine and the reason therefor. (44 Stat. 499; 48 Stat. 952; 39 U. S. C. 443)

§ 50.1303 Miscellaneous contract items; railway mail service. From time to time local field officials require miscellaneous items and services such as ice, water coolers, window washing services, and printing. Advertisements specifying the items or services required are published and the contract is awarded to the lowest bidder, if in other respects acceptable, for a period of one year. (5 U. S. C. 22, 369)

§ 50.1304 Mail bags; availability for public use. Mail bags are made available to patrons when such action will result in a material benefit to the postal service. Application or requisition therefore should be made on Form 3970 and filed at the post office. Upon return of the bags, receipt on Form 3971 will be given to the borrower. Applicant must show a legitimate need for such bags. Further details are available at all post offices. (R. S. 398, 48 Stat. 943; R. S. 161, 396 secs. 304, 309; 42 Stat. 24, 25; 5 U. S. § 50.1400 Establishment or extension of air mail routes. The authorization of all new air routes, extensions of existing routes, and additional points to be served, and the determination of rates for the carriage of mail by aircraft on certificated routes, are functions of the Civil Aeronautics Board. Requests for information concerning the filing of applications for new air mail service certificates of public convenience and necessity should be directed to the Civil Aeronautics Board, Washington 25, D. C. (52 Stat. 987; 54 Stat. 1235; 49 U. S. C. 481) (See also 5 F. R. 2421)

§ 50.1401 Fines and deductions; Air Mail Service—(a) Report of irregularities. Irregularities in the handling of mail on the part of carriers are detected by examination of trip reports, Form 2702, submitted by carriers and by reports from postmasters and clerks in charge of air mail field post offices.

(b) Investigation of irregularity reported. Each mail failure or other irregularity in the handling of mail on the part of the carrier is investigated by the Regional Superintendent, Air Mail Service, in whose area such failure or irregularity occurs.

(c) Notice to carrier; answer. The carrier is advised in writing of the irregularity and is requested to make his investigation and to state whether he accepts responsibility for same. Upon receipt of the carrier's reply, Form 2744, "Brief of Irregularity", with all papers bearing on the case, is submitted to the Second Assistant Postmaster General, Division of Air Mail Service, Washington 25, D. C., for determination of the penalty (fine) to be assessed.

(d) Assessment of fine; notice of; appeal. The carrier is notified of the penalty (fine) assessed and may protest same. In case of a protest by the carrier against a fine, either on the basis of alleged error, new information, or other reason, the case is further reviewed by the Second Assistant Postmaster General and his decision is final. § 50.1600 Rent of boxes. The first step in the renting of a post office box is for the patron who desires the box to go to the post office and secure a blank application Form 1092½ which he appropriately fills out and leaves at the post office. If the applicant is well and favorably known to the postmaster and a box of the type desired is immediately available, the postmaster may assign the box for use at the beginning of the period for which the rental is paid. If a box of the type or size desired is not immediately available the applicant's name will be placed on a waiting list in the order in which his application is filed. The applicant is required to give references on his application and if he is unknown to the postmaster, the references are asked for a report as to the character and responsibility of the applicant, using Form 1092 for this purpose. When an applicant rents a post office box which operates with lock and key he is required to put up a deposit for whatever number of keys may be furnished him, usually one, two, or three, and he is given a receipt for the rental paid on Form 1538 on which is noted a receipt for the key deposit. If, when surrendering the box he returns this receipt with the keys to the post office, the deposit will be refunded to him. If, for any reason, when a box is surrendered a patron does not return any keys, a notice is sent him on Form 1093, asking that he return his keys for redemption. If the applicant wants more than three keys, special application must be made on Form 1094. At least 10 days prior to the beginning of each quarter the postmaster gives a patron a notice that his box rent is due, using Form 3908. (R. S. 3901; 39 U. S. C. 279)

§ 50.1895 United States Savings Bonds, Series E—(a) Post Offices where bonds may be purchased. The Postal Service offers United States savings bonds, issued by the Secretary of the Treasury, for sale at all post offices of the first, second, and third classes and at such branches, stations, and fourth-class offices as the Third Assistant Postmaster General shall select and designate for the purpose.

(b) How to apply for bonds. At the time of issue (sale) of each bond, the postmaster will require an application in writing on Form 920 on which the applicant shall state the quantity and denominations of bonds desired and the name and post office address of the owner as well as the name of the co-owner or designated beneficiary if any. Postmasters shall accept lists in lieu of individual Forms 920 from business concerns, schools, or associations applying for bonds to be issued on behalf of their employees or members.

(c) Acceptable funds. The provisions of § 18.2 (f) defining what may be accepted as postal-savings deposits are applicable to savings-bond purchases.

(d) Errors on bonds. If a postmaster has made an error in issuing a bond and the error is discovered and the bond returned to the postmaster during the month of issue, the postmaster, on positive identification of the presenting party, shall treat the bond as spoiled and issue a new bond in its stead. If a bond is returned to the postmaster subsequent to the month of issue for correction of the postmaster's error, or if a bond recalled by the Post Office Department is returned during or subsequent to the month of issue, or if a bond is returned at any time for correction of an error other than the postmaster's, the postmaster shall complete a transmittal letter, Form 922, in triplicate, give one copy to the owner of the bond as a receipt, and forward the bond with the original Form 922 to the Third Assistant Postmaster General, Division of Postal Savings. The serial numbers and face value of the savings bonds transmitted therewith are listed on Form 922 and the owner's name and address as it is to be inscribed on the new bonds issued in replacement are shown, as well as the address to which the new bond are to be sent.

If the returned bond was issued under the pay-roll deduction plan of a business concern and the error was made by the group agent, the bond and transmittal letter, Form 922, shall be accompanied with the group agent's signed statement that the error was made by him. The name or date as it should have been shown on the firm's application or list shall be stated. The group agent's employer or an executive official of the organization should endorse the group agent's statement substantially in the form:

I, ---------- (Name, official title and name of concern) certify that ---------- (Name of group agent) whose signature appears above has been designated group agent in connection with the pay-roll allotment plan (or other plan) in this organization for the purchase of United States savings bonds.

If a bond is returned by mail to a postmaster for correction, the envelope in which it was mailed shall be submitted to the Third Assistant Postmaster General, Division of Postal Savings, with the bond and the Third Assistant Postmaster General shall reimburse the owner for the postage and registry fee.

§ 50.1896 United States Savings Stamps—(a) Accountability transferred to Treasury Department. The authority of the Postmaster General contained in section 6 of the act of June 25, 1910, as amended (U. S. C., 1940 edition, Title 39, sec. 756), and section 22 (c) of the Second Liberty Bond Act, as amended, to prepare and issue postal-savings cards and postal-savings stamps shall terminate on such date as stamps issued by the Secretary of the Treasury pursuant to the authority contained in section 22 (c) of the Second Liberty Bond Act, as amended, are made available for sale to the public; and, as soon as practicable thereafter, the Board of Trustees of the Postal Savings System shall pay to the Secretary of the Treasury a sum equal to the redemption value of all postal-savings stamps outstanding, and after such payment has been made the obligation to redeem such stamps shall cease to be a liability of the Board of Trustees of the Postal Savings System but shall constitute a public debt obligation of the United States.

Note: By agreement between the Postmaster General and the Secretary of the Treasury the liability for outstanding postal-savings stamps of all series, including the so-called defense savings stamps and war savings stamps, and the accountability for unsold savings-stamp stock charged to postmasters were transferred to the Treasury Department as of the close of business September 30, 1942.

(b) Where stamps may be purchased. Savings stamps furnished by the Secretary of the Treasury in such denominations as he may determine shall be offered for sale at all post offices. Postmasters shall put them on sale at any classified branch or station where there is a demand and may put them on sale at contract branches and stations. Postmasters from whose offices rural-delivery service is operated shall extend to rural carriers, on routes where there is a demand for savings stamps, a reasonable credit in such stamps, and rural carriers shall carry for sale to their patrons an adequate supply of such stamps. Postmasters shall sell savings stamps to business houses, schools, institutions, or other organizations that desire to purchase them for resale, but shall not extend any savings-stamp credits outside of the Postal Service. Postmasters shall have on hand for distribution without cost to stamp purchasers and, in reasonable quantities, to persons engaged in promoting savings-stamp sales, albums, cards, or other devices furnished by or with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury to which savings stamps may be affixed after purchase.

(c) Denominations. Savings stamps in denominations of 10 cents, 25 cents, 50 cents, and $1.00 are printed in sheets of 100; and $5.00 stamps, in sheets of 25. The 10-cent and 25-cent stamps are also bound in books which are packaged in lots of 10. Books of fifty 10-cent savings stamps sell for $5.00 and books of forty 25-cent savings stamps, for $10.00.

(d) Acceptable funds. The provisions of § 18.2 (f) of this chapter defining what may be accepted as postal-savings deposits are applicable to the purchase of savings stamps.

(e) Redemption of savings stamps. Savings stamps are transferable and payable to bearer at any post office and at any branch or station authorized to sell them. Postmasters shall not be required to identify the person presenting the savings stamps for payment as the owners thereof. Savings stamps affixed to stamp albums, savings cards, or other authorized devices may be accepted in payment for United States savings bonds, postal-savings certificates, or may be exchanged for cash.

When savings stamps that have been torn, burned, or badly mutilated are presented, the postmaster shall accept at face value of the whole stamp one or more fragments identifiable as constituting clearly more than one-half of the same stamp. If the fragment or fragments are not so identifiable, the holder shall be advised to send them, and if affixed to an album the entire album, to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington 25, D. C. If stamps are presented that have stuck together and the holder is unable to separate them and determine their value, he shall likewise be advised to forward them to the Treasurer of the United States for redemption. Savings stamps that are stuck together may be separated by soaking them in warm water (sec. 5, 56 Stat. 189; 39 U. S. C., Sup., 756a) [Sec. 158½].

§ 50.1900 Stamps available. (a) Postage stamps are manufactured by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing and made available to the public through postmasters in the following denominations and varieties:

They are printed with a border arrangement of red and blue parallelograms so that air mail matter may be readily identified in the mails.

§ 50.1907 Precanceled stamped envelopes. Precanceled stamped envelopes of the 1-cent denomination are issued for the mailing of third class matter in bulk. Upon verification he will advise the patron that stock desired in exchange can be secured.

§ 50.1911 Sales by Philatelic Agency. All current and some discontinued varieties of postage stamps are carried in stock by the Philatelic Agency, Post Office Department, which was established with a view to supplying stamp collectors specimens of selected quality at face value. Persons desiring to obtain stamps by mail order should first obtain a copy of the list of issues currently available. Mail order patrons are required to pay, in addition to the face value of stamps desired, return postage and registration. The Agency was established by Postmaster General Order No. 6747 on November 25, 1921.

§ 50.1912 Philatelic mailing list. The Philatelic Agency maintains a mailing list through the facilities of which collectors are furnished advance information when new issues are to be provided so they may make the necessary arrangements for securing first-day cancellations and otherwise complete their collections. Names will be added to the mailing list upon request.

§ 50.1913 Philatelic exhibit. The Philatelic Agency maintains a comprehensive exhibit of United States and foreign postage stamps embracing die proofs of all domestic stamps since 1847. There are approximately 25,000 foreign stamps in this exhibit covering every postal administration in the world. Items of equipment used in the production of postage stamps are shown by way of exemplifying methods of manufacture employed. Philatelic publications are on file for the benefit of students and collectors generally.

§ 50.2002 Free mailing privilege of members of armed forces. Letters mailed by such persons free of postage should bear in the upper right corner the word "FREE" and in the upper left corner the name of the sender together with his rank or rating and the designation of the service to which he belongs, all this to be in the handwriting of the sender.

Cross Reference: For procedure see 39 CFR, 5.16.

§ 50.2003 Absentee voting by members of armed forces.

CROSS REFERENCE: The procedure under which balloting material and ballots may be mailed free of postage by election officials and members of the armed forces is set forth in 39 CFR, 5.16 (f). (Public Law, 348, approved April 19, 1946.)

§ 50.2004 Pound rate postage for bulk mailings of third-class matter. (a) The law provides a bulk rate for third-class matter of 12 cents a pound or 8 cents a pound, according to the character of the matter, but in no case less than one cent apiece, as set forth in 39 CFR, 5.63.

(b) Methods of mailing. The postage on matter mailed under 39 CFR, 5.63, may be paid in any of the three ways described below:

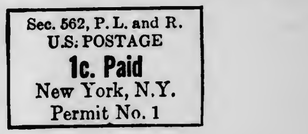
(1) Without postage stamps affixed, as metered or nonmetered permit matter, the postage being paid in money and the permit indicia printed on the matter (except as otherwise stated, the provisions of 39 CFR, 6.4).

(2) With precanceled postage stamps affixed under permit. (Uncanceled postage stamps may not be used.)

(3) In precanceled Government stamped envelopes under permit.

(c) Inscription. The inscription "Sec. 562, P. L. and R.", must appear in the upper right corner of the address side of the mail whichever method is used.

(d) Application for permit. Persons desiring the privilege of mailing third-class matter in bulk shall make application to the postmaster stating the method, or methods, under which they desire to mail the matter, unless they already hold permits for the particular method of mailing desired. The postmaster, unless otherwise instructed, will then transmit the application to the Third Assistant Postmaster General, Division of Letter and Miscellaneous Mail, and await the receipt of a permit or permits and instructions as to procedure.



CROSS REFERENCE: For application forms see §§ 55.2012, 55.2021 and 55.2022 of this chapter.

(e) Without stamps affixed—(1) Fee. Each application for a permit to mail third-class matter without stamps affixed as nonmetered mail shall be accompanied with the fee of $10, prescribed by 39 CFR, 6.4.

CROSS REFERENCE: For application forms see § 55.2012 of this chapter.

(2) Permits. Persons or concerns already holding permits to mail matter without stamps affixed under 39 CFR, 6.4, need not obtain an additional permit for the privilege of mailing third-class matter under 39 CFR, 5.63, without stamps affixed, but they may use the same permit number on mailings under 39 CFR, 5.63.

(3) Indicia. In the upper right corner of the address side of the envelope, wrapper, address label, or sticker properly affixed thereto, must be printed the indicia which may be in one of the forms prescribed by 39 CFR, 6.4, and of any color of sufficiently strong contrast to the paper on which printed, such indicia not to be obstructed or confused with any other matter. The use of a handstamp for placing indicia on matter is not permissible. The inscription "Sec. 562, P. L. and R." must be included in or printed adjacent to the indicia. The amount of postage paid may be omitted (except when a meter device is used). The forms prescribed for nonmetered matter are shown below:

Sec. 562, P. L. and R.

(4) Statement of mailing. Each mailing without stamps affixed must be accompanied with a statement of mailing on Form 3602 (Form 3602–A in case of metered mail), prepared wholly by the mailer, in ink or indelible pencil, and must be carefully examined, counted, weighed, or verified in the manner set forth in the instructions printed on the cover of the receipt book (Form 3603 or Form 3603–A).

(f) With precanceled postage stamps affixed—(1) Applications. Persons or concerns already holding permits for the privilege of using precanceled postage stamps on second-, third-, or fourth-class matter need not obtain an additional permit for the use of such stamps on third-class matter mailed under 39 CFR, 5.63. All others desiring to mail matter in this manner should make application for this privilege to their postmaster on Form 3623 (see § 55.2021 of this chapter). No fee is required to accompany such applications.

(2) When postage is paid with precanceled stamps affixed to each piece, the amount of such stamps must fully cover the postage chargeable thereon. Where the postage is computed at the pound rate and the amount chargeable on each piece is not equivalent to the denomination of a postage stamp now in use, it is necessary to affix to each piece a precanceled stamp of a denomination sufficiently high to cover the full postage. The inscription "Sec. 562, P. L. and R.", must be printed in the upper right corner of the address side immediately above or below the precanceled stamp, but not covered by the stamp. This inscription should be preferably, but not necessarily, in a rectangle, thus Sec. 562, P. L. and R. and may be hand stamped when it is not practicable for the mailer to have it printed.

(3) Statement of mailing. Each mailing on which precanceled postage stamps are used must be accompanied with a statement of mailing on Form 3602–PC, but no record of such mailings need be kept.

(g) Precanceled Government-stamped envelopes. (1) No fee is required to accompany applications for the privilege of using precanceled Government-stamped envelopes. (For form of application see § 55.3022 of this chapter.)

(2) Requisition. Precanceled one-cent Government-stamped envelopes are supplied for use by mailers who have been given permits to use them to mail third-class matter under 39 CFR, 5.63. Stamped envelopes which have not been precanceled may not be used to mail third-class matter under this section. Government-stamped envelopes may be precanceled by persons or concerns who have been given a permit therefor under 39 CFR, 6.5, and used for bulk mailings of third-class matter under 39 CFR, 5.63.

(3) Statement of mailing. Each mailing must be accompanied with a statement of mailing on Form 3602–PC.

(h) General instructions regardless of the method under which matter is mailed—(1) Not to be postmarked. Matter mailed under the provisions of 39 CFR, 5.63, is not postmarked. It is accepted only as ordinary mail, and cannot be registered or sent as insured or C. O. D. mail, since the pieces are not accepted and handled individually at the mailing office, but only in bulk.

(2) Return card. Each piece should bear, in the upper left corner of the address side, the name and address of the sender, including his street or post-office box number when at a letter-carrier office. The sender's post-office box may be shown in lieu of his name or street number. The return card may be omitted from third-class matter not enclosed in window envelopes if the sender does not want it returned if undeliverable, but this is discouraged, since it is desirable to have the return card in all cases. When it is desired that the matter be returned in case of nondelivery, the pledge of the sender should be placed immediately under the return card. The words "Return Postage Guaranteed" are sufficient.

(3) Separation. In every instance mailers must separate and tie out mailings into directs for post offices whenever there are as many as 15 pieces for any post office in any mailing and must separate and tie out the pieces or packages into properly labeled State packages whenever there are as many as 15 pieces or packages for any State. Mailers must also make separations of such mail for post-office stations and branches if the name of a post-office station or a post-office branch forms a part of the address. Any mailings offered without the separations being made as outlined will be refused.

(4) Presentation at post office or station. The matter must be presented at the post office or station thereof designated by the postmaster. In no case may such matter be deposited in street letter boxes.

(5) Return of undeliverable matter; rate. When third-class matter mailed under these provisions is returned to the sender as undeliverable, it will be chargeable with postage at the regular third-class rates, namely 1½ cents for each 2 ounces or fraction thereof on circulars, cards, folders, and other miscellaneous printed matter and all other articles of the third-class, except books and catalogs having 24 pages or more, seeds, plants, etc., on which the rate is 1 cent for each 2 ounces or fraction of 2 ounces, computed on each individually addressed piece.

(6) Mailings to foreign country. No mailings to any foreign country will be accepted under 39 CFR 5.63.

(7) Matter bearing inscription. Matter bearing the inscription "Sec. 562, P. L. and R." must not be used as inclosures or distributed otherwise than through the mails.

(8) Information or instructions. For any further information or instruction address the Third Assistant Postmaster General, Division of Letter and Miscellaneous Mail.

CROSS REFERENCE: For regulation see 39 CFR, 5.63. For description of Forms 3602, 3602–PC, 3603, 3603–A and 3612 see §§ 55.2009, 55.2011, 55.2012, 55.2013 and 55.2014, of this chapter.

§ 50.2005 Mailing of books at the postage rate of 3 cents a pound. (a) Since the law provides that books mailed at the rate of 3 cents a pound may contain incidental announcements of books, such announcements, whether appearing in the books themselves or in the form of loose circular inclosures not weighing in excess of one and one-third ounces, will be permissible in addition to the inclosures described in § 5.73 (f) (6) of this chapter, without affecting the postage chargeable at that rate, such postage, of course, to be computed on the full weight of each parcel. However, loose inclosures of this kind weighing in excess of one and one-third ounces and other circulars of printed matter such as folders, pamphlets, calendars, catalogs, etc., which would not otherwise be permissible, may be inclosed in parcels of books, provided a permit is obtained and postage on such inclosures is paid at the third-class rate of 1½ cents for each two ounces or fraction thereof in addition to the postage at 3 cents a pound on the books themselves. In authorizing these inclosures, it is contemplated that they shall be merely incidental, in no case exceeding eight ounces. The wrapper of the parcel in such case should bear a printed or hand stamped indorsement in the following form:

Additional Postage at the Third-Class Rate Paid for Inclosures.
New York, N. Y., Permit No. 1

(b) Each patron desiring to mail such inclosures with books should obtain a permit from his postmaster for this privilege, the permits being numbered consecutively, for which no fee shall be charged, unless it is desired to mail the matter under a nonmetered permit under 39 CFR, 6.4, and the patron has no such permit, in which event the regular $10 application fee will be necessary.

§ 50.2006 Metered mail. (a) Metered mail is matter mailed under 39 CFR, 5.63 and 6.4, respectively (Sec. 562 and 579, Postal Laws and Regulations, Postmaster General, 1940) on which the required postage is printed by a postage meter approved for this purpose by the Post Office Department. Metered mail may be of any class and is entitled to all the privileges and subject to all the conditions applying to matter mailed with stamps affixed, except as stated herein. Its use eliminates the manufacture and sale of adhesive stamps and the facing, canceling, and postmarking of mail in the post office, thereby expediting its handling and dispatch.

(b) Meter permit. Meter permits must be obtained by persons or firms desiring to mail metered matter by applying on Form 3612 to the postmaster where the matter will be mailed.

(c) Postage meters—(1) Description. A postage meter is a device embodying a complete postage printing and recording mechanism which is brought to the post office by the mailer to be set for postage from time to time as required. The postage is paid for at time of setting. After the mailer has used the amount of postage so prepaid, the meter automatically locks and prevents further use.

(2) Approval. Only such devices as have been approved by the Post Office Department may be used.

(3) Control. Postage meters shall in every instance be obtained from the person or concern to whom such approval has been given. Such person or concern shall maintain control of them and be responsible for their proper servicing and maintenance in such manner that they will operate correctly and in accordance with postal requirements.

(4) Use. Meter permit holders may not have in their possession any postage meter until it has been set and sealed by the post office where the mailings will be made. When discontinuing the use of a meter, permit holders must deliver the meter to that post office, which will check it out of service and deliver it to the manufacturer. While meters are in service, they must remain in the custody of the meter permit holders to whom they have been issued.

(d) Failure of printing and recording mechanism to operate correctly. If the printing and recording mechanism of any meter fails to record its operation correctly and properly, its use must be discontinued immediately by the meter permit holder, and it must be promptly delivered to the postmaster and notification of such action sent by the postmaster to the manufacturer. Only representatives of the authorized manufacturer shall be permitted to service any meter. Tampering with or misuse of a postage meter is a misdemeanor and punishable under Postal Laws and Regulations.

(e) Setting and payment of postage. Meters must be brought to the post office or designated station for setting. Postal employees may not be sent to the office or plants of permit holders to set meters. The amount of postage for which set must be paid for in advance and a receipt issued therefor on Form 3603–A. All meter keys shall remain in the postmaster's custody.

(f) Meter impressions or stamps—(1) Form. In the upper right corner of the address side of the envelope, wrapper, address label, or tag of each piece, or on a label or stacker affixed thereto, must be printed the meter impression or stamp, showing the post office, postage paid, and meter number, in the form prescribed, such impressions or stamps not to be obstructed or confused with any other matter. When it is necessary to print multidenomination meter impressions or stamps on more than one label or sticker, the circle showing the post office and date must appear on each label or sticker. The impressions or stamps may not overlap.

(2) Date of mailing. The meter impressions or stamps for first and fourth-class matter, and for all classes when on a separate label or sticker affixed, shall include the date of mailing. An hour may also be shown on first-class matter when it is presented for mailing in ample time to be dispatched at such hour. The date may not be shown in the meter impressions or stamps on second or third-class matter, except when on a separate label or sticker affixed.

(3) Advertising slogans. Restricted advertising matter within space limitations may be printed simultaneously with meter impressions or stamps by postage meters. However, meter permit holders must obtain the plates therefor from authorized manufacturers of meters to assure suitable quality and content in accordance with the requirements of the Department.

(g) Return card. Each piece should bear, in the upper left corner of the address side, the name and address of the sender, including his street or post office box number when at a letter-carrier office. On ordinary mail the sender's post office box may be shown in lieu of his name or street number. The return card may be omitted from third-class matter not inclosed in window envelopes if the sender does not want it returned if undeliverable, but this is discouraged, since having the return address in all cases makes better service to the mailer possible.

(h) Reply postage. Meter impressions or stamps may be used to prepay reply or return postage, provided they are printed directly on envelopes or cards on which the return address—that of the meter permit holder—has been printed, and provided that there is imprinted immediately above such return address the inscription: "No postage stamp necessary—postage has been prepaid by ----------." Such matter may be delivered only to the printed address shown thereon. If the printed address is changed, the matter must be held for postage.

(i) Outside the mails. Metered postage can be used for the prepayment of postage required on letters carried outside the mails under 39 U. S. C., Supp. 500.

(j) Inscription on metered third-class matter. Metered third-class matter mailed in bulk under 39 CFR, 5.63, must bear the printed inscription: "Sec. 562, P. L. and R.," as a part of the meter impression or stamp. The conditions applying to other matter mailed under this regulation with respect to quantity and separation also apply to Metered Mail.

(k) Mailing—(1) Preparation. Metered mail, except packages and irregular overnight matter, must be faced and secured in bundles, each class and denomination being kept together insofar as practical.

(2) Place of mailing. In general, metered matter may be deposited in any post office receptable where similar matter bearing adhesive stamps has been accepted from the mailer. Whenever practical, however, it is desirable that all mail be brought to a post office or station thereof in order to expedite dispatch. Where meter permit holders mail in street or building receptacles, they should arrange with the postmaster for the designation of such depositories (usually not more than several in their immediate vicinity), and should not deposit matter elsewhere except by special arrangement with the postmaster.

(3) Direct to train, dock, or airport. When expedition is necessary, a small number of pieces of first-class matter may be taken direct to a train, dock, or airport by a permit holder authorized by the postmaster to do so, provided the pieces are accompanied with an identification label. (See paragraph (l) (3))

(4) Pick-up privilege. In case "pick-up" arrangements exist with a mailer using stamps and he desires to change from the stamp system to the meter system, the "pick-up" arrangement may be continued under proper precautions prescribed in each case, the matter to be accompanied with an identification label. (See paragraph (l) (3))

(l) Statement of meter readings. (1) The mailer must submit with the last mailing each day a statement on Form 3602–A, showing the permit number, the meter number, the readings of the registers at the end of the day, and the value of impressions printed but not used. In the case of bulk mailings of third-class matter under 39 CFR, 5.63, a separate statement should be submitted showing the number of pieces, the weight per piece, the postage per piece, and the readings of the registers at the completion of such mailing.

(2) When the last mailing of the day is made in a street collection box, the statement for the day's mailings should be inclosed in a red envelope securely tied to the face side of the package of letters and bear in a prominent manner the inscription "Metered mail," together with the name of the mailer.

(3) Identification labels. Mailings, other than the last for the day, deposited at places or points other than the post office or station where the meter is set, must have securely tied to them an identification label provided by the mailer, prominently bearing the words "Metered Mail" and showing the permit holder's name, date, and the meter number. Such label shall be considered in connection with the final statement with the last mailing of the day.

(m) Refunds. When complete and legible meter impressions cannot be used because of misprints, spoiled envelopes or cards, etc., an application for a refund of the postage to the extent of 90 percent of the postage value will be considered under 39 CFR, 6.9, Part 6, if submitted within 30 days by the permit holder to the postmaster for reference to the Division of Letter and Miscellaneous Mail. Such application should be accompanied with the complete envelopes, wrappers, or cards bearing the impressions and a list of the number of each denomination and the reason they were not used. In the event the unused impressions are due to repeated carelessness of the permit holder, refund may be refused.

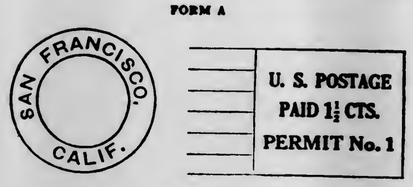
(n) Transfer of postage. Unused postage remaining in any meter which is being discontinued may be transferred to another meter used by the same mailer. When meters are withdrawn from service they must be exhausted of postage, as far as possible, and turned over to the manufacturer by the postmaster, in which event refund of the unused postage will be authorized. If a meter fails to record its operations correctly and properly and a postage adjustment is necessary, the postmaster shall secure from the manufacturer of the device a statement as to the reason for such failure and send it with such further information as is pertinent to the Division of Letter and Miscellaneous Mail.

(o) Improper use of meter impressions or stamps. Except as provided in paragraphs (h) and (i), matter bearing meter impressions or stamps must not be distributed otherwise than through the mails, and may not be mailed at a post office other than the one shown in the meter impression or stamp. Meter permits will be revoked for such misuse.

(p) Cancellation of permit. If no mailing is made for 12 months the permit is canceled.

CROSS REFERENCE: For permit revocation procedures see §§ 50.2010 to 50.2012, inclusive.

(q) Information and instructions. For further information and instructions regarding acceptance of metered mail, address local postmasters or the Third Assistant Postmaster General, Division of Letter and Miscellaneous Mail. (R. S. 161, 396, Sec. 304, 309, 42 Stat. 24, 25; 5 U. S. C. 22, 369)

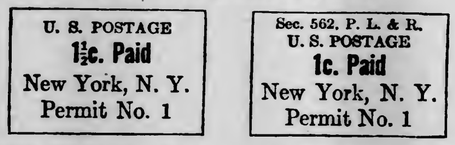


CROSS REFERENCE: For description of Forms 3602–A, 3603–A and 3612, see §§ 55.2009, 55.2013 and 55.2014, of this chapter.

§ 50.2007 Nonmetered mail. (a) Nonmetered Mail is matter mailed without stamps affixed under 39 CFR, 6.43 (section 579, Postal laws and regulations), on which the required permit indicia are printed by means of a printing press, etc., or other device not having recording mechanism to be set by the postmaster for an amount of postage paid for at the time of setting. It is entitled and subject to all the privileges and conditions applying to matter mailed with stamps affixed, except as stated herein. It includes matter mailed at the regular rates of postage and also third-class matter mailed at the bulk rates under 39 CFR, 5.63 (section 562, Postal laws and regulations). Except in the case of third-class matter mailed under 39 CFR, 5.63, it may be mailed to foreign countries.

(b) Application for permit. Persons or concerns desiring permits for mailing nonmetered matter should apply to the local postmaster on Form 3612 (see § 55.2014 of this chapter), showing the means by which the indicia are printed, and kind and quantity of matter to be mailed. Each application must be accompanied with a fee of ten dollars as prescribed by 39 CFR, 6.4 (c) [see paragraph 3 (b) section 579, Postal laws and regulations, Postmaster General, 1940] and be sent by the postmaster to the Third Assistant Postmaster General, Division of Letter and Miscellaneous Mail, endorsed to show that the fee has been paid. Applications for permits to mail first class matter should give the name of the device and be accompanied with an envelope and specimen imprint of the indicia to be used.

(c) Indicia. (1) In the upper right corner of the address side of the envelope, wrapper, address label, or tag of each piece, or on a label or sticker properly affixed thereto, must be printed the indicia, which may be in the form and within the sizes illustrated below and of any color of sufficiently strong contrast to the paper on which printed, such indicia not to be obstructed or confused with any other matter. The indicia may be printed by means of a mimeograph, multigraph, addressograph, etc., Provided, Such indicia are in the prescribed form and are not in facsimile of typewriting. The use of a handstamp for placing indicia on matter is not permissible, except on certain fourth-class matter, under special authority obtained from the Third Assistant Postmaster General, Division of Letter and Miscellaneous Mail.



FORM A

FORM C, SHOWING MINIMUM SIZE OF TYPE

(2) When form C is used, the figure representing the amount paid in money shall be printed from type not smaller than 14-point nor larger than 36-point and the other indicia not smaller than 10-point nor larger than 24-point. The inscription "Sec. 562, P. L. and R." must be included in or printed adjacent to the indicia on matter mailed under that section. The amount of postage paid may be omitted from indicia on third-class matter mailed under 39 CFR, 5.63 (Sec. 562, Postal laws and regulations, Postmaster General, 1940).

(d) Return card. Each piece should bear, in the upper left corner of the address side, the name and address of the sender, including his street or post-office box number when at a letter carrier office. On ordinary mail the sender's post-office box may be shown in lieu of his name or street number. The return card may be omitted from third-class matter not enclosed in window envelopes if the sender does not want it returned if undeliverable, but this is discouraged, since it is desirable to have the return card in all cases.

(e) Mailing under 39 CFR 6.4 (Sec. 579, Postal laws and regulations, Postmaster General, 1940)—(1) Minimum quantity. Second- and third-class matter mailed under this section must be presented in quantities of not less than 300 identical pieces and fourth-class matter in quantities of not less than 250 identical pieces. When a mailing of second-, third-, or fourth-class matter under this section extends over two or more consecutive days and the number of pieces presented on the last day to complete the mailing is less than above prescribed, such number will be accepted and an explanatory endorsement made on forms 3602 and 3603.

(2) Separation. To facilitate the handling of such matter in the mails, the mailer must in all cases face the matter, and must comply with the requests of the postmaster for the separation thereof into States, cities, etc.

(f) Third-class matter mailed in bulk. Third-class matter mailed in bulk under 39 CFR 5.63, must be prepared and presented in quantities of not less than 20 pounds or 200 identical pieces, and separated and tied out into directs for post offices when there are as many as 15 pieces for any post office, and tied into properly labeled State packages when there are as many as 15 pieces for any State. Separations must also be made for post-office stations if a station name is in the address. Such matter may be accepted only as ordinary mail and cannot be registered or sent as insured or c. o. d. mail, nor mailed to foreign countries.

(g) Place of mailing. Matter must be presented at the mailing section of the post office or station designated by the postmaster. In no case may it be deposited in street letter boxes.

(h) Statement of mailing. Each mailing must be accompanied with a statement on Form 3602, signed by the person to whom the permit is issued, showing the permit number, the class of matter, the number of pieces presented, and the weight of a single piece. In the case of third-class matter mailed under the provisions of 39 CFR 5.63 on which postage is paid at the pound rate, the mailer's statement shall show the number of pounds presented and such other information as may be provided for on the form.

(i) Registration. When matter of the second or third class, mailed without stamps affixed, is accepted for registration, it shall bear on the address side the complete indicia prescribed in paragraph c of this section.

(j) Postage. Postage in full on the entire quantity must be paid at or before the time the matter is presented for mailing, either in money or, at the option of the postmaster and at his risk, by check drawn to his order. The postmaster may receive from the mailer a deposit of money in advance (for which a receipt shall be given) sufficient to pay for more than a single mailing. The deposit shall be charged with the proper amount of each mailing, but if the amount on hand is not sufficient at any time to cover the postage due on the entire mailing, the excess shall be held until an adidtional deposit is made. Credit for postage shall never be allowed. Postage may not be prepaid by two methods—that is, partly in money and partly by ordinary stamps affixed.

(k) Improper use of permit indicia. Matter bearing permit indicia must not be distributed otherwise than through the mails, and may not be mailed at a post office other than the one shown in the indicia. Matter bearing permit indicia, or the inscription "Sec. 562, P. L. & R." must not be used as inclosures. Permits will be revoked for such misuse.

(l) Cancellation of permit. If no mailings are made under this permit for a period of 12 months, it may be canceled.

CROSS REFERENCE: For permit revocation procedure see §§ 50.2010 to 50.2012, inclusive.

(m) Information and instructions. For any further information or instructions regarding the acceptance of nonmetered matter consult your postmaster or address the Third Assistant Postmaster General, Division of Letter and Miscellaneous Mail.

§ 50.2008 Precanceled stamps. (a) Precanceled postage stamps may be used only by persons or concerns to whom they have been furnished by a postmaster after special authority in each case has been obtained from the Department. Any person desiring to use such stamps should file an application with the postmaster at the post office of mailing, showing:

(1) The class and character of the matter to be mailed.

(2) The approximate total number of pieces to be mailed.

(3) The average number of pieces to be mailed daily, weekly, monthly, etc.

(4) Business in which applicant is engaged.

(b) The application, together with the postmaster's recommendation thereon, shall be forwarded to the Third Assistant Postmaster General, Division of Classification, except where otherwise specifically authorized. All applications for permits from persons or concerns engaged in the selling, trading, or collection of precanceled stamps must be submitted to the Department. (For forms of application see §§ 55.2021 and 55.2022 of this chapter.)

(c) On receipt of the Department's authorization the postmaster will issue a permit to the applicant and furnish precanceled stamps and accept mailings bearing them under the following conditions:

(1) The name of the post office and State shall be printed between two parallel heavy black lines across the face of each stamp, ink furnished by the Department to be used for that purpose.

(2) Stamps may be precanceled only under the supervision of the postmaster or a sworn employee of the post office.

(3) Precanceled stamps are good for the payment of postage on matter of the third and fourth classes, and second-class matter mailed at the transient rate or the rates applicable at city delivery offices, and, when specially authorized, on first-class matter, presented at the office where precanceled. Precanceled stamps above the 6-cent denomination may be used only in accordanec with special instructions issued by the Third Assistant Postmaster General.

(4) The date of mailing in connection with lines similar to those used in a cancelation postmark shall be placed by the mailer on each piece of first-class matter.

(5) Any number of pieces may be mailed at one time, regardless of whether they are identical, except in the case of third-class matter mailed under 39 CFR 5.63, Sec. 562, Postal laws and regulations, Postmaster General, 1940, when each mailing must consist of not less than 20 pounds or 200 pieces and be accompanied with a statement of mailing on Form 3602–PC.

(6) Matter bearing precanceled stamps shall be presented in such manner as to permit of easy examination and facilitate its handling in the mails. It is expected that the mailer will comply with all reasonable requests of the postmaster for the separation of the matter into States, cities, etc.

(7) Precanceled postage stamps may not be used for the payment of postage on matter mailed in boxes, cases, bags, or other containers specially designed to be reused for mailing purposes.

(d) Attention is especially directed to the following provisions of law:

(1) Whoever shall knowingly use or cause to be used in payment of postage * * * any postage stamp * * * issued in pursuance of law, which has already been used for a like purpose * * * shall be fined not more than $500, or imprisoned not more than one year, or both. (Act of March 4, 1909; 18 U. S. C. 328.)

(2) If two or more persons conspire either to commit any offense against the United States or to defraud the United States in any manner or for any purpose, and one or more of such parties do any act to effect the object of the conspiracy, each of the parties to such conspiracy shall be fined not more than ten thousand dollars, or imprisoned not more than two years, or both. (Act of March 4, 1909; 18 U. S. C. 88.)

(e) The permit to use precanceled postage stamps issued to any person or concern, will be withdrawn by the Department if such person or concern should not comply strictly with the foregoing conditions, or should sell precanceled stamps either before or after they have been used. This includes the sale of such stamps affixed to wrappers of parcels returned to the sender and disposed of as waste paper.

(f) Postmasters should carefully observe the use of precanceled stamps and promptly report to the Third Assistant Postmaster General, Division of Letter and Miscellanecus Mail, any irregularity in connection with the use of such stamps coming to their attention, whether occurring at their offices or elsewhere.

§ 50.2010 Grounds for revocation of permits. Permits for mailing of metered, nonmetered, and precanceled matter, and enclosures with book rate mailings shall be invalid if not used for a period of twelve months. These permits may also be revoked if used in operating any scheme or enterprise of an unlawful character, or for the purpose of purchasing or acquiring stamps for other than legitimate mailing purposes.

§ 50.2011 Method of revocation. The holder of the permit will be notified by the postmaster at the office of mailing that his permit is subject to cancellation stating the reason therefor and will be allowed a period of ten days within which to file any written answer of explanation or statement of any reason why said permit should not be canceled pursuant to these regulations. The holder of the permit may also demonstrate or achieve compliance with the regulations in cases of nonuse of the permit only.

§ 50.2012 Cancellations. (a) Where no answer is filed to the notice sent to the permit holder by the postmaster as provided by § 50.2011, postmaster shall forthwith cancel the permit.

(b) Where an answer is filed by the permit holder to the charges served on him by the postmaster, the entire record together with the recommendation of the postmaster shall be transmitted to the Third Assistant Postmaster General, Division of Letter and Miscellaneous Mail.

(c) Upon consideration of the entire record as submitted to him by the postmaster, the Superintendent of the Division of Letter and Miscellaneous Mail shall make an appropriate recommendation to the Third Assistant Postmaster General, who shall issue an order as to cancellation or continuance of the permit as the circumstances warrant.

(d) Notice of such final action shall be promptly transmitted to the permit holder through the postmaster at the office of issuance.

§ 50.2013 Refunds of postage. Persons desiring refunds for postage paid for which service is not rendered should make application to the local postmaster with a statement of the facts and such evidence as is available.

CROSS REFERENCE: For procedure see 39 CFR, 6.9.

§ 50.2014 Addressing mail matter. (a) The Department urgently requests the public to exercise the greatest possible care to see that mail is sufficiently and correctly addressed in order to secure its prompt and certain delivery. Because of carelessness in addressing and preparing matter for mailing, or failure of sender to place his name and address thereon, millions of letters and other pieces of mail which cannot be delivered or returned to the sender are sent each year to Dead Letter branches. A fee of 5 cents is charged for the return of undeliverable letters to senders from a Dead Letter branch.

(b) Write plainly the name of the person addressed, street and number, number of rural route, or post office box and the name of the post office, including postal delivery zone number, if any and State in full. Do not use lead pencil. Use abbreviations only when they cannot be misunderstood. Standard abbreviations of States named are found on page 106 of the 1945 Postal Guide.

(c) The words "General delivery" should not be used as part of the address when delivery by city, village or rural carriers can be effected, but only in cases where the addressee has no permanent address and it is known that he calls at general delivery for his mail.

(d) Directions for delivery and forwarding or return of mail are deemed part of the address.

(e) When address labels or tags are used, the lower or right portion should be reserved for the name and address of the addressee, the sender's return card to be placed less prominently in the upper left corner and not on the back. The use of address labels or tags having the sender's name and address shown conspicuously in the lower portion frequently results in the mail matter being returned to the sender instead of being delivered as intended.

At first or second class offices use Form 565 (for description of Form 565 see § 55.2601 of this chapter) and at others use Form 1510 (for description of Form 1510 see § 55.4302 of this chapter) or by letter for transmission to post office inspectors in charge. After appropriate investigations by post office inspectors and review of reports by inspectors in charge and the Chief Post Office Inspector, applications for indemnity (Form 565) are sent to the Third Assistant Postmaster General, Division of Registered Mails, for adjustment. The postmaster at the office of mailing is required to enter the particulars of registration on the application for indemnity (Form 565). The sender is required to furnish a full description of the contents of the article and in case of partial loss, to submit the envelope or wrapper, if available, and to state to whom indemnity should be paid. Claims for damage should show in detail how the article was packed and wrapped and be accompanied with the wrapper. Claims for duplication of valuable papers should be supported with receipted bills for any actual, necessary, and direct expense in connection therewith. The addressee is required to make a statement showing whether the article was received, and, if received, whether a portion of the contents was missing or damaged. The postmaster at the office of address is required to state whether the article was received, and, if so, in what condition.

§ 50.2618 Recovery of registered, insured, or C. O. D. mail. When a lost registered, insured, or collect-on-delivery article is recovered, the article must be surrendered upon the return of the indemnity paid. The claimant must accept the article and reimburse the United States for the full indemnity paid if the article is undamaged, or such pro rata amount as may be deemed equitable by the Department if the article is damaged or has depreciated in value, or if the contents are not intact. The amount recovered is sent to the Department or to the paying postmaster, according to whether indemnity was paid by the Department or by a postmaster, for appropriate disposition.

§ 50.3101 Correspondence. Inquiries and reports concerning the transaction of money order business should be taken up first with the postmaster involved. If it then becomes necessary to address the Post Office Department, the communication should be sent to the Third Assistant Postmaster General, Division of Money Orders. Where a specific money order is referred to, its serial number, office of issue and other particulars should be stated as far as known. (Sec. 1406)

§ 50.3102 Purchase of money orders. (a) To purchase a domestic postal money order, the applicant will call at any post office in the United States or its possessions with the exception of a few in Alaska.

(b) An application should be submitted on Form 6001 on which is entered the amount, name and address of the payee, and name and address of the remitter. These application forms will be furnished to business houses on request and may be overprinted and distributed with advertising matter.

(c) In the transaction of money order business only United States money shall be used, except that at post offices near the border between the United States and Canada, Canadian money may be used under such special restrictions as may from time to time be announced. Postmasters are not required to accept checks, either personal or governmental, and if they do so as an accommodation to their patrons it is at their own risk and they will be held accountable for any loss that may result.

(d) (1) A money order will be issued to only one person or one firm.

(2) If only the surname is entered on the application, the postmaster will decline to issue the order without a specific address, except that business names such as "Mason's", "Johnson's Store", or "Madam Saville" are permitted.

(3) The payee may be designated by an official title indicative of the capacity in which he is to receive payment, as "Receiver, U. S. Land Office" or "Cashier, First National Bank". When money orders are made payable to the Treasurer of the United States, the Department or Agency to which the remittance is to be sent should be added, as "Treasurer of the United States, Veterans Administration", if that information is known to the remitter.

(4) The payee may be designated by a name adopted under membership in a religious order, as "Sister Theresa, Academy of Visitation" or "Brother Joseph, St. Anselmo's College."

(e) A domestic postal money order will be drawn on any post office in the United States or its possessions or any branch post office, but not upon stations. Money orders payable to members of the armed services will be drawn upon the post office to which are attached the army or navy post offices serving the units of which the payees are members. If the remitter designates a station or a locality without a postal designation, the postmaster will draw the order on the appropriate post office or branch post office.

(f) An application for a domestic postal money order will not be accepted by a postmaster from a person adjudged by a court of competent jurisdiction to be incompetent, unless permission for the issue of the order has been given by the person in whose care the ward has been placed.

(g) When the recipient of a c. o. d. parcel pays therefor, he is not required to fill out an application form for the resulting money order, as the c. o. d. tag constitutes such application.

(h) A money order shall not be issued for more than $100, but there is no limitation on the number of money orders that may be issued. The fees for domestic money orders are as follows:

	Cents
$0.01 to $2.50	6
$2.51 to $5	8
$5.01 to $10	11
$10.01 to $20	13
$20.01 to $40	15
$40.01 to $60	18
$60.01 to $80	20
$80.01 to $100	22

(i) A money order will not be issued conditioned that identification of payee, endorsee, or attorney, may be waived.

(j) When a money order is issued payable to the remitter, he may furnish the issuing postmaster a specimen of his signature on Form 6339, which will be attached to a description of the order on Form 6006 and sent to the paying postmaster as an aid to identification. If the postmaster has no copy of Form 6339, a slip of paper containing the essential information indicated above may be substituted. If the remitter and payee are different persons, the signature of the payee may be dispatched in a similar manner if it is furnished by the remitter. (R. S. 4029; 39 U. S. C. 713. Sec. 5, 30 Stat. 966; 39 U. S. C. 724. Sec. 3, 22 Stat. 527, sec. 2, 28 Stat. 31, sec. 208, 43 Stat. 1068, 47 Stat. 409; 39 U. S. C. 716) [Sections 1407, 1408, 1409, 1410, 1411, 1412, 1414, 1415, 1416]. (See 39 CFR 17.5, 17.6, 17.7, 17.8, 17.9, 17.10, 17.11, 17.12, 17.13. For forms see §§ 55.3101, 55.3102, and 55.3103, of this chapter)

§ 50.3103 Delivery of money orders to purchasers. (a) The purchaser of a money order should examine it carefully upon delivery. The entries should agree with those on the application therefor. The signature of the postmaster should be written, or if stamped, should be followed by the written initials of the issuing clerk. In the lower right hand corner an impression of the "M. O. B." or postmarking stamp of the issuing post office should appear.

(b) If an error of any kind occurs in issuing an order and is discovered by the postmaster or the purchaser before the latter has left the window, the transaction should not be considered as completed and the order should be treated as "not issued" and another one drawn and delivered to the remitter in its stead. In such event, as but one order has been issued, only one fee shall be charged. Alterations must not be made on money orders under any circumstances.

(c) If a money order is returned after it has become an item of record, it cannot be treated as "not issued". If an error has been found, necessitating a new order, the first one must be treated as repaid. Therefore, the fee for the new order should be paid by the postmaster or the purchaser as determined by who made the error. (R. S. 4038; 39 U. S. C. 725) [Secs. 1418, 1419, 1421, and 1422] (See 39 CFR, 17.14, 17.15, 17.16, and 17.17).

§ 50.3104 Payment of money orders. (a) A postal money order is payable at the office drawn on or repayable at the office of issue at full face value for a period of one year from the last day of the month in which it was issued. A money order drawn on a post office or a branch thereof will be paid at the main office, branch, or station of that office.

(b) (1) If issued at any post office in the continental United States (except Alaska), it may be paid within 30 days from day of issue at any money order office in the continental United States (except Alaska). Money orders issued in and drawn on Hawaii and Puerto Rico may be paid at any post office in the respective territories under the same conditions. For the additional service of having the orders paid at post offices other than the ones on which drawn or at which issued, a fee is charged equal to the fee originally paid on the order. Money orders issued in Alaska, Guam, Samoa, and Virgin Islands will be paid only at the office on which drawn or repaid at the office of issue.

(2) When money orders are presented by members of the armed services as remitters or payees, the provisions of the foregoing paragraph have been modified to extend the time of payment at a third office to 60 days and to eliminate the fee charged for such payments. These privileges, however, do not extend to endorsed orders, which are handled under the regulations governing payments to civilians.

(c) If a money order bearing discrepancies or errors is presented at a post office for payment, the postmaster may advance the least amount shown thereon until verification is received from the issuing office, at which time final payment will be made, provided, of course, he can determine who is the rightful payee.

(d) Identification. The remitter of a money order expects payment thereof to be made to the person named as payee or the legal representative thereof. The paying postmaster, therefore, is required to identify the claimant for payment as the payee intended. In consequence, the claimant should be prepared to submit satisfactory evidence of identification and the postmaster may require personal identification. Drivers permits, social security cards, and similar articles cannot be relied upon wholly because a person who came into possession of a money order wrongfully may have also acquired various papers and documents in support of his claim to the amount. If payment is made to the wrong person, the paying postmaster or employees will be held accountable for the amount of the order.

(e) The person presenting a money order for payment should sign it below the words "Received payment" in the presence of the paying postmaster or clerk. The payee should sign in the name as it appears on the order and if there is a slight error therein, he should sign his name correctly. If the signature is by mark, it should be witnessed by a person who is able to sign his name. When presented by the payee, remitter, or endorsee, or legal representative of any of them, the order should be signed by the person legally entitled to receive the amount and any extraneous signatures appearing on the order may be crossed out.

(f) A postmaster is expected to provide for the prompt payment of money orders drawn on his post office. If in an emergency he is unable to do so and the payee is unable to wait until funds can be obtained, the postmaster will give him a note addressed to the postmaster at a nearby larger post office where payment will be made without the deduction of the fee mentioned in paragraph (b) above.

(g) A money order sent to a postmaster by mail will not be paid in cash or by check, but a new order for the same amount, less the fee, will be drawn in lieu thereof, payable at any post office designated.

(h) Inquiry concerning payment of a money order may be made at any post office, but preferably should be made through the issuing office. Such inquiries should not be made prior to 15 days after issue of the order unless the remitter has a letter from the payee, written after the lapse of ample time for the payee to have received the order, denying receipt of the remittance. (38 Stat. 280, 48 Stat. 973; 39 U. S. C. 727). [Secs. 1427, 1428, 1429, 1430, 1439] (See 39 CFR, 17.20, 17.21, 17.22, and 17.23)

§ 50.3105 Repayment to remitters. A money order presented by the remitter may be repaid at the issuing office, paid at the office of payment, or, subject to conditions set forth in § 50.3104 (b), cashed at any other post office, provided, of course, the order is not invalid by age. (Sec. 1436)

§ 50.3106 Endorsement of money orders. The payee and the remitter of a money order may endorse it in the space provided therefor to any other person and the postmaster at the office of issue or the office on which it is drawn, or under the conditions set forth in § 50.3104 (b), any other post office will pay the amount to the person thus designated if he can establish the genuineness of the endorsement and his identity as endorsee. More than one endorsement renders the money order invalid and the second or subsequent endorsee to obtain payment must apply in writing on Form 6002 for a new order in lieu thereof as set forth in § 50.3121. In this event, the original order should be atached to the application and proof of the genuiness of endorsement submitted. (R. S. 4037, sec. 1, 18 Stat. 320; 39 U. S. C. 723) (Sec. 1435) (See 39 CFR 17.25. For Form 6002, see § 55.3121 of this chapter)

§ 50.3107 Payment to others than persons named on money orders. (a) A payee or remitter may by duly executed power of attorney designate and appoint some person to obtain payment on a money order or on money order thereafter received and a copy of the power of attorney should be filed at the office of payment. In such cases, the attorney will sign in the name of the payee or remitter followed by his own signature.

(b) When a person or firm makes an assignment and intends that money orders payable to them shall be paid to the assignee, they should execute a power of attorney or written order separate from the instrument of assignment to be filed in the post office of payment. The person receiving payment as attorney or agent should receipt the money order as such indicating beneath his signature the capacity in which he acts.

(c) In case of death of the payee or remitter, or first endorsee, money orders payable to him shall be paid to his legal representative, who shall be required to present to the paying postmaster satisfactory evidence of his authority to act in such capacity and to sign the money orders as executor or administrator as the case may be. In the case of an endorsee, the genuineness of the endorsement must be established as set forth in § 50.3106. If an executor or administrator has not been and will not be appointed, the claimant should submit his claim on standard Form 1055 which may be obtained through the postmaster.

(d) A money order payable to a firm or organization which has ceased to exist, shall be paid to the legal representative thereof, who will be required to show evidence of his authority to receive such payment.

(e) A money order may be receipted by the payee, remitter, or first endorsee, and deposited in a bank for collection. The bank may present the order if drawn on a local post office and receive payment. If the order is drawn on a post office in another city, the bank may forward it through banking channels or directly by mail to the issuing or paying office and in the latter event a check drawn on the Treasurer of the United States for the face value of the order will be sent to the bank. The stamp impressions of the banks through which the money orders pass should be placed on the backs of them. Stamp impressions are not regarded as endorsements in contravention of the law prohibiting more than one endorsement.

(f) A money order payable to a person who has been adjudged incompetent by a court of competent jurisdiction will be paid only to the person designated by the court to act on behalf of the ward. The money order in such cases shall be receipted in the name of the ward followed by the signature and legal designation of the authorized agent. (Sec. 1436.) (See 39 CFR 17.26)

§ 50.3108 Payment of money orders withheld. (a) Upon request by the issuing postmaster or by the remitter, payment of a money order will be withheld for a sufficient time to enable the remitter to furnish proof that the order was purchased by him through false representation or other fraudulent action of the payee or that the payee is engaged in conducting a scheme or device for obtaining money through the mails by false or fraudulent pretenses, representations, or promises, the postmaster to whom the order is presented for payment will forward the request and proof submitted to the Third Assistant Postmaster General, Division of Money Orders. In the absence of action herein described, payment of the order will be made notwithstanding the protest of the remitter.

(b) The Postmaster General may, upon evidence satisfactory to him that a person or company is engaged in conducting a lottery, or scheme for the distribution of money, or other property by lot, or chance, or is conducting any other scheme to obtaining money or property of any kind through the mails by false or fraudulent pretenses, forbid the payment to such person or company of any postal money orders and on and after the issue of such order by the Postmaster General the payment of such postal money orders will not be made. The amounts of the money orders, but not the fees, shall be returned to the remitters. (R. S. 4041, sec. 3, 26 Stat. 466; 39 U. S. C. 732) (Sec. 1438) (See 39 CFR 17.28)

§ 50.3109 Purchase of money orders through rural carriers. (a) The patron of a rural route may deliver an application on Form 6001 with the money to the carrier on the route and receive a receipt on Form 6387. If the amount tendered by the remitter is in excess of the amount required and the carrier cannot make change, he will request the patron to meet him on his next trip to receive the change. The carrier is not permitted to and the patron should not under any circumstances leave money in the mail box. On his return to the post office, the carrier will purchase the money order and on his next trip deliver the receipt detached from the money order to the remitter. If personal delivery of the receipt is impracticable, it may be enclosed in an official envelope and left in the remitter's mail box.

(b) If the purchaser delivers with the application and money the unsealed communication in which the money order is to be mailed, the postmaster will make the enclosure, seal and dispatch the communication; otherwise the money order will be delivered to the purchaser on the carrier's next trip.

§ 50.3110 Payment of money orders through rural carriers. The patron of a rural route who desires to obtain payment of a money order may deliver it with an order on Form 6387 or a note reading as follows:

Please pay to ----------, carrier, for delivery to me, the amount of money order No. ----- issued at ---------- in my favor and this day handed to him by me for collection.

When the money is delivered to the patron on the carrier's next trip, the former shall acknowledge receipt thereof on the same form or note authorizing payment.

(b) Advertisement for bids. Under instructions from the Fourth Assistant Postmaster General, postmasters at the offices where such servicing of vehicles is required, post in the lobby of the post office building a copy of U. S. Standard Form 33 in which are set forth the specifications for the desired servicing of such vehicles and an invitation to bid. Upon the reverse of this form, furnished to bidders by the postmaster, are set forth the conditions of the proposed contract and instructions to bidders.

§ 50.3502 Contracts for carrying the mails in panel or screen body motor vehicles—(a) Geographical divisions. Contracts for the transportation of mails in panel or screen body motor vehicles between the terminals of common carriers and general post offices and the stations and branches thereof, are made for periods of four years. For purposes of advertising for proposals and awarding such contracts, the United States is divided geographically into four sections with contracts expiring in one of such sections each year.

(b) Advertisements for proposals. An advertisement for proposals to furnish this service in one of such sections is prepared in pamphlet form each year, giving therein specifications for the service required respectively at various cities located in such geographical section, and containing instructions to bidders and postmasters and also general conditions to be incorporated in the contracts. Such advertisement is conspicuously posted in each post office at which a contract is to be awarded for at least sixty days before the time for receiving proposals. Postmasters at such post offices are instructed to give other publicity to such advertisement for proposals.

(c) Proposals. Proposals are submitted upon Form A which likewise contains a bond and oath. This form may be obtained from the local postmaster or from the Fourth Assistant Postmaster General. The proposal is to be executed, the facts stated therein sworn to, and the execution thereof acknowledged under oath, by the bidder and two or more individual sureties or an approved surety company. Only one route may be included in a single proposal, and the bidder must agree to give his personal supervision to the performance of the contract and to reside on or contiguous to the route. Proposals must be sealed and transmitted to the Fourth Assistant Postmaster General, Post Office Department, Washington 25, D. C.

(d) Awards. While a bidder may submit proposals to perform this service on more than one route, he will only be awarded a contract for a single route upon or contiguous to which he must reside so as to give his personal supervision to performing the contract. A contract for each route advertised will be separately awarded to the lowest responsible bidder whose proposal and bond conform in all respects to the specifications, and to whom has not been awarded a similar contract on another such route; but the Department reserves the right to reject all bids or to negotiate with the only bidder or lowest bidder for more reasonable terms. The contract will be executed upon Form 1748 by the Fourth Assistant Postmaster General and by the contractor and two or more individual sureties or an approved surety company. The contract will provide for the imposition by the Postmaster General of deductions and fines against the contractor for any delinquency or omission of duty under the contract, as authorized by law. (d) Awards. Upon approval of such bid by the Fourth Assistant Postmaster General, the postmaster is authorized to pay the hourly rate of vehicle hire provided for therein. (12 Stat. 220; 36 Stat. 1333; 38 Stat. 303; R. S. 3709; 39 U. S. C. 802; 41 U. S. C. 5)

(b) Imposition of fines or deductions. The amount of the fine or deduction is based upon the gravity of the delinquency, and when imposed the contractor is notified thereof by the Fourth Assistant Postmaster General upon Form 1729, which shows the amount of the fine or deduction and the reasons for its imposition.

§ 50.4300 Inquiries and complaints. (a) Inquiries and complaints hereinafter indicated should be made as follows:

(b) To postmasters. (1) Inquiries and complaints by the public in regard to mail except as hereinafter indicated, (See subparagraph (3) of this paragraph). Complaints regarding mishandling or mistreatment of mail should be accompanied with the envelope or wrapper to which the complaint refers, if available Patrons are urged to report any loss or non-delivery or any other mistreatment of mail since these reports may be used to correct such conditions.

(2) Complaints in general affecting the Service should likewise be made to the postmaster.

(3) Where inquiries or complaints to the postmaster are manifestly improper under the circumstances, they should be made to the Post Office Department.

(c) To Post Office Inspectors-in-Charge. Included in the offenses against the postal service which should be promptly reported to a Post Office Inspector-in-Charge, or to the Chief Inspector, Post Office Department, are the theft, rifling, tampering with and interception of mail; mailing of intoxicants, poisons, firearms, explosives, etc.; mailing of obscene and scurrilous matter; using the mails to defraud and in the promotion of lotteries; violation of the private express statutes (Government monopoly of the transportation of letter mail); mailing of letters of extortion and other complaints alleging criminal offenses against the postal service.

(d) To the Post Office Department. Administrative matters such as charges against postal employees of all classes (except Post Office Inspectors-in-Charge, inspectors, and clerks at division headquarters and other posts of duty of post office inspectors) and the establishment of or changes in rural or star routes should be addressed to the proper bureau of the department, and if an investigation by an inspector is necessary, such bureau will make request therefore on the Chief Inspector who will have investigations made in the field division concerned by some inspector or inspectors thereof.

§ 50.4301 Disposition of money or other property lost or stolen from the mails and recovered by post office inspectors. (a) The Chief Inspector is authorized by the Postmaster General to determine upon satisfactory evidence the ownership of money or other property lost or stolen from the mails and recovered by Post Office Inspectors, and to dispose of same to the United States Government, or to the public as their interests shall appear, as is hereinafter indicated.

(1) When Post Office Inspectors establish through investigation individual responsibility for mistreatment of mail matter, collection therefor is given attention by them. Collections by Post Office Inspectors for mistreatment of mail are forwarded by them through their Inspectors in Charge to the Chief Inspector who reviews the facts and makes disposition of the money.

(2) Identical money and identified articles stolen from the mails, and recovered by Post Office Inspectors, if not needed as evidence, or when no longer needed as such may, unless otherwise directed by the United States Attorney or the court, or the Post Office Department, be restored by inspectors to the owners unless they have received payment of indemnity or other settlement is in order.

(3) Property other than money believed to be the contents of mail but not so identified, recovered by Post Office Inspectors, if not needed as evidence or when no longer needed as such may, unless otherwise directed by the United States Attorney or the court, or the Post Office Department, be forwarded to designated post offices for treatment as dead mail matter.

(4) When the inspector feels that the disposition of money or other property by him is inadvisable on account of insufficiency of identification, conflicting claims, or other reasons, the disposition of the money or other property is determined by the Chief Inspector.

(5) If money collected by inspectors represents a compromise offer, or if advisable for other reasons, inspectors channel it to the Chief Inspector for treatment by him.

(6) Subject to the foregoing, inspectors generally disburse direct to those entitled thereto collections made by inspectors if they apply to wrong payment of a postal money order, a postal savings certificate, or a postal note, or to customs duty assessed on mail matter, or to damage by the public to a mail truck or to street letter box equipment.

(7) Moneys lost or stolen from the mails and recovered by Post Office Inspectors and thereafter sent by them to the Chief Inspector are deposited by him with the Superintendent, Division of Finance, of the Post Office Department, unless, as in the case of identical money or for other reasons, other action may be in order.

With respect to moneys deposited with the Superintendent, Division of Finance, the Chief Inspector, after determining upon satisfactory evidence the proper disposition thereof, either to the United States Government, or the public as their interests shall appear, furnishes the Superintendent, Division of Finance, with disbursement schedules. The Superintendent, Division of Finance, thereafter disposes of the money to the United States Government, or to the public in the form of negotiable paper, as prescribed on such schedules following their approval by the Comptroller General.

Persons suffering losses of money or other property from the mails should make report thereof to the postmaster. Form 1510, suitable and convenient for such purpose, may be obtained from any post office, or the matter may be communicated by means of a letter to the postmaster who channels such reports to the proper Post Office Inspector in Charge. When such money or other property is recovered by Post Office Inspectors, it is disposed of as hereinbefore shown.

§ 50.4302 Payment of rewards. (a) The Post Office Department will, on and after July 1, 1945, unless otherwise ordered, pay the following rewards, providing Congress makes available the necessary appropriation:

(1) Not exceeding two thousand dollars for the arrest and conviction of any offender on the charge of assaulting any person having lawful charge, control, or custody of any mail, or money or other property of the United States, with intent to rob, steal, or purloin such mail, or money or other property of the United States, or any part thereof, or on the charge of robbing any such person of any such mail, or money or other property of the United States, if in effecting or attempting to effect such robbery, he shall wound the person having custody of the mail, or money or other property of the United States, or put his life in jeopardy by the use of a dangerous weapon.

(2) Not exceeding two thousand dollars for the arrest and conviction of any offender on the charge of mailing or causing to be mailed any bomb, infernal machine, or mechanical, chemical, or other device or composition which may ignite or explode, with the design, intent, or purpose to kill or in anywise hurt, harm, or injure another, or damage, deface, or otherwise injure the mails or other property.

(3) Not exceeding one thousand dollars for the arrest and conviction of any offender on the charge of assaulting any person having lawful charge, control, or custody of any mail, or money or other property of the United States, with intent to rob, steal, or purloin such mail, or money or other property of the United States, or any part thereof, or of robbing such person of such mail, or money or other property of the United States, or any part thereof, where the assault does not include the wounding of the person having custody of the mail, or money or other property of the United States, or the putting of his life in jeopardy by the use of a dangerous weapon.

(4) Not exceeding two hundred dollars for the arrest and conviction of any person on the charge of breaking into or attempting to break into a post office, or any building used in whole or in part as a post office, with intent to commit in such post office, or part of said building used as a post office, any larceny or other depredation. A post office station will be regarded as coming within the meaning of the term, post office, as used in this section.

(5) Not exceeding two hundred dollars for the arrest and conviction of any person on the charge of stealing mail or any valuable thing contained therein, or money or other property of the United States, while being conveyed over any post route, or while in the custody of any mail messenger, or being conveyed to or from any railroad depot, or of robbing or stealing from the mail while it remains at any railroad depot awaiting transfer.

(6) Not exceeding two hundred dollars for the arrest and conviction of any person on the charge of stealing mail or any valuable thing contained therein, or money or other property of the United States, from or out of any mail, post office, or station thereof, or from any person properly having custody of any mail, money or property as aforesaid, or of larceny from any letter box, street letter box, or other receptacle established, approved, or designated by the Postmaster General for the receipt of mail on any rural delivery route, star route, or other mail route, or from a box rented in a post office, or from any public receptacle or other authorized depository for mail.

(7) Not exceeding two hundred dollars for the arrest and conviction of any mail carrier on any mail messenger route or star route on the charge of embezzling or stealing mail or any valuable thing contained therein.

(8) Not exceeding two hundred dollars for the arrest and conviction of any person on the charge of mailing or causing to be mailed any bomb, infernal machine, or mechanical, chemical, or other device or composition which may ignite or explode, and which may kill or in anywise hurt, harm, or injure another, or damage, deface, or otherwise injure the mails or other property.

(9) For the arrest and conviction of any person as accessory to any of the offenses above mentioned, or for receiving or having unlawful possession of any mail, money, or property stolen from a post office or from a station of a post office, or otherwise, as provided in this Notice of Reward, the same reward will be paid as for the arrest and conviction of the principal offender.

(10) When an offender is killed in the act of committing any of the crimes enumerated herein, or in resisting lawful arrest, the same reward may be paid as though he had been tried and convicted.

(11) When a person has been convicted of committing any offense enumerated herein a reward may be paid, even though such person when arrested was charged with committing an offense not so enumerated. When a person has been convicted on the charge of juvenile delinquency because of having committed any offense enumerated herein, the same reward may be paid as though he had been convicted of such offense.

(12) The reward that may be allowed under the offers made in the preceding paragraphs will be determined according to the circumstances surrounding the particular case and on the basis of the services personally rendered by each claimant. In deciding what amount should be paid, the importance and value of the service rendered, the character of the person arrested and convicted, the risks or hazards involved, the time consumed, the expenses incurred and the efforts put forth, will govern. Maximum rewards will be paid only when the services performed were of maximum value.

(b) Applications. Separate applications should be made in writing to the Chief Post Office Inspector, Washington 25, D. C. by each person who claims a reward. Applications for reward should state the name of the offender, and the date and nature of the offense.

(c) Filing of applications. Payment for services meriting a reward will be made, subject to the necessary appropriation, as aforesaid, upon presentation of satisfactory evidence and after appropriate investigation. A claim will not be considered unless presented within three months from the date of conviction of an offender, or within three months from the date of his death, if he was killed in the act of committing a crime, or in resisting lawful arrest.

(d) Time of payment. In order that all claimants for reward in any case may have an opportunity to present their claims, the Department reserves the right to withhold taking final action until the time limit specified in the preceding paragraph has expired and the claims have been investigated.

(e) Conditions and reservations. (1) The Post Office Department reserves the right to reject a claim when the circumstances in the case do not justify the payment of a reward or when, in its opinion, there has been collusion, or when improper methods have been used to effect an arrest or to secure a conviction; and it also reserves the right to allow only one reward where several persons have been convicted of the same offense, or when one person has been convicted of several offenses, unless the circumstances, in its judgment, entitle the claimant to a reward for each conviction.

(2) All previous offers of reward are hereby rescinded except as they may apply to cases in which arrests were made prior to July 1, 1945.

§ 50.4600 Compromise of obligations. Any proposition of compromise shall be submitted in writing, and the amount offered in compromise shall be deposited with the Treasurer of the United States, or a national bank designated as a United States depositary, in special account No. 5 of the Secretary of the Treasury, or with the Superintendent, Division of Finance and Disbursing Officer, Bureau of the Third Assistant Postmaster General, Post Office Department. If the offer in compromise is rejected the amount deposited will be returned. The amount of a compromise offer must be tendered unconditionally for deposit pending the consideration of acceptance. Checks and drafts cannot be accepted as offers in compromise when they bear endorsements or instructions to the effect that the acceptance of such checks or drafts constitutes settlement in full of the claim, fine, penalty, or liability in connection with which the offer is made, except that such checks or drafts may be accepted when they are accompanied with a written waiver of the endorsements or instructions printed thereon. Offers in compromise should be transmitted or delivered to the bureau of the Department, the Post Office Inspector, or the postmaster from whom demand is received for payment of the amount due. (R. S. 295, 409; 5 U. S. C. 383; 31 U. S. C. 115)

(b) In the event that no person can be found upon whom service of the complaint can be effected pursuant to the above rule, the complaint may be delivered with other mail addressed to the respondent person or concern and a statement to that effect showing the time and place of such delivery signed by the postal employee who so delivered the complaint shall constitute evidence of service of the notice showing the time and place of the hearing, and of the specification of charges.

§ 51.7 Answers. (a) In case of desire to contest the proceeding, the respondent in any such case shall file with the Solicitor of the Post Office Department an answer to the complaint. Three copies of the answer shall be supplied. The answer shall contain a concise statement on behalf of the respondent admitting, denying or explaining each of the charges alleged in the complaint. All answers shall be signed by the respondent or by his attorney at law. Corporations or associations shall file answers through a bona fide officer or by an attorney at law. Answers shall show the office and post office address of the signer.

(b) The answer may be submitted by mail or presented by the respondent or his representative not later than the commencement of the hearing.

(c) The hearing will be held at the time and place stated in the notice regardless of whether the respondent files an answer or makes an appearance during the proceedings.

(d) If the respondent desires to waive a hearing on the allegations of fact set forth in the complaint, and does not desire to contest the allegations of fact, the answer shall consist of a statement that the respondent admits as true all the material allegations of fact charged. Contemporaneously with the filing of such answer the respondent shall state in writing whether he desires to appear and be heard on the question as to whether the admitted facts constitute the violation of law alleged in the complaint. Respondent may also file a brief in support of his contention.

§ 51.8 Appearances. (a) Any individual, receiver or trustee may appear and be heard in person or by attorney. A partnership may appear and be represented by any member thereof or any attorney. § 51.9 Failure to answer or appear. If the respondent fails to appear or to be represented at the hearing, he shall be deemed to have waived the right to be heard in the proceeding. However, if respondent has filed an answer to the charges, he shall be loaned a copy of the transcript and accorded an opportunity to file a post hearing brief as hereinbefore provided. If no answer is filed and no appearance is made at the hearing the respondent will be deemed to have waived his rights as set forth above.

§ 51.10 Amendments of pleadings. Amendments to pleadings may be offered by any party during the course of a hearing and may be accepted by the Hearing Officer and incorporated into the record unless it shall be shown that the rights of the respondent will be unfairly prejudiced thereby.

§ 51.11 Admission to practice. Attorneys-at-law admitted to practice before any court of the United States, the District of Columbia, or the highest court of any State or Territory may be admitted to practice before the Department. Applications for admission to practice shall be upon a form prescribed by the Solicitor which may be obtained upon written application therefor. However, formal admission to practice shall not be prerequisite for appearing as a representative of any respondent in a case already set down for hearing.

§ 51.12 Suspension and disbarment. The Solicitor may recommend to the Postmaster General that he censure, suspend, disbar, or revoke the right of any person who has been admitted to practice either formally or informally before this Department if he finds that such person has failed to conform to recognized standards of professional conduct or is not possessed of the character and integrity which is ordinarily required of an attorney-at-law practicing before a Federal court.

§ 51.13 Subpenas. The Post Office Department is not authorized by law to issue subpenas requiring the attendance or testimony of witnesses and cannot furnish or pay witness fees or transportation expenses.

§ 51.14 Continuances. A short continuance may be granted to a respondent in any case where application is made therefor in writing not later than ten days before the date set forth for the hearing, which application shall contain a statement of the reasons upon which such request for a continuance is based; but such reasons must be substantial and relate to the defense of the charges.

§ 51.15 Hearing officers. Hearing Officers presiding at the trial of cases involving alleged violations of the postal fraud, lottery and fictitious name laws shall be designated by the Solicitor. Hearing Officers shall have the authority to rule upon offers of proof and to receive oral or documentary evidence; to regulate the course of the hearing and the conduct of the parties; to dispose of procedural motions, requests for adjournment and similar matters; require oral argument upon any question raised in the course of a hearing or at the close thereof, and to limit same as to time and subject matter. Hearings shall be conducted in such a way as to afford to interested persons a reasonable opportunity to be heard on matters relevant to the issues involved and so as to obtain a clear and orderly record.

§ 51.16 Evidence. (a) Except as otherwise provided here, the rules of evidence governing civil proceedings in matters not involving trial by jury in the courts of the United States shall govern formal proceedings before the Solicitor; provided, however, that such rules may be relaxed in any case where the ends of justice may be better served by so doing.

(b) The testimony of witnesses at a hearing shall be upon oath or affirmation and witnesses shall be subject to cross-examination. Any witness may, in the discretion of the Hearing Officer, be examined separately and apart from other witnesses except those who may be parties to the proceeding.

(c) In so far as practicable Hearing Officers shall exclude evidence which is immaterial, irrelevant, or unduly repetitious, or which is not of the sort upon which responsible persons are accustomed to rely.

§ 51.17 Statements of facts. Agreed statements of facts signed by all parties to any hearing may be received in evidence.

§ 51.18 Official notice. Official notice may be taken of all matters of generally recognized or scientific fact of an established character.

§ 51.19 Documentary evidence. Relevant and material documents must be properly identified or authenticated. Medical or other scientific books or essays will not be admitted in evidence in lieu of oral expert testimony. Where such publications are cited or relied upon by an expert witness on direct examination, they are then admissible on cross-examination for the sole purpose of showing that they contradict the witness as to the matter upon which he cited them as supporting his testimony. Affidavits of physicians or others containing opinions or statements in the nature of expert testimony are not admissible. Testimonials are inadmissible.

§ 51.20 Objections. If any party objects to the admission or rejection of any evidence or to the limitation of the scope of cross-examination, he shall state briefly the grounds of such objection, whereupon an automatic exception will follow if the objection is overruled by the Hearing Officer. The transcript shall not include argument or debate upon objections except as ordered by the Hearing Officer. The ruling of the Hearing Officer on any objection shall be a part of the transcript.

§ 51.21 Depositions. No provision has been made by the Post Office Department for the taking of depositions and no money has been appropriated by Congress for that purpose.

§ 51.22 Transcript. (a) The transcript of the proceedings before the Hearing Officer shall be made in every case by the reporting system of the Office of the Solicitor. Said transcript together with all documents and pleadings filed in the case, shall constitute the official record thereof. If answer to the charges is made, a copy of the transcript shall be loaned to the respondent after the conclusion of the hearing for use in preparing any written brief or argument which the respondent desires to have considered when the case is taken up for disposition. The Hearing Officer shall apprise each respondent present at a hearing of such fact and shall state the length of time to be allowed respondent for the preparation of the brief after he has been furnished the transcript.

(b) The transcript shall be returned with the respondent's brief.

§ 51.23 Oral argument. If oral argument before the Hearing Officer is desired he should be notified before the close of the hearing in order that he may arrange to hear the argument at the close of the testimony, within such limits of time as may be agreeable to the parties and as he may determine to be adequate. Such argument shall be transcribed and bound with the transcript of testimony, and shall be submitted to the Postmaster General for consideration in deciding the case.

§ 51.24 Compromises. (a) Any respondent charged with violating the postal fraud, lottery or "fictitious" statutes, and who desires to arrange for a disposition of the pending charges without a formal hearing may apply for permission to file an affidavit of discontinuance. Such an affidavit shall provide for the discontinuance and abandonment of the enterprise charged in the complaint with violating the postal laws. It shall also authorize the postmaster at the post office through which the respondent receives mail addressed to the names used in the alleged unlawful enterprise to return such mail to sender marked "Out of Business." The affidavit further shall authorize said postmaster to refuse to cash money orders drawn in favor of the name or names involved in the unlawful scheme. Additional provision shall authorize summary action by the Postmaster General in the event that the respondent or his successors or assigns resumes under the same name or any other name the scheme agreed by the affidavit to be discontinued and abandoned.

(b) The Solicitor shall not be required to grant the privilege of filing affidavits of discontinuance in all cases in which application therefor is made. Permission or refusal to dispose of a pending case on such basis shall be a matter for the exercise of his discretion and judgment and shall depend upon the nature of the case and the circumstances involved.

(c) Application for permission to file an affidavit of discontinuance shall be filed at least seven days before the date set for the hearing of the case on the merits.

(d) Affidavits of discontinuance shall not be accepted after a case has gone to hearing and the Department's counsel has introduced evidence to substantiate the charges in the complaint, nor shall such affidavits embody any provisions other than those specified above unless in the judgment of the Solicitor the circumstances involved are such as to warrant a relaxation of this rule.

(e) The Post Office Department will not undertake to edit or censor advertising or to prescribe reforms for business methods and requests to dispose of cases on such basis shall be refused.

§ 51.25 Petitions for further hearing. (a) An application for further hearing in a proceeding before final submission, or for reopening a proceeding after final submission, or for rehearing, reargument, or reconsideration after decision, must be made by petition stating specifically the grounds relied upon.

(b) Such petition shall be accompanied by a sworn statement of the party or his attorney that the petition is filed in good faith and not for purposes of delay.

(c) A petition for further hearing or for reopening a proceeding to take further evidence must (1) state briefly the nature and purpose of the evidence to be adduced; (2) show that such evidence would not be merely cumulative, and that the failure previously to present such evidence is not due to lack of reasonable diligence, and (3) show cause why the petition should be granted. A petition for rehearing, reargument or reconsideration must specify the matters claimed to have been decided erroneously and must briefly state the alleged errors. A petitioner praying that an order be vacated or modified by reason of matters which have arisen since the hearing, must briefly set forth all the matters relied upon by the petitioner.

(d) No petition filed under this Rule shall automatically stay the effect of, terminate or modify any order theretofore entered, whether or not such order is one which the petitioner prays to be reconsidered.

(e) A petition for rehearing, reargument, reconsideration, or modification of a final order must be filed within ten (10) days after the date of service of such order.

§ 51.25a Decision and order. Upon the basis of the complete record in any case the hearing officer shall make a finding of all the facts pertinent to the issues involved and shall state his recommendation as to the action to be taken. The hearing officer's finding and recommendation together with the record, shall be transmitted to and considered by the Solicitor, who shall state in writing his own recommendation, and, in cases where the issuance of an order denying the respondent the use of the mails is recommended by the Solicitor, he shall transmit the recommendation, together with the record in the case to the Postmaster General for final decision and the issuance of an order, if the evidence in the case be satisfactory to him that the postal laws have been violated as charged.

§ 51.26 Supplementary fraud, lottery and fictitious orders. Whenever substantial evidence is presented to the Solicitor, ex parte, that any person or concern is evading or attempting to evade the provisions of any fraud, lottery or fictitious order issued after notice and hearing against any person or concern operating an enterprise which was found to be unlawful under the postal fraud, lottery or fictitious name statutes, a recommendation shall be made by the Solicitor for the extension of the order sought to be evaded so as to include the name or names then and there being employed for the purpose of continuing the use of the mails in the operation of the unlawful scheme against which a previous order was directed.

§ 51.27 Foreign fraud, lottery and fictitious orders. Whenever substantial evidence is presented to the Solicitor, ex parte, that any person or concern in any foreign country is using or causing the United States mails to be used in the operation of any enterprise in violation of the postal fraud, lottery, or fictitious statutes, he shall submit forthwith to the Postmaster General a finding of law and fact and a recommendation that an appropriate order be issued against such person or concern under the provisions of the aforesaid statutes.

Whenever such claim is filed, the officer receiving it must make the date of such receipt a matter of record.

§ 51.93 By whom claims may be filed. A claim may be filed by the person or firm sustaining injuries or damage in his/its own right or by an attorney representing the claimant. With respect to claims filed under the Federal Tort Claims Act, attorneys are required to submit to the Solicitor duly authenticated powers of attorney establishing their right to represent claimants. In filing such power of attorney the attorney should state whether he claims a fee, the amount of which however will be determined by the Department under the provisions of section 422 of the act.

§ 51.94 Manner of filing claims. Claim may be filed on Standard Form 28 (39 CFR, 55.400), which may be obtained from the local postmaster or from the Solicitor. The use of Form 28 is optional and the Department will accept in lieu thereof a sworn detailed statement of facts.

§ 51.95 Evidence required to support claim. Each claim filed must be supported as follows: (1) In cases of property damage, by an itemized, receipted bill or bills covering the repairs to the private property or the replacement of property destroyed, and limited to such items of repair or replacement as were necessitated by reason of the damage incurred in the specific accident giving rise to the claim; the testimony of any available witnesses which the claimant desires considered in the adjudication of such claim; (2) in cases of personal injury by doctors' bills, hospital bills, nursing bills, bills covering dental or optical services, a sworn statement from the claimant's employer establishing the amount of time and compensation lost by reason of the accident, a statement from the attending physician showing the extent of the injuries and the treatment thereof, and the sworn statements of any available witnesses. The evidence specifically described herein may be supplemented by any other documentary evidence that would be helpful to the Department in adjudicating claims.

§ 51.96 Adjudication and settlement of claims. In any case where the Solicitor, upon consideration of all of the evidence submitted finds that compensation is due a claimant under either of these acts, he will recommend to the Postmaster General that the amount found to be a proper charge be awarded to such claimant. If the Postmaster General concurs in his recommendation, the claim will be certified to the General Accounting Officer for payment and in due course a settlement warrant will be forwarded to the claimant. The provisions of 31 U. S. C. 203c, prohibit attorneys from receiving warrants issued to their clients in the settlement of claims. However, such attorney's fees as may be allowed out of the amount awarded to the claimant will be paid to the attorney direct.

§ 51.97 Review of adjudications. The Postmaster General's approval and acceptance of adjudication of any claim made by the Solicitor constitutes final action in the case so far as the Department is concerned, and there is no way by which review thereof in the Department may be obtained. However, with respect to claims filed under the Federal Tort Claims Act, suit may be instituted by the claimant in the District Court of the district of which he is a resident. Where such suit is brought in order to review the action of the Department in disallowing a claim, or upon a claim withdrawn from consideration by the Department prior to settlement, section 410 of the act (Public 601, 79th Congress) should be examined by the claimant in order that its specific conditions may be properly complied with.

SUBPART E—PROCEDURE TO OBTAIN PERMITS TO RECEIVE DISEASED TISSUES BY MAIL

§ 51.100 Requisites of application. (a) Applications for a permit to receive through the mails specimens of diseased tissues, blood, serum or cultures of pathogenic microorganisms in accordance with the provisions of this section should be addressed to the postmaster at the office serving the applicant or to the Solicitor, Post Office Department, Washington 25, D. C.

(b) The application for a permit must be made in writing. It must state the name, address and business of the applicant and must set forth the name and the scientific education, training and experience, particularly with reference to bacteriology and pathology, of the person who will handle the tissues which will be mailed under the permit.

(c) Postmasters shall transmit such applications promptly to the Solicitor for consideration.

§ 51.101 Issuance of permit. If the Solicitor is satisfied from the evidence transmitted that the application should be granted he shall prepare an appropriate order for the signature of the Postmaster General. The order signed by the Postmaster General granting the applicant permission to receive through the mails specimens of disease tissue as above set forth shall be forwarded by the Solicitor to the postmaster at the office serving the applicant. A copy of the order shall be furnished to the applicant. The applicant shall also be advised that the original permit has been transmitted to the postmaster.

§ 51.102 Revocation and suspension of permits; basis. Permits to receive diseased tissues may be suspended or revoked for the failure of the handler of such tissues to possess the necessary qualifications as to scientific education, training and experience. No permit shall be valid with respect to diseased tissue handled by any person other than the one named in the application or by some other person equally qualified whose name and qualifications shall be filed with the Solicitor prior to the receipt of tissues.

§ 51.103 Revocation procedure. Whenever any postmaster shall have reason to believe that the postal regulations have been violated as above stated, he shall call the matter to the attention of the Solicitor and submit all available evidence in support of his complaint. In the event that the postmaster's complaint warrants further consideration looking to a recommendation to the Postmaster General that any permit be revoked, the Solicitor shall advise the holder of the permit of the details of the complaint against him and request an explanation thereof and answer thereto in writing. Upon the basis of the entire record so made in any case, the Solicitor shall recommend to the Postmaster General revocation of any permit where the facts warrant such action. If revocation is not warranted, he shall so advise the complaining postmaster and the holder of the permit and shall include in such notice any instruction or warning which the circumstances in the case shall warrant.

§ 26.1 Creation and authority. (a) The Department of the Navy and the Office of the Secretary of the Navy were established by Act of Congress on April 30, 1798 (1 Stat. 553; 5 U. S. C. 411–412). The organization and functions of the Department of the Navy have been defined, expanded and affected by a continuous stream of legislation, the extent and character of which makes any summary or extended discussion thereof impossible. Certain of such legislation, as pertinent, is hereinafter referred to or discussed.

(b) The increased responsibilities and demands imposed by World War II necessitated a great expansion and alteration in the organization of, and distribution of functions within, the Naval Establishment. With the cessation of hostilities a contraction accompanied by reorganization became inevitable. The task of adapting the Naval Establishment to peacetime requirements is still in process. The description of the organization and functions of the Naval Establishment must therefore be understood to be based upon a transitional and necessarily fluid situation.

(c) The present organization and distribution of functions within the Naval Establishment is derived generally from Executive Order No. 9635 dated September 29, 1945 (10 F. R. 12419). The organization and distribution of functions is further outlined in somewhat amplified form in General Order No. 230 of January 12, 1946 entitled "Policies and Principles Governing the Distribution of Authority and Responsibility for the Administration of the Naval Establishment". Copies of General Orders are available for inspection at the Navy Department, Washington, D. C., and at the offices of each of the naval districts.

(d) For a helpful general statement of the organization and distribution of functions within the Naval Establishment, attention is invited to the current edition of the United States Government Manual (for sale by the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C. at $1.00 per copy), and to the current edition of the Congressional Directory (for sale at $1.25 per copy by the Superintendent of Documents, United States Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C.)

§ 26.2 The Naval Establishment. The functional organization of the United States Navy, sometimes referred to as the Naval Establishment, may be divided into three principal parts:

(a) The Navy Department, the executive part of the Naval Establishment located at the seat of the Government, which comprises the bureaus, boards and offices of the Navy Department; the Headquarters of the Marine Corps; and the Headquarters of the Coast Guard (when assigned to the Navy).

(b) The Operating Forces, which include the sea, air and amphibious forces of the Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard (when assigned to the Navy), shore activities assigned to the command of Fleet and Sea Frontier Commanders and the personnel who man them.

(c) The Shore Establishment, which comprises all other activities of the Naval Establishment including all shore activities not assigned to the Operating Forces.

§ 26.3 The Navy Department. The executive part of the Naval Establishment, the Navy Department, is organized in terms of its functions which are best understood by reference to the statement of fundamental naval policy: "To maintain the entire Naval Establishment in strength and readiness to uphold national policies and interests and to guard the United States and its continental and overseas possessions" (General Order No. 230, dated 12 January 1946). From this fundamental policy evolve four basic tasks or functions, the responsibility for which has been distributed within the Navy Department. These tasks or functions are policy control, naval command, logistics administration and control, and business management.

(a) The Secretary. The Naval Establishment is subject to the direction and control of the President of the United States as Commander-in-Chief. The immediate direction and control, however, are exercised by the Secretary of the Navy, acting as the representative of the President. The Secretary retains the general responsibility for supervision of all naval affairs while delegating certain responsibilities to his naval and civilian executive assistants. The Secretary retains direct control of policy and communicates directly with all principal officials and officers of the Naval Establishment, as necessary or desirable, remaining available for direct consultation by such officials and officers in the formulation and administration of naval policies, the Secretary avails himself of the advice and assistance of his principal executive assistants: (1) The Civilian Executive Assistants; (2) the Naval Command Assistant; and (3) the Naval Technical Assistants.

(b) The Naval Command Assistant. (1) The second of the four basic tasks or functions of the Navy Department is that of Naval Command, which has been assigned to the Naval Command Assistant, whose official title is The Chief of Naval Operations, and who acts as the principal adviser to the President and to the Secretary of the Navy on the conduct of war, and the principal naval adviser and military executive to the Secretary of the Navy on the conduct of the activities of the Naval Establishment, all as provided in Executive Order No. 9635 dated September 29, 1945 (10 F. R. 12419). Naval Command includes command of the Operating Forces and the maintenance of such Forces in a state of readiness to conduct war. In the accomplishment of the foregoing, the Chief of Naval Operations is responsible under the Secretary of the Navy for the command and administration of the Operating Forces, for the preparation, readiness and logistics support of such Forces, and for the coordination and direction of efforts of the bureaus and offices of the Navy Department with respect to foregoing. In the discharge of these responsibilities, the Chief of Naval Operations promulgates to the Naval Establishment directives embracing matters of operations, security, intelligence, discipline, naval communications, and similar matters of naval administration.

(2) The third task in implementing fundamental naval policy, namely, that of Logistics Administration and Control, involves two distinct elements, the logistics of consumption, i. e., the planning, forecasting, determining and distributing of the requirements of the Operating Forces, and the logistics of production, i. e., the development, procurement, and production of the materiel and personnel required to meet the requirements of the Operating Forces. Although the two elements are interrelated and represent a continuous "cause and effect" relationship, it has been necessary, in the interest of efficient, orderly administration, to divide the responsibility for Logistics Administration and Control between the Chief of Naval Operations and the Civilian Executive Assistants aided by the Naval Technical Assistants. Accordingly, there has been delegated to the Chief of Naval Operations responsibility over the following:

(i) Planning and forecasting the requirements of the Operating Forces for finished materiel, trained personnel and supporting services.

(ii) Issuing statements of these requirements (in terms of what is needed, when it is needed and where it is needed) to the bureaus and offices of the Navy Department and, through them, to the Shore Establishment. This responsibility encompasses the determination of naval characteristics for materiel to be procured or developed, and the determination of the training and instruction required to fit naval personnel and commands for service with the Operating Forces.

(iii) Reviewing and evaluating the progress of the bureaus and offices and of the Shore Establishment in fulfilling these requirements, and issuing such orders as may be required to assure the requirements are met.

(iv) Collaborating with the Civilian Executive Assistants in expediting fulfillment of these requirements, in evaluating and strengthening the policies and procedures governing the determination of stock levels and replenishment requirements, and in the administration of inventory control systems.

(c) The Civilian Executive Assistants. The fourth task or function of the Navy Department, Business Management, and the balance of logistics administration and control discussed previously, are delegated to the Civilian Executive Assistants to the Secretary. These Civilian Executive Assistants are the Under Secretary, the Assistant Secretary, and the Assistant Secretary for Air.

(1) The Under Secretary. The Under Secretary, who is appointed by the President by and with the advice and consent of the Senate and who under present law (54 Stat. 494; 5 U. S. C. 421b) serves during a national emergency only, has been delegated the responsibility, in accordance with law and executive orders, for assuring that the Business Management of the Naval Establishment is properly conducted. This responsibility of the Under Secretary includes general supervision of matters of organization, staffing, administrative procedures, utilization of personnel, materials and facilities, and the budgeting and expenditure of funds. In this connection, the Under Secretary has immediate supervision of the activities of the Executive Office of the Secretary, listed under § 26.4(c).

(2) The Assistant Secretary. The Assistant Secretary, appointed by the President by and with the advice and consent of the Senate (26 Stat. 254; 5 U. S. C. 420) has been delegated the responsibility, in accordance with law and executive orders, for that part of the Logistics Administration and Control of the Naval Establishment which relates to the promulgation of policies and general procedures governing (i) the procurement and production of matériel and facilities; (ii) the determination of stock levels and replenishment requirements in collaboration with the Chief of Naval Operations, and the administration of inventory control systems; and (iii) the correlation and programming of matériel research, experimental, test and development activities. In this connection, the Assistant Secretary has immediate supervision of the activities of the Executive Office of the Secretary which are listed under § 26.4 (d). The Assistant Secretary also is responsible for the presentation of the Navy's procurement requirements to other governmental agencies controlling the availability of products, materials and facilities.

(3) The Assistant Secretary for Air. The Assistant Secretary for Air, appointed by the President by and with the advice and consent of the Senate (44 Stat. 767; 5 U. S. C. 421a) has been delegated the responsibility, in accordance with law and executive orders, for all matters relating to aeronautics (except as otherwise assigned to the Under Secretary and the Assistant Secretary), including the coordination of naval aeronautics with other governmental agencies. In this connection, he supervises the Navy's participation on the Aeronautical Board and the Air Coordinating Committee (under § 26.4(e) (1) and § 26.4(e)(2)). In addition to his duties with respect to aeronautical matters, the Assistant Secretary for Air is responsible for that part of the logistics administration and control of the Naval Establishment which relates to the procurement and administration of personnel including labor relations in the plants of privat contractors. In this connection, the Assistant Secretary for Air has immediate supervision of the activities of the Executive Office of the Secretary listed in § 26.4 (e).

(d) Naval Technical Assistants. The Naval Technical Assistants are the chiefs of bureaus, the Judge Advocate General, and the Commandant of the Marine Corps, and the Commandant of the Coast Guard (when assigned to the Navy) who are directly responsible for the discharge of all the duties assigned to their respective organizations, in accordance with the orders and directives of the Secretary, the Civilian Executive Assistants, and the Chief of Naval Operations; and are the technical advisers and assistants, in their special fields, to the Secretary, the Civilian Executive Assistants and the Chief of Naval Operations. In pursuance of the foregoing, the Naval Technical Assistants are immediately responsible, within the limits of their respective cognizance, for:

(1) The procurement, training, administration, and assignment of personnel.

(2) The operation of all activities under their cognizance.

(3) The research in, and the development, procurement, production and distribution of, material and facilities.

(4) The sound and legal expenditure of funds appropriated for the performance of their work, including the preparation of estimates for funds required to carry out approved plans and directives.

The Naval Technical Assistants perform these responsibilities through the organization of their respective bureaus and offices, which are described in detail in § 26.6 through § 26.13.

The discussion above has outlined in general terms the over-all organization of the Naval Establishment. A more detailed presentation of certain of its component parts is presented below.

§ 26.4 Executive Office of the Secretary. (a) To assist the Secretary and the Civilian Executive Assistants in the discharge of their functions and responsibilities, various Offices, Committees, Boards and Divisions have been created, which are directly responsible to and which act for the Secretary and his Assistants and which collectively constitute the Executive Office of the Secretary. Such Boards, Offices, Committees and Divisions generally assist the Secretary and such Assistants in the formulation of policy and in administration, and discharge for the Secretary and such Assistants specific functions as are from time to time assigned.

(b) Boards, offices, and committees under the direct supervision of the Secretary—(1) Facilities Review Board. The Board, established November 21, 1945, reviews and approves or disapproves all requests for new facilities projects for continental and overseas shore establishments. The Board may investigate any phase of the operating procedure of the shore establishments to insure more efficient use of facilities and may issue orders necessary or appropriate as a result of such investigation. Orders of the Board are construed as emanating from the Secretary of the Navy.

(2) General Board of the Navy. The General Board was established March 13, 1900. It acts in an advisory capacity to the Secretary of the Navy. Its composition and duties are set forth in the U. S. Navy Regulations, 1920, Art. 393, par. 4, and Arts. 400-404, inclusive.

(3) Joint Army and Navy Board (Navy Participation). The Joint Board, which was organized July 17, 1903, is composed of ranking officers of both War and Navy Departments. Any matters which, to either the War Department or the Navy Department, seem to require cooperation between the two services, may be referred by that Department to the Joint Board. It may also originate such consideration of subjects as, in its judgment, is necessary. The Board confers upon, discusses, and reaches such common conclusions as may be practicable. Since the beginning of World War II, most of the functions of the Joint Board have been performed by the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

(4) Joint Chiefs of Staff (Navy Participation). The Joint Chiefs of Staff came into being as a result of the organization of the Combined Chiefs of Staff (British and United States Chiefs of Staff), on February 9, 1942. The Chief of Staff to the Commander in Chief of the Army and Navy; the Chief of Naval Operations; The Chief of Staff, U. S. Army; and the Commanding General, Army Air Forces, comprise the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Under the direction of the President the Joint Chiefs of Staff consult together on matters of joint concern to the armed forces, advise the President as to their use, take appropriate action to implement his plans and policies as Commander in Chief of the Army and Navy, and coordinate the military efforts of the Army and the Navy.

(5) Joint Economy Board (Navy Participation). The Joint Economy Board, organized May 13, 1935, is charged with the responsibility of investigating and reporting on economies which can be effected from time to time, without loss of efficiency, by eliminating duplication and simplifying functions in those activities of the War and Navy Departments concerned with joint operations of the two services or which have approximately parallel functions.

(6) Office of Naval History. The Office of Naval History was established July 31, 1944, directly under the Secretary of the Navy. The Director of this Office is charged with coordinating the widely distributed work of the Navy Department in the preparation of histories and narratives of the present war, in order to assure adequate coverage to serve present and future needs and effectively to eliminate nonessential and overlapping effort. This includes supervision and coordination of the work of preparing histories of naval administration and naval operations for publication.

(7) Office of Public Information. The Office of Public Information was originally established on May 1, 1941 under the title of "Office of Public Relations". Under date of June 18, 1945, this title was changed to the "Office of Public Information". The function of this office is to inform the American public of the activities of its Navy.

(8) State - War - Navy Coordinating Committee (Navy Participation). The State-War-Navy Coordinating Committee, organized February 10, 1945, is charged with coordinating the view of the three departments on politico-military matters in which all have a common interest. Particular attention is paid to correlation of national policy with foreign policy.

(9) The Patent Royalty Revision Board. (i) The Royalty Adjustment Act of 1942 (35 U. S. C. 89-96) provides that whenever an invention, whether patented or unpatented, is manufactured, used, sold, or otherwise disposed of for the United States (in this case, the Navy Department) under the conditions set forth in the Act, and the license under which this is done includes provisions for the payment of royalties, the rates or amounts of which are believed to be unreasonable or excessive by the Secretary of the Navy or his duly authorized delegate, the Secretary or such delegate shall give written notice of such facts to the licensor and the licensee. The Act further provides that within a reasonable time after the effective date of the notice, in no event less than ten days, the Secretary of the Navy or his authorized delegate by order shall fix and specify such rates or amounts of royalties, if any, as he shall determine are fair and just, taking into account the conditions of wartime production, and shall authorize the payment thereof by the licensee to the licensor on account of such manufacture, use, sale, or other disposition. Either the licensor or the licensee is privileged, if he so requests within ten days from the effective date of the notice, to present within 30 days from the date of his request, in writing or in person, any facts or circumstances which may, in his opinion, have a bearing upon the rates or amounts of royalties, if any, to be determined, fixed and specified as aforesaid and the order fixing such rates and amounts of royalties shall be issued within a reasonable time after such presentation. The written notice shall be mailed to the last known address of the licensor and the licensee and shall be effective upon receipt, or five days after the mailing thereof, whichever date is earlier. The licensee is forbidden after the effective date of the notice to pay to the licensor or to charge directly or indirectly to the United States, a royalty in excess of that specified in the order. Certain provisions of the Act grant an aggrieved licensor remedies which, in general, limit him to a claim against the United States in a suit in the Court of Claims, or in certain instances to a suit brought in a District Court of the United States.

(ii) Pursuant to the provisions of this Act the Secretary of the Navy by letter dated March 1, 1943, as amended by letter dated January 2, 1946, established in the Navy Department a Patent Royalty Revision Board which is composed of a chairman and seven members selected and appointed by the Secretary of the Navy to serve for such terms as the Secretary shall designate. Any three members designated by the chairman may act in any matters as and for the entire Board.

(iii) The following powers were delegated to the Board by the Secretary of the Navy:

(a) To receive and hear such facts or circumstances as may be presented in writing or in person at a hearing held pursuant to Section 1 of the Act.

(b) To fix and specify by the order, in accordance with Section 1 of the Act, fair and just rates or amounts of royalties and to authorize the payment thereof by the licensee to the licensor. To supplement, modify, or revoke any order heretofore or hereafter issued. Such order, or any supplement, modification, or revocation of any such order may be executed on behalf of the Board by the Chairman or by a member of the Board designated by the Chairman.

(iv) In addition, the Secretary of the Navy delegated the following powers of the Chairman to any member of the Board designated by the Chairman, without reference to or action by any other member of the Board:

(a) To execute and issue written notice to licensor and licensee pursuant to the provisions of Section 1 of the Act, and to withdraw any notice heretofore or hereafter issued under said Section.

(b) To enter into and execute agreements with the owners or licensors of inventions or with contractors and subcontractors by the terms of which unreasonable or excessive rates or amounts are reduced to reasonable or unexcessive rates or amounts.

(c) To enter into and execute an agreement before suit against the United States has been instituted with the owner or licensor of an invention in full settlement and compromise of any claim against the United States accruing to such owner or licensor by reason of the manufacture, use, sale, or other disposition referred to in the Act and for compensation to be paid such owner or licensor based upon future manufacture, use, sale, or other disposition of such invention.

(d) To supplement, modify, or revoke any order, heretofore or hereafter issued, as a term of an agreement entered into under § 26.4 (b) (9) (iv) (b) or (c).

(v) In directing that bureau assistance be given, the Secretary of the Navy accorded to the Chief of each Bureau or the Commandant of the Marine Corps the right to conduct voluntary negotiations where it had been determined, after investigations, that excessive rates or amounts of royalties were being paid and empowered such officers to enter into and sign agreements of settlement and compromise embodying the terms of such negotiations, subject, however, to the approval of such agreements by the Secretary of the Navy. Should such officers fail to successfully conclude negotiations within a reasonable time, or should they desire not to conduct such negotiations, then they should transmit promptly to the Patents & Inventions Division, of the Office of Naval Research written reports reciting the facts and circumstances surrounding an alleged unreasonable or excessive royalty.

(vi) Any question of unreasonable or excessive royalty coming before the Price Adjustment Board should be referred to the Patent Royalty Revision Board for determination and all findings of the latter Board as to the reasonableness of royalties shall be binding on the Price Adjustment Board.

(c) Boards, offices, committees and divisions under the direct supervision of the Under Secretary.—(1) Administrative Office. This office was organized July 1, 1941, and assists the Under Secretary in the general administration and business management of the Navy Department. It is responsible for Departmental management services, including space, mail, telephone, office equipment and supplies, warehousing, printing and publications, correspondence and records management, microfilming (except V-mail), building security, transportation, rationing, housing, restaurants, civilian payrolls, machine tabulation services, personal business facilities, civilian health services, improvement of working conditions, and related management functions to increase efficiency and economy of operation. It provides the civilian personnel administration for the Navy Department, and the fiscal control over several Naval appropriations. It is responsible for the operation of the records management and disposal program in the field and has technical control over field publications and printing offices.

(2) Industrial Survey Division. The Industrial Survey Division, organized June 20, 1944, acts to keep the Under Secretary of the Navy informed as to the efficiency of operation and utilization of manpower of the industrial activities of the shore establishments of the Naval Establishment, including the effective use of personnel engaged in industrial work.

(3) Office of the Fiscal Director. This office, organized December 2, 1944, formulates, establishes, supervises and coordinates all policies and procedures affecting the finance, budgeting, accounting and auditing activities of the Navy Department. With the exception of the Finance Division, the functions of this office relate solely to the internal management of the Navy.

On July 17, 1946, the Office of Budget and Reports was made a part of the Office of Fiscal Director. The Office of Budget and Reports has charge of the preparation and execution of the Navy Department's budget, and analyzes the estimates of the individual bureaus and offices and correlates them into a well-balanced program. After funds have been appropriated by Congress, the office revises the budgetary program to conform to specific funds and follows up the execution of that program.

On December 22, 1945, the Finance Division was placed under the cognizance of the Office of Fiscal Director. The directive bringing about this change delegated the following authorities to the Fiscal Director with power on his part to redelegate the same:

(i) All authority and discretion of the Secretary of the Navy under Executive Order No. 9112 (7. F. R. 2367);

(ii) All authority and discretion of the Secretary of the Navy under Executive Order No. 9001 (6 F. R. 6787) with respect to advance and progress payments;

(iii) All authority and discretion conferred on the Secretary of the Navy or the Navy Department under Sections 8, 9, and 10 of the Contract Settlement Act of 1944 (58 Stat. 649; 41 U. S. C. 101) with respect to loans and advance payments; and

(iv) All authority for the establishment, supervision and coordination of policies and procedures with respect to advance and progress payments under Navy contracts.

(4) Office of Management Engineer. The Office of Management Engineering, formerly a branch of the Industrial Survey Division, was organized as a separate entity on May 29, 1946. This office advises and assists the Under Secretary in the discharge of his responsibilities with respect to "business administration". It reviews, plans, coordinates, integrates and evaluates on a continuing basis, management planning and control programs throughout the Navy Department and Shore Establishments; assists the heads of major activities in developing, training and establishing programs for their work, and develops criteria and techniques for appraising performance.

(5) Office of the Judge Advocate General. The Office of the Judge Advocate General (§ 26.13) is under the direct supervision of the Under Secretary of the Navy with respect to the review of records of naval courts.

(d) Boards, Offices, Committees and Divisions under the direct supervision of the Assistant Secretary.—(1) Army and Navy Munitions Board (Navy Participation). This Board, originally organized in 1922, has for its purpose coordinating the plans of the Army and Navy for the procurement of munitions and supplies for national defense. On August 18, 1945, the Board was reconstituted by an order approved by the President as Commander-in-Chief. As now constituted the Board comprises a Civilian Executive Chairman, the Under Secretary of War, and the Assistant Secretary of the Navy. The Executive Committee consists of the Civilian Executive Chairman, a general officer of the Army, and a flag officer of the Navy, with a secretariat and a staff made up of representatives from each service. In matters of major policy, the Board is advised by a Policy Committee made up of top echelon military representatives of the War and Navy Departments.

The functions of the Board include formulating plans and policies for industrial mobilization in an emergency and coordinating such plans between the Services; coordinating the work of the War and Navy Departments with regard to industrial matters, including procurement plans for the services; supervising such joint bodies as are or may be created to consider any subject falling within the scope of the Board's responsibility; and formulating and expressing the military interest of the War and Navy Departments with respect to our foreign trade.

The Board, in its capacity as representative of the Secretaries of War and Navy, has from time to time been assigned specific duties and functions by statute. Illustrative are the functions assigned to the Board under the Strategic and Critical Materials Stock Piling Act (Public Law 520—79th Congress).

(2) Lend-Lease Liaison Office. The Lend-Lease Liaison Office represents the Secretary of the Navy in negotiations between lend-lease representatives of foreign governments and lend-lease representatives of various bureaus and offices of the Navy Department. The activities of this Office are currently concerned chiefly with the settlement and closing out of lend-lease accounts and with the preparation of records.

(3) Material Division. The Chief of the Material Division is charged with the coordination, formulation of policy with respect to, and in certain cases the administration of all the material and procurement activities of the Naval Establishment, including contract termination and property redistribution and disposal, and the performance of such other duties as the Secretary of the Navy may direct. The orders of the Material Division are considered as emanating from the Secretary of the Navy and have full force and effect as such.

The Chief is assisted by the Vice Chief of the Material Division, and by the Deputy Chiefs for Procurement Policy, Production Policy, Field Operations and Material Control Policy, who head respectively the four main branches of the Material Division.

To perform the functions for which the Chief of the Division is responsible, the Material Division is organized and its functions distributed, as follows:

(i) Procurement Policy Branch. This Branch formulates and promulgates policies and general procedures governing the activities of the Naval Establishment with respect to: (a) the procurement of material and facilities, including the negotiation of contracts, (b) the allocation of responsibility for procurement of common items among the various bureaus, (c) performance and payment bonds and insurance, (d) contract terminations, and related matters of industrial readjustment. This Branch further reviews and evaluates compliance with such policies and procedures and issues such orders as may be required to assure compliance.

(ii) Production Policy Branch. This Branch formulates and promulgates policies and general procedures governing the activities of the Naval Establishment with respect to the production of material. This Branch also reviews and evaluates compliance with such policies and procedures and issues such orders as may be required to assure compliance.

(iii) Field Operations Branch. This Branch formulates and promulgates policies and general procedures governing the material inspection activities of the Navy. This Branch further reviews and evaluates compliance with such policies and procedures and issues such orders as may be required to assure compliance. This Branch also exercises direct control of Supervising Inspectors of Naval Material and Inspectors of Naval Material and coordinate the activities of the foregoing and Bureau of Aeronautics General Representatives, Representatives, and Resident Representatives; Naval Inspectors of Ordnance; Supervisors and Assistant Supervisors of Shipbuilding, Inspectors and Assistant Inspectors of Machinery; Officers in Charge of Constrution, Public Works and Public Utilities; and Marine Corps Inspectors. The foregoing Representatives, Inspectors and Supervisors are located in the field and at the plants of Navy contractors and constitute the Navy Department's immediate point of contact with such contractors and their vendors.

(iv) Material Control Policy Branch. (a) This Branch formulates and promulgates the policies and general procedures governing the activities of the Naval Establishment with respect to facilities, inventory control, and property redistribution and disposal. This Branch also reviews and evaluates compliance with such policies and procedures and issues such orders as may be required to assure compliance.

(b) The Navy Material Redistribution and Disposal Administration (NMR&DA) has been designated as the central agency within the Navy Department to carry out, under the supervision of the Material Division, those functions regarding the redistribution, disposal and custody of surplus property which are assigned to the Navy Department as an owning agency by the Surplus Property Act of 1944 (58 Stat. 765; 50 U. S. C. 1611) and regulations issued pursuant thereto. N M R & D A's primary responsibility includes clearance of war contractors' plants, including the disposition of scrap, salvage, waste material and small lots of contractor inventory and the declaration of usable surplus property to the appropriate disposal agency. The N M R & D A is located at the New York Naval Shipyard, Brooklyn 1, New York. To assist it in its functions, it has field representatives known as Material Redistribution and Disposal Offices (M. The disposition of surplus property by the Navy as an owning agency is also participated in by other authorized selling activities of the Naval Establishment which are listed in § 27.5 (a) (7) below, dealing with the procedures for disposition of Navy Surplus Property.

The following two Boards, Navy Price Adjustment Board and Navy Department Board of Contract Appeals, are part of the Material Division for administrative purposes but exercise authority delegated to them by the Secretary of the Navy directly.

(v) Navy Price Adjustment Board. This Board renegotiates war contracts and subcontracts of contractors if and only when assigned to it by the War Contracts Price Adjustment Board under the Renegotiation Act (56 Stat. 245, 982; 58 Stat. 78; 50 U. S. C. 1191 et seq.). Organization functions and procedures of the Navy Price Adjustment Board are more fully described in the Renegotiation Regulations of the War Contracts Price Adjustment Board which have been published from time to time in the Federal Register (10 F. R. 963, 2026, 3236, 6107, 8661, 11515, 13640, 15037; 11 F. R. 3090, 4732, 8032). The Navy Board acts under authority which the War Contracts Price Adjustment Board has delegated to the Secretary of the Navy (10 F. R. 11515). (d) to advise the Secretary of the Navy as to any unremedied defaults under any such renegotiation agreements or orders and to recommend appropriate action with respect thereto.

In order that the Chief of the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts may expeditiously discharge such responsibility, the Chairman of the Board shall cause to be transmitted to the Chief of the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts a conformed copy of each renegotiation agreement and each order determining excessive profits made or entered pursuant hereto promptly after the same shall have become effective.

The powers, functions, duties, authority and discretion herein vested in the Chief of the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts may be delegated by him in whole or in part to such divisions and officers in the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts as he shall deem necessary or desirable.

The Chairman shall have custody of the records of cases under the Renegotiation Act of 1942, and shall have authority with respect to such cases to take any action necessary in view of their having been disposed of by agreement or order, including, without limitation, the power to reopen such cases in the event of a showing of fraud or malfeasance or a willful misrepresentation of a material fact. The directives of the Acting Secretary of the Navy of February 8, 1945 (OGC/CMMcD:ms) (NPD 14241–14246) and of the Chairman of the Price Adjustment Board of February 8, 1945 (OGC/WLH:ss) (NPD 14251–14252) are hereby superseded and cancelled. All actions heretofore taken by the Price Adjustment Board of the Navy Department and any of its divisions and by the Services and Sales Renegotiation Section in accordance with previously applicable directives and delegations are hereby ratified, approved, and confirmed.

W. JOHN KENNY,
Acting Secretary of the Navy.

(vi) Navy Department Board of Contract Appeals. This Board, depending upon the applicable provisions of contracts or requirements of law, acts either collectively as a Board or through the Chairman individually as the agent and authorized representative for the Secretary to hear and determine appeals by Navy contractors from decisions by contracting officers on disputed questions and appeals by Navy contractors on decisions of contracting officers on termination claims pursuant to Section 13 of the Contract Settlement Act of 1944, (58 Stat. 649; 41 U. S. C. 101) or in an advisory capacity to make findings and recommendations to the Secretary of the Navy. The Hydrographic Office likewise collects, codifies, coordinates and implements basic oceanographic studies required by the various Bureaus of the Navy Department, and prepares various charts, manuals, and other publications of oceanographic nature.

In carrying out its duties, the Hydrographic Office maintains technical control of survey vessels operated by the U. S. Navy; cooperates with all states Members of the International Hydrographic Bureau and the Hydrographic Offices of other nations.

(f) The Naval Observatory is an activity established by Congress to operate under the Secretary of the Navy. By Executive Order dated April 8, 1942 the Naval Observatory was placed under the jurisdiction of the Chief of Naval Operations. As the only National Observatory the U. S. Naval Observatory collaborates where possible throughout the world with other observatories and astronomers in the exchange of data, the participation in long term worldwide astronomical programs, the attending of national and international astronomical conferences, and the maintainence of programs undertaken.

The Naval Observatory publishes and distributes the American Ephemeris and Nautical Almanac, the American Nautical Almanac, the American Air Almanacs, and other astronomical publications for maritime, commercial and scientific use. § 26.15 The Shore Establishment. The Shore Establishment supplies and maintains the Operating Forces under the direct supervision of the Navy Department.

(a) The Secretary, through his Civilian Executive Assistants, provides general administrative supervision and establishes the operating policies and procedures governing civilian personnel, matters of procurement, production, and industrial management.

(b) The Navy Technical Assistants exercise technical supervision and, in specified cases, direct management control (within the limits of the responsibilities of their respective Bureaus), and in all cases control the expenditure of funds for the upkeep and operating of activities of the Shore Establishment; Bureau management here reflects and projects administrative and business methods, procedures and directions as channeled from the Civilian Executive Assistants charged with these responsibilities.

(c) The Naval Command Assistant (The Chief of Naval Operations) exercises military control and command, and oversees the coordination of all logistic services to the Operating Forces, through the District Commandants and Commanders of the Naval Bases, Naval Air Bases, and Sea Frontiers.

(d) Geographically, the Shore Establishment is distributed throughout the United States. Functionally, the more than 6300 (wartime) field activities within the continental limits may be grouped into nine general, broadly classified types of installations and activities as follows:

(1) Shipbuilding and Repair activities which include the eleven naval shipyards as well as numerous small activities for the construction and repair of ships. These activities contribute to the basic function by manufacturing many special materials used in the construction and repair of ships, by supervising work performed in private yards, by conducting research and experimental work for the improvement of the air, surface and submarine fleet, and by engaging in many other types of allied service.

(2) Naval Air activities are the air bases, air training commands, air stations, and air facilities. These activities are engaged in a variety of functions including aeronautical research and development, specialized training of flight and ground personnel; and service-maintenance and supply of naval aircraft.

(3) Naval Ordnance activities include numerous depots for the maintenance, storage and issue of all items of ordnance material, for the actual manufacture of certain items of specialized ordnance such as guns, mines and torpedoes. Further, they include, for the development and test of ordnance materials, such facilities as proving grounds, ordnance laboratories, and ordnance test stations.

(4) Procurement and Supply activities cover the whole field of purchasing, expediting, storing, maintaining inventories, disbursing, inspection, and auditing. Major supply depots are engaged in the storage and issue of supplies, clothing provisions, fuel, and other classes of allied and general material. These activities also include field accounting and disbursing offices which pay for, control and check on all contracts consummated by the bureaus and other specified authority. In addition, these activities handle enlisted, officer and civilian pay and allowances as well as reimbursement, dependency claims, and the like.

(5) Naval Personnel activities are devoted largely to recruiting, training, welfare, enforcing of discipline and the distribution of Naval personnel. During the war there were some 1,600 of such activities, including in excess of 800 schools and various types of training units, of which the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis is one.

(6) Medical Department activities include hospitals, convalescent centers, and numerous clinics, dispensaries, laboratories, and medical supply depots which go to make up more than 150 medical department centers.

(7) Marine Corps activities within the United States are divided among two principal types: (i) those having as their primary objective the training, supplying and maintaining of Marine Corps personnel and equipment, and (ii) those activities located in naval shore activities performing largely guard duty, security, and policing functions.

(8) Coast Guard activities, which operate as an integral part of the Navy during time of war, have now reverted to the control of the Treasury Department, with the exception of certain search rescue (air-sea) and similar functions which remain under the operational control of the Navy in areas west of Pearl Harbor. There are approximately 1,600 Coast Guard activities administered directly by the Coast Guard through its own district officers and under its own command, much as in the case of the Marine Corps. The function of these field units are suply, personnel (including the Coast Guard Academy), maintaining operating aids to navigation, light houses, life boat stations, port security, and similar duties.

(9) Special Service activities embrace radio stations, communications offices, fleet post offices, fleet liaison offices, commissioning details, intelligence, public information, and sundry other activities of a special or general nature.

(c) For military purposes and coordination of administrative control, certain activities of the Naval Shore Establishment, which have been described above in terms of their functions, are grouped into Naval Bases at various ports and Naval Air Bases within the respective Naval District. The respective District Commandants have direct military command, and administrative control for coordinating purposes, of these activities through the respective Commanders thereof. Other air activities are grouped under the Chief of Naval Operations, and Marine Corps Air Bases Command which is directly under the Commandant, Marine Corps. Management and technical control of the various activities are exercised by the cognizant bureau or office of the Navy Department.

§ 26.16 Naval Bases and Naval Air Bases. (a) Naval Bases, to which reference has been made in paragraph above, were created by General Order 223 of the Navy Department, dated 14 September 1945. Most naval bases may include a naval shipyard, with all of its related activities and such other adjacent activities as contributes to the support, service and maintenance of fleet components, such as a naval supply depot, a naval hospital, a naval ammunition depot, a naval receiving station, a marine barracks, etc.

Naval Air Bases were created by General Order 210 of the Navy Department, dated 10 August 1944, and, in general, comprise all Naval and Marine Corps aviation shore activities in each Naval District which furnish facilities for the operation of aircraft therein (other than those assigned to the Naval Air Training Command) as an activity under the Commandant thereof. In addition, this general order provides for naval air training bases and Marine Corps air bases to include such training and Marine Corps aviation activities as the Chief of Naval Operations shall assign thereto.

(1) Territorial exceptions are as follows: Certain activities within the geographical limits of each naval district are not, for various reasons, under the command of the Commandant, or may be under his command only in a limited sense. The Fourteenth Naval District has a special status inasmuch as it is directly under the Commander in Chief, Pacific Fleet, although in purely administrative matters the Commandant bears the same relationship to the Navy Department as do other Commandants. Numerous other examples might be cited, as a Naval Air Station where the Commander in Chief of a United States Fleet, may be vested with authority to exercise control of the operations of fleet aircraft units from Naval Air Stations, to allocate among units of the Fleet the services in facilities, equipment, and spaces made available to the Fleet, and to establish priorities with respect to overhaul of aircraft of the Fleet. The Severn River and the Potomac River Naval Commands are outside the geographical limits of the Naval Districts and are directly under the Navy Department.

(2) The geographical locations of these Commands are as follows:

(i) Potomac River Naval Command. The Potomac River up to the Great Falls, the District of Columbia, and the Counties of Prince Georges, St. Marys, Montgomery, and Charles in Maryland; Arlington, Fairfax, Stafford, King George, Prince William, and Westmoreland counties in Virginia,, and the City of Alexandria, Virgina, less the Marine Barracks, Quantico, Va., and the Marine Barracks, Washington, D. C. (including Marine Barracks, Naval Gun Factory, Washington, D. C.).

(ii) Severn River Naval Command. Anne Arundel County, Md. (Headquarters United States Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md.).

(b) Organization. Each Naval District is commanded by a Commandant, who is the direct representative of the Navy Department, including its several bureaus and offices. In the event of absence of the Commandant from the limits of his command or while he is on leave or disabled for a period greater than 24 hours, the command of the district devolves upon the next senior line officer on duty within the district. The district is organized into groups or units according to the character of its activities and situation, with each group or unit under the command of an officer of that group or unit. The Commandant by Navy Regulations shall not personally supervise the details of work or administration of the several groups or units but will transact necessary business with the Commanding Officer of the group or unit. He is, however, charged with coordinating the groups or units in his district to develop complete intercommunication and cooperation among them. The organization of a Naval District establishes between the Commandant and the Commanding Officers of the groups and units included in the district relations similar to that which exists between the Commander in Chief of a Fleet and the various units of his command. District craft, including vessels, aircraft, and small boats, directly under the Commandant, are administered by him. Craft assigned to specific units are under the immediate jurisdiction of the commanding officers of the specific bases or stations to which they are assigned. Commanding Officers of the various units of the district may communicate directly with one another and with the Navy Department or its offices and bureaus without forwarding such correspondence through the Commandant of the district, except on military matters, matters under the Commandant's coordination, and matters affecting the operations of another unit. The Commandant is required to be kept informed by the Commanding Officers of subordinate units, however, as to matters of administration and general interest. The administrative units referred to above comprise all facilities which are so grouped in one place as to come logically under the immediate military control of one commanding officer. These units include such activities as ship yards, torpedo stations, training stations, submarine bases, and schools, which are, where appropriate, included in Naval Bases, Naval Air Bases, etc., described in § 26.16.

(c) Duties and Responsibilities—(1) Military Command. The Commandants of the several Naval Districts and the Chief of Naval Air Training are the officers through whom the Chief of Naval Operations carries out his essential command responsibilities over the shore establishment; through the district flows the authority for the overall responsibility for exercising administrative coordination control.

(2) Coordination. As noted in the immediately preceding paragraphs, the Commandant provides the necessary coordination control among the numerous shore establishments in his Naval District.

(3) Contact with public. Navy Regulations provide that in intercourse with Government, State, and foreign officials or with local authorities in matters of business or ceremony of interest to the Navy, the District Commandant shall himself, or through his subordinates represent the Navy Department. In exercising this important function, the Commandant provides the necessary contact with the public throughout the United States, its territories and possessions, to keep the Nation apprised of the tasks and objectives which the Navy is pursuing in its readiness to defend and promote the national interest and security. The District Commandants provide the media for interpreting to the people the acts and policies, command responsibilities, and administrative effectiveness of their Naval Establishment.

(4) Coastal defense. With respect to coastal defense, the mission of the Commandant of the Naval District, under the Sea Frontier Commander, is to control sea communications within the district, repulsing hostile attacks on the seacoast, or upon naval vessels or merchant shipping in or off harbors or in the coastwise sea lanes. Commandants of Naval Districts cooperate with the Army officers commanding corps areas in the preparation of plans in time of peace, determining the more probable situations likely to arise and entering into advance agreements upon plans of joint action for each such situation.

§ 26.18 The Operating Forces. (a) Overall command of the Naval Operating Forces devolves on the Chief of Naval Operations subject to the supreme authority vested in the President of the United States by the Constitution and in the Secretary of the Navy by law. In the discharge of his duties as the principal Naval Executive, the Chief of Naval Operations is responsible for executing the naval directives of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

The Operating Forces of the Navy comprise the combatant forces of vessels, aircraft, and troops operating under naval authority, together with such additional vessels, district craft, aircraft, or other units as may be assigned thereto for training, utilitarian, or other purposes.

(4) 4th FLEET (Reserve).
(5) 16th FLEET (Inactive).
(6) 19th FLEET (Inactive).
(7) Naval Air Transport Service.

S. occupation forces in the Western Pacific. Naval area commands and naval military governments, in the Pacific, are also under the Commander-in-Chief, U. S. Pacific Fleet, with the exception of Guam and Samoa. The headquarters of Commander-in-Chief, U. S. Pacific Fleet are at Pearl Harbor, T. H.

(e) The U. S. Naval Forces in European waters including the Mediterramean are organized as the 12th Fleet. This fleet is composed of vessels assigned for temporary duty on a rotational basis from the 2nd Fleet as directed by the Chief of Naval Operations. The principal task is to support the U. S. forces of occupation in Europe.

(f) The 16th and 19th Fleets are comprised of vessels assigned by the Chief of Naval Operations to be inactivated and preserved for future emergency. The vessels of the 16th Fleet are berthed at naval bases, shipyards and berthing areas along the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts, those at each location comprising a Group. The 19th Fleet is distributed among berthing areas of the West Coast. The 16th Fleet is directly under the Commander Eastern Sea Frontier, with headquarters at 90 Church St., New York, N. Y., and the 19th Fleet directly under Commander Western Sea Frontier, with headquarters in Federal Building, San Francisco, Calif.

(g) The Naval Transportation Service, under the direction of the Chief of Naval Operations, operates passenger transports, oil tankers and cargo vessels to provide passenger, fuel and freight service to the fleets and to Naval bases not served by or inadequately served by commercial service. At principal U. S. ports and certain overseas bases, transportation matters are handled by U. S. Navy Port Directors under the technical control of the Chief, Naval Transportation Service, headquarters of the Naval Transportation Service.

(h) The Potomac River Naval Command administers directly under the Chief of Naval Operations the naval activities in and near Washington, D. C. Headquarters are located at Naval Gun Factory, Washington 25, D. C.

(i) The Severn River Naval Command administers directly under the Chief of Naval Operations the U. S. Naval Academy, its supporting and other activities in or near Annapolis, Md. Headquarters are in Annapolis, Maryland.

(j) The Sea Frontiers are delimited as indicated on Hydrographic Office chart Misc. 10194 which is revised concurrently with approved changes. The Commanders of Sea Frontiers exercise coordination and control of the logistic activities of the component Naval Districts as may be directed by the Chief of Naval Operations and operate, for inshore patrol, coastal escort and search or rescue operations off the coasts, such vessels as are assigned by the Chief of Naval Operations or the Fleet Commanders. The Commanders Eastern and Western Sea Frontiers are directly under the Chief of Naval Operations but deal directly with the Commanders-in-Chief of the Fleets on matters concerned with logistic support of the Fleets. The Sea Frontier Commanders make joint plans with Army area commands concerned for the coordinated defense of their respective areas.

The Alaskan and Hawaiian Sea Frontiers, being wholly within his area, are directly under the Commander-in-Chief, U. S. Pacific Fleet. Likewise in the Atlantic the Carribbean Sea Frontier is directly under the Commander-in-Chief, U. S. Atlantic Fleet. The Gulf Sea Frontier extending from Key West, Florida, to Brownsville, Texas, and including all of the Gulf of Mexico, is, as a peace-time measure, under the overall command of Commander Eastern Sea Frontier.

The Headquarters of Commander Eastern Sea Frontier are located at 90 Church Street, New York, N. Y., and of Commander Western Sea Frontier at Federal Building, San Francisco, Calif.

(k) General administration of naval vessels and fleet activities located at a particular place is exercised by Senior Officer Present Afloat. The identity of this office changes with the composition of the forces present. It can always be ascertained from the local naval shore establishments, or if none are present, from any convenient ship. All matters of civil concern, legal process, and ceremonial or official requests pertaining to any ship or fleet activity present should be referred to the Senior Officer Present Afloat. He is the official point of contact for Operating Forces present with all private and public agencies.

§ 26.19 Rule regarding final opinions and orders. (a) With the exception of opinions of the Board of Contract Appeals on disputes arising under contracts of the Navy Department, which are formal and published, as set forth in § 27.2 (h) (4) below, and with the exception of certain selected decisions and opinions in general courts-martial (omitting actual names of the parties involved) which are periodically published, decisions by the Navy Department under statutes involving a determination of rights are not collected or compiled, are not indexed and are not cited as precedent. Such decisions are usually in the form of a letter addressed to the party concerned and so filed. Such decisions for the most part arise under statutes involving the granting or withholding of benefits depending as requisite or entitling facts exist. The statutes involving the granting or withholding of benefits include the Servicemen's Dependents Allowance Act of 1942 (56 Stat. 381, as amended by 57 Stat. 577; 37 U. S. C. 201 et seq.); the Mustering-Out Payment Act of 1944 (58 Stat. 10; 38 U. S. C. 691 et seq.); the Act of June 4, 1920, as amended (41 Stat. 824, as amended by 45 Stat. 710, 56 Stat. 145, and 58 Stat. 129; 34 U. S. C. 943); the Act of August 27, 1940, as amended (54 Stat. 864, as amended by 56 Stat. 780; 34 U. S. C. 855c–1); and the Armed Forces Leave Act of 1946 (Public Law 704, 79th Congress).

(b) Under a limited number of other statutes, reference in this connection being made to the Renegotiation Act (56 Stat. 245, as amended by 56 Stat. 982, 57 Stat. 348, 57 Stat. 564 and 58 Stat. 78; 50 U. S. C. App. 1191); the Royalty Adjustment Act (56 Stat. 1013; 35 U. S. C. 89 et seq.); the Contract Settlement Act of 1944 (58 Stat. 649; 41 U. S. C. 101); the Act of October 10, 1940 (54 Stat. 1090; 50 U. S. C. App. 711 et seq.); the Act of October 16, 1941 (55 Stat. 742; 50 U. S. C. App. 721 et seq.); the Act of July 3, 1944 (58 Stat. 723; 46 U. S. C. 797); the Act of December 5, 1945 (59 Stat. 596; 34 U. S. C. 600a et seq.); the Act of December 28, 1945 (59 Stat. 662; 31 U. S. C. 223d); the Act of January 2, 1942, as amended (55 Stat. 880, as amended by 57 Stat. 66; 31 U. S. C. 224d); the Legislative Reorganization Act of 1946 (Public Law 601, 79th Congress); and the Act of August 7, 1946 (Public Law 657, 79th Congress), the Navy Department can determine and settle by agreement the matters arising under such statutes. Failing agreement the party concerned ordinarily has recourse to the courts. Orders in such matters are informal and ordinarily confined to a mere statement of the decision on the ultimate question in controversy: e. g., that excess profits in a specified amount have been realized, and are not accompanied by opinions or reasoned explanations, including findings or conclusions on subsidiary issues or matters.

(c) Accordingly, the opinions and orders of the Navy Department determined to be such within the meaning of the Administrative Procedure Act will, as consistent with the general filing system employed by the Navy Department, be available to public inspection on application to the Secretary identifying the opinion or order desired to be inspected with sufficient particularity to enable it to be located. The published opinions of the Board of Contract Appeals and in certain selected general courts-martial will be available for public inspection at the offices of the Board of Contract Appeals and the Judge Advocate General, respectively, Navy Department, Washington 25, D. C., without prior application to the Secretary. Opinions or orders constituting official records to which access will not be granted under § 26.20 will not be available for inspection, as confidential for good cause found.

§ 26.20 Rules regarding public records. The following rule is published to state how matters of official record are made available to persons properly and directly concerned except information held confidential within the meaning of the Administrative Procedure Act.

(a) Persons properly and directly concerned in any matter acted upon by the Navy Department or within its cognizance may apply in writing for access to official records of such matter. Such application should be addressed to the Secretary of the Navy unless otherwise specified herein. If the applicant believes that he is entitled to access under section 3 (c) of the Administrative Procedure Act, he will state the nature of his concern and identify as exactly as may be the records to which he desires access. If the applicant is an agent or attorney acting for another, he will attach to the application evidence of his authority to act for his principal. If such evidence is satisfactory, such agent or attorney will be given access to any record to which his principal would be given access.

(b) Official records, within the meaning of this rule, include applications, registrations, petitions, reports and returns filed with the Navy Department by persons not in the Naval service, certain records relating to Naval personnel, and all documents embodying Navy action directly affecting persons outside the Naval service, such as orders, rules, licenses, and contracts. The great mass of material relating to the internal operation of the Navy Department and the Naval forces is not a matter of official record within the meaning of this rule. Official records in the Navy Department's files are merely incidental to the performance of its major functions and it is not practicable to list all types of such official records. The Secretary will, however, determine when application is made whether or not any document is an official record, and whether or not it should be withheld as confidential, according to the principles herein stated.

(c) Without limiting the discretion vested in the Secretary of the Navy by the other provisions of this rule access will not be granted to:

(1) Material classified "Restricted", "Confidential", "Secret", "Top Secret", or any other security classification which may be established, pursuant to Article 76 of the Navy Regulations.

(2) Material, such as tax returns, which is made confidential by law. (Cf. sec. 55 (f) (1) of the Internal Revenue Code.)

(3) Documents which in the opinion of the Secretary contain information which would be of possible assistance to a foreign power in time of peace or to an enemy in time of war, or containing information which, in his opinion, for reasons of public policy should not be disclosed to persons outside the naval or military establishments.

(4) Documents, the disclosure of which would involve the violation of a statute or the breach of a legal or moral obligation to keep information confidential.

(5) Intra-governmental memoranda, reports, and documents not prepared for publication or not official records. The foregoing are deemed confidential according to the principles herein stated.

(d) The Secretary will also determine whether an applicant is properly and directly conterned with the record to which he seeks access, when it is not specifically covered in this rule.

(e) Officers' and enlisted men's service records are deemed confidential for good cause found within the meaning of this rule except to persons properly and directly concerned, including the serviceman himself, and personal representatives of the serviceman, e. g., executors, conservators, etc., who present proper proof thereof. The serviceman, former serviceman, or personal representative may obtain access to health records by applying to the Chief of the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery, Navy Department, Washington 25, D. C., and to other personnel records to the Chief of Naval Personnel, Navy Department, Washington 25, D. C. Application may be made in person or in writing.

(f) Copies of office records or summaries thereof relating to deaths of naval personnel and information relating thereto will ordinarily be furnished upon application to the Judge Advocate General, Navy Department, Washington 25, D. C., to persons properly and directly concerned.

(g) Access will normally be granted by inspection, at the place where the documents are kept and stored.

(h) If the Secretary determines that one or the other of the principles stated above requires the refusal of a request to make information available, prompt notice of any such refusal will be given to the applicant, together with a simple statement of the grounds for such refusal.

(i) The Secretary has legal custody of all official records of the Navy Department, and no subpoena duces tecum directed to any Navy Department employee or officer other than the Secretary is legally valid or effective to compel such officer or employee to produce any official record of the Navy Department, or other report, paper, or document in its custody. It is hereby declared to be contrary to the public interest to produce in any proceeding or trial any memorandum or document from Navy Department files to which access has not been asked and granted pursuant to this Rule, whether a Public Record or not.

(j) This rule regarding public records has no application to access to records by officers or employees of other agencies or branches of the Government.

(k) This rule regarding public records has no application to any records which by law or policy of the Department are made available to the public generally, to any records which are in the custody of the Archivist of the United States, nor to any records which are disposed of under U. S. Code, Title 44, Secs. 366 and following, as amended.

§§ 27.1 Procedures of the Naval Establishment. Set forth below are the procedures which have been established for handling of the public functions of the Naval Establishment.

§§ 27.2 Procurement of matériel—(a) Statutory authority. Procurement by the Naval Establishment is now based primarily upon the First War Powers Act (55 Stat. 838; 50 U. S. C. 601) except that research and development contracts negotiated by the Chief of Naval Research are based on the Act of August 1, 1946 (Public Law 588, 79th Congress).

Pursuant to the First War Powers Act, the President, in Title 1 of Executive Order 9001 (6 F. R. 6787), conferred authority upon the Navy Department as follows:

(1) The Secretary of the Navy is authorized to enter into contracts and into amendments or modifications of contracts theretofore or thereafter made, and to make advance, progress, and other payments thereon, without regard to the provisions of law relating to the making, amendment, or modification of contracts and to delegate these powers with authority to redelegate them.

(2) The contracts authorized to be made include agreements of all kinds (whether in the form of letters of intent, purchase orders, or otherwise) for all types and kinds of things and services necessary, appropriate or convenient for the prosecution of war, or for the invention, development, or production of, or research concerning any such things, including but not limited to, aircraft, buildings, vessels, arms, armament, equipment, or supplies of any kind, or any portion thereof, including plans, spare parts and equipment therefor, materials, supplies, facilities, utilities, machinery, machine tools, and any other equipment, without any restriction of any kind, either as to type, character, location or form.

(3) The Secretary of the Navy may by agreement modify or amend or settle claims under contracts, may make advance, progress and other payments upon such contracts of any percentum of the contract price, and may enter into agreements with contractors and/or obligors, modifying or releasing accrued obligations of any sort, including accrued liquidated damages or liability under surety or other bonds, whenever, in the judgment of the Secretary of the Navy the prosecution of the war is thereby facilitated. Amendments and modifications of contracts may be with or without consideration and may be utilized to accomplish the same things as any original contract could have accomplished, irrespective of the time or circumstances of the making of or the form of the contract amended or modified, or of the amendming or modifying contract, and irrespective of rights which may have accrued under the contract or the amendments or modifications thereof.

(4) Advertising, competitive bidding and bid, payment, performance, or other bonds or other forms of security, need not be required.

(b) Delegation of purchase responsibility. (1). The Technical Bureaus. (i) In general: on December 13, 1942, the Secretary of the Navy reorganized the procurement procedures of the Naval Establishment by directing that: The chief of each bureau having technical cognizance of the matériel and services to be procured shall determine, in his discretion, the extent to which written contracts embodying the terms of negotiated deals or arrangements for such procurement will be negotiated, prepared and executed in each such bureau and the extent, if any, to which the services of the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts will be availed of for the negotiation, preparation and execution of such contracts. The chief of each bureau is authorized to negotiate, prepare, and execute all contracts to be negotiated in his bureau and is further authorized to delegate such authority to such person or persons as may be selected by him. Pursuant to this directive, the technical bureaus purchase matériel through contracting officers within the bureaus.

(ii) Bureau of Aeronautics. The Bureau of Aeronautics purchases complete aircraft and government furnished component parts for installation therein; complete aircraft engines; catapults and catapult spare parts; arresting gear and arresting gear spare parts; aeronautical equipment and instruments; and other technical items which require close technical liaison between aeronautical engineers and the contractor manufacturers. The Bureau of Aeronautics also purchases for the Deputy Chief of Naval Operations for Air, aerological, photographic and training equipment.

The Aviation Supply Office, Philadelphia, Pa., under the joint direction of the Bureau of Aeronautics and the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts, procures, stores, and distributes aeronautical material including spare parts (except those parts purchased under the original airframes contract).

(iii) Bureau of Medicine and Surgery. All purchasing for the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery is handled by the Joint Army-Navy Medical Procurement Office, New York.

(iv) Bureau of Naval Personnel. The Bureau of Naval Personnel contracts for the use of quarters and facilities for training purposes and for welfare and recreational requirements. The Bureau of Supplies and Accounts purchases the matériel, equipment, and supplies required by the Bureau of Naval Personnel; non-professional books for use in libraries are purchased by the Navy Purchasing Office, New York.

(v) Bureau of Ordnance. The Bureau of Ordnance contracts for ordnance equipment, including guns, gun mounts, rocket launchers, fire control devices (for vessels and aircraft) and aircraft armament (less certain items of non-expendable equipment built into the planes); ammunition, torpedoes, mines, depth charges, projectiles, rockets, bombs and armor; and for services and facilities used in connection with research, development, and production of ordnance matériel and equipment.

(vi) Bureau of Ships. The Bureau of Ships contracts for the construction of ships of all types and for the repair, alteration and conversion of naval vessels; for facilities under its cognizance; for technical matérial and equipment required for the construction and outfitting of naval vessels; and for technical services and research and development work. Although the Bureau of Ships usually furnishes the main propulsion machinery and all technical equipment and matériel required for the construction of naval vessels, the "Lead Yard" purchases most of the other matériel and equipment required by all yards building vessels of the same class. When the "Lead Sard" is a navy yard, such purchases are made by a field purchasing activity of the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts. With Bureau of Supplies and Accounts the Bureau maintains control centers for the procurement and inventory control of repair parts for matériel under the cognizance of the Bureau of Ships.

(vii) Bureau of Yards and Docks. The Bureau of Yards and Docks contracts for all matériel and services required for the construction of public works and public utilities at naval shore activities; for the purchase and lease of real property, and for all matériel and equipment under its cognizance when technical plans and nonstandard specifications are involved. Certain designated Public Works Officers are authorized to enter into informal construction, repair, engineering or maintenance contracts not in excess of $5,000 and when payment is to be made in one lump sum. All acquisitions of private and public real property by lease or otherwise, whether directly by the Navy or through the Contractor who is to be reimbursed directly or indirectly with naval funds, are processed through the Bureau of Yards and Docks to the Naval Affairs Committees of the Congress.

(2) The Bureau of Supplies and Accounts and its field activities. The Bureau of Supplies and Accounts is responsible, on its own initiative and based upon its own estimates, for the purchase of clothing, provisions, ship's stores stock, fuel and lubricants, and general stores. Upon the initiation of requisitions by the technical bureaus or field activities, the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts and its field purchasing activities also procure services and items for which it has been assigned procurement responsibility.

(3) Aviation Supply Office. The Aviation Supply Office, an agency of the Bureau of Aeronautics and the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts, procures, stores and distributes all technical aviation matériel not under the direct control of the Bureau of Aeronautics. All aeronautical spare parts, except those parts purchased under the original airframe contract, are purchased by the Aviation Supply Office.

(4) Headquarters, Marine Corps. Headquarters, Marine Corps, contracts for matériel required by the Marine Corps, not procured through Bureaus of the Navy.

(5) Delegation of authority within a purchasing activity. Officers in Charge of Navy Purchasing Offices, Supply Offices in Command of Naval Supply Depots, and Supply Officers of ships or shore activities are authorized to sign contractual documents. These officers designate in writing the junior officers who are authorized to sign purchase documents. These authorizations are available for information purposes at all times.

(6) Field purchasing activities under the cognizance of the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts. All naval activities having a regularly organized Supply Department are authorized to purchase matériel and services, subject to the limitations established by the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts or the Commandant of the Naval District. These purchasing activities are under the cognizance of the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts which promulagtes purchasing policies and instructions in the field; reviews requisitions and other purchasing documents designated for field action to insure conformance with procurement policies; and acts as liaison between field purchasing activities, the other bureaus and offices of the Navy Department and other Government departments. The maximum dollar limit authorized for purchases by these activities will vary from $25 to an unlimited amount dependent on the size of the activity and proximity to a central procurement office. The latter activities are strategically located throughout the country and are organized to effect any type of procurement assigned them. The major central procurement activities are located in New York, Norfolk, Charleston, Miami, Jacksonville, New Orleans, Chicago, Los Angeles, San Francisco, and Seattle. In addition, the Naval Supply Depot, Mechanicsburg, Pa., procures spare parts for ship hulls and machinery and for all internal combustion engines. Additionally, specific delegations of authority for particular procurements are, from time to time, made by the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts and the technical bureaus. Bureau of Aeronautics representatives, inspectors of naval material, inspectors of machinery, naval inspectors of ordnance, and supervisors of shipbuilding located outside the immediate vicinity of a navy yard or a naval supply depot are authorized to purchase sundry matériel and services costing less than $500. Inspectors are subject to the same policies and limitations in the procurement of supplies and services as other field purchasing officers.

(d) Methods of purchase.—(1) Direct negotiation with a selected supplier. Direct negotiation with a selected supplier is used as a method of purchase when speed is essential, and the facilities of a given manufacturer are required, or competitive tenders fail or would fail to produce satisfactory prices.

(2) Solicitation of competitive quotations. Except when it is necessary to deal directly with a selected supplier, quotations are secured from a reasonable number of qualified suppliers.

(3) Procedures for soliciting quotations.—(i) Solicitation by telephone, telegraph, and mail. At the discretion of the purchasing officer, competitive quotations are solicited either by telephone, telegraph, or mail. When quotations are solicited by telephone, written confirmation normally is secured on all purchases over $500. When the procurement is complicated or suppliers are located at a great distance, quotations are generally solicited by means of letters or written tenders.

(ii) Informal solicitation. With respect to items of relatively small value quotations are secured informally by "over the counter" solicitation or personal shopping.

(4) Opening and acceptance of bids.—(i) Public opening not required. When written quotations are obtained, it is not necessary to open them in public. As a matter of policy, however, public openings are held when wide competition is secured; when competition is restricted or proprietary purchases are made, public openings are not held.

(ii) Alternative bids accepted. Acceptable alternative bids are encouraged when they may provide acceptable quality at a lower price than that obtainable under existing specifications. Purchasing officers are not authorized to buy matériel pursuant to alternative specifications, however, without obtaining the approval of the requisitioning activity.

(iii) Modification of bids. Although bidders may withdraw their tenders or alter them at any time before the scheduled hour of opening without the consent of the purchasing officer, subsequent to the opening of bids, suppliers are not permitted to alter their tenders, except when an obvious error has been made or when the proposed changes are in the interest of the Government. If a supplier insists upon improperly modifying or withdrawing his bid after the date of opening, his name may be placed upon the list of Defaulting Contractors. Purchasing officers recommend such action to the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts when a supplier's conduct warrants placing him on their list.

(iv) Bids to be rejected and direct negotiations employed when the interest of the Government can be served. When unsatisfactory terms are offered as a result of inadequate competition, possible collusion among suppliers, or for any other reason, all bids may be disregarded and direct negotiation employed to fill requirements. If it is in the interests of the Government to contract with suppliers who have submitted late or improper bids, all tenders may be rejected and direct negotiations conducted with the selected suppliers. Negotiations are not conducted with suppliers who have attempted to secure an unfair advantage by submitting their quotations after the scheduled hour of opening.

(5) Conditions under which unpriced purchases are authorized. When the estimated cost of an item or a group of similar items is $5,000 or less, or, in the case of field purchasing activities, other than Aviation Supply Office, Navy purchasing offices, Navy Yards and naval supply depots, $500 or less, and it is impractical to obtain prices before purchasing, unpriced orders may be employed, providing the desired items can be acquired from only one supplier or are sold on the basis of established price lists, and providing only one delivery is made and only one invoice is submitted.

(e) Acceptable list of approved material. The Bureau of Supplies and Accounts and the Bureau of Ships maintain lists of items which have been subjected to performance test to determine their suitability for Naval use. Products which must be subjected to test, and the manufacturers whose products have passed these tests are listed in the Acceptable List of Approved Materials of each Bureau. Prospective suppliers whose products meet other requirements of the specifications but have not been tested are encouraged to submit samples for test. Information as to the materials on the lists and as to the requirements for submitting material for test may be obtained by writing the Purchase Division, Bureau of Ships, Navy Department, Washington 25, D. C. As a general rule contracts are not awarded for items on the Acceptable List to suppliers offering materials which have not been tested or have failed to perform satisfactorily under test.

(f) Mailing list maintained by the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts and field activities. The Bureau of Supplies and Accounts and the principal field activities maintain mailing lists of potential suppliers. The persons on the lists are forwarded requests for tenders with respect to matériel which they manufacture or sell. Any manufacturer or regular dealer desiring to be included on the mailing list of the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts or such field activities should address a request to the Purchase Division, Bureau of Supplies and Accounts, Navy Department, Washington 25, D. C., or the Officer-in-Charge of the field activity.

(g) Standard specifications. The Purchase Division of the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts maintains copies of all Navy Standard Specifications, Joint Army-Navy Specifications and Federal Specifications. Copies may be obtained by addressing a request to the Purchase Division, Bureau of Supplies and Accounts, Navy Department, Washington 25, D. C.

(h) Rules of the Board of Contract Appeals. (1) Each member of the Board, Counsel for the Board and the Secretary thereof is authorized to communicate directly with any person whomsoever in regard to any matter which relates to the business of the Board.

(2) Notices of appeal and other papers to be submitted to the Board should, wherever practicable, be clearly typewritten upon paper of standard letter size (8½ x 11 inches), upon one side only, without covers.

(3) An original and three copies of the notice of appeal and other data should be filed by the Appellant.

(4) The rules relating to the proceedings before the Board, all final opinions and orders in the adjudication of cases shall be available to public inspection at the offices of the Board in the Navy Department, Washington, D. C. Requests for information in connection with proceedings before the Board should be addressed to The Board of Contract Appeals, Navy Department, Washington, D. C.

(5) The Secretary's letter of September 16, 1942 (N. P. D., paras. 11, 601–08) provides that in disposing of disputes concerning questions of fact, contracting officers must adhere to the following procedure:

(a) Whenever any such dispute arises, the contracting officer shall request the contractor to furnish a full statement of the pertinent facts and the reasons in support of the contractor's contention, with reference to the contract provisions relied upon in support of such contention.

(b) The contracting officer shall in each instance decide the dispute and furnish directly to the contractor a statement in writing of his "decision," together with "findings of fact." The decision of the contracting officer must not, however, be in conflict with any provision of the contract. Such "decision" and "findings of fact" shall be accompanied by a copy of the rules of the Board of Contract Appeals.

(c) A contracting officer in the field may, before reaching a decision, submit disputes and questions thereon to the Chief of the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts for advice and recommendation. It is, however, the responsibility of the contracting officer to exercise his own judgment in making his own findings of fact and in reaching his decision.

(6) An appeal from the decision of a contracting officer must be in writing and filed with the officer from whose decision the appeal is taken within the time specified therefor in the contract or allowed by applicable provision of law.

(7) The notice of appeal must indicate clearly that such an appeal is intended and must also indicate the decision from which the appeal is taken with sufficient clarity to allow it to be identified. The notice of appeal should also show the date on which the decision was made, the bureau, the contracting officer, the contract number, and the relief sought. Additional information, including arguments in support of the appeal, may be incorporated in the notice or submitted within thirty days of the filing of such notice unless the Board expressly permits otherwise. A suggested form of notice of appeal is attached hereto, but the notice of appeal may be in the form of a letter or in any other form which clearly presents the necessary information. The notice of appeal must be signed by the contractor making the appeal, personally, or by an officer of a corporation, member of a firm, or an attorney.

(8) When a notice of appeal in any form has been received by the contracting officer he will endorse thereon the date of its receipt and will promptly notify the Board that such an appeal has been filed. Thereafter within a reasonable time he will compile and transmit to the Board two copies of the documents relative to the appeal, which shall include the following:

(i) The notice of appeal and the supporting data specified in § 27.2 (h) (7).

(ii) The findings of fact and the decision from which the appeal is taken.

(iii) The contract and pertinent specifications, amendments, and plans.

(iv) Correspondence and other data relevant to the issue.

(v) A memorandum of counsel for the contracting bureau giving his opinion as to the propriety of the decision from which the appeal is taken. Such memorandum should include a statement with respect to compliance with the applicable contract provisions and directives; the power of the Secretary of the Navy to grant the relief sought; counsel's opinion upon all matters of law involved in the dispute and such comment as counsel for the bureau considers that the Board should have concerning the matter in dispute generally.

(vi) Such additional information as the contracting officer of counsel for the bureau may consider that the Board should have before reaching a decision.

(9) The contractor and the contracting officer may, by a stipulation signed by both, or by their authorized representatives, set forth any agreed facts or matters in dispute, identifying, as exhibits, the contract and other documents necessary to a consideration of the dispute, and documentary evidence on which either of them relies. In the absence of such a stipulation, the contracting officer shall give to the contractor a copy of the material specified in § 27.2 (h) (8) (iv) to (vi), or notice of its proposed inclusion in the documents relative to the appeal, and an opportunity to examine it; and after the receipt of such a copy or notice, the contractor shall have twenty days, or such longer time as the Board may allow, in which to submit additional material and arguments. The contracting officer shall promptly transmit to the Board two of all such additional material, together with any statement or other data relative thereto. No other documents or written matter will be received except by permission of the Board.

(10) Notices of appeal and supporting data which are sent to a contracting officer pursuant to any provisions of these rules shall be deemed to have been sent to or filed with the Secretary of the Navy for the purpose of determining the contractor's compliance with the contract provisions relating to appeals to the Secretary of the Navy.

(11) When the Board has received the completed record in proper form, the Secretary of the Board will notify the contractor, who will have fifteen days from the date of the notice in which to indicate whether he wishes to appear or be represented at a hearing before the Board and any preference he may have for the date of such a hearing. If the contractor states that he wishes to appear or be represented at a hearing, a date for such a hearing will be assigned, of which at least fifteen days' notice shall be given by the Secretary of the Board to the contractor and the contracting officer. If the contractor states that he does not wish to appear or be represented at a hearing, or if he does not reply within fifteen days from the date of the notice first mentioned in this rule, the case will be considered and decided by the Board thereafter at its convenience. The contracting officer, or any person representing him may appear at any hearing held pursuant to a request by the contractor, and shall appear at any hearing or meeting of the Board at its request, but shall not otherwise have a right to appear except by permission of the Board.

(12) The unexcused absence of a party or his counsel at the time and place set for a hearing will not be the occasion for delay, but the hearing will proceed and the case will be regarded as submitted on the part of the absent party or parties.

(13) The parties may file briefs in lieu of personal appearances or in connection therewith. All briefs must be filed at least fifteen days prior to the hearing unless otherwise ordered by the Board.

(14) Hearings will be held at the office of the Board in Washington, D. C., unless otherwise ordered by the Board. Hearings will not ordinarily be held elsewhere, but the Board will consider any such request made by a contractor and received at the office of the Board before notice of a hearing is sent; but the Board may without such a request order a hearing to be held at another place.

(15) A quorum of the Board shall be a majority of the members of the entire Board, unless the Board shall act in divisions, in which case a quorum shall be a majority of a division. The Board may in any case, with the consent of the contractor, designate one of its members or any other qualified person as an examiner to receive evidence and arguments presented by or on behalf of the contractor, or contracting officer, or both; but in such case the Board shall act on the appeal only after the examiner's report and a stenographic transcript of the proceedings before the examiner have been considered by a quorum of the Board, or of any authorized division thereof.

(16) Hearings before the Board, a division, or an examiner, will be informal, with no fixed form of procedure, the manner in which facts are ascertained and conclusions reached by the Board being, except as otherwise prescribed by these rules, a matter for its discretion. Ordinarily the contractor and contracting officer or their representatives may offer at a hearing such matter by way of evidence or argument as they see fit; but the extent of such evidence or argument, and the manner of its presentation, may be limited or otherwise controlled by the Board, the division, or the examiner, as the case may be.

(17) The Board may but shall not be required to have all or any part of the proceedings before it taken down stenographically, and to the extent that any proceeding before the Board is taken down stenographically the contractor shall be entitled to a transcript thereof upon request.

(18) No oaths shall be required of persons who present matter orally or in writing to the Board, but the Board, any division, thereof, or an examiner may, if it seems expedient, warn persons who make statements in writing or as part of a hearing that such statements may be subject to the provisions of section 35 (A) of the Criminal Code (18 U. S. C. 80), section 19 of the Contract Settlement Act of 1944 (41 U. S. C. 119), and any other provisions of law imposing penalties for knowingly making false representations in connection with claims against the United States or within the jurisdiction of any department or agency thereof.

(19) An appellant may be represented by any duly authorized person.

(20) No decision of the Board, or of a division thereof, shall be conclusive or binding unless concurred in by a majority of the members of the Board, or of such division.

(21) When a decision has been reached by the Board, by a division thereof, by the Senior Member, or by the Secretary of the Navy, as the case may be, the Senior Member or the Secretary of the Board will advise the Chief of the Bureau concerned of such decision and of any action to be taken in regard to it. The Chief of the Bureau concerned will notify the parties of the dicision and of the action taken with respect thereto.

(22) Whenever these rules or any order of the Board prescribe a time within which any act must be performed, Sundays and legal holidays in the District of Columbia count the same as other days, except that when the time prescribed for the performance of an act expires on a Sunday or legal holiday in the District of Columbia, such time shall extend to and include the next succeeding day that is not a Sunday or such legal holiday: Provided, that when the time for performing any act is prescribed by statute nothing in these rules shall be deemed to be a limitation or extension of the statutory time period.

(23) The Board may extend or waive any period of time or other limitation upon its action, except as prevented by law, a contract provision, a directive or other regulation.

(24) As used in these rules the term "contracting officer" includes any other authority from whose decision an appeal may be taken to the Secretary of the Navy pursuant to the provisions of a contract a directive or an applicable statute, and also includes any person or persons representing the contracting officer or other authority in the matter covered by the rule.

(i) Navy procurement directives.—The principal directives issued by the Secretary to all purchasing activities within the Naval Establishment for their guidance in the procurement of services and matériel have been published and made available to the public by the Commerce Clearing House, Chicago, Illinois. In addition, copies of specific directives may be obtained by addressing a request to the Secretary of the Navy, Washington, D. C.

§ 27.3 Termination and settlement of war contracts—(a) Statutory authority. The authority of the Navy Department to terminate prime contracts for the convenience or at the option of the Government is based upon its general authority to make contracts and to amend them in the interests of the Government, and upon its authority under Public Law 703, 76th Congress, as extended, (54 Stat. 712; 50 U. S. C. 1171) and the First War Powers Act of 1941 supra. The Contract Settlement Act of 1944 (58 Stat. 649 et seq.; 41 U. S. C. 101 et seq.) confers on the Department express authority to settle termination claims by agreement, by arbitration, and by determination without agreement, in accordance with the provisions of that Act, and authorizes the making and amending of contracts to carry out the provisions of the Act. The Act establishes the Office of Contract Settlement headed by a Director of Contract Settlement who has issued regulations prescribing policies, principles, methods, procedures, and standards governing the exercise, the authority and discretion, and the performance of the duties and functions of all Government Agencies under the Act.

(b) Joint Termination Regulations. The War and Navy Departments have issued a Joint Termination Regulation prescribing procedures to be followed in terminating and settling war contracts.

(c) Delegations of authority. Pursuant to the Joint Termination Regulation, the bureau, office, or field activity which entered into the contract is generally authorized to terminate and settle that contract. The following are exceptions to this rule:

(1) Field activities not maintaining a contract termination section have been directed to transfer all termination claims, for settlement, to the nearest field activity maintaining a termination section.

(2) Certain companies have been assigned by the Director of Contract Settlement to a given bureau or office which is authorized to act for all the services of the War Department, for the bureaus of the Navy Department and (in some other cases) for other contracting agencies with respect to the settlement of the terminated war contracts of the assigned contractor.

(3) For purposes of convenience delegations of authority have been made by various bureaus to other bureaus and to services of the War Department to settle specific termination claims.

§ 27.4 Payment of fair compensation under defective informal and quasi contracts—(a) Statutory authority. Section 17 of the Contract Settlement Act of 1944 provides:

a. Where any person has arranged to furnish or furnished to a contracting agency or to a war contractor any materials, services, or facilities related to the prosecution of the war, without a formal contract, relying in good faith upon the apparent authority of an officer or agent of a contracting agency, written or oral instructions, or any other request to proceed from a contracting agency, the contracting agency shall pay such person fair compensation therefor.

b. Whenever any formal or technical defect of omission in any prime contract, or in any grant of authority to an officer or agent of a contracting agency who ordered any materials, services, and facilities might invalidate the contract or commitment, the contracting agency (1) shall not take advantage of such defect or omission; (2) shall amend, confirm, or ratify such contract or commitment without consideration in order to cure such defect or omission; and (3) shall make a fair settlement of any obligation thereby created or incurred by such agency, whether expressed or implied, in fact or in law, or in the nature of an implied or quasi contract.

The Director of Contract Settlement has issued Regulation No. 12 of the Office of Contract Settlement, dated January 24, 1945, prescribing procedures for the preparation, submission and allowance of Section 17 claims.

(b) Preparation, submission and allowance of claims. Under Section 17 of the Contract Settlement Act.

(1) Except as hereinafter provided, each claim for relief under section 17 of the Act shall be submitted in writing, and shall be under oath, verified by the claimant or by a principal executive officer of the claimant, and accompanied by affidavits of representatives of the claimant and other persons having knowledge of the relevant circumstances. If the claim is supported by a formal contract which may be invalid because of a formal or technical defect, or omission therein, or in its authorization, counsel of the bureau having cognizance of the matter may, in his discretion waive the foregoing requirements with respect to verification and affidavits.

(2) If the claim is not based upon a formal contract, valid or otherwise, it shall be supported by such of the following information as is appropriate:

(i) The original or photostatic copies of any written instructions, and a full statement of any oral instructions, relied on.

(ii) Identification of any officer or agent upon whose authority to bind the Government the claimant relied, together with a statement of (a) the circumstances relied on in good faith by the claimant as indicating the existence of such authority, and (b) the efforts made by the claimant to obtain a formal contract or, if none was made, the reasons for the failure to make any such effort.

(iii) A full description of the materials, services, or facilities furnished or arranged to be furnished and of their relation to the prosecution of the war.

(iv) A statement of when and to whom such materials, services, or facilities were furnished or were arranged to be furnished, and of the arrangements made for furnishing them, together with a description of any guaranties, warranties, or indemnities customarily furnished or specifically required in connection therewith.

(v) A statement of all other action taken by the claimant with respect to the material, services, or facilities so furnished or arranged to be furnished and of any commitments that have been made to third parties in reliance on the written or oral instructions or other request to proceed, together with documentary evidence of any such commitments and a statement of any payments or settlements made with respect thereto.

(vi) A statement of the amount claimed, with a breakdown in sufficient detail to support the claim and certified by the claimant or its principal financial officer.

(vii) A statement of what steps have been taken to mitigate losses and reduce the claim to a minimum.

(viii) A statement of any payments or credits received or to be received on account of the materials, services, or facilities furnished or arranged to be furnished.

(ix) A statement of the salvage or recovery value of any such materials or facilities so arranged to be furnished but not disposed of.

(x) A statement of whether any other claim for any part or all of the relief requested has been, or is being, submitted to any other Government Agency or war contractor, and if so, of the action taken thereon.

(xi) Any additional information considered appropriate by the claimant.

Representatives of the Department authorized to consider the claim may require such further relevant information as they may deem necessary or appropriate.

(3) If the claim is based upon a formal contract which may be invalid because of a formal or technical defect or omission therein or in its authorization, the claim shall include a full statement of the relevant circumstances and of the relief requested.

(4) A claim which is not supported by a formal contract shall be forwarded to the chief of the bureau which would normally have executed the contract for the materials, services, or facilities, with respect to which relief is being sought. A claim which is based upon a formal contract shall be forwarded to the bureau or office which executed the contract. Such bureau or office will forward the claim, with comments thereon, to the chief of the bureau having cognizance (in doubtful cases, the claim will be forwarded to the Chief of the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts). If the chief of the bureau or the contracting officer determines that a claim should be considered by a contracting agency of the Government other than the Navy Department, he will forward the claim and supporting papers to the Office of Contract Settlement with a statement of his reasons therefor and a statement of any information he may have concerning the facts set forth in or bearing on the claim.

(5) Each claim for relief under Section 17 will be promptly and carefully investigated by the chief of the cognizant bureau or his duly authorized representative. After such investigation, and determination that the facts justify relief if it may be legally granted under the Act, the claim together with a report of such investigation will be referred to counsel for the bureau, or to the Office of the General Counsel for the Department of the Navy if the arrangement or contract was made by the Marine Corps, for an opinion as to the extent to which the requested relief or action may legally be granted or taken under the provisions of Section 17 of the Act.

(6) If the counsel determines that relief may legally be granted, the chief of the cognizant bureau or his duly authorized representative will negotiate with the claimant with a view to settlement of the claim by agreement. Any such agreement involving payment to the claimant of any amount in excess of $25,000 will not become binding upon the Government until it has been reviewed and approved by the head of the Procurement Policy Branch of the Material Division, Office of the Assistant Secretary of the Navy. In forwarding any such agreement to the Material Division, the cognizant bureau will include a statement of the factors bearing upon the determination of the amount agreed upon as fair compensation and a copy of the opinion of counsel.

(7) All relief granted or action taken under Section 17 of the Act must be embodied in a written agreement, executed by the chief or a contracting officer of the cognizant bureau and approved as to form and legality by counsel, which shall release and discharge the Government, its officers, agents and employees from all liability on account of the furnishing of, or the arrangement to furnish, the materials, services, or facilities in question.

(8) In any case where the chief of the cognizant bureau or his duly authorized representative has failed to settle the claim by agreement with the claimant or has so settled only a part of the claim, the dispute will be subject to the provisions of Section 13 of the Act, governing the preparation of written findings and prescribing procedure for review and appeal. All written findings will be submitted to counsel for the bureau, or to the Office of the General Counsel for the Department of the Navy in the case of the Marine Corps, for approval as to form and legality. Following such approval, one copy of such findings will be forwarded to the claimant and two copies to the Office of Contract Settlement.

(9) Where an obligation or commitment created or incurred by a bureau might be invalidated because of a formal or technical defect or omission in a prime contract or in any grant of authority to an officer or agent who ordered materials, services, or facilities related to the prosecution of the war, the chief of the bureau or his duly authorized representative will formalize the obligation or commitment within ninety (90) days after notice of the existence of such formal or technical defect or omission.

(10) The Secretary of the Navy has delegated to the chiefs of the several bureaus the authority to grant relief under section 17 of the Act.

(11) The Secretary of the Navy has authorized the Judge Advocate General to convene a Philippine Contract Settlement Commission to settle pursuant to section 17 of the Contract Settlement Act, supra, claims for services or materials furnished representatives of the Navy in the Philippine Islands.

§ 27.5 Disposition of property. The Navy Department, as an "owning agency" under the Surplus Property Act of 1944 (58 Stat. 765; 50 U. S. C. 1611) and Regulations issued thereunder by War Assets Administration, is authorized to dispose of certain of its property in accordance with such Regulations. The Navy Department is also authorized to sell, transfer and otherwise dispose of vessels and other property under statutory authority other than the Surplus Property Act.

The following is set forth for the purpose of indicating the bureaus, offices, or activities of the Navy Department and their general procedures in respect to disposition of naval property.

The Navy Department has found it convenient to issue six comprehensive regulations covering disposition of all naval property as follows: The Army-Navy Joint Termination Regulation, and Navy Property Redistribution and Disposal Regulations Nos. 1 through 5, inclusive. The Navy Material Redistribution and Disposal Administration Handbook has also been published for the guidance of field personnel with particular reference to procedures governing sales of scrap, salvage and waste materials and small lots. All of the publications reflect the rules and requirements of applicable regulations issued by the War Assets Administration and the requirements of statutes covering dispositions other than those authorized pursuant to the Surplus Property Act. Access may be had to these publications through the Office of the Assistant Secretary of Navy, Material Division, Washington 25, D. C., at the Offices of the Commandants of the several Naval Districts, and at the Material Redistribution and Disposal Offices listed in § 26.20.

The Chief of the Material Division, Office of the Assistant Secretary of Navy, is charged with the over-all responsibility for disposition of naval property and general inquiries for information should be addressed to the Material Division, Office of the Assistant Secretary of the Navy, Washington 25, D. C. Inquiries with respect to specific Navy property may be addressed to the Technical Bureau cognizant thereof or to the pertinent local selling activity referred to below.

(a) Dispositions under the Surplus Property Act. Dispositions of surplus property by the Navy Department authorized by the Surplus Property Act of 1944 and the regulations issued thereunder are of the following general types. Such dispositions are in each instance governed by the conditions and limitations imposed by and the procedure established under the applicable regulations of War Assets Administration and the property disposition publications referred to above:

(1) Waste, scrap, and salvage. Sales are made by the authorized selling activities listed in § 275 (a) (7) on the basis of competitive bids except in those exceptional cases (such as educational institutions) where it has been determined that it would be in the best interest of the Government to make disposition by negotiated sale, in which case such property may be disposed of at the best price obtainable. Purchasers may be required to warrant against use of property to be scrapped where appropriate in the public interest.

(2) Worthless property. Navy contractors may be authorized to sell for the account of the Government worthless property resulting from the termination or run-out of war contracts and the Navy Department may itself donate property which has no commercial value, or property the estimated cost of the care, handling and disposition of which would exceed the estimated proceeds of its sale to Federal or State supported agencies or institutions and to non-profit educational or charitable institutions. Except where military necessity or the public health or safety otherwise requires, no naval activity may destroy or abandon property until efforts to donate such property have failed.

(3) Small lots. The Navy Department may sell, or permit the retention or sale by a contractor of any item or group of items or property as provided in and constituting "small lots" under Regulation 9 of the War Assets Administration.

(4) Contractor inventory. Government-owned property resulting from the termination or run-out of war contracts in the possession of contractors of the Navy Department may be retained or sold by the contractor for the account of the Government.

(5) Facilities and plant equipment. The Navy Department may under applicable Regulations of War Assets Administration sell facilities, including improvements to land, and plant equipment which are located in the contractor's plant to the contractor in possession thereof. Improvements on leased land, both industrial and non-industrial, may be disposed of by sale, transfer, demolition or abandonment.

(6) Foreign areas. In foreign areas (outside the continental United States, its territories or possessions), the Navy Department, acting through its Area Commander, is authorized to make direct disposition of scrap, salvage and waste property, and of subsistence and other property whenever such disposition is, in the judgment of the Area Commander, necessary to avoid spoilage or loss through rapid deterioration.

(7) Conduct of sales. With respect to facilities, improvements to land and plant equipment, Contracting Officers within the several Bureaus are authorized to negotiate and sell such property to the contractor in possession at prices determined to be fair and reasonable, subject to the review and approval of review boards established within the several Bureaus in cases of sale involving property which cost in excess of $25,000 (excepting items sold under the formula established by War Assets Administration Regulation #13). Sales of other classes of property which the Navy Department as an owning agency has authority to sell under the Surplus Property Act of 1944 are effected by the Supply Officer at authorized selling activities. Such authorized selling activities are as follows:

Sales by the above listed activities are made customarily by competitive bid, invitations being solicited verbally, by sales letter or by sales catalog. A deposit, generally 25% of the amount bid, is required of each bidder. Where, within permissible limits, negotiated sales are conducted, invitations are solicited informally without the preparation of catalogs or the formal opening of bids on a specified date.

In foreign areas sales are conducted by the Supply Officer of any regularly organized Supply Department or by persons delegated authority by him with the approval of the Area Commander. Ordinarily sales are made by competitive bid although negotiated sales may be made provided that the fair value of the property is obtained. Sales involving less than $100,000 but more than $10,000 must be approved by the Area Commander, and sales involving in excess of $100,000 must in addition be approved by the Material Division of the Office of the Assistant Secretary of the Navy. No local sales in foreign areas may be made of weapons, ammunition, combat material or classified items without prior approval of the Chief of Naval Operations, nor may any material processed, produced or donated by the American Red Cross be disposed of without the approval of the American Red Cross.

(b) Disposals under special Statutes. In addition to the authority to dispose of surplus property under the Surplus Property Act of 1944 and the procedures in connection therewith, all as referred to and described in § 27.5 (a), the Navy Department has further authority to make dispositions of its property, including temporary leasing for commercial purposes, transfers to other Government agencies and loans or donations of specified property, under several Acts of Congress. Such dispositions are under the direction of the Chief of the Material Division, Office of the Assistant Secretary of Navy, and inquiries in respect of such property or types of disposition should be directed to The Material Division, Office of the Assistant Secretary of the Navy, Washington 25, D. C.

Disposals under such special Acts of Congress fall into four main categories: disposition to other Government agencies; disposition in the public interest or in the interest of national defense; disposition of certain vessels, and miscellaneous dispositions.

(1) Disposition to other Government agencies. The Navy Department is authorized to transfer such of its property as may be excess to the Veterans Administration, U. S. Soldiers Home, Civil Aeronautics Administration, National Housing Administration, the War Department, Coast Guard and other Federal Agencies within the limitations of and in accordance with applicable statutes. Such transfers are made upon application by the Governmental department or agency concerned and are governed by the appropriate statutory requirements.

(2) Disposition in the public interest or in the interest of national defense. The Navy Department is authorized to grant for a monetary rental revocable rights to use real property not needed for the immediate requirements of the Navy Department for periods not exceeding five years under the Act of August 29, 1916, (39 Stat. 559, 34 U. S. C. 522). The Navy Department may also transfer, sell or otherwise dispose of real and personal property where such transfer, sale or other disposition has been determined to be in the interest of national defense, in Title II of the First War Powers Act, 1941 (55 Stat. 838; 50 U. S. C. 611), and the Act of July 2, 1940 (54 Stat. 712; 50 U. S. C. 1171), as made applicable to the Navy Department by Executive Order 9262 dated November 5, 1942 (7 F. R. 9105). Prior to the licensing, or leasing or other disposition of real property by the Navy Department, approval of the Naval Affairs Committee of Congress is required (Public Law 289, 78th Cong; 58 Stat. 189).

(3) Disposition of certain vessels. Combatant vessels are excluded from the Surplus Property Act of 1944 and are disposed of only under the Acts of August 5, 1832, and March 3, 1883 (34 U. S. C. 491, 492, 22 Stat. 296, 22 Stat. 599), the Executive Order of the President No. 9641, dated 15 October 1945 (10 F. R. 1), and Article 1897 of Navy Regulation, after a material survey has shown such a vessel to be unfit (not merely no longer needed) for further naval service and it has been stricken from the Navy Register. Combatant vessels include battleships, cruisers, aircraft and escort carriers, destroyers and destroyer escorts, and submarines.

When the Secretary of the Navy has determined that a combatant vessel shall be sold, the Navy Material Redistribution and Disposal Administration may offer such vessel for sale for the purposes of scrapping or for use and on such conditions as may be determined in each case. If sale of the vessel as such is not feasible, arrangements may be made by the Bureau of Ships for demolition of the vessel and sale by an authorized selling activity of the resulting materials as scrap, salvage, or usable property, as may be appropriate.

Surplus non-combatant naval vessels are normally reported by the Navy Department to the appropriate disposal agency for disposition, but the Navy, itself as the owning agency disposes of such vessels determined to have scrap or salvage value only, and has been designated the disposal agency for frigates and eagles (patrol vessels) located in the continental United States and not subject to Public Law 305, 78th Congress (requiring certain vessels to be reported to War Shipping Administration for return to the former owners on the conditions stated in such law).

(4) Miscellaneous dispositions — (i) Exchange of property. Under Public Law 49, 79th Cong. the Navy Department is authorized to exchange in part payment for new equipment of the same or similar character certain types of automotive property and equipment and office machines.

(ii) Disposal of property to Sea Scouts. Obsolete property may be donated, and other excess property sold at a fair price, to the Sea Scouts under the authority of the Act of March 1, 1929 (45 Stat. 1430; 34 U. S. C. 546b) and the Act of April 10, 1936 (49 Stat. 1195; 14 U. S. C. 43a).

(iii) Donations to schools, colleges and universities approved by the Federal Security Agency. The Navy Department is authorized to make donations to properly accredited schools, colleges and universities which, pursuant to War Assets Administration Regulations Nos. 4 and 19 have received the approval of the Federal Security Agency (U. S. Office of Education). Such donations are limited to excess or obsolete boats and boat equipment, obsolete airborne electronics and radar equipment, and excess or obsolete machinery, mechanical equipment or tools common to the manual or mechanical arts or trades or commonly used by schools giving instruction therein. Such donations may be made only for purposes of actual instruction in courses of vocational training, or in aeronautical courses in the case of aeronautical property. In accordance with arrangements effected with the U. S. Office of Education applications for Navy donable property should be directed to the field representative of the U. S. Office of Education (Federal Security Agency) nearest the applicant.

(iv) Loans or donations of condemned or obsolete material for memorial purposes. Pursuant to 29 Stat. 133; 34 U. S. C. 546, the Secretary of the Navy is authorized to loan or donate condemned or obsolete ordnance, guns, projectiles, books and other similar condemned or obsolete materials to municipal corporations, soldiers monument associations, posts of war veterans associations, war battle associations, state museums and incorporated non-profit museums intended for educational purposes. Requests for such donations are subject to the approval of the Curator for the Navy.

(5) Approval by Congress of certain loans and gifts. Pursuant to Public Law 649, 79th Congress, no transfer, loan or gift of vessels, captured, condemned, or obsolete ordnance, guns, projectiles, books, manuscripts, works of art, drawings, plans, models and other condemned or obsolete material, trophies, flags and other material of historical interest which may not be needed in service of the Navy Department, shall take effect until information of the proposal to make such transfer, loan or gift has been transmitted to the Congress and approval received.

§ 27.7 The Patent Royalty Revision Board. The organization and functions of this Board, together with its delegations of authority, have previously been discussed in § 26.4 (b) (9). The procedures of the Board are governed by the pertinent provisions of the Royalty Adjustment Act of 1942 (35 U. S. C. 89–96).

The hearing itself is informal and opportunity is afforded the parties involved to be heard in person, by their attorneys, or to present in writing such evidence, memoranda or briefs as have a bearing on the issues involved.

Prior to the hearing itself and wherever practicable every effort will be made to compromise on a voluntary basis any royalty believed to be unreasonable or excessive.

In determining what are fair and just rates and amounts of royalties payable for an invention, the Board takes into consideration the following factors:

(a) The conditions of wartime production.

(b) The production and use of the invention prior to any increase due to wartime procurement, including

(1) any established royalty rate;

(2) the volume on which royalty was paid;

(3) the yearly aggregate royalty paid; and

(4) the circumstances under which the licensing and the establishment of the royalty rate occurred.

(c) The character of the invention and any patent protection therefor, the value of its contribution to the art in which it is used, and the character and expense of research and development that have been devoted to the invention.

(d) The extent of use and proposed use of the invention by other departments or agencies of the Government and the amounts of royalties involved in the aggregate in such use.

(e) All other considerations which are ordinarily and properly taken into account in determining fair and just royalties or which appear to be appropriate to the particular case.

(f) Any person desiring to communicate with the Board should address his letter as follows: Patent Royalty Revision Board, Navy Department, Washington 25, D. C., Attention: Office of Naval Research.

§ 27.8 Claims arising under Act of Dec. 28, 1945, Ch. 597 (59 Stat. 662) and Public Law 601, 79th Congress. Prior to making an analysis of the procedures involved, it is necessary to note that the Act of December 28, 1945, supra, has been amended in so far as certain negligence claims are concerned by Public Law 601, 79th Congress. The regulations issued pursuant to the Act of December 28, 1945, supra, are published in the Federal Register of 31 January 1946, Volume 11, pages 1156 to 1172. The Navy Personnel Claims Regulations (11 F. R. 1156–1164) pertain to certain property claims submitted by persons in the naval service or civilians employed by the Navy Department. The section of the statute pertaining to this type of claim was not repealed. The Navy General Claims Regulations (11 F. R. 1164–1172) pertain in part to the section of the statute which was repealed. The enactment of Public Law 601, 79th Congress, will require the publication of new regulations in so far as the currently published regulations are inconsistent therewith. These new regulations will be published in due course. The Secretary of the Navy has promulgated the following interim instructions:

Public Law 601 cited as Legislative Reorganization Act of 1946 was approved 2 August 1946. Pertinent provisions of Title Four thereof cited as the Federal Tort Claims Act, authorize administrative settlement and payment of property damage and personal injury and death claims accruing on and after 1 January 1945 not exceeding one thousand dollars caused by negligent or wrongful act or omission of any employee of Government while acting within scope of his office or employment under circumstances where the United States, if a private person, would be liable to claimant for such damage, loss, injury or death in accordance with the law of the place where the act or omission occurred. Part 3 of Title Four confers exclusive jurisdiction on U. S. district court for district wherein plaintiff is resident or wherein act or omission occurred including the U. S. district courts for the Territories and possessions of the United States, sitting without a jury, over claims for property damage or loss, or personal injury or death, occurring under conditions above described and makes United States liable to same extent as private individual except for interest prior to judgment and punitive damages. Claim is barred unless within one year after claim accrued or within one year after date of enactment of Act, whichever is later, it is presented in writing to the federal agency out of whose activity it arises or court action is instituted. The JAG (Judge Advocate General) of the Navy; the ASTJAG (Assistant Judge Advocate General) of the Navy; or the Chief of the General Law Division, Office of the JAG (Judge Advocate General) have been appointed designees to administer the Federal Tort Claims Act for the Navy. Pending further instructions the regulations promulgated for the administration of Public Law 277, 79th Congress (Act of Dec. 28, 1945, Ch. 597, 59 Stat. 662), published in Navy Department Bulletin 31 Jan. 1946 (11 F. R. 1156–1172), are applicable except in so far as in conflict with Public Law 601.

Provisions of certain laws authorizing consideration and adjustment of claims now cognizable under Public Law 601 are repealed.

(ALNAV 448–46)

§ 27.9 Procurement of officers and enlisted personnel—(a) Statutory authority. The Navy Department is authorized by various statutes including the Act of April 18, 1946 (Public Law 347, 79th Congress; 60 Stat. 92; the Act of July 30, 1942, (56 Stat. 730–731; 34 U. S. C. 857–857g) and the Act of May 13, 1908, as amended (35 Stat. 146; 34 U. S. (3) Officers. The Navy Department maintains main offices and six branch offices of Naval Officer Procurement in the larger cities throughout the country which will receive and process applications for commissions in the Naval Service, applications for enlistment and appointment in the WAVES and applications for enlistment in Navy Aviation College Program, and in the Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps. Regulations for Administration and Training, Naval Aviation College Program and Regulations for Administration and Training, Naval ROTC, are in process of preparation at the present time.

Information concerning these programs may be obtained by writing to Director of Training, Bureau of Personnel, Washington 25, D. C.

Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C.

§ 27.10 Family Allowances to Servicemen—(a) Statutory authority. The Servicemen's Dependents Allowance Act of 1942, as amended (56 Stat. 381 as amended by 57 Stat. 577; 37 U. S. C. 201–221) provides family allowances for the dependents of enlisted men of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps. Dependents are divided into three classes known as Class A, Class B and Class B–1 dependents. Class A dependents include wives, children, and divorced wives. Children of WAVES are entitled to Class A family allowance benefits if they are in fact dependent on the WAVE for their support. Class B dependents include parents, brothers, and sisters who are found to be dependent upon the enlisted person for a substantial portion of their support, and Class B–1 dependents include parents, brothers, and sisters who are found to be dependent upon the enlisted person for the chief portion of their support.

The Act provides that the determination of all facts, including the fact of dependency, which it shall be necessary to determine in the administration of such Act, shall be made by the Secretary of the Department concerned and such determination shall be final and conclusive for all purposes and shall not be subject to review in any court or by any accounting officer of the Government. The Act further authorizes the Secretaries of the Departments concerned to prescribe jointly or severally such regulations as they deem necessary to enable them to carry out the provisions of the Act and to delegate any of their functions under the Act.

(b) Regulations of the War and Navy Departments. Pursuant to the foregoing authority, the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy issued on December 21, 1943, joint regulations under the Servicemen's Dependents Allowance Act of 1942, which are as follows:

(1) Payments of all family allowances shall be for periods of full calendar months.

(2) To insure expeditious payment of the initial family allowance:

(i) payment shall be made on the basis of the statements of the enlisted man in the application, filed within the prescribed period, and to or on behalf of eligible dependents designated therein; and

(ii) eligibility for initial family allowance will be deemed to have existed on and from the date of entry into active service if the application indicates eligibility on the date of application.

Erroneous statements or misrepresentations in applications for initial family allowances may, as determined by the Secretary of the department concerned, be the basis for recovery by charge against the pay of the applicant, or otherwise, and for disciplinary action.

(3) When an initial family allowance is paid to any dependent for the month of an enlisted man's entry into active service in a pay status, no regular monthly family allowance shall be paid to any dependent of such enlisted man for that month. When no initial family allowance is paid, the period of entitlement and payment of the regular monthly family allowance shall begin as hereinafter prescribed.

(4) Except as otherwise provided, the period of entitlement to and payment of regular monthly family allowances, including any increases therein, shall begin as of the first day of the calendar month in which a required written application (or a notice of change in a case of increase) is filed, or the first day of the calendar month in which a dependent is acquired, whichever is later, but in no case earlier than the month of entry of the enlisted man into active service in a pay status. In case of Class B or Class B–1 dependents the period of entitlement and payment may begin as of the first day of any subsequent calendar month that the enlisted man requests.

(5) Any increase in a regular monthly family allowance in effect to a wife, or wife and children, incident to the birth of a child or additional child, shall be effective as of the first day of the calendar month during which the birth occurs notwithstanding that notice or evidence thereof is received in a subsequent month.

(6) Except as otherwise provided, the period of payment of monthly family allowance shall terminate, or payment shall be decreased, as of the end of the calendar month during which any notice is received by the disbursing officer paying the allowance of a change which terminates or limits the entitlement of the dependent or dependents to such allowance. Entitlement to family allowance shall terminate or be modified at the end of the month in which such change occurs. Checks to which there is no entitlement may be permanently withheld.

(7) Insofar as practicable the period of entitlement and payment of any Class B or Class B–1 regular monthly family allowance requested in writing by the enlisted man to be discontinued, other than by reason of change in status of dependents, shall terminate as of the end of the calendar month requested by the enlisted man or the end of the calendar month during which such request is received by the disbursing officer paying the allowance, and in no case later than the end of the next succeeding calendar month.

(8) For the purpose of determining amounts of family allowance to be paid:

(i) in cases in which no family allowance has been granted to a wife or divorced wife, the amount of family allowance payable to children shall be the amount specified in the statute where there is no wife or divorced wife;

(ii) in cases in which no family allowance has been granted to a parent, the amount of family allowance payable to brothers and sisters shall be the amount specified in the statute where there is no parent;

(iii) all children of an enlisted man shall be considered one family entity irrespective of differences in their custody, residence, or parentage;

(iv) parents of an enlisted man, and all his brothers and sisters irrespective of differences in their custody, residence, or parentage, shall be considered one family entity;

(v) the total amount of monthly family allowance payable to or for the benefit, respectively, of two or more children, of two parents, or of two or more brothers and sisters, shall be equally divided among the respective children, parents, or brothers and sisters or shall be otherwise apportioned and paid within the respective groups as the Secretary of the department concerned may direct.

(9) Whenever a court order or decree or written agreement of separation provides a single sum for alimony to a divorced wife or maintenance for a wife and also for the support of a child or children, the proportional share of the wife or divorced wife in such sum shall, for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of section 106 (c) of the Act, be deemed to be sixty per centum thereof in the case of one child and forty per centum thereof in any case of two or more children. Regardless of any limit stated in a court order or decree or written agreement the full statutory amount of family allowance shall be payable to or on behalf of any child or children.

(10) Application of section 106 (c) (1) shall be made in those cases in which there is a lawful wife living separate and apart from the enlisted man and there is also a court order or decree or a written agreement which expressly or impliedly provides for the beginning or continuance of such living separate and apart. In construing a court order or decree or written agreement full consideration shall be given to all the facts and circumstances under which the order, decree or agreement is issued or made. A penal order for marital support or an order in a desertion case is not within this statutory limitation; in such cases the full allowance for a wife is payable.

(11) The payment of any amounts of a family allowance uncollected at the time of death of a dependent shall be made to such payee or payees, including the enlisted man when appropriate, as the Secretary of the department concerned shall deem equitable, subject to the provisions of Section 115 of the Act.

(12) The Secretary of the department concerned may at any time require additional evidence in any family allowance case. Failure to furnish such evidence within a reasonable time after request or any insufficiency of evidence shall constitute good cause for the discontinuance or modification of such family allowance.

(13) These Joint Regulations are effective November 1, 1943; they rescind and supersede the Joint Regulations approved July 19, 1943.

(c) Regulations of the Navy Department. The Secretary of the Navy approved certain regulations dated September 14, 1944 with respect to payments to dependents of servicemen involved in cases of desertion or imprisonment pursuant to sentence of general court martial, which regulations are as follows:

In accordance with sub-sections (a) and (b) of section 110 of the Servicemen's Dependents Allowance Act of 1942, approved June 23, 1942 (Public Law 625, 77th Congress), as amended effective November 1, 1943 (Public Law 174, 78th Congress), the following regulations are prescribed in connection with entitlement and payment of family allowance to dependents of enlisted men in cases involving absence without or over leave, desertion and imprisonment. These regulations supersede the prior regulations prescribed on this subject entitled, "Regulations for Administration of the Servicemen's Dependents Allowance Act of 1942 Involving Cases of Desertion or Imprisonment Pursuant to Sentence of General Court Martial", approved October 20, 1942 and amended May 29, 1943.

(1) Neither the enlisted man nor his dependents are authorized to apply for family allowance when any of the following conditions exist:

(i) An enlisted man is absent over or without leave from naval jurisdiction for a period in excess of 30 days and or is declared a deserter, except when such absence is a result of detention or delivery to civil authorities, in which case, see § 27.10(c)(2).

(ii) The enlisted man is confined as a result of a general court-martial sentence (pursuant to section 622, Naval Courts and Boards).

An application which is filed when any of such conditions exist will not be effective for any purpose under the Act. Entitlement shall be predicated only on the basis of an application filed by the enlisted man (or by his dependents in Class "A" cases) after the man has returned to naval jurisdiction after absence or has returned to duty after confinement. This application will be effective even though the man is being held for trial on account of his absence or, on release from confinement, is returned to duty on probation. Entitlement shall begin as of the first day of the calendar month in which the application is filed. In the case of Class "B" or "B–1" dependents, a subsequent calendar month in which the allowance is to begin may be designated by the man if he so desires.

(2) If an enlisted man is absent from Naval jurisdiction for a period in excess of 30 days, having been detained or delivered to the custody of civil authorities, an application filed by either the enlisted man or his dependents will be held in suspense pending the outcome of action by the civil authorities. If the action results in an acquittal, or a nolle pros is entered on the record, entitlement to family allowance will be considered to have arisen as of the first day of the calendar month in which the application was filed even though such application was filed during the period of detention except that, in case of Class "B" or "B–1" dependents, if so requested by the man, entitlement will be considered to have arisen as of any subsequent calendar month designated. If the action results in a conviction the application will not be effective for any purposes under the Act. In such a case when a man returns to naval jurisdiction he or his dependents (in Class "A" cases) may then apply for family allowance, and entitlement shall begin as of the first day of the calendar month in which such application is filed. In the case of Class "B" or "B–1" dependents, a subsequent calendar month in which the allowance is to begin may be designated by the man if he so desires.

(3) When family allowance has already been authorized, the period of entitlement shall terminate as of the end of the second month following the month that any of the following events occur:

(i) An enlisted man is absent over or without leave from naval jurisdiction for a period in excess of 30 days and/or is declared a deserter (in both of which instances the computation is made on the basis of the first day of unauthorized absence), except when such absence is a result of detention or delivery to civil authorities, in which case, see § 27.10 (c) (5).

(ii) An enlisted man is confined as a result of a general court-martial (pursuant to section 622, Naval Courts and Boards).

In such cases, the period of payment shall terminate after payment for the month prior to the month in which notice of the change in status of the enlisted man is received by the disbursing officer paying family allowance, if possible; otherwise, it shall terminate after payment for the month in which notice of the change in status is received; however, in no event shall the period of payment terminate prior to the termination of entitlement. In appropriate cases recovery may be made of payments to which there has been no entitlement.

(4) In those cases in which the entitlement to family allowance has been terminated on account of any of the reasons set forth in paragraph (3), entitlement shall begin anew only on the basis of a new application filed by the enlisted man (or by his dependents in Class "A" cases) after the man has returned to naval jurisdiction or has been returned to duty. Such application will be effective even though the man is being held for trial on account of his absence or, on release from confinement is returned to duty on probation. Entitlement shall begin as of the first day of the calendar month in which such application is filed. In the case of Class "B" or "B–1" dependents, a subsequent calendar month in which the allowance is to begin may be designated by the man if he so desires.

(5) Where family allowance has already been authorized on account of an enlisted man who is thereafter absent from naval jurisdiction for a period in excess of 30 days, having been detained by or delivered to civil authorities, the period of entitlement will terminate as of the end of the second calendar month following the month in which the change of status of the man occurs. The period of payment shall terminate after payment for the month prior to the month in which notice of the change in status of the enlisted man is received by the disbursing officer paying family allowance, if possible; otherwise, it shall terminate after payment for the month in which notice of the change in status is received; however, in no event shall the period of payment terminate prior to the termination of entitlement. In appropriate cases recovery may be made of payments to which there has been no entitlement. If the action by the civil authorities leads to acquittal, or a nolle pros is entered upon the record, family allowance will be reinstated effective with the first day of the calendar month following the month of termination without necessity for new application. If action by the civil authorities results in a conviction, entitlement may begin anew only on the basis of a new application filed by the enlisted man (or by his dependents in Class "A" cases) after the man has returned to naval jurisdiction and entitlement shall begin as of the first day of the calendar month in which such application is filed. In the case of Class "B" or "B–1" dependents, a subsequent calendar month in which the allowance is to begin may be designated by the man if he so desires.

The Secretary of the Navy has delegated the authority and responsibility for carrying out the provisions of the Act to the Director of the Dependents Welfare Division, Bureau of Naval Personnel, with respect to personnel of the Navy and to the Officer-in-Charge, Casualty Division, Personnel Department, Marine Corps, with respect to personnel of the Marine Corps.

Cognizance of all matters relating to the actual payment of (as distinguished from entitlement to) allowances is vested in the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts with respect to personnel of the Navy and in the Quartermaster General, Disbursing Branch, Marine Corps, with respect to personnel of the Marine Corps. Inquiries concerning payment should be addressed to Field Branch, Bureau of Supplies and Accounts, Family Allowance Division, Cleveland, Ohio, or Quartermaster General, Marine Corps, Washington, D. C., as the case may be.

(d) Applications. Applications for benefits under the Servicemen's Dependents Allowance Act may be made by or on behalf of any Class A dependent by written request directed to the Dependents' Welfare Division, Bureau of Naval Personnel, Navy Department, Washington 25, D. C., in the case of personnel of the Navy and to the Officer-in-Charge, Casualty Division, Personnel Department of the Marine Corps, Washington 25, D. C., in the case of personnel of the Marine Corps. The application should state the full name of the serviceman for whose service benefits are being claimed, his rating and service number, if known, his date and place of birth, his date and place of enlistment, and his last known station of duty. A simple request for family allowance benefits, stating the names and relationship to the enlisted man of the dependents for whom benefits are claimed, should be made. No special form of request is required. Informal requests for family allowance benefits from Class A dependents should be accompanied by a certified copy of the public or church record of the marriage, a certified copy of the public or church record of the birth of children, and other essential documentary evidence.

Applications for family allowance benefits on behalf of Class B and Class B–1 dependents may be made only by the serviceman and he must authorize the checkage of his pay which is required in connection therewith. Class B and Class B–1 dependents who desire family allowance benefits should, therefore, communicate directly with the enlisted personnel in this regard. The Secretary of the Navy, however, may authorize Class B and Class B–1 family allowance benefits in certain cases when circumstances prevent the enlisted person from making an application.

§ 27.11 Missing Persons Act. Under the provisions of the Missing Persons Act, Public Law 490, 77th Congress (56 Stat. 143; 50 U. S. C. 1001–1018), a finding of presumptive death is made by the Secretary of the Navy when a survey of all available sources of information indicates beyond doubt that the presumption of continuance of life has been overcome. When a finding of presumptive death is made, a man's pay accounts are closed as of the presumptive date of death, that is the day following the expiration of the 12 months' absence, and the various benefits, such as the six months' death gratuity, become payable. A finding of presumptive death concerning an officer or enlisted man of the Navy means simply that as of the date thereof he is for the purposes of Naval administration no longer alive. It does not mean that death occurred on that or on any other certain date. For purposes other than Naval administration, the law does not make these findings binding or conclusive but commercial insurance companies have, almost without exception, accepted them as evidence of the fact of death and have paid insurance claims on the basis thereof.

Findings of presumptive death are never made when the "missing" status has not continued for at least 12 months. Whenever, subsequent to the expiration of the 12 months, cumulative or other evidence establishes beyond doubt that a "missing" person is no longer alive, a prompt finding of presumptive death will be made. Also, such a finding will be made whenever justified by the lapse of time without specific information being received.

Public Law 408, 78th Congress (58 Stat. 679, 50 U. S. C. 1001–1018), amends

Public Law 490, to provide that the head of the department or such subordinate as he may designate, shall have authority to make all determinations necessary in the administration of the Act and for the purposes of this Act determinations so made shall be conclusive as to death or finding of death as to any other status dealt with by this Act and as to any essential date including that upon which evidence or information is received in such department. Further, that when any information deemed to establish conclusively the death of any person is received action shall be taken thereon as an official report of death, notwithstanding any prior action relating to death or other status of such person. The determination of the head of the department concerned or of such subordinate as he may designate shall be conclusive as to whether information received concerning any person is to be construed and acted upon as an official report of death. Under the foregoing provisions a determination of death is made prior to the expiration of 12 months when the evidence received is considered to establish conclusively the fact of death and settlement of accounts is made to the date established as the date of receipt of evidence on which the fact of death is established.

The Secretary of the Navy has delegated to the Director of the Dependent's Welfare Division, Bureau of Naval Personnel, authority to make all determinations as provided by Public Law 408, and as necessary to administer the law, and further to prepare the necessary findings and recommendations where persons are presumed dead under the provisions of the basic Act, Public Law 490.

§ 27.12 Mustering-out payments—(a) Statutory authority. The Mustering-Out Payment Act of 1944 provides for mustering-out payments for each member of the armed forces who shall have been engaged in active service in the present war, and who is discharged or relieved from active service under honorable conditions on or after 7 December 1941.

(b) Regulations. Regulations issued by the Navy Department governing mustering-out payments were published at 10 F. R. 2188–2193 as amended by 10 F. R. 10363–10364.

(c) Delegations. (1) The Chief of the Bureau of Personnel has authorized the Officer-in-Charge, Casualties and Allotment Section, Welfare Division, to make such determinations as the Chief of Naval Personnel is authorized to make under the Regulations. Payments, other than initial payments, are made by the Field Branch (Cleveland, Ohio) of the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts.

(2) The Commandant of the Marine Corps has authorized the Officer-in-Charge, Enlisted Performance, Marine Corps, to make such determinations as the Commandant of the Marine Corps is authorized to make under the Regulations. Payments are made by the Supply Department of the Marine Corps, Disbursing Branch.

§ 27.13 Death gratuity—(a) Statutory authority. The Act of June 4, 1920, as amended (41 Stat. 824 as amended by 45 Stat. 710, 56 Stat. 145, 147 and 58 Stat. 129; 34 U. S. C. 943) and the Act of August 27, 1940 (54 Stat. 864, 865; 56 Stat. 780; 34 U. S. C. 855c–1) and the Act of March 17, 1941 (55 Stat. 43 as amended by 58 Stat. 129; 34 U. S. C. 855c–2) provide for the payment to the widow, child, or dependent relative of a deceased officer, nurse, or enlisted man, who died of wounds or disease not the result of his or her own misconduct, of an amount equal to six months pay at the date of his or her death, on date death is determined to have occurred under the Missing Persons Act, Public Law 490, 77th Congress, (56 Stat. 143; 50 U. S. C. 1001–1008.)

(b) Delegations. The Director of the Dependents Welfare Division of the Bureau of Naval Personnel certifies to the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts the person entitled under the Act to receive such gratuity. The Officer-in-Charge of Casualty Division, Personnel Department, Marine Corps, certifies to the Quartermaster General of the Marine Corps, Disbursing Branch, the person entitled to receive such gratuity.

(c) Preparation, submission, and allowance of claims. A claim form is ordinarily forwarded by the Bureau of Naval Personnel or by the Marine Corps to the person designated by the decedent as entitled to receive such gratuity. SUBPART B—PROCEDURE of the various bureaus and agencies of the Department of the Interior are governed by regulations issued by the Secretary. These regulations are indicated in the statements of procedure which relate to the various bureaus and agencies and which appear in the appropriate titles of this Code. See also, 30 CFR, Cum. Supp., 221.66 (Geological Survey); 43 CFR, Part 221 and 43 CFR, Cum. Supp., 501.9 (Bureau of Land Management); 25 CFR 81.35a, 15.6a, 82.0, and 177.19 (Office of Indian Affairs). Appeals to the Secretary are considered by the appropriate division of the Solicitor's Office, which prepares and submits to the Secretary a proposed decision for his consideration and action. In the absence of specific provisions for appeals, the Secretary will consider informal requests for reconsideration of bureau action.

§ 01.51 Contract appeals. Appeals to the Secretary from administrative findings made by a contracting officer are considered by the Solicitor's Office. The Solicitor's Office prepares a proposed decision, which is submitted to the Secretary for his consideration and action.

§ 01.52 Board of Appeals. The Board of Appeals, in the Office of the Solicitor, is composed of the Associate Solicitor as Chairman, and two of the chiefs of the Divisions of the Solicitor's Office designated by the Solicitor. At present these members are employees in different offices of the Department. The Committee administers all functions relating to the admission of, and practice by, attorneys and agents before the Department, except that decisions suspending or disbarring practitioners are made by the Secretary upon recommendation of the Committee. Disciplinary proceedings against practitioners are investigated and prosecuted before the Committee by a departmental lawyer who is not a member of the Committee and who is specially designated by the Secretary. The applicable regulations are set forth in 43 CFR, Cum. Supp., Part 1.

§ 01.54 Tort claims. Claims for personal injury or property damage should be filed with the bureau whose action is involved. Such claims are submitted to the Solicitor with recommendations and are considered by the Solicitor's Office. The Solicitor's Office prepares an opinion on the basis of which the claim is determined.

§ 01.55 Invention patents and Licenses. (a) An invention report made by an employee of the Interior Department must be prepared by the employee-inventor (or in some cases by his supervisor) and sent to the head of the employee's bureau or office, who then transmits it to the Solicitor's Office. The relative rights of the United States and of the employee to patent rights in any invention made by such employee are determined by the Solicitor. See Order No. 1763 of November 17, 1942 (7 F. SUBPART A—ORGANIZATION

ESTABLISHMENT

§ 400.1 Creation. The Bonneville Power Administration was established by statute in 1937. The Office of the Administrator is an office of the Department of the Interior.

§ 400.2 Purpose. The Bonneville Power Administration is directed by statute to encourage the widest possible use of electric energy and to provide markets therefor by constructing, operating, maintaining and improving such power stations and transmission lines as may be necessary. Power generated at the Bonneville and Grand Coulee projects is distributed throughout Oregon and Washington. The Administration now wholesales power to the extent of approximately 50 per cent of the entire electric power supply of the Pacific Northwest. The Administration also has been designated power marketing agent for new Federal dams to be constructed in the Columbia River Basin.

§ 400.5 General description. The Bonneville Power Administration, headed by the Administrator, is composed of a headquarters staff located at Portland, Oregon, and six district offices located at points in the Pacific Northwest. In addition there are several advisory boards and committees established to consult with and advise the Administrator on matters of program and policy, and to coordinate major programs of the Bonneville Power Administration with programs of other Government agencies engaged in related activities throughout the Pacific Northwest.

§ 400.6 Advisory Boards and Committees. (a) The Bonneville Act provided that the Administrator "shall act in consultation with an advisory board composed of a representative designated by the Secretary of War, a representative designated by the Secretary of the Interior, a representative designated by the Federal Power Commission, and a representative designated by the Secretary of Agriculture." The Administrator has consulted with the Board during the eight years on matters of Administration policy and programs.

(b) The Federal Inter-Agency River Basin Committee was established in 1943, to facilitate cooperation in the investigation and preparation of reports on multiple-purpose water projects and the correlation of the results of these investigations. The membership of this Committee is identical with the membership of the Bonneville Advisory Board.

(c) The Regional Advisory Council consists of a group of persons selected by the Bonneville Power Administrator by geographical areas in the region on the basis of special technical, planning, and business knowledge and civic leadership.

HEADQUARTERS ORGANIZATION

§ 400.10 Office of the Administrator. The Office of the Administrator, which includes the Assistant Administrator and several immediate staff assistants, coordinates and directs the activities of the Bonneville Power Administration. Staff units reporting to the Administrator include the Personnel Division, Information Division, Office of the General Counsel and Branch of Fiscal and Administrative Management.

§ 400.11 Liaison office. The Administration maintains a liaison office in Washington which represents the Administration in relationships with other Government agencies.

§ 400.12 Branch of Power Management. The Branch of Power Management, under the supervision of the Power Manager formulates and executes policies and activities relating to the sale of electric power and development of markets. It conducts investigations and prepares recommendations on programs relating to regional resources and to needed generation and transmission facilities. The Branch makes broad plans for the Bonneville Power Administration's transmission system, develops and supervises programs to increase agricultural, commercial, and domestic utilization of electric power. It maintains active sales contacts with the Administration's customers and assists them in improving operating efficiency and sales, and develops and establishes rates, terms, and conditions for power sales and exchanges.

§ 400.13 Branch of Engineering and Operations. The Branch of Engineering and Operations develops and executes policies relating to the engineering, operation and maintenance of the Bonneville Power Administration's electric transmission facilities. It designs and constructs additions to the Administration's power system. The Branch operates all administration electric power facilities, regulates stream flow by storage and release of waters, dispatches power through Administration and associated facilities in accordance with contractual provisions, and maintains all lines, substations, and other facilities. It coordinates the operation of the Administration's system with interconnected systems, and controls metering, relaying, testing, and communications.

FIELD ORGANIZATION

§ 400.20 District offices. The Administration at the present time maintains six District Offices in various parts of the Pacific Northwest. Each office consists of a District Manager and a small staff, who maintain contacts with customers and direct the execution of approved plans and programs within each District in accordance with the policies, objectives, and standards established by the Office of the Administrator. The District Offices initiate power sales contracts and perform related power marketing functions, assist the Administration's customers in management and operating problems, and conduct engineering and other investigations as required. Each District Office represents a cross section of the entire Bonneville Power Administration's activities in its particular area. The District Manager is the direct representative of the Administrator in his district, although he receives technical instruction from the branches and divisions.

LIST OF DELEGATIONS OF AUTHORITY

§ 400.30 Purpose of list of delegations of authority. The following sections are not in themselves delegations of authority. The sections are merely a list of delegations and indicate the various matters with respect to which delegations have been made. They are intended merely as an index and outline. For the scope and limitations of delegations of authority the specific regulations and orders to which cross references are made must be consulted.

§ 400.31 Administrator. The Bonneville Power Administrator has authority to:

(a) Market power generated at the Grand Coulee Dam project in Washington. See Executive Order No. 8526 (5 F.R. 3390).

(b) Market power generated at the Hungry Horse Dam project in Montana. See Order No. 1994 (9 F.R. 11966).

(c) Market power generated at the Lookout Point, Quartz Creek, Detroit, and Umatilla projects in Oregon and the lower Snake River projects, and the Foster Creek project in Washington. See Order No. 2115 (10 F.R. 14211) and Order No. 2237 (11 F.R. 8830).

PLACES TO OBTAIN INFORMATION AND MAKE REQUESTS

§ 400.50 Inquiries and Requests in General. (a) Inquiries of a general nature concerning the administration should be addressed to Bonneville Power Administration, 811 Northeast Oregon Street, Portland, Oregon. Technical information on such matters as wholesale rates, rate policies, power contract procedures, availability of supply, construction plans, relationships with public utility districts, Rural Electrification Administration cooperatives, municipal and other power agencies, also may be secured from the same address.

(b) Inquiries concerning wholesale power contracts with large industries may be addressed to Power Manager, Bonneville Power Administration, 811 Northeast Oregon Street, Portland, Oregon.

(c) Inquiries regarding power contracts, including availability of supply and rates, which concern a particular locality of the Pacific Northwest may be addressed to the appropriate District office listed below.

§ 400.51 Location of headquarters organization. The office of the Bonneville Power Administrator and the chiefs of the staff units and Branches are located at 811 Northeast Oregon Street, Portland, Oregon.

§ 400.52 Location of district offices. The location of each district office is as follows:

(a) Lower Columbia District Office, 610 Panama Building, Portland, Oreg.
(b) North Central Washington District, Fuller Quigg Building, 103 Palouse Street, Wenatchee, Wash.
(c) Southwestern District Office, New Post Office Building (P. O. Box 1269), Eugene, Oreg.
(d) Mid-Columbia District Office, Breier Building (P. O. Box 118), 55 E. Main Street, Walla Walla, Wash.
(e) Upper Columbia District Office, Title Building, West 614 Sprague Street, Spokane, Wash.
(f) Puget Sound District Office, 1331 Third Avenue Building, Third Avenue and Union Street, Zone 1, Seattle, Wash.

SUBPART B—PROCEDURE

§ 400.80 Rates. Proposed rate schedules are initiated by the Division of Power Sales and Service. They are reviewed by the Power Manager, under whose jurisdiction the Division of Power Sales and Service operates, the Controller, the General Counsel, the Executive Committee, and the Assistant Administrator. The proposed rates are then submitted to the Administrator, who, if they meet with his approval, forwards them to the Division of Power, Office of the Secretary. The proposed rates, after being reviewed by the Division of Power, are submitted to the Secretary for approval, and, with respect to the Bonneville project, to the Federal Power Commission for confirmation pursuant to the requirements of the Bonneville Project Act.

§ 400.81 Marketing activities. In marketing power, Bonneville Power Administration negotiates power sales contracts with public utility districts, cooperatives, irrigation districts, municipalities, privately owned utilities, large industrial customers who take power in wholesale quantities, and other Federal agencies. Frequent contacts are made with potential industrial customers throughout the United States who might be interested in esablishing power-consuming plants in the Pacific Northwest. Services of various types are rendered to customers under sales contracts for the purpose of making their power use more efficient and increasing that use.

Factors other than direct negotiations with customers and potential customers are involved. Surveys must be made to determine both existing and potential power markets as a prelude to the planning and construction of transmission systems. Surveys also are made of the power needs of the Pacific Northwest as a whole and of various portions thereof. Similar investigations are undertaken with respect to proposed power projects to determine their capacity, the cost of transmission and marketing of power, and the ultimate economic feasibility of such projects. Special, as well as long range, studies on the economic, industrial and agricultural resources of the region, particularly as they relate to power sales and programming of power facilities, form a part of such surveys. Many research activities, including power transmission, new uses for power, and economics relating to the development of the area and increased power consumption are performed.

C. GIRARD DAVIDSON,
Acting Secretary of the Interior.

ESTABLISHMENT

§ 50.0 Creation. The President's Reorganization Plan No. III, effective July 16, 1946, created the Bureau of Land Management in the Department of Interior by merging the General Land Office, established in 1812, and the Grazing Service, formed in 1934.

§ 50.1 Purpose. The Bureau of Land Management administers the federal laws relating to the public domain, which comprises at this time approximately three-quarters of a billion acres in the continental United States and Alaska. As the manager of the public domain, the Bureau administers the mining, mineral leasing and homestead laws, supervises the federal range, conducts surveys, classifies lands as to proper uses, and in general is responsible for matters involving the public lands. The basic objectives of the Bureau are the conservation, proper utilization and disposal of the natural resources of the public domain. It also has jurisdiction over minerals in certain acquired lands. In addition, the Bureau acts as a disposal agency for surplus real property in the United States and Alaska assigned to it by the War Assets Administration.

§ 50.2 General description.[1] The Bureau of Land Management comprises a headquarters organization in Washington, D. C., and seven specialized groups of field offices. The chief executive of the Bureau is the Director.

HEADQUARTERS ORGANIZATION

§ 50.3 Director. The Director of the Bureau of Land Management develops and implements land policies expressed in various statutes, and supervises the entire Bureau staff. Information concerning the public lands is disseminated through the Office of the Director.

§ 50.4 Law Division. The Law Division, under the Chief Counsel, reviews and advises on all legal matters affecting the Bureau, including legislation and regulations.

§ 50.5 Branch of Administration. The Branch of Administration handles matters relating to the budget, finance, personnel and general administrative services. It also is responsible for the issuance and recording of land patents and the posting and maintenance of tract books.

§ 50.6 Branch of Classification and Planning. The Branch of Classification and Planning is charged with the development of programs for the most efficient classification of lands for agricultural, grazing, mineral and other purposes. It supervises general research on the use of public lands. The Branch establishes policies and procedures for the utilization of all the public lands, including lands in Alaska, through an orderly plan of land settlement and production of natural resources.

§ 50.7 Branch of Adjudication. The Branch of Adjudication examines and acts upon all classes of applications and claims involving patents, leases or other instruments relating to mineral resource development, land exchange, withdrawals and restorations, grazing privileges or other forms of land use or disposal. In the main, these matters are initiated in the respective district land offices. In cases involving land in States where no such offices are maintained by the Bureau, the action is filed directly with the Bureau of Land Management in Washington.

§ 50.8 Branch of Engineering and Construction. The Branch of Engineering and Construction formulates programs for, and has technical direction of, cadastral engineering surveys and resurveys on the public lands. The Branch designs and supervises construction of facilities for use in the field. It also supervises programs for maximum efficient utilization and improvement of public lands and ranges, including soil and moisture conservation projects.

§ 50.9 Branch of Range Management. The Branch of Range Management develops the policy and administers the program with respect to grazing on the public lands both inside and outside of grazing districts. The Branch promotes the economic employment of the Federal range through proper range management and grazing use. Re-seeding, water development, eradication of poisonous plants, destructive rodents, and predatory animals, erosion control, and inspections of grazing lands to stop overgrazing are measures taken by the Branch to achieve this goal.

§ 50.10 Branch of Timber and Resource Management. The Branch of Timber and Resource Management formulates policies for, and administers, public land programs involving all surface uses of the land except grazing. The Branch develops standards governing disposal of timber, supervises the protection of forest lands, plans sustained yield forest units, conducts timber marketing studies, establishes mineral development procedures and plans for the protection of public lands against trespass and other unlawful use. In general, the Branch is concerned with the conservation of the valuable natural resources of the public domain.

§ 50.11 Surplus Real Property Division. The Surplus Real Property Division is responsible for the handling and disposal of the surplus real property in the continental United States and Alaska for which the Department of the Interior has been designated by the War Assets Administration as the disposal agency. The Chief of the Division is immediately responsible to the Director. The Division operates in the field through the regular organization of the Bureau.

[1] At time of publication the new organization was still in a formative state with changes, especially in the field organization, in process of development.

FIELD ORGANIZATION

§ 50.30 Supervision. The headquarters organization of the Bureau of Land Management, in addition to formulating policies and programs concerning the public lands, has immediate supervision over the work of the various field offices.

§ 50.31 Types of field offices. (a) There are seven specialized types of field offices. The various heads of these offices report to the supervisor, in Washington, D. C., responsible for that particular activity. These supervisors in turn report to the Director of the Bureau of Land Management.

(b) The following are the types of field offices:

(1) Cadastral Engineering Service.
(2) District Land Offices.
(3) Grazing Offices.
(4) Branch of Field Examination.
(5) Oregon and California Revested Lands Administration.
(6) Range Development Service.
(7) Alaska Fire Control Service.

§ 50.32 Cadastral Engineering Service. The Cadastral Engineering Service operates through five regional offices with headquarters at Denver, Colorado. It conducts surveys and resurveys, prepares and maintains plats and field notes, and supplies copies of land records. The Office of the Chief Engineer reviews and accepts the plats of surveys, which, upon final acceptance by the Director, become official records. The Service also arranges for mineral surveys.

§ 50.33 District Land Offices. There are twenty-two District Land Offices in the United States and three in Alaska, each in the charge of a Manager, who reports to the Director. The Bureau of Land Management at Washington, D. C., serves those States in which no district land office is maintained. The District Land Offices are the local source of information and records relating to the public lands. All applications and claims concerning land in the district and payment of required fees and rentals are filed in these offices. The Managers forward all matters requiring action by the Director or the Secretary. Patents, leases, and decisions are sent to the Managers for delivery to applicants and claimants.

§ 50.34 Grazing Offices. There are five Regional Grazing Offices, each in the charge of a Regional Grazier, and thirty-one District Grazing Offices, each under the control of a District Grazier. The Regional and District Graziers receive and act upon applications filed by stockmen for grazing permits, initiate improvements and protect the land from trespass and other violations.

§ 50.35 Branch of Field Examination. The Branch of Field Examination maintains a Washington headquarters and five regional offices concerned with the examination and classification of public lands as to present and potential uses. The Branch investigates trespass and other violations of law and handles matters relating to proof under the federal land laws. Problems involved in timber cruises, valuation of lands, and range protection also are handled by this Branch.

§ 50.36 Oregon and California Revested Lands Administration. More than two and one-half million acres of valuable forest lands in western Oregon, comprising tracts of revested Oregon and California railroad and reconveyed Coos Bay wagon road grant lands, are administered by the Bureau of Land Management under special Congressional statutes. The Bureau's Oregon and California Revested Lands Administration, with headquarters at Portland, Oregon, maintains five district offices to manage these lands under a sustained yield forestry program. Its responsibilities include land classification, forestry, grazing, fire suppression and prevention, timber sales, timberland exchanges and special land use permits.

§ 50.37 Range Development Service. Operating through three regional offices, the Range Development Service executes projects dealing with range protection, pest and poison plant eradication, erosion control, re-seeding, fencing and other measures consonant with sound range management.

§50.38 Alaska Fire Control Service. The Alaska Fire Control Service has its headquarters at Anchorage, Alaska. It is the agency primarily concerned with the prevention and suppression of fires on federal public lands in Alaska. The Service also manages and disposes of timber on the public lands in the Territory.

ESTABLISHMENT

01.0 Creation. The Bureau of Mines was established in the Department of the Interior by statute on May 16, 1910. The Bureau was transferred to the Department of Commerce in 1925 and was returned to Interior by Executive Order, effective April 24, 1934, under statutory authority for reorganization of the executive branch.

01.1 Purpose. The Bureau, a "bureau of mining, metallurgy, and mineral technology", promotes safety in the mineral industries, aids conservation of mineral resources, and conducts investigations on the mining, preparation, and utilization of minerals. By developing and introducing safe practices and improvements in mining and in the use of mineral substances, the Bureau seeks to promote the progress of the industry through scientific, technical and economic studies in laboratory, office and field.

01.5 General description. The Bureau of Mines consists of a national headquarters in Washington, D. C., with a Director in charge and various activities outside of Washington. The national headquarters, known as the Office of the Director, is composed of five principal branches, one administrative service, and one information office. A field geophysical exploration unit also is attached to the office of one of the assistant directors. The five branches deal with health and safety, fuels and explosives, mining, metallurgy, and economics and statistics. The investigative and research work of these branches is conducted in the field (outside of Washington, D. C.) at special offices and installations designed to carry out this work.

HEADQUARTERS ORGANIZATION

01.10 Director. The Director of the Bureau of Mines is responsible for the formulation of policies and for the overall direction of programs.

01.11 Office of Minerals Reports. The Office of Minerals Reports directs informational activities.

01.12 Administrative Service. The Administrative Service is responsible for the administrative management functions of budget, finance, property, reorganization, personnel, and office services, and also is responsible for all general business phases of field stations and offices.

01.20 Economics and Statistics Branch. The Economics and Statistics Branch conducts statistical canvasses and economic studies on domestic minerals production, distribution, consumption, stocks, trends, employment, and kindred factors which are essential to industrial and governmental planning and operating. The Branch publishes the Minerals Yearbook and many weekly, monthly, annual, and incidental reports on minerals. It maintains a foreign-minerals fact-finding service for domestic mineral producers and consumers and for agencies concerned with this country's international economic relations.

01.21 Health and Safety Branch. The Health and Safety Branch is responsible for the conduct of health, and safety inspections of mines, for the conduct of scientific studies on health conditions in mining, and for the conduct of engineering investigations of safety factors in the mining industry.

01.22 Fuels and Explosives Branch. The Fuels and Explosives Branch is responsible for all research on the composition, handling, manufacture, and use of fuels and explosives, for engineering services dealing with coal, petroleum, natural gas, synthetic liquid fuels, mine explosions, and military high explosives, and for the production of helium. The Fuels and Explosives Branch conducts explorations for deposits of coal.

01.23 Mining Branch. The Mining Branch conducts engineering examinations of mineral deposits, explores and samples deposits, and studies new mining and milling methods. The Branch conducts experimental work on methods of exploration and mining, investigates the mining possibilities of individual districts as they relate to the minerals industry, and demonstrates the most effective methods for extracting previously unused ores. Operations are controlled through divisional field offices.

01.24 Metallurgical Branch. The Metallurgical Branch conducts fundamental and applied research on the conservation, preparation, and utilization of metals and non-metals, develops new metallurgical methods dealing with beneficiation processes, new techniques, and special equipment, and analyzes and tests ore samples. Operations are controlled through divisional field offices.

FIELD ORGANIZATION

01.40 Functions. Each of the field activities is in the charge of an engineer or specialist who is responsible for the conduct of the technical work assigned to him and who reports directly to his branch chief in Washington, D. C.; except in the case of the geophysical exploration head who reports to one of the assistant directors.

01.41 Types of offices in the field. There are eight basic types of offices in the field. Some types are grouped by region, some by district, and others operate by "function" and do not observe geographical boundaries.

(a) Field headquarters. All geophysical work for the Nation is carried on from the Bureau's one "field headquarters" office on geophysical exploration.

(b) Division. The divisional offices supervise and direct the work of their respective branches having such offices.

(c) Field office. Usually small installations, field offices perform specialized technical work on limited subjects.

(d) Plant. Pilot, production, and demonstration plants produce specific mineral products such as helium and synthetic liquid fuel.

(e) Station. Established by law as "experiment stations" of the Bureau, this type of office is larger than a field office and has several specialized lines of endeavor.

(f) Laboratory. Equivalent to experiment stations.

(g) District. The district offices carry out work of the Health and Safety Branch.

(h) Sub-district. The sub-district offices are under the Health and Safety district offices and their location is determined on an economic basis as to work load and proximity to certain coal fields.

LIST OF DELEGATIONS OF AUTHORITY

01.60 Purpose of list of delegations of authority. The following sections are not in themselves delegations of authority. The sections are merely a list of delegations and indicate the various matters with respect to which delegations have been made. They are intended merely as an index and outline. For the scope and limitations of delegations of authority regulations and orders to which cross references are made must be consulted.

01.61 Director, Bureau of Mines. The Director has authority to:

(a) Inspect mines on public domain and Indian land for safety. See Order 1940 (9 F.R. 3748).

(b) Approve certain helium contracts. See 30 CFR 1.2, 1.3.

PLACES TO OBTAIN INFORMATION AND MAKE REQUESTS

01.100 Inquiries and requests in general. Information concerning the policies and programs of the Bureau of Mines, including such publications as reports and bulletins dealing with activities and investigations that are issued for free distribution, can be secured by addressing the Director, Bureau of Mines, Department of the Interior, Washington 25, D. C.

Requests for copies of publications that are for sale should be directed to the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C.

Requests for loan copies of motion picture films in the Bureau's library should be sent to the Supervising Engineer, Graphics Service Section, Bureau of Mines Experiment Station, 4800 Forbes Street, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

Coal Mine Inspection reports are available for inspection at the appropriate district and sub-district offices in the vicinity of the mine inspected.

Limited supplies of publications on specific subjects are sometimes available at the office or source of origin in the field.

01.101 Location of headquarters organization. The Office of the Director of the Bureau of Mines, the facilitating offices (Administrative Service and Office of Minerals Reports), and the offices of the chiefs of the Branches are in Washington, D. C.

01.102 Locations of field offices and laboratories. The locations of the principal field offices and laboratories of the Bureau of Mines are listed below alphabetically by states with the following symbols given to identify them as to Branch supervision:

PART 02—PROCEDURE

Sec.

02.1 Federal Explosives Act.
02.2 Sale of helium gas.
02.3 Tests and investigations.
02.4 Mine inspections.
02.5 Mineral investigations.

02.1 Federal Explosives Act. (a) The Federal Explosives Act of December 26, 1941 (55 Stat. 863; 50 U. S. C. 121–142), as amended, is an act administered by the Bureau of Mines regulating the manufacture, sale and use of explosives and ingredients thereof in time of war or national emergency. The regulations under the act are to be found in 32 CFR, Part 301. However, since funds to enforce the act have not been appropriated since the fiscal year of 1945, on October 5, 1945, General License No. 8, (32 CFR, 1945 Supp., Part 303), was issued by the Director of the Bureau of Mines and approved by the Secretary of the Interior, substantially abrogating the major portions of the regulations. All actions under the act are now taken through, and all inquiries concerning the act should be addressed to, the Chief of the Health and Safety Branch, Bureau of Mines, Washington 25, D. C.

(b) No forms relating to this act are now used by the public.

02.2 Sale of helium gas. (a) The manner in which applications for the purchase of helium are made, the way in which the price is determined, the method of payment, and shipping specifications are set forth in 30 CFR, Part 1.

(b) Regulations on the sale of helium gas are drafted by the Fuels and Explosives Branch of the Bureau of Mines, and are reviewed by the Solicitor's Office before they are signed by the Director of the Bureau of Mines. They must thereafter be approved by the Secretary of the Interior and by the President before they become effective.

(c) The forms used in applying for the purchase of helium and the purchase contract itself are set forth in 30 CFR, Part 1.

02.3 Tests and investigations. (a) The various types of tests of mineral substances, use of explosives and electricity, and safety appliances conducted by the Bureau of Mines, the conditions under which tests are made, the manner of applying for tests, the schedules of fees, and the issuance of certificates of approval or permissibility, are set forth in 30 CFR Chapter I, Subchapters B, C, D, and E.

(b) The regulations for such tests are drafted by the appropriate technical divisions of the Bureau, reviewed by the Branch chief and by the Office of the Solicitor, signed by the Director of the Bureau of Mines and finally approved by the Secretary of the Interior.

(c) Forms for applications or approval plates or other devices to be used by manufacturers are set forth in the appropriate Subchapters of 30 CFR, Chapter I.

02.4 Mine inspections. (a) Under the act of May 7, 1941 (55 Stat. 177; 30 U.S.C., Supp., 4f–4o), Federal coal mine inspectors of the Bureau of Mines, make periodic inspections of all coal mines the products of which regularly enter commerce or the operations of which substantially affect commerce. Conditions affecting health and safety found in these mines form the basis for mine inspection reports transmitted to the mine operators by the Chief of the Health and Safety Branch, for the Director. Copies of the reports are sent to representatives of the mine workers and the State mine inspection authorities.

The standards used by the Federal coal mine inspectors in making inspections are drafted by the Health and Safety Branch and issued by the Director of the Bureau of Mines. Prevailing standards are contained in the Bureau's publication I. C. 733 dated July 1945 covering underground mines, I. C. 7350 dated March 1946 covering strip mines, and I. C. 7282 dated May 1944 covering anthracite mines.

(b) The Bureau of Mines makes mine safety inspections on the public domain and Indian lands, and other Government lease mining operations. For coal mines, the standards used are those referred to in paragraph (a) of this section, but any violations of the "Coal-Mining Operating and Safety Regulations" of the Geological Survey, Department of the Interior (30 CFR, Part 211) are also noted. For mining operations other than coal mines, the inspection standards are based upon standards formulated during the war by the Mineral Production Security Division ,Health and Safety Branch, of the Bureau of Mines, but violations of the "Operating and Safety Regulations Governing the Mining of Potash; Oil Shale, Sodium, and Phosphate; Sulphur; and Gold, Silver, and Quicksilver" of the Geological Survey (30 CFR, Part 231) are also noted. In addition to the usual copies of mine inspection reports, copies of reports based upon inspections under this order are also furnished to the Geological Survey, in order that compliance with its regulations may be enforced.

(c) The Director of the Bureau of Mines, after consultation with an advisory committee consisting of representatives of industry, labor, and the Coal Mines Administrator, on July 24, 1946, pursuant to an agreement between the Secretary of the Interior, acting as Coal Mines Administrator under the authority of Executive Order No. 9728 of May 21, 1946 (11 F.R. 5593), and the United Mine Workers of America, issued a "Federal Mine Safety Code for Bituminous-Coal and Lignite Mines of the United States" (32 CFR, Part 304; 11 F.R. 9017). This code, approved by the Secretary of the Interior on the same date, was made effective by the Coal Mines Administrator as of July 29, 1946, in all mines in the possession and under the control of the Government pursuant to Executive Orders 9728 and 9758. The Director of the Bureau of Mines may review and revise the code upon request of the Coal Mines Administrator or the United Mine Workers.

Inspections of mines pursuant to this code are made by the Federal coal mine inspectors. Failures to comply therewith are reported to the Coal Mines Administrator, who is responsible for the enforcement of the code, through the Chief of the Coal Mine Inspection Division of the Bureau of Mines.

(d) The Federal Mine Safety Code requires the nearest office of the United States Bureau of Mines and the proper State inspection authorities to be notified promptly after the occurrence of a disaster in any mine operating subject to the code, and all facilities of the mine to be made available for recovery operations.

02.5 Mineral investigations. (a) Exploration on private land with respect to certain minerals needed for defense and industry is done under an agreement between the landowner and the local contracting officer of the Bureau of Mines, following a preliminary investigation by the Geological Survey or, in certain instances, a request by the landowner. The Director will make suitable arrangements with owners of private property for exploration or development work with respect to coal upon payment by such owners of a reasonable percentage, as determined by the Secretary of the Interior, of the total value of the minerals thereafter produced from such property.

(b) No particular form of application for mineral exploration is required. There must, however, be sufficient evidence of minerals being on the property before exploration will be undertaken.

C. GIRARD DAVIDSON,
Acting Secretary.

SUBPART B—PROCEDURE

§ 800.50 Policies. In general, policies for the operation of coal mines under Government control are formulated by the Coal Mines Administrator after consultation with representatives of operators, representatives of the United Mine Workers of America, and representatives of the Bureau of Mines and after considering the recommendations of members of the staff directly concerned with the particular problem. The Coal Mines Administrator may, however, in appropriate circumstances, formulate policies without such consultation.

§ 800.51 Mine Operation. Matters involving actual operation of mines including labor relations problems are handled in the first instance by the area officer-in-charge in a manner consistent with statements of policy and orders issued by the Coal Mines Administrator. Where new problems arise or where there is a question of the application of established policy to particular situations, a report of the matter setting forth all pertinent facts and details is prepared by the area officer-in-charge and forwarded to the Headquarters Office. The matter is then referred to the Division having cognizance of the problem involved and its recommendations together with the recommendations of the area officer are submitted to the Coal Mines Administrator, who then determines what action should be taken.

§ 800.52 Regulations. Regulations for the operation of coal mines under Government control (30 CFR, Part 801) are drafted in the Headquarters Office and promulgated by the Coal Mines Administrator.

§ 800.53 Federal Mine Safety Code. The Federal Mine Safety Code (32 CFR, Part 304) was prepared in pursuance of the Agreement of May 29, 1946, by the Director of the Bureau of Mines after consultation with representatives of the United Mine Workers of America, representatives of the operators and representatives of the Coal Mines Administrator, and was approved by the Secretary of the Interior. Suggestions for review and revision of the Code may be submitted to the Coal Mines Administrator or the United Mine Workers of America who may then submit a request for review or revision of the Code to the Director of the Bureau of Mines.

§ 800.54 Determinations. Determinations and decisions which the Coal Mines Administrator is authorized to make under the Agreement of May 29, 1946 or regulations involving such classes of matters as misuse of authority of a Safety Committee (as provided for in such agreement), discipline or replacement of operating managers, directions as to grievance procedure, removal of operating manager, mine shut-downs, are made (except in the event of an emergency) only after consultation with all persons who may be involved and after a reasonable opportunity has been given to such persons to present their views in full.

Authorizations for the imposition of fines and penalties are made after receipt of reports from the field of investigation of the facts during which interested parties are heard and the recommendation of the Chief of the Labor Relations Division.

§ 800.55 Orders, regulations, bulletins, memoranda. (a) The Coal Mines Administrator in carrying out the powers and functions of his office utilizes the following types of documents:

(1) CMAN orders which are numbered consecutively (for example, CMAN-1, CMAN-2) and which apply to and direct operating managers for the United States to put into effect at mines in Government possession specific policies and directions of the Administrator; and CMAN-T Orders which are also numbered consecutively (for example, CMAN-T1, CMAN-T2) and which terminate Government possession and control of mines.

(2) Regulations for the Operation of Coal Mines Under Government Control (30 CFR, Part 801) governing the operation of all coal mines under government possession and control pursuant to Executive Order No. 9728. They describe the policy and purposes of the operation in general, and the manner in which the owners and operators shall function under government control, and financial and other relations between the owners and operators and the administrator. Such Regulations are subject to change by the Administrator at any time.

(3) Administrator's Interpretative Bulletins which are numbered consecutively (for example, Administrator's Interpretative Bulletin No. 1, Administrator's Interpretative Bulletin No. 2) and which ar the Administrator's interpretation of the meaning and effect of the language contained in the Agreement dated May 29, 1946 between the Coal Mines Administrator and the United Mines Workers of America and in any subsequent agreements between those parties. Such Interpretative Bulletins are binding upon operating managers for the United States insofar as action on their part purports to be by direction of the Administrator but any question involved in such an interpretation may be submitted to the grievance procedure established by the Agreement of May 29, 1946 by the United Mines Workers of America or a member of that organization. Such Bulletins do not preclude action by owners or operators of mines in government possession where such action is not, or does not purport to be, taken pursuant to orders or directions of the Administrator and such action is not inconsistent with such Bulletins or other orders and directions of the Administrator.

(4) Administrator's Memoranda which are numbered consecutively (for example, Administrator's Memorandum No. 1, Administrator's Memorandum No. 2) and which are designed to advise operating managers for the United States of actions taken which directly affect the operating manager and which will aid such managers in the performance of their duties. Such Memoranda are intended to be advisory and informative but do not constitute orders or directions from the Administrator as those terms are used in the regulations.

(b) The Coal Mines Administrator will continues to publish in the Notices Section of the FEDERAL REGISTER all CMAN Orders and all orders in the CMAN-T series.

Inasmuch as Administrator's Interpretative Bulletins and Administrator's Memoranda are binding only upon or for the information of operating managers for the United States, such documents will not be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER but will be available to any interested person upon application to the Coal Mines Administrator, Department of the Interior, Washington 25, D. C. or to any area office of the Coal Mines Administration.

§ 800.56 Official records. (a) The following official records are deemed not to be confidential in character and may upon application be inspected by any person or a copy of such records may be obtained either from any area officer-in-charge or from the Headquarters Office:

(1) Written published agreements between the Coal Mines Administrator and the United Mine Workers of America.

(2) Delegations of authority from the Secretary of the Interior to the Coal Mines Administrator and from the Coal Mines Administrator to any member of his staff.

(3) Orders issued by the Coal Mines Administrator either in the series CMAN or series CMAN-T.

(4) Administrator's Interpretative Bulletins.

(5) Administrator's Memoranda.

(6) Decisions of the Administrator upholding or refusing the impositions of fines or penalties.

(7) Production reports released by the Administrator.

(8) Revised Regulations for the Operation of Coal Mines Under Government Control.

(9) Federal Mine Safety Code for Bituminous and Lignite Coal Mines of the United States.

(10) Any published report made of the survey of medical and sanitary facilities.

(11) Any published report of the trustees of the Welfare and Retirement Fund or the Medical and Hospital Fund, provided for by the Agreement of May 29, 1946.

(b) Information as to total payments into the Welfare and Retirement Fund or the Medical and Hospital Fund are not considered confidential and may be obtained upon application to the Coal Mines Administrator but information as to the payments of individual companies into said fund are considered confidential and will not be released to the public.

(c) Correspondence between the Coal Mines Administrator, or any member of his staff and any other person is considered confidential and may not be revealed to the public.

(d) With respect to applications for copies of any official book or record within custody of the Coal Mines Administrator and in a determination as to the availability of such documents for copy or inspection, the Coal Mines Administrator will be governed by 43 CFR, 2.1-26.

§ 800.57 Forms and reports. (a) When possession is taken of the mines of a company pursuant to an order of the Secretary of the Interior, the president or other chief officer of the company is designated as operating manager for the United States and is required to complete and forward to the Headquarters Office the form designated "Statement of Operating Manager", setting forth the name of the mining company, the name or number of each mine and its address and the bituminous coal producing district in which such mine is located.

(b) In accordance with Section 25 of Revised Regulations the Operation of Coal Mines Under Government Control (R. 7567) an Instrument of Agreement and Certification is forwarded to each company which may be executed by said company and returned to the Coal Mines Administrator.

(c) Upon the termination of Government possession and control and in accordance with the provisions of section 40 of said regulations, the company is furnished with three copies of either Instrument No. 1 or Instrument No. 2. Instrument No. 1 operates as a mutual release of claims by the Government and by the mining company; Instrument No. 2 is a conditional release by the company reserving the right to submit a claim for damages during the period of Government possession resulting from specific directions or orders issued by the Coal Mines Administrator. Copies of these instruments may be obtained from the Headquarters Office of the Coal Mines Administration.

INTERIOR DEPARTMENT

ESTABLISHMENT

§ 01.0 Creation. The Fish and Wildlife Service consists of the former Bureau of Fisheries, established in 1871 in the Department of Commerce, and the Bureau of Biological Survey, established in 1885 in the Department of Agriculture, which in 1939 were transferred to the Department of the Interior, and in 1940 were consolidated as the Fish and Wildlife Service.

§ 01.1 Purpose. The predecessor bureaus originally were established for research purposes, but in the course of years were also charged with carrying out the provisions of laws designed to increase the stocks of fish and wildlife, resist depletion, disseminate knowledge and extend the use of these living resources, and with the enforcement of protective laws relating to fish and game and the commercial fisheries of Alaska.

§ 01.2 General description. The Fish and Wildlife Service is composed of a headquarters office in Chicago and a liaison office in Washington, D. C., six regional offices, and various types of individual field offices and stations.

HEADQUARTERS ORGANIZATION

§ 01.3 Director. The Director of the Fish and Wildlife Service supervises and directs all the activities of the Service. He exercises immediate supervision over the branches and divisions of the headquarters staff as well as administrative supervision of the regional directors.

§ 01.4 Chief Counsel. The Office of the Chief Counsel reviews and advises on all legal matters affecting the activities of the Service.

§ 01.5 Division of Information. The Division of Information prepares and disseminates information on wildlife and fishery management, and on the regulatory work of the Fish and Wildlife Service. It handles general inquiries concerning fish and wildlife matters.

§ 01.6 Branch of Management. The Branch of Management is responsible for the conduct and coordination of all fish and wildlife management activities of the Fish and Wildlife Service. It plans and directs the program under which financial aid is granted the states for wildlife restoration. It supervises the operation of field stations in the propagation of food and game fish through collecting eggs and hatching fingerlings and fry for distribution to suitable waters, and works with State and other Federal agencies to coordinate such distribution. The Branch administers and enforces Federal statutes for the protection and conservation of wild birds, mammals and black bass, and the Alaska Game Law. It manages the more than 17,000,000 acres of land used for wildlife refuges, fish hatcheries and research stations, and acquires new lands. It plans and directs protective measures against coyotes, wolves, mountain lions, bob cats and other predators, and measures against destruction of range forage crops and stored feed by rodents.

§ 01.7 Branch of Commercial Fisheries. The Branch of Commercial Fisheries plans and directs the Fish and Wildlife Service's program for increasing through educational means the utilization of commercial fisheries in the United States, Alaska and the Caribbean. The Branch conducts investigations to improve methods for catching, handling, preserving, storing and transporting fishery products and by-products, and for cookery and canning. It directs the collection and dissemination of data and operates a Fishery Market News Service relating to fishery commodities. The Branch regulates salmon and other fisheries of Alaska, manages the fur-seal herds on the Pribilof Islands (Alaska), and plans for the education and maintenance of the natives of these Islands.

§ 01.8 Office of River Basin Studies. The Office of River Basin Studies investigates the probable effects on fish and wildlife of the construction of dams planned both by the Bureau of Reclamation and the U. S. Corps of Engineers. The Office makes data resulting from such studies available to interested agencies and makes appropriate recommendations for modification of construction plans in order to moderate or prevent damage to fish and wildlife in the river basins.

§01.9 Office of Foreign Activities. The Office of Foreign Activities studies and advises on matters relating to international agreements concerning fish and wildlife, including the Whaling Treaty Act. With the cooperation of other parts of the Fish and Wildlife Service, the Office trains foreign students in fish and wildlife management, and conducts and coordinates liaison with respect to activities of the Fish and Wildlife Service with the territorial governments, except Alaska. In the course of these activities the Office maintains constant liaison with the Department of State and other Federal agencies.

§ 01.10 Branch of Research. The Branch of Research conducts technical research in the management and development of fish and wildlife resources. Its research includes studies on commercial fisheries, the stocking of inland waters and the improvement of conditions in these waters for fish propagation, the cultivation and improvement of oysters and other shellfish, and the protection of fish in connection with construction of reclamation and flood-control projects. Recommendations resulting from these studies are made to agencies involved in these projects. Also included are studies on the distribution, migration, restoration, and protection of wildlife in cooperation with land-grant colleges, State conservation commissions and the American Wildlife Institute. Damage caused by birds, rodents and predators is studied and control methods recommended.

Subpart B—Procedure

Specific Wildlife Resources

§ 01.100 Migratory birds: certain game mammals. (a) Regulations relating to migratory birds and certain game mammals protected under international agreements originate in a draft of proposed regulations prepared by a committee composed of personnel of the Fish and Wildlife Service particularly concerned with the conservation of these species of wildlife. Although hearings are not held, the draft regulations are based on annual inventories of the status of the protected species, the recommendations of the game departments of every State throughout the nation, and the recommendations of representative conservation organizations, sportsmen, individuals, and groups interested in the conservation of these species of wildlife. The draft of proposed regulations is reviewed by the majority of the divisions of the Fish and Wildlife Service, the Office of the Chief Counsel and, if approved by the Director, is submitted through the Solicitor's Office to the Secretary of the Interior for signature and to the President of the United States for approval and promulgation.

(b) In addition to prescribing means and methods by which such species of wildlife may be taken, as well as seasons and bag limits, such regulations generally provide for the issuance and cancellation of special permits for the taking and transportation of protected wildlife for scientific, propagation, or other purposes. Applications for such permits should be submitted to the Director of the Fish and Wildlife Service, Department of the Interior, Merchandise Mart, Chicago 54, Illinois. The procedure for filing applications for such special permits, the information required, and information as to action upon applications are set out in detail in 50 CFR, Part 1.

§ 01.101 Alaska game fish and animals. Regulations relating to the game and fur animals, birds, and game fishes in Alaska are prepared in draft form by the Division of Game Management of the Fish and Wildlife Service in accordance with the recommendations of the Alaska Game Commission. Following review by several divisions of the Fish and Wildlife Service, the Office of the Chief Counsel, and approval by the Director, the draft regulations are submitted for further review by the Office of Indian Affairs, the Division of Territories and Island Possessions, the Office of the Solicitor, and to the Secretary of the Interior for approval and promulgation.

§ 01.102 Alaska Game Law. The Alaska Game Law as amended (57 Stat. 301; 48 U. S. C., Sup., 192 et seq) requires the filing of periodic reports by hunters, fur dealers, and others handling game. Forms may be obtained from the Alaska Game Commission, Juneau, Alaska. The Alaska Game Law also requires that certain licenses be obtained from the Alaska Game Commission, and that records of the sale of poison be kept. Regulations of the Alaska Game Commission provide for the licensing of guides and the keeping of records of the sale or disposition of poison. (See 48 CFR 92.2, 92.3)

§ 01.106 Alaska commercial fisheries. (a) Alaska commercial fisheries regulations are prepared annually following hearings after notice at various places in Alaska and the United States with respect to proposed changes in seasons and related matters by personnel of the Division of Alaska Fisheries of the Fish and Wildlife Service. The draft of proposed regulations is reviewed by the Chief Counsel and if approved by the Director is reviewed by the Office of Indian Affairs, the Division of Territories and Island Possessions, and the Solicitor's Office and is submitted to the Secretary of the Interior for approval and promulgation.

(b) The regulations provide for reports by fisheries operators, hearings regarding native fishing rights, filing of trap site locations, and determinations and closing of competing trap operations at single sites. (See 50 CFR, Part 201)

§ 01.107 Whales: Alaska fur seals. (a) Regulations governing the taking of whales, Alaska fur seals, sea-lions, and certain other specifically protected species of wildlife originate in a draft of proposed regulations prepared by administrative personnel of the Fish and Wildlife Service engaged in that particular function (and, where specified by law, in cooperation with the administrative personnel of such other department or agency as may be concerned therewith). After review by such divisions of the Fish and Wildlife Service particularly concerned therewith (and of such other agency as may be concerned), including the Office of the Chief Counsel of the Fish and Wildlife Service and the Director, the draft of proposed regulations is submitted through the Solicitor's Office to the Secretary of the Interior (and the head of any other department or agency specifically concerned) for approval and promulgation.

(b) The act of May 1, 1936 (49 Stat. 1246; 46 U. S. C. 901 et esq) requires licenses for whaling and the furnishing of certain information. Certain reports and information are required by regulations. (See 50 CFR, Cum. Supp., Part 251)

Conservation Areas

§ 01.120 Regulations. (a) Regulations relating to conservation areas usually originate in a draft prepared by field or administrative personnel of the Fish and Wildlife Service engaged in that particular function. The draft of proposed regulations is reviewed by each branch of the Fish and Wildlife Service concerned, including the Office of the Chief Counsel, and is approved by the Director if the matter falls within the scope of an authority delegated to the Director, or is submitted by the Director to the Secretary of the Interior for approval and promulgation, if not within the scope of authority delegated to the Director.

(b) Special regulations with respect to specific portions of conservation areas are made by field personnel within the scope of authorized delegation or subdelegation, in accordance with the state of facts existent at the time of such action and in accordance with the scope of delegation or sub-delegation.

§ 01.121 Permits. (a) Specific use by the general public or individuals of areas utilized for the conservation of wildlife resources is governed by the various regulations and by the terms of permits issued pursuant to such regulations, the provisions of both of which may authorize the termination in the discretion of the officer in charge, the Regional Director, the Director of the Fish and Wildlife Service, or the Secretary of the Interior for violation of the terms of such permits or, following the determination by such personnel or the Secretary, that the exercise of the privilege is not consistent with the primary use of the area for conservation purposes. While there is no set procedure for appeal from the action of an officer in terminating a privilege, such appeals generally should be directed to the Director of the Fish and Wildlife Service or the Secretary of the Interior.

(b) The procedure for filing applications for special use permits or for the exercise of specific privileges on conservation areas, the information required, terms of the permits, and information as to action upon applications are set out in detail in 50 CFR, Parts 12–29.

AID TO STATES

§ 01.130 Wildlife restoration. Regulations relating to Federal aid to States in wildlife restoration generally originate in a draft of proposed regulations prepared by administrative personnel engaged in that particular function. The draft of proposed regulations is reviewed by each branch of the Fish and Wildlife Service concerned, including the office of the Chief Counsel, and, if approved by the Director, is submitted through the Solicitor's Office to the Secretary of the Interior for approval and promulgation. The procedure for filing applications for participation in the program covered by these regulations, the information required, and information as to action upon applications are set out in detail in 50 CFR, Part 41.
